The Intelligencer. WHEELING, SEPTEMBER 5, 1891.

The Water Question.

The Water Board treats the water question fairly, but not comprehensively and, it is to be hoped, not conclusively. From its knowledge of the situation the Board says we must have better water. This puts the cart before the horse.

The thing of the highest importance is water fit to drink, water which the people can use with reasonable assurance that they are not poisoning themselves and inviting death. Next in importance is a more plentiful supply, enough for all our wants. The proposition of the Board to put in machinery to insure a sufficient supply means in plain English to provide the city with all the poisoned water it can use. This is a startling proposition.

With due respect to the good men who compose this Board they have not gone at the question in the right way. They do not profess to be experts, and expert advice is what is needed. The best way to go into the matter is to form a commission, of which the Water Board shall be a part, to employ an expert engineer to examine and report on the situation. Then we can look to the matter of money.

If we cannot provide the money to pay for a wholesome supply of water we shall have to content ourselves with what we have and meet our fate with what courage we can command. A Question of Right and Policy. The County Commissioners will inspect the Bridge and Terminal system and take the advice of the prosecuting attorney before they decide what to do in the matter of the last payment to that company. The money will have to be paid because it has been earned under the contract. It should, for that reason, be paid promptly and cheerfully.

Ohio county can pay what she owes and there is no disposition on the part of the people to escape payment of any liability. We are not ready to close our account with the rest of the world, and it behooves us to keep our credit good. Just now we are hoping to get a new line to the coke fields, and this project is a good deal bound up with the Bridge and Terminal system.

There is a prospect of interesting some of the same capitalists, who would be slow to come forward with their money if Ohio county gives them trouble in their first transaction with her. The right thing in this case is also the politic thing.

World's Fair Salaries. The little matter of salaries seems to disturb the National Columbian Commission. Funds are not plentiful, salaries are liberal, and it is wisely thought that in this respect there might be some retrenchment and reform. The proposition is not graciously received by Commissioner McKenzie, who regards it as a scheme to stab him in the pocketbook.

The Intelligencer does not know just what services Mr. McKenzie is now performing of a solid character, but as a talking commissioner with power to charm above the ordinary he is worth generous compensation. Whether the commission is able to pay out money for fine talking, and whether it feels so disposed to do it, are questions not to be settled at this distance.

BREAKFAST BUDGET. Mrs. Ruth Davis, of Long Plain, Mass., and Miss Elizabeth Washington, of Dorchester, Mass., celebrated their one hundredth birthday anniversaries on Monday. Last week Letitia Smith died at the age of one hundred and two years, in Woodland, Cal., and Mrs. Smith's great grandfather lived to be one hundred and fifteen years old and her grandfather one hundred and four. She was nursed by her daughter aged eighty-three years.

Savage John Bull. President Ingalls, of the Big Four Railroad system, is not a man who talks at random. Having just returned from Europe he tells a reporter something which every American should know. Mr. Ingalls represents the feeling in England against McKinley as so strong that there are persons in that country who would like to see him shot.

This, of course, is not because they have anything against McKinley personally, but because stands for a system which is taking from them their American market and giving it to Americans, who have a right to it. It was not supposed that our British friends would be in a delirium of joy over the effort to perfect our protective system, but when they feel the demon of murder in their hearts they should remember that at no time in their history have they hesitated to make a market for their wares where they could and as they could, whether their object was to be accomplished by diplomacy, chicanery or bloodshed.

To make markets for themselves they have conquered and butchered helpless peoples. To preserve for ourselves a fair share of our own market we have resorted to the peaceful method of legislation, which England herself has done when that would serve her purpose.

John Bull should try to bear bravely his latest misfortune in America, for he will have to get used to it. The American people will never ask him to accept with their compliments the big slice of our business that has been taken from him. We have fastened on to that for keeps.

Good Business. To-day's trade report shows the early result of this year's enormous crops. There is no boom, but there is solidity and increasing activity. We are buying abroad less than we bought this time last year of things we can make for ourselves, and we are increasing our sales abroad.

When the free trader says we cannot sell if we do not buy he runs up against a solid wall of fact which he can't get over. Europe is taking and will continue to take from us what she has to have, no more and no less, and she will take it without regard to what we take from her. The record shows that it has been so always.

Col. Sutherland, of Jefferson county, Ohio, has appeared twice before the Commissioners of Ohio county in opposition to the payment of the $100,000 due the Bridge and Terminal Company. Still he has not made it clear that he had any right to be heard by the Commissioners. He is not a citizen of Ohio county and pays no taxes here. His interest seems to be that of a dog in the manger. Any injury that might result from bad faith on the part of the county would be no concern of his.

