

A WAR CLOUD

Hanging Over Hawaii and America is Interested.

GREAT BRITAIN WILL ATTEMPT

To Get Possession on the Death of Queen Liliuokalani, Who is Very Ill, but the Inhabitants Want Annexation to the United States--Americans Preparing to Resist the English Scheme and Want War Ships Sent at Once--Excitement at Fever Heat.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.--The steamer Belgic brings most important news from the Hawaiian kingdom. The information is authentic, being prepared by one of the leading citizens of Honolulu. Queen Liliuokalani is at the point of death. Her physician has pronounced her trouble organic disease of the heart and her death may happen at any moment. The death of the queen will bring about the most serious of political complications, and already wire-puffers are at work to secure control of the islands in the interest of England. Honolulu newspapers dare print one word of what is transpiring, but the people are in a great fever of excitement. Americans in Honolulu will make a desperate attempt to prevent the islands from falling into British hands. The father of the heir to the throne, who is an Englishman, will work to his utmost in the interests of the British. Americans will take advantage of any lapse of time to prevent Princess Kaulani from taking the throne.

The natives are in sympathy with Americans and want either a republic or annexation to the United States. The Hawaiians feel no loyalty toward their native ruler, who has foreign blood in her veins. The situation is so critical that the presence of two or three war ships from the United States is an absolute necessity. Queen Dowager Kaulani is also dangerously ill with paralysis and may die at any moment. The English minister is the bosom friend and companion of Mr. Cleghorn, the father of the heir to the throne, Princess Kaulani. Americans have some knowledge of what is to be done and are taking precautions to organize and secure arms sufficient to protect their rights. The general election is rapidly approaching and excitement is at fever heat between rival political factions.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE.

The Career of the Remarkable Woman Who Has Again Become a Bride--A Story of Luck and Perseverance.

The New York World has the following interesting sketch of Mrs. Frank Leslie, whose marriage to William C. Kingsley Wilde, M. A., of London, brother of Oscar Wilde, was announced Sunday:

Probably no American woman is better known in this country and on the continent than Mrs. Frank Leslie. She stands in the front rank with women who have contested for supremacy in realms hitherto dominated by men alone. She possesses a deal of American "gumption" and zeal; she speaks gracefully five languages, is handsome in form and face, wears a No. 1 shoe, is charmingly eccentric and, above all, has been engaged in interesting flirtations. Mrs. Frank Leslie's maiden name was Miriam Fulline. She was born in New Orleans, well--about forty years ago. She was ten years old when her father took her to Cincinnati, and at thirteen she drifted into literature. She began writing for the papers, and in that way became associated with Frank Leslie.

During the illness of one of the women editors Miriam Fulline was given her position temporarily, and at her death she was made editor of Frank Leslie's Ladies' Magazine. She was eighteen then. Leslie "proposed" one day, and on another day Miriam Fulline became Mrs. Frank Leslie.

Now, Leslie wasn't his real name. Henry Carter was his name. He was the son of a glove manufacturer of Ipswich, Suffolk county, England. He had a fondness for drawing and engraving, which his family discouraged. So, to hide his identity he adopted the name of Frank Leslie. He married at seventeen, and the union was so objectionable that his family gave him up. Then he came to his adopted name.

Leslie died in 1870. His dying words were an injunction to his wife to take his place in business and try to fit it out of the mire of its encumbrances. Mrs. Leslie had a $300,000 debt to start on. Then came eleven law suits, but all of them were won by the women. She faced all her difficulties with a bravery that was positively heroic.

Her pluck was shown two days after she took charge of affairs. That was when Garfield fell by Guitierrez' bullet. The news reached New York at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, and at 10 Frank Leslie--she had assumed his legal name--had two artists on the way to Washington. For two days, on their return, Mrs. Leslie worked with them, side by side, until midnight, never leaving the building. Here was the first publication of the kind. One hundred and ninety thousand copies were sold. That was a starter.

But Frank Leslie needed money. She secured a loan of $50,000 in a remarkable way from a widow who lived in Brooklyn.

The woman had just heard of Mrs. Leslie. That was all. Nevertheless she gave her a check for that amount, and was with difficulty persuaded to accept her diamonds as part surety.

