THE INTELLIGENCER, embracing its several editions, is entered in the Postoffice at Wheeling, W. Va., as second-class matter.

Well Meant but Misunderstood. The esteemed Martinsburg Independent's sensitive feelings prompt it to take exceptions to the INTELLIGENCER correspondent's comments upon that place as a convention city, as follows:

The INTELLIGENCER's correspondent, in the issue of that paper for Thursday, strikes an unnecessary and unworthy blow at Martinsburg as a place for holding conventions.

The INTELLIGENCER regrets that the Independent failed to appreciate the good intentions of the correspondent, whose reference to Martinsburg's hospitality was couched in the following enthusiastic terms:

The old Virginia hospitality is here in great chunks and the Republicans who overflow the hotels and boarding houses to-night are greeted with such hearty cheer on all sides that the discomfort of being crowded, three in a bed and innumerable coats on the floor is forgotten, and everybody is in good humor.

The extension of hospitality is not alone by Republicans, Democrats assisting with them in welcoming cordially the guests of the beautiful capital of the Eastern Panhandle.

We fail to see just where the Independent finds cause for complaint. The reference to Martinsburg's geographical position in this connection was in no way a reflection on that beautiful city or its inhabitants.

The same objection might under similar circumstances apply to Wheeling, Charleston and other important cities of the state not centrally located, and is a consideration which should be taken into account by the state committee in fixing the place for a state convention.

What is the Explanation? Advice from London tell of the distress among the wage-earners in the north and midland counties of England.

The number of temporary paupers is 9 per cent of the whole population—nine persons out of every hundred of all the people depending on the public charity for the scant subsistence that makes the difference between life and death by starvation.

When there is any lack of work and wages in any American industry we know just what the trouble is. The free traders tell us. It is all along of the protective tariff, which breeds a condition of affairs which the free trader knows all about when the disturbance is in some protected country.

With regard to England the situation is altogether different. There the trouble cannot be protection, for that is the exemplary land of free trade and high morality. It cannot be a trust trouble, for the free trader never heard of a trust or any similar contrivance in free trade England.

Of course there is some cause that drives to pauperism the highly favored beings who have been employed in the English iron and steel industry—something, but the free trader can not guess what it is. He can only squirm like a fresh worm on a fish hook.

Dr. Parkhurst and the Pharisees. Some good people and some who are no better than they ought to be continue to be shocked beyond everything by Dr. Parkhurst's campaign against the dens of infamy and the police protection given them.

Then Dr. Parkhurst armed himself with witnesses, invaded the dens and beheld their infamies. In order to know what went on he saw it. The assaults on him for doing this exceed in fury anything that has been said against the people who maintain the vile resorts, the police who protect them and the politicians with a "pull" who divide the plunder with the police.

So far as most of the criticisms are concerned it is plain that they are born more of regret that the truth has come out so that it cannot be gained than of any honest feeling of sorrow that a clergyman would, even for the noblest purpose, pollute his eyes with such debauchery. The Pharisees are not all dead.

The Capital's Pastry. There is a common impression that one-half of Washington lives on the saffron-hued cream puff, which some authorities have held to be responsible for a larger percentage of Washington deaths than history records of any great battle of the war.

Some of the boards of a fashionable hotel at freely of the delusive thing and their physicians said it was all on account of the tyroxon in the puff. Since this kind of thing is of frequent occurrence in Washington, and as Washington is going to keep right on stimulating its patriotism with the captivating puff, Congress should pass an act requiring the brand of tyroxon and the quantity used to be blown in every cream puff before the same shall be exposed for sale.

Put 'Em Out. Now and then the New York World sees something Democratic as others see it, and then we are treated to something really entertaining. Here is a fine sample for a political crazy quilt.

The absenteeism in the house of representatives is a disgrace to the Democratic majority. If enough members for a quorum out of a majority of 150 cannot remain in their seats and attend to the duties for which they were chosen there is a very bad state of affairs, which ought to be remedied by some resolutions to be followed by the election of successors blessed with industry and a sense of duty.

The World should remember that the enormous Democratic majority is engaged in the patriotic task of saving the country. Is there any better way than for Democratic members to absent themselves? The country would be safe if there were not a Democrat in Congress. It was saved while most of the Democrats in congressional business were in another congress.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has an eye of at least average clearness and keenness, and this is the way it sees an interesting situation:

The anti-Harrison Republicans are holding meetings to consider who can defeat the President. They have not found the man and are not likely to find him. Few popular men care to pose as the champion of sore heads to be followed by the election of successors blessed with industry and a sense of duty.