Pennsylvania Republicans are not frightened by any ticket or platform they have seen to date, and the returns are nearly all in. There will be a handsome Republican majority in the Keystone State this year. The majority is there and there is no disposition to give the Democrats any more good things for the sake of rebuking Republican management. That business has been attended to in another way.

Unless the chairman of the Maryland Republican State Committee is a bigger man than his party he should be dumped out if he doesn't get out. It is the custom to have a chairman in accord with the head of the ticket, and this one isn't. The matter should have been seen to before it had gone so far as to make trouble. Maryland Republicans are handicapped at best.

Nor the least remarkable feature of the Distal shop-lifting case is the ease with which the women stole what they wanted and disposed of it by street sales, carrying on their game without detection for four years. Fortunately for the children, detection has come early enough to rescue them from a life of crime.

That was great racing at Independence, Iowa, yesterday. The driving record was knocked higher than a kite by a wonder that did his mile in 2:06. Experts believe two minutes to be the limit. If that speed can be made at all this generation will see it.

The Sultan of Turkey begins at the right end if he is in earnest about riding his country of brigandage. There are no worse brigands than Turkish officials, and off go the official heads of the Sultan's ministers.

The western train robber is doing a lively business—putting on about all the traffic will bear. Presently he will be dangling as rich ripe fruit from some convenient tree. He is much too fresh.

It is an unseen hand that intervenes to stop the payment of the money claimed by the Bridge and Terminal Company, but it has in it money enough to pay lawyers.

The Delaware peach crop is such a failure that the Baltimore market is glutted. The Delaware peach will begin to be ashamed of itself. That is a very nice ticket which Gov. Pattison and his friends offer to the people of Pennsylvania, but it won't be alive after election day.

Mrs. Ruth Davis, of Long Plain, Mass., and Miss Elizabeth Washington, of Dorchester, Mass., celebrated their one hundredth birthday anniversaries on Monday. Last week Letitia Smith died at the age of one hundred and two years, in Woodland, Cal., and Mrs. Smith's great grandfather lived to be one hundred and fifteen years old and her grandfather one hundred and four. Sing a song of sixpence, A bottle full of rye, Four and twenty glasses, No need to feel dry; When the bottle's opened You begin to sing; When you get outside of it You don't know a thing. —Griffin News.

News of a romantic marriage comes from Georgia. Ten years ago the couple, then only boy and girl, were married, but their folks separated them, the bride being sent away. They didn't correspond and neither afterward married. Some time ago the groom advertised for his wife. She saw the notice, answered it, and both have now again been married.

Tramps are stealing milk from Connecticut farmers. One Waterford man who left a dozen cans of twenty-four quarts each in his yard over night found only eight when he got ready to put them in his wagon the next morning.

Pittsfield, Mass., dogs in the last few days have done $142 worth of damage to one flock of sheep. Edward J. Jerome, a paper manufacturer, of Norwalk, Conn., was testing some machinery the other night when his luxuriant whiskers became entangled in a gear wheel and were torn out by the roots. Daniel Salisbury, aged 103 years, of Bellingham, Minn., has used tobacco for nearly a century, and he says that he believes it has saved his life. His wife died this week, at the age of 102 years.

A severe drought prevails over a strip of country nearly 200 miles square in Southern New Mexico, and it is reported that cattle are suffering terribly in consequence. What a good thing it would be if people could only remember that they belong to a religion and not to a "denomination!" —Puck.

The glut of potatoes in Southern California continues. In one section they are being offered at 5 cents a sack in the ground. A French journal publishes statistics showing that drunkenness is increasing to an alarming extent in that country. A thrifty woman in New York pawned her husband's set of teeth in order to raise money for the rent.

The old town house in Scituate, Mass., erected in 1654, was burned Monday evening. Hunters in Maine count on having a most successful season.

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Mrs. Logan still dresses in the most sombre black. The only time she has omitted it was at a White House dinner, when she appeared in lavender faille, a very becoming costume. She still wears her mourning veil and widow's cap, and at her throat is a big, old-fashioned brooch, containing a picture of General Logan.

Patti's little theater in her Welsh castle is exquisitely furnished. It is decorated in white and gold in the style of the Renaissance, with hangings of pale blue, ivory and gold. The chairs are upholstered in sapphire and velvet, with which the proscenium also is draped.

Thomas Hughes, of "Tom Brown's School Days" fame, is a fairly successful lawyer, with a practice that brings him in about $2000 a year. But he has a small private fortune, which probably accounts for his not exerting himself more at the bar.

Mrs. Waite, widow of the late chief justice, has just concluded a tour of the Far West with her two daughters. They went to the Pacific coast, visited the Northwest and spent some time in California, going as far south as San Diego.