The first instalment was to have been paid on November 1 of that year, but two days before that date Mrs. Leslie paid the entire amount, with interest. In March, 1890, Mrs. Leslie was booked for a second time to read the Marquis de Louville, that is in the newspapers. Five years previous all Europe and America had it that the match had been made. It was admitted by the Marquis, but denied by Mrs. Leslie.

When the 1890 rumors began to fly thick and fast Mrs. Leslie admitted that she had loved the Marquis five years ago, but she denied very positively that there was any truth in the then repeated rumors.

The Marquis was a second time readily induced to admit that this time there would be a wedding sure.

Closely following this admission Mrs. Leslie grew less positive in her denials and finally they began to be accepted as admissions. One beautiful day, however, she announced very firmly that the talk was all bosh and there it ended again.

Mrs. Leslie, being a very vivacious widow as well as a very wealthy one, was the heroine of many similar rumors. She had a faculty of captivating the nobility, as she did every one else, for that matter.

southern newspaper at the time of her visit to New Orleans several years ago. Mrs. Leslie, in speaking of the beauty of the women there, and notably several creoles, said she was a creole born. Mrs. Leslie, at the time of her husband's death, took a vow never to dance again and never to wear colors in her dress. To this vow she has always adhered.

Willie Wilde is an actor-journalist, so called in London. He is as popular as his eccentric brother, Oscar, in Bohemian society. But the brothers do not agree. When one enters a drawing-room the other departs. It's all because of Oscar's fads. Willie is a stalwart and conventional man of the world. Lady Wilde, the mother of Oscar and Willie, is a charming woman and a brilliant entertainer. To her receptions came the bright lights of literature, art and journalism. Americans are ever welcome to her salon. Ireland she loves.

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

Allow me to add my tribute to the efficacy of Ely's Cream Balm. I was suffering from a severe attack of influenza and catarrh and was induced to try your remedy. The result was marvelous. I could hardly articulate, and in less than twenty-four hours the catarrhal symptoms and my hoarseness disappeared and I was able to sing a heavy role in grand opera with voice unimpaired. I strongly recommend it to all singers.--Wm. H. Hamilton, Leading Basso of the C. D. Hess Grand Opera Co.

A GRAND DISCOVERY.

Something for Weak, Tired Women.

You women, sales-girls, and you who are confined in offices, mills and factories, how heavy is your drudgery, how roaring upon your nerves, how exhausting to your strength, how blighting to your beauty. You are often nervous, generally weak and always tired. You feel languid, low-spirited, lifeless and miserably, experience a faintness, sense of fullness or bloating after meals, irregular appetite, constipation, headache, wake unrefreshed from sleep, have malaise, weak back, backache, bearing down pains, irregularities.

The great nerve invigorant and female restorative is Dr. Greene's Nervura. No remedy in the world is so soon to restore strength to the weakened and worn out nerves. It is the greatest of all nerve tonics and regulators, and perfectly and completely cures all female weaknesses.

"I AM SO WEAK AND NERVOUS."

Purely vegetable and harmless. Druggists sell it, 75c.

"I have been a sufferer from weakness, nervousness and painful menstruation. I used Dr. Greene's Nervura. It acted like magic. Why do women suffer when Dr. Greene's Nervura will surely cure them?"

"Just as Good."

Say some dealers who try to sell a substitute preparation when a customer calls for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Do not allow any such false statements as this induce you to buy what you do not want. Remember that the only reason for making it is that a few cents more profit will be made on the substitute. Insist upon having the best medicine--Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is Peculiar to Itself.

A woman who threw vitriol at a man in Brooklyn the other day got some of it on her own beauty and suffered dreadfully. Ladies can not be too careful in these indulgences.--Judge.

The Old Original Remedy Leads.

Sick people should not be deceived by pretenders who talk about "Microbi," "germs," "baccilli," etc. to sell their preparations, thus preventing people from buying the original tested medicine. "Radam's Microbe Killer" is what you need. It is now, and for years has been, making more cures than all other remedies combined. Investigate it before trifling with your health. Read their advertisement in this paper. Don't be deceived.
