

millions from here, a savage fight occurred between the Democrats and Republicans. Knives were drawn and Charles White was fatally stabbed. Fifteen participants have been arrested and the officers are after more.

Republicans Congratulate you.
Intelligencer.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—171 of the 205 precincts of Boston give Allen 18,817; Russell 30,705; Russell's plurality, 11,881.

Sixty towns give Allen 9,292; Russell 6,640. The same towns last year gave Brackett 7,730; Russell 5,642, a net Republican gain of 564.

One hundred and ninety-one precincts out of 205 in Boston give Russell 34,448; Allen 21,111; Russell's plurality 12,237. This is within 111 of Russell's plurality last year in the whole city.

The returns from fifty country towns show a net Republican gain of 708, or 14 per cent over last year. On this basis the Republican gain in the 353 towns of the state would be 4,942. Last year Governor Russell's pluralities in the state were 9,953. Indications so far from the large cities are that he has held his pluralities of last year, and that he is elected by at least 4,000 plurality. The balance of the Republican state ticket is undoubtedly elected.

As the returns of only fifty towns are now in, it is utterly impossible to give any idea of the complexion of the legislature.

NEW JERSEY.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 3.—The Democrats will have a majority in both branches of the legislature.

At political headquarters of the Democrats it is the claim is made that Democratic senators have been elected in Hudson, Hunterdon, Middlesex and Sussex counties.

The Democrats also claim to have elected forty assemblymen in the state.

KANSAS.

The Alliance Knocked Out—Republicans Regain their Ground.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—Despatches from various counties in Kansas shows that the Alliance did not hold its own at to-day's election. The returns are very slow in coming in and only 47 counties of the 106 in the state have been heard from. These 47 counties are scattered all over the state and represent every political phase. In only two of them have the Alliance made a clean sweep.

Harper county always has been either Union Labor or Alliance and Lynn was a strong Alliance county last year. The counties show almost invariably Republican victories or Republican gains. In the country the Republicans appear to have regained their foothold while in the cities the Alliance has made slight gains, but not enough to compensate them for their losses in the several districts.

NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 3.—In spite of the fact that a very light vote has been polled, the election to-day has been the most hotly contested of any struggle ever witnessed in Nebraska. The light vote is due partly to the weather and partly to the Australian ballot system of voting, which has proved cumbersome, and especially in Omaha, where there were 119 candidates to be voted for on the state, county and city tickets. The Democrats having no state ticket in the field was another cause for the light voting, a large number of the old-time members of that party refusing to vote for either the Republican or Independent People's candidates.

Nebraska's Latest.

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 3.—Returns from Nebraska up to 1 o'clock this morning are very meagre.

Rough estimates made from the returns at hand including those from Omaha and Douglas counties, indicate that Judge Post has carried the state by at least 5,000 majority.

Omaha All Right.

OMAHA, NEB., Nov. 3.—Eight precincts of Omaha give Bemis (Rep.) for mayor 620 majority, with indications that he carried the city by from 2,000 to 2,500.

MICHIGAN.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Nov. 3.—Estimates based on returns thus far received give the Republicans a sweeping victory here. Belknap, Republican candidate for the Fifth congressional district, will be returned by from 1,200 to 1,500 majority. The late Congressman Ford carried this district by 2,000 last fall.

MARYLAND.

BALTIMORE, MD., Nov. 3.—Frank Brown, Democrat candidate for governor, has a majority of between 15,000 and 20,000 as figured out at the Democratic headquarters.

COLORADO.

DENVER, COLO., Nov. 3.—Partial returns from 15 precincts in the counties out of 163 give the straight Republican ticket a majority of 300.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Returns from 125 precincts, about a quarter of the total, would indicate a Democratic victory in the local election, the figures thus showing the Republican candidates 1,000 to 1,700 behind their opponents. The full vote in the last county election gave the Republicans the prize by a plurality of 897. As on that occasion, the outlying precincts, which are heavily Republican, may quite possibly again turn the scale against the Democrats.

Virginia Legislature.

RICHMOND, Nov. 3.—Returns indicate a gain of three members in the lower house for the Democrats. The Democrats elected 16 members without opposition.

