The Intelligencer.
WHEELING, DECEMBER 23, 1891.
The Republican Standard Bearer in 1892.

If we may judge them by their newspapers the Democratic politicians are nervously apprehensive of an uneasy row between President Harrison and Secretary Blaine. Their wanted equipoise is so much disturbed that before the thing is over they are as likely to be standing on their heads as their heels. The New York Press sees the situation about as it is:

The nomination rests solely with the masses of the party. If, as the trend of events now seems to indicate, the demand is for Mr. Blaine, the brilliant and forceful secretary will have no warmer friend or well-wisher than the sterling patriot and able statesman whose administration has been one unbroken record of progress and success. If the President is again a candidate, the potent voice of the greatest secretary of state since Seward will be heard in irrefragable appeal to the people for his re-election. The party is indeed fortunate that can count two such men among its leaders. The claims of each upon popular confidence and admiration are manifold.

With two such leaders as President Harrison and Mr. Blaine working together in the fullest harmony, the Republican party looks forward with confidence to 1892. Either of the two would command the entire and enthusiastic party support. Whether the Minneapolis convention names Blaine or Harrison, its nominee will be triumphantly elected over the candidate of free silver and free trade.

There will be no scramble between Harrison and Blaine. One of them is likely to be the party's nominee. Blaine is at present the party's choice and will so remain. Unless he shall expressly forbid it, as he did in 1888, he will be nominated without opposition. In that case he will have the hearty support of the President, who has never been a bolter and will not begin now. The nominee, whoever he may be, will be chosen by the Republican party. If that nominee is to be Mr. Blaine it will not be necessary for any little coterie of politicians to jump to the front as the only great and original Blaine leaders. If the President is to have the nomination it will come to him without putting the whole body of national office-holders to the trouble of staying awake all night to pull the party into line through delegates of their selection.

The Republican masses like to choose their own nominees, and now as heretofore they will insist upon their right to do it. Anybody who has taken his first lesson in politics can see how the President's cause might be very seriously embarrassed by the active interference of an office-holding machine.

In West Virginia we are not afraid of a machine of this sort, for when we get ready we smash it. This is what happened in 1884, when the party machinery was in the hands of President Arthur's office-holding friends, who set out to get the solid West Virginia delegation for him. The Republican masses wanted a solid Blaine delegation, went for it and got it.

If Blaine is to be had this time the West Virginia delegation will be there for him. Any other sort of a delegation would misrepresent the Republican masses of this state, and the masses make the party.

What—Another Postponement?
By reason of the behavior of Speaker Crisp towards Mr. Mills the New York Times fears that "a great economic reform" may be delayed; which means that the country cannot be brought to free trade next year. But "it will come." If it be postponed once every four years, won't the free traders begin to be a little discouraged?

They deny indignantly that they are for the lottery, but they have not resolved against it and are suspected of being on the lottery side.
It does not require very keen perception or very close knowledge of men to guess that the hand of the lottery managers is in the dividing of the Republican party. The lottery is in a fight to the death, has ample resources and no conscience, operates boldly and does not count the money cost. It is a pity that it is so, but so it is.

Not a Necessary Evil.
The Inter Ocean and the Sun are endeavoring to do Chicago a great service by arousing public sentiment against the idea that the smoke nuisance is a necessary evil. It has been shown in the course of the discussion that it is possible to wipe out almost entirely this pest of urban life in communities burning bituminous coal.

By this time everybody understands that the volumes of coal that pour from chimneys and the stacks of locomotives represent so much coal unconsumed and therefore gone to waste. The percentage of waste varies with circumstances, but is always great enough to be worth saving.

The destructiveness of the smoke nuisance, the discomfort and resulting inconvenience are additional reasons for getting rid of it. Without any outlay for special contrivances it is agreed that unskillful or negligent stoking is at the bottom of very much of the trouble. A locomotive engineer says that with his ordinary allotment of cars to draw he has no trouble to get along without making his locomotive belch volumes of smoke. His trouble comes when he is forced to draw several times as many cars as his locomotive can pull comfortably.

It is a reasonable inference that all the locomotives that pass through or are at work in Wheeling are either overtaxed or badly fired, for we almost never see one at work that does not mark its way with a cloud of black. This nuisance could be abolished if the city would let the railroad companies know that it is in earnest.

As we see less of natural gas we shall see more of the smoke nuisance; and Wheeling is deeply interested in what Chicago is trying to do.

Bury the Wires.
All over the country the demand is made upon electrical companies to put their wires under ground. It is not expected that this can be done now with wires used for electrical street railways, but their time will come.