John B. Gough's beautiful rural home, "Hillside," near Worcester, on which he spent $200,000 and a vast amount of taste and labor, has now been sold by his executor for much less than the sum here mentioned.

Miss Frances E. Willard has canceled a number of engagements for this autumn, in New England, Pennsylvania and Iowa, owing to her mother's ill health. The great English preacher Spurgeon is entirely a self-made man. His parents were humble people of Dutch extraction.

Francis Wilson, the comic opera star, has but a single dissipation, it is stated, and that is the mild one of tennis. THEY HATE MCKINLEY. What President M. E. Ingalls Learned in England—Englishmen Who Would Like to Have McKinley Assassinated.

M. E. Ingalls, President of the Big Four and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads, now controlled by the Vanderbilt interests, arrived in New York to-day on the steamer Majestic. With him was his son Melville. I asked him as to politics. Said he:

"You would be amazed at the feeling in England personally against Maj. McKinley because of his tariff bill. They seem to hold him personally responsible, and from more than one quarter not altogether irresponsive I have heard the hope expressed that he might be shot."

"Such a feeling ought to help him in his own country, ought it not?" said I. To this no answer by word of mouth, but rather quiet acquiescence. "How about Ohio?" he asked.

To this I made answer that I knew nothing of the situation, but that only a few nights ago a leading Hamilton County Democrat, now in New York, had declared that Campbell would have a majority of 12,000 in Hamilton county against him, and that he would be defeated for election sure.

"I think," said Mr. Ingalls, "the majority thus placed against him in Hamilton county too high. I should say he would lose the county by about 5,000."

Why It Is Popular. Because it has proven it's absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which "100 Doses One Dollar" is true—these strong points have made Hooper's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

A Husband's Mistake. Husbands too often prevent wives, and parents their children, to suffer from headache, dizziness, neuralgia, sleeplessness, fits, nervousness, when by the use of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine such serious results could easily be prevented. Druggists everywhere say it gives universal satisfaction, and has an immense sale. Woodworth & Co., of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Snow & Co., of Syracuse, N. Y.; J. C. Wolf, Hilledale, Mich., and hundreds of others say "it is the greatest seller they ever knew." It contains no opiates. Trial bottles and fine book on Nervous Diseases free at the Logan Drug Co.'s.

INTER COUNTY FAIR.

The Most Successful Exhibition Ever Given Closed Friday. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. MARTINSBURG, W. VA., Sept. 4.—The Morgan's Grove Tree Inter County Exhibition, which closed to-day, was a most surprising success and far surpassed any of the attempts which have been made in previous years to make this the largest agricultural exhibition in the State. The fact of it being a free exhibition no doubt is in some degree accountable for the immense crowds which daily attended, but the genuine merit of the fair as an advertising medium for dealers in agricultural machinery, and for the display of farm stock and products, and for the discussion for economic and most advantageous methods of farming, makes it of inestimable advantage to the tillers of the soil and the exhibitors of the above mentioned articles.

The exhibition was under the management of boards of directors of Jefferson and Berkeley counties, W. Va.; Washington and Frederick counties, Md.; and Frederick and Clark counties, Va. The exhibition was under the management of boards of directors of Jefferson and Berkeley counties, W. Va.; Washington and Frederick counties, Md.; and Frederick and Clark counties, Va.

A JOCKEY KILLED. At the Wetzel county Fair—A Fool in the Crowd Caused It. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. VA., Sept. 4.—This afternoon, at the county running race at the Wetzel county fair, John Hoge, of Sardis, Ohio, was killed. He was riding a horse named Tom Rattler, owned here, and the horses were scoring for a start, when some one in the crowd called out "no." The horses started with a rush and crowded so close together as to shut out Tom Rattler, when, in some manner, the horse was tripped and fell, throwing his rider with fatal results. Hoge was a favorite here with a great number of people. He always attended the fairs, and will be greatly missed.

Resolutions of Respect. ELM GROVE, W. VA. Aug. 29, 1891. At the regular meeting of Mystic Lodge No. 24, K. of P., held on the above date, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, In view of the loss we have sustained by the death of our friend and brother, Smith Hamilton, and of the still heavier loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to him; therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting his removal from our midst, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them and command them for consolation to Him who doeth all things well; be it further

Resolved, That this heartfelt testimonial of sympathy and sorrow be spread upon the records of the lodge, and published in the press of Wheeling, and a copy be transmitted to the family of our deceased brother.

Running Sores Covered His Body and Head—Bones Affected—Cured by Cuticura Remedies. When six months old, the left hand of our little grandchild began to swell, and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became impure it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the ear, and another on the neck, which was very offensive. His head was so sore that he could not sleep, and he was very nervous. He could not walk a step, and he would not eat. He could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using all freely. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly bone formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child.