Further returns indicate the election of the Democrats of Brunswick, Dinwiddie, Prince George and Surry counties.

ties. If so, it will be a gain for the Democrats of three members in the lower house. The Democrats elect sixteen members without opposition, and nine members from counties represented by Democrats in the last Legislature.

For the Senate the Democrats elect without opposition the members from the Fourteenth and Twenty-fourth districts.

1:30 A. M.—The Democrats claim every senatorial district in the state. The Democrats will have at least four-fifths of the house. Two Alliance candidates and one straight-out Republican have been elected to the house. The Democrats will have a large independent working majority in the next legislature.

Republican Congressman Elected.
St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 3.—At midnight to-night the election of Jolly (Rep.) to Congress in South Dakota is conceded. Scattering returns have been received, but all reports point to Jolly's election by a good plurality.

BELMONT COUNTY'S VOTE.
The Result in the Precincts on the River Front Indicates the Whole.

So far as can be heard the result in Belmont county shows Republican gains. The taxation amendment has a heavy majority in the river townships, while the constitutional amendment proposition is badly defeated, and it is probable that this is a sample of the result all over the county. The vote in detail was not obtainable till late last night. It is given below.

The county has probably elected a full Republican local ticket. The latest returns accessible, before going to press were that all the Republicans were safe, while several, Archer especially, have run away ahead. The county is believed to have given McKinley at least 800 majority.

St. Clairsville's Vote.
Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

St. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Nov. 3.—Returns from five precincts show a decided Republican gain, and the plurality in the county will reach at least 800. In this township three precincts show McKinley 379; Campbell 430. Senator, Nichols 380. Kennon 406. Representative, Heinlin 353. Myers 418. Ashenhurst 29; Seitz 2.

At Martin's Ferry.
At Martin's Ferry the vote at the country precinct resulted in a slight gain for McKinley. The vote in detail was as follows:

McKinley, 102. Campbell, 164. The rest of the Republican candidates on the State ticket got 98 votes each, except McNeal, for Dairy and Food Commissioner, who got 97. All of the other Democratic state candidates got 155. The Prohibition ticket got two votes throughout.

WON ON A GOLD BLUFF.

Some Big Games of Poker Played Recently at Cape May.

THIRTY-TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS

Swooped in by a Gothamite on Treys.
Nelson's Hint About Crooked Playing—A Game that Excited All the Sports at the Sea Shore.

Cape May Correspondence St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Bofo" the wab" the West Jersey railroad extended only from Camden to Glasboro, and the remaining sixty miles to the sea at Cape May were necessarily traversed in lumbering stages or by private conveyances. But to the sporting public Cape May, with her antique and romantic history, the oldest and most famous of American watering places, next to Newport and Nahant, possessed more charms than the more populous summer resorts.

There were two gambling houses at the Cape, both known to fame. One was a large three-story double frame house near the Stockton house, built by Mr. Lehr, once famous as a negro minstrel. Here, with negro servants and a buffet supplied with the rarest of foreign wines and liquors, the "sporty boys" from Baltimore and Washington and from New York city spent July and August, and most of them lived by "short cards."

John G. W. Ware, the oldest alderman on Cape Island, tells a good poker story, the hero of which was "Bob" Nelson, a Kentuckian, and a relative of the notorious "Bully" Nelson, an officer in the Union army. Bob Nelson had driven a pair of dappled grays over from Baltimore to the Cape, and was rejoicing in his summer dolcefarniente. Strolling over after dinner at the old Congress hall, he was asked to take a hand with four strangers at Lehr's gambling house in a game of stud poker. This game hits a genuine Kentuckian "where he lives," and the very name of the game recalled to sporting Bob Nelson the pleasures of the blue grass country at home. Nelson had a pocketful of $100 bills, and being "fai" himself with the divine air of the beautiful summer night did not at first perceive that his partners in the game were on very intimate terms with each other and never lacked for the right card with which to gather in hisducati.

Bob lost steadily until midnight, but as he sobered up the exact character of the situation dawned on his mind. He gathered together all the "stake" he had remaining from one or more pocketbooks, spread the $100 bills out in a pile before him (he had $3,000 in all), smoothed down the package of bills as though he loved the bank notes, and then slowly pulled out a huge navy revolver, and, laying it on the pile of greenbacks, said:

"I haven't the least doubt that this is a gentlemen's game, but I don't want this money to blow away."