Not long ago it was said telephone wires could not be operated under ground, but it has been found that it can be done by using the metallic circuit, which has other advantages. No where is there a stronger desire than in Wheeling to get rid of the wires, and the telephone wires have been looked to as the first to go.

After much prodding the telephone company offers to bury its wires in the business portion of the city for a beginning, and strangely enough Council hesitates to allow the company to do what it should be forced to do anyhow. On Main street between Twelfth and Fourteenth are more than two hundred and fifty telephone wires, the telegraph wires, the wires of the electric light company and the wires of the railway company, and to all these are being added the city's electric light wires.

The city's wires are dangerously near the telephone wires, unavoidably so, it is explained, but there they are; and the voltage of their current will be about twice as great as that which killed the last murderer in Sing Sing prison. The chances for somebody to be killed with a phone in his hand are remarkably good.

In less degree the same condition exists throughout the city. To be rid of the telephone wires will be a decided gain, and the sooner the better.

The Natural Gas Supply.
The city should be reasonable with the natural gas company, and it should remember that something is due to the consumers of natural gas. If the company cannot supply the city works and private consumers, it would be only just to the company and considerate of private consumers to allow the gas to go to the private consumers.

Since the factories and the city works have been taken off the line there has been noticeable and very welcome improvement in the service. If the public works are to be restored we must expect a diminished household supply, which means very great inconvenience to the householders who use this best of all fuel.

HERE is some unadulterated "pisin" from the Democratic Nashville American: "Mr. Crisp owes his obligations to the protectionists, to Tammany toughs, to Fodder Brice, to the railroads and to the Farmers' Alliance. Mr. Mills is probably the last man these fellows would want, and Mr. Springer is probably the first." Enough of this will bring about the necessary quality and quantity of harmony. The supply from all sources is likely to equal the demand.

WHILE we were reading some Mugwump reason why Mr. Elkins should not be confirmed, along came a Washington dispatch announcing that he had been confirmed. What a weary world this is for persons who are determined to be miserable.

A white Christmas would be very welcome, but it is more likely to be green, with the accompanying suggestion of a fat church yard.

Mr. Springer always wears a flower in his buttonhole. To this he expects to add the gory scalp of Mr. Mills.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.
A Queer Volcano.—In the extreme eastern edge of Arizona, some forty miles southwest of the remote and interesting Indian pueblo Zuni, New Mexico, ice, is a strange natural phenomenon—a great, shallow salt lake, at the bottom of a bowl-like depression some hundreds of feet deep and about three miles across. The basin is dazzling white, with a crust of salt crystals. About in the center rises a small black volcanic peak; and if one will take the trouble to ford the small lake—which he will find a disagreeable but not dangerous task—and climb the peak, he will find its crater half filled by a lakelet of pure fresh water.—St. Nicholas.

A dispatch from Shelby, N.Y., relates a story of a man's life having been saved by a bull. It appears that, while the man was at work in his barnyard, he was savagely attacked by a large bull, which he had recently purchased, and hurled to the ground. He would have been crushed to death if a bull had raised from a calf had not rushed to his rescue by striking the newcomer in the side with such force that he was knocked away. The old bull, now terribly enraged, rushed after the other bull again and drove him into a far corner of the yard, where he kept him until the farmer had dragged himself out of the yard.

One year ago a farmer living near Plain City, Ohio, swore off drinking any kind of intoxicants for twelve months, and, signified the event by suspending a jug of whisky by a rope in the top of a jack-oak tree, near his barn. The other morning he attempted to climb to the jug to see if the liquor was still there, and in reaching for the rope he leaned forward too heavily on a rotten limb of the tree and fell to the ground, breaking his right leg in two places.

Mrs. Nancy Britt Kennedy, who claimed to be 118 years old, died in Augusta, Me., on Saturday, under unusual circumstances. At an early hour she got up and began praying that she might die, and continued her prayers for nearly three-quarters of an hour, when she fell to the floor dead.

Living near the Tennessee city of Memphis are seven sisters whose names rhyme beautifully but do not scan. The names are Nancy Emeline, Lucinda Caroline, Mary Heselton, Jane Palestine, Lulu Paradise, Virgie Valentine and Maude Anna Adeline.

Piled upon each other, the $400,000,000 in the Treasury would reach a height of 675 miles, and placed side by side they would carpet a room 50 feet wide and 24 miles long.