Anything-to-beat-Harrison is like some other cries the country has heard, and is lacking in the quality which catches the popular fancy. The masses of the Republican party have not been invited to take part in any of the much announced caucuses in this interest.

Once more the steady growth of West Virginia journalism is shown in a practical way. The Parkersburg State Journal, already a creditable publication, has changed its form to eight pages, put in improved machinery, overhauled itself generally and gratified its friends with the evidence of its prosperity and the implied determination to do still better and to deserve still more. The INTELLIGENCER is of the host of the gratified.

Some of the delegates to Minneapolis being instructed for Mr. Blaine, it is said he must of course be voted for, no matter whether his name is presented or not, no matter whether he will accept or not, no matter anything but instructions. If instructions do really drive delegates to this idiotic length, the wisdom of not instructing requires no other vindication.

When Calvin S. Brico reads the eulogies of Gorman as a presidential possibility, he would be less than human if he did not decide to do his best to imitate in Ohio the methods of the Maryland boss, which have made him the envy of every political desperado in the country. If the Gorman sort of thing is to be deified, Brico may as well be in it.

The Hon. Thomas C. Platt roaming about over the country seeking somebody to knock out his Uncle Ben, shows how shy some great men are of letting the right hand know how funny the left hand can be. When Mr. Platt finds what he wants it is to be hoped that he will recognize his discovery.

Unless Mr. Waterson can get Mr. Cleveland to believe that he is really small potatoes in the Democratic hill, Mr. Waterson will have failed in his present mission.

If any number of Englishmen want to try to drink all the whisky of Kentucky why not tackle it single-handed, instead of going at in syndicate form?

BREAKFAST BUDGET. In Omaha, where the Methodist General conference is holding its sessions, there are sixteen flourishing Methodist churches and three missions. It is also the home of Bishop J. P. Newman, who is said to be so popular that when he is announced to speak no church will hold those who desire to hear him.

A JOINT CONVENTION OF THE TRADES ASSEMBLY AND THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE HELD. FOUR COUNTIES REPRESENTED. A Co-operative Store to be Established, and Arranging the Details of the Organization Consumes most of the Day's Session—Important Committees Appointed.

In response to the call for a joint convention of the Ohio Valley Trades' and Labor Assembly and the Farmers' Alliance of Brooke, Ohio and Marshall counties, a large number of delegates representing the two organizations put in their appearance at the Trades Assembly hall yesterday forenoon. The convention assembled at 11 a. m., and Roman Dobler called it to order. C. M. Donley was made temporary chairman and Thomas Salisbury temporary secretary, and afterwards they were made the permanent officers of the convention.

I. W. Imhoff moved to admit the reporters of the city press, and after some discussion his motion prevailed. Messrs. W. W. Foreman, I. W. Imhoff and P. F. Farrell were appointed a committee on credentials, and they reported the following list of DELEGATES PRESENT. On behalf of the Alliance—Frank Cox, from Liberty Alliance; Benjamin Springer and James Burkott, from Richland; R. B. Criswell and J. B. Garvin, from Bethlehem; H. L. Calvert, E. G. Baird, from Nightengale; Harriet P. Corter and George M. Butler, from Mt. Leon; E. Welling and J. Steward, from Harrison; M. H. McCauslin and George P. Sisson, from Pioneer; W. W. Foreman and J. M. Bell, of High Ridge; Felix Muldoon, from Potomac; William Giesler and W. R. Dorsey, of Marshall county.

From the Trades Assembly—H. A. Schuler, John Conley, stove fitters; Samuel B. Crow, John W. Reddell, horse collar makers; William Frohne and C. Stein, Garfield Assembly; W. S. Barisford and Jerry Mead, United Mine Workers; John B. Meighen and James Purcell, Crescent lodge; I. W. Imhoff and Gratton Deal, of carpenters; Charles Kull and P. F. Farrell, Carriage and Wagon Workers; Gabriel Jackson and Alexander Garden, Hod Carriers; Charles Venaman, Tobacco Workers' union; J. C. Bolen and A. J. Uthman, Coopers' union; John O'Brien and John Klein, Street Car union; C. M. Donley and James Harman, Local No. 58; John Far and Samuel H. Coffman, United Mine Workers, Bridgeport; Lewis Coleman, Warehousemen's union; Thomas M. Robbins and Solomon Doud, Advance lodge; William Latour, of Potters 225; Edward McLaughlin and John Goodhue, of Federal Labor Union 4091; Roman Dobler, Richard Robertson, James Orr, George Hall, John Leisure and Thomas Salisbury, of the Trades Assembly.