The hint was sufficient. After that, in sight of the "cold iron," it became a thorough "gentlemanly" game, and Bob Nelson succeeded not only in winning all his money back, but, by daylight, quit winner over $1,000.

Bob Nelson says now that he has never played with strangers since at a summer watering place without a six-shooter, as it materially assists in securing a square game.

One day this week a carpenter, while repairing the bath house adjacent to the lawn of the new Congress hall (the old frame building with its romantic history, where Henry Clay and Reverdy Johnson used to spend the month of August, having been long ago burned to the ground), found a "stack" of blue "chips" wrapped up in the fero layout in a pair of fisherman's oil-skin pants. It took the oldest inhabitant on the island to tell the nature of this strange "find." The blue chips and green baize was all that was left of the famous "Blue Pig," a neat little two-story cottage erected at the northeast corner of Congress hall lawn. It was built and named the "Blue Pig" by Harry Cleveland, a most famous gambler in the days of Pettibone, Joe Hall, Ned Pendleton and Cool Martin. Nothing but solid silver was tolerated by Harry Cleveland, and the waiters always wore swallow-tailed coats at dinner, and no plebeian could enter the sacred portals of the "Blue Pig," because chips of a smaller denomination than $5 were not tolerated.

Congressmen, senators, cotton planters and New York bankers much affected the "Blue Pig." No higher play was ever seen anywhere at the seashore than that which nightly occurred at Harry Cleveland's, where the gamblers listened to what the wild waves were saying while they played poker, devoured yellow-leg plover or listened to the music of the roulette wheel. Schuyler Halsey, a well known New York gambler, who for years ran a game in Fulton street in the metropolis, was a frequent visitor at the Cape and a patron of the "Blue Pig." It was an ideal gambler's haven, with none to molest or make afraid.

Among the many casual visitors to the island was that arbiter of elegance among the sporting men of New York city, Major Crump, of the Shakespeare club, who has had nearly fifty years' experience on the turf. Yesterday the major, who if a guest at the "Challotte," in this city, in giving some interesting recollections of the "Blue Pig," said:

"It was in 1855, the year Buchanan was elected President, I spent my days at Congress hall during midsummer and my nights at the Blue Pig. Never have I seen such elegance and such cuisine elsewhere as Cleveland's cook put before his guests. Harry was absolutely rolling in wealth, and July and August at the shore was his time to play the matured magnifico, and you may be sure he did it with a royally lavish hand. I saw the biggest game of poker at the Blue Pig in '56 that I ever saw in my life. There were five at the table—Cleveland, Schuyler, Halsey and his friend (one of the Philadelphia Whiteheads) and two Southern planters.

"The pot was opened with $5 ante, and all the five came in. Cleveland 'straddled the blind' with $10, and still all the other four 'stayed.' The draw was dealt. Whitney only drew a pair of jacks, and went out, as did one of the planters, who drew nothing better than an 'ace high.' The second planter soon followed suit, although he had four fours in his hand. This left only Cleveland and Halsey in the game, and each, with check-book in hand, eagerly scanning the 'pot,' saw each other and went many thousands better. The game soon grew intensely exciting—not only to the players, but also to the on-lookers—and it was plain as a pikestaff that one of the two would 'go broke' at the end of that game.

"Cleveland looked confident, but not less so than Halsey, who finally, in response to a $500 raise of Cleveland, nonchalantly tossed upon the table a check for $3,000. After a moment's delay Cleveland 'saw' it and 'raised' Halsey $1,000, but the suave New York gambler smilingly went Cleveland $2,000 better, and his face was a study for a sphinx. Cleveland could not stand the pressure, and angrily threw down his cards, while Schuyler Halsey, his face cold as ice, but white as a sheet, reached out and scooped in the jack-pot, which cash amounted to just $2,000. In the excitement of the moment, as he drew in the pot towards him, Halsey's cards fell face up on the table. Cleveland sprang to his feet (he was six feet four inches in height), and fairly yelled:

"Bluffed!"