LOOKING OUR WAY.
What It Settles.
Brooklyn Eagle (Dem.)
If Blaine is to be for Harrison or Harrison is to be for Blaine for President, Mr. Elkins' appointment is entirely explicable. It does not settle which of the two is to go for the nomination, but it does settle that between both the accord is complete.

Makes a Close Connection.
New York Recorder.
There is no one who, by tradition in party service and by personal association, is more closely connected with General Harrison and with Secretary Blaine than is the newly designated secretary of war.

Brains and Energy.
Whatever may be the significance of the nomination, it must be conceded everywhere that one of the most brainy and energetic men in this country has been tendered the portfolio of the war department.

Will Offset the Michigan Loss.
Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.
If the six electoral votes of West Virginia can be secured to the Republican candidate it will offset more than the Republican party will lose by the electoral district system in Michigan.

Moving That Way.
Pittsburgh Courier.
West Virginia has been traveling steadily for years in the direction of the Republican camp, and it is quite within the range of probability that the line may be crossed next year.

Doesn't Wipe Out Blaine's Name.
Cincinnati Commercial.
The presence of Mr. Elkins in the cabinet, we are assured, does not in any way affect the use or non-use of Mr. Blaine's name for the Presidential nomination.

A Regular Steam Engine.
Columbus Dispatch.
The universal opinion seems to be that Mr. Elkins will make a good cabinet officer. He is generally known as a man of great ability and of exceeding energy.

A Broad Knowledge of Affairs.
Utica Herald.
Elkins has a broader knowledge of affairs and of the United States than many men who have won honorable distinction in the cabinet.

Sought the Man.
New York Mail and Express.
It is no secret that in this instance the office, high and important as it is, has sought the man, and not the man the office.

Has Made His Mark.
Rochester Democrat (Rep.)
Mr. Elkins has made his mark in business and in politics, and is one of the best organizers in the Republican party.

Admiral Brown Thought to be Making Ready to Move on Chile.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—From information gained here it looks as if the reports sent out from Washington of preparation of war with Chile were true. Admiral Brown has secured an option on the new and powerful tug Fearless, just finished at the Union Iron works. She has a speed of sixteen knots an hour. It purchased by the government she will be supplied with two five-inch guns and a secondary battery of four six-pounders and four torpedo tubes. She is swifter than the Chilean torpedo cruiser and far more powerful. Admiral Brown also secured options on four of Sprackles' big steamers—the Zealandia, Australia, Mariposa and Almadia—to be used for transport service. The Zealandia can be ready at ten hours notice, and all the others inside of three weeks. The coast defense vessel Monterey can be made ready in three days after her armor plate is received.

ON FIRE WITH ECZEMA.
Terrible Sufferings of Little Baby. Seven Doctors and Two Hospitals Fail. Cured by CUTICURA.

My baby boy, 5 months old, broke out with eczema. The itching and burning was intense; the eczema spread to his limbs, breast, face and head, until he was nearly covered; his torturing agonies were pitiable to behold; he had no peace and but little rest-sleep at any time. For months I expended times at two hospitals and by seven doctors in this city without the least benefit; every prescription of the doctors was faithfully tried, but he grew worse all the time. I purchased CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT and followed the directions to the letter. Relief was immediate; his sufferings were eased, and rest and sleep permitted. He steadily improved and in nine weeks was entirely cured, and has now as clear a skin and is as fat a boy as any mother could wish to see. I recommend every mother to use it for every Baby Humor.

FACTS FOR THE SICK
CURES ALL DISEASES

Hon. John C. Towne, Judge 2nd Judicial District of Texas, said in his findings of facts after the trial of an imitation suit: "I find that plaintiff, Wm. Radam, manufactures and sells a medicine of good curative properties which gave it large commercial value, and that this medicine rapidly made a reputation which gave it large commercial value."

No other medicine has ever received such a verdict from any court that it "rapidly made its reputation" on account of its "curative properties."

Mr. Radam has just issued a forty-eight page circular, containing a full and complete list of the facts which explain all of the causes and cure of diseases. These circulars contain more common sense and natural facts than all medical books put together.

VALUABLE INFORMATION FREE.
Mr. Radam's publication that appeared last spring in many New York City papers denouncing Dr. Koch's Lysol as a fiction are reprinted in his pamphlet "Microbe War." Also a general diagnosis of medical humors. When you read these circulars you will open your eyes to the fact that Mr. Radam discovered the cause and cure of all diseases. Send a 2 cent stamp for both circulars to Radam's Microbe Killer, Nashville, Tenn. or to our agents, Logan Drug Company, Agents, Wheeling, W. Va.