The formalities being arranged, a recess was taken till 1 p. m. Upon reconvening Mr. Dobler addressed the convention as to the objects and aims of the organization, and dwelling upon the necessity of repealing obnoxious laws and ordinances, unjustly discriminating between producer and consumer. He assured all that the political effect of such a combine was contemplated would injure nobody.

Mr. Foreman also spoke briefly on the same line. He said the producer and the consumer had been at war for several years, and the products could not be profitably marketed through the present channels; therefore the members desire to market them themselves.

Mr. Robertson also dwelt on some of the reforms it was desirable to bring about, and which a combine of this sort should be able to effect. The proposed plan of organizing union or co-operative stores over the country, with a central headquarters in Wheeling, was then read, and the details gone into in a very spirited manner. There seemed to be a good deal of divergence of opinion as to the aims of the project, and there was a good deal of talk about middle men. The idea of the majority was to have the produce of the members of the Alliance sold direct to the consumer at these stores. In some of the details the plan was altered. As finally adopted the project has the following DETAILS OF ORGANIZATION. The association is to be known as the Producers' Co-operative Association, to be organized for the purpose of reducing the cost of exchange of products as between producer and consumer and establishing a uniform rate of exchange in harmony with labor performed and risks assumed. The principal office shall be in the city of Wheeling, and the business that of dealing in farmers' products, machinery, groceries and general merchandise. The capital shall consist of 1,000 shares of $3 each, with privilege of increasing to 10,000 shares, 25 per cent to be paid in and the remainder to be paid quarterly. The stock may only be held by organizations or individual members of labor unions or sub-alliances, and no individual member to hold more than fifty shares; and the stock is not transferable, except as from one organization to another of similar character, subject to the approval of the board of directors.

The holders of said certificates shall not be held liable for other sums than the stock subscribed, the president and treasurer being responsible for the unpaid amount of stock. When a sufficient number of shares are taken, a meeting of the stockholders of the association or their delegates shall select a suitable agent or agents to transact all business, and elect a board of six directors, who shall devise

A PLAN OF BUSINESS, and who shall meet once a quarter to examine the accounts and general condition of the business and report the result to the stockholders. The directors may separate the business into departments, placing over each one an agent, who shall be responsible for his department. All business shall be done on a cash basis. The agent's salary shall be paid semi monthly, and rents for rooms paid monthly in advance. All firms doing business with this association shall be required to furnish two bills of sale, one of which shall be mailed direct to the president of the association, the other to the agent. The president shall be a member of the board of directors, said board to consist of six members, who shall meet at the beginning of each quarter to audit accounts. The agent alone is responsible for debts.

No agent or salesman will be permitted to misrepresent an article to effect a sale. The board of directors shall receive $150 per day and expenses. Two days for each quarter shall be the maximum. All goods shall be sold at the lowest retail rates prevailing, and after all expenses are paid, the profit for the first year to be applied to extending the business, if deemed advisable.

COMMITTEES NAMED. The next order of business was the selection of members of the executive and legislative committees. The following gentlemen were appointed on the executive committee: James Cooper, of Brooke county; Peter Crow, of Marshall, and J. B. Garvin, of Ohio, from the Alliance; Roman Dobler, Jero Meado and Thomas V. Salisbury, from the Trades' Assembly.

Legislative committee—T. M. Garvin and W. W. Foreman, from the Alliance, and I. W. Imhoff, John O'Brien and C. M. Donley, from the Trades Assembly. An additional member from the Alliance is to be chosen at the meeting of the Marshall county Alliance at Moundsville next Saturday.

The subject of raising the stock for the union store was brought up, and on motion the secretary was instructed to send a circular to each local union and sub-alliance, giving the particulars of the plan and suggesting subscriptions to the capital stock.

The convention then adjourned, and the executive committee met and elected J. B. Garvin president and Roman Dobler secretary.

A Well-Equipped Man. Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. Col. C. L. Poorman seems to have carried at least fifty-one of Belmont's sixty-three delegates on Saturday, and under the arrangement entered into between himself and Senator Nichols this will give him the solid delegation from his home county and bring him within twenty-four votes of a nomination for Congress in the Sixteenth Ohio district. As he has many soldier friends throughout the district, his nomination is more than probable.

Col. Poorman is one of the best posted and best-equipped men in the country for Congress, and without disparaging the other candidates there is a general desire to see him win.