"Halsey had a pair of treys."

A TERRIBLE MISTAKE.

A Hunter Shoots a Little Girl in the Head, Thinking Her a Ground Hog.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

CLARKSVILLE, W. VA., Nov. 3.—This morning, near Wilsonburg, Charles Windon shot the little daughter of L. A. Barley in the head, and instantly killed the child. Windon had been out hunting and on his return saw the child's head just over a stump, where it was playing near the house, and thought it was a ground hog and shot. The ball took effect in the top of the head.

A Romantic Marriage.
Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

MICHIGAN, O., Nov. 3.—Mr. Charles B. Thompson, cashier of the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank at this place, and Miss Nellie Thompson, daughter of Dr. F. L. Thompson, an old and prominent practitioner of Cleveland, Ohio, were quietly married in the parlors of the Weddell House at the latter place last Saturday afternoon. The parents of the bride opposed the match, so the lovers arranged a place of meeting and were married as above stated. The only witnesses to the ceremony were Miss Mamie Thompson, sister of the groom and Mr. R. C. O'Neill, of Wheeling, the head of the well known firm of contractors, O'Neill, Funk & Co. The newly married couple are expected to arrive at their home here to-day. Mr. Thompson is well known in Wheeling, and his many friends there will shower congratulations upon him.

IRISH NOMINATIONS.

The Formal Naming of the Candidates at Cork.

Cork, Nov. 3.—The formal nomination of the candidates took place to-day and proceeded quietly.

Mr. O'Brien described the Boulogne negotiations and denied the existence of an official record. He quoted letters from Mr. Parnell and others in order to prove that Mr. Parnell's retirement was meant to be permanent. Mr. O'Brien said that Mr. Dillon and himself only went to jail after exhausting every effort to effect a reconciliation. Mr. Redmond and other Parnellites then sided with him in trying to bring Mr. Parnell to reason. Mr. Parnell offered to retire if Mr. O'Brien took the leadership, but he (O'Brien) objected and suggested Mr. Dillon. Mr. Parnell refused to assent to Mr. Dillon. Afterward Mr. Parnell declared an agreement that if Mr. McCarthy obtained from Mr. Gladstone a sufficient memorandum dealing with the Irish questions he would retire from the chairmanship in favor of Mr. Dillon, with Mr. McCarthy as vice chairman. The agreement contained no condition that the retirement of Mr. Parnell was to be temporary.

Weather Forecast for To-day.

For West Virginia, Western Pennsylvania and Ohio, generally fair; winds becoming southerly; slightly warmer by Thursday.

The consciousness of having a remedy at hand for croup, pneumonia, sore throat, and sudden colds, is very consoling to a parent. With a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, one feels, in such cases, a sense of security nothing else can give.

How to Succeed.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. There is nothing like the Restorative Nerve, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits and hysteria. BABY CURED OF ECZEMA.

Mother's and Minister's Testimony—Head Mass of Intoxication—Ductor Falls. Cured in Quick Time by Cuticura.

I deem it my duty to inform you of the wonderful cure of eczema which Cuticura effected upon our little baby, three months old. When about two and one-half months old, the whole of its little head became one mass of putrefaction, over which we became very much alarmed, as the medicine prescribed by our physician only seemed to aggravate and increase the intense pain the little thing seemed to be in. We were utterly at a loss to know what to do, as the physician seemed to have exhausted all efforts to give relief, but through the recommendation of Rev. J. G. Allen, pastor of Brooks Street M. Ch. Church, we were induced to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after a few days' application we were astonished as well as delighted over the result. We continued the use of the medicine according to directions, and after a few weeks the little fellow was entirely cured with no traces of the disease left. Many thanks for this wonderful cure. Mrs. JOHN HOLSTEIN, Quittman, Ga.

It gives me great pleasure to testify to the facts contained in Mrs. John Holstein's testimonial concerning the cure of her little baby. When I saw it I did not think it possible for it to live. I have never recommended Cuticura, knowing that if a cure was possible, Cuticura Remedies would do it. My most sanguine expectation culminated in a perfect cure. J. G. ALLEN, Pastor M. E. Ch. So., Quittman, Ga.
