WHEELING, JULY 11, 1892.

OFFICIAL CALL

For a Republican State Convention to Nominate a State Ticket.

At a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee, held at the city of Parkersburg, February 22, 1892, it was ordered that a convention of the Republican party of West Virginia be held in the city of Huntington, in the county of Cabell, on Wednesday, August 5, A. D. 1892, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., to nominate candidates for the following named offices, to be voted for at the election to be held on Tuesday, November 8, 1892:

Governor, State Superintendent of Schools, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney-General, two Judges of the Supreme Court of Appeals (one for the short term and one for the long term), and two Presidential Electors at Large, and to transact such other business as the Convention may see proper to do.

It is recommended that each county be entitled to one vote in said convention for each 100 votes, or fraction thereof in excess of fifty votes, cast for President Harrison in 1888.

The Executive Committee of each county will please to take early steps to secure to its county proper representation in said convention.

The co-operation of all voters is invited who believe in the policy of Reciprocity, of protection to American working men, American farmers, and American manufacturers; who favor a sound currency; the unobstructed development of the state; the correction of abuses in the educational, humane and other institutions of the commonwealth; and economy and reform in the conduct of several departments of the government of the State.

W. M. O. DAWSON, Chairman. G. W. ATKINSON, Secretary.

FIRST DISTRICT Congressional Convention.

Va., on Tuesday, July 14, 1892, to nominate a candidate for Congress for said district to be voted for at the election to be held in November next, and to transact such other business as may come before the convention.

W. E. STATHERS, Chairman Congressional Committee. JOSEPH L. BRADY, Secretary.

IN 1890 it was a conflict of predictions; now our adversaries must face trade statistics and prices current.—Freedman's Journal, June 2, 1892.

Compulsory Arbitration. The INTELLIGENCER promptly took Homestead as an illustration of the need of a system of arbitration by which labor disputes may be settled. It is a satisfaction to see that other newspapers are taking the same view. The Chicago Inter Ocean puts the case well:

arbitration. That would have forced the company to say that it did not intend to employ its old men on any terms unless they left their organization. Everybody would then have understood the situation. There could have been no pretext of a wage dispute. There would have been no haggling over scales. The real question would have stood on its own merits.

The condition produced at Homestead is intolerable in civilized society under a government of law. If it were to last long or break out in many places it would have to be called by a name that has an ugly sound. It would be anarchy. The wage-earner would be no more secure in the possession of his home than the employer is in the possession of his mills.

The case would be in, no way improved if employers and employees were both to say it suits them. It cannot suit Homestead, Allegheny county, the state of Pennsylvania. And so we come back to the INTELLIGENCER's original proposition, that the community has rights which both sides to a labor controversy should be compelled to respect. To preserve these rights nothing better than compulsory arbitration has been suggested.

A Sample of Their Goods. So far as it can the Democratic party has given the country a sample of its goods. The Democratic house has punched out a big hole in the protective tariff. It has reduced the tin plate duty to one cent a pound for the next two years, after which time the duty is to be removed entirely. There is no removal of the duty on anything that goes into tin plate.

Under this legislation it is simply the finished product that is to be cut into first and then admitted without duty. Ore, pig, sheet iron and sheet steel remain dutiable as now. So far as this particular bill is concerned, Americans are merely forbidden to make tin plate. That blessed privilege is reserved for Welshmen in Wales.

We must do the Democratic party the justice to admit that it is the intention to keep on punching holes in the tariff until the whole thing shall be brought down to a purely revenue basis, everything for revenue, nothing for protection. This being true, it would have been honest and more business-like to repeal the McKinley act and pass a revenue measure in its place.

Here is where the cowardice of the Democratic house shows itself. That body has not the courage to say amen to the Democratic tariff plank and offer to the country a comprehensive tariff policy based on the doctrine laid down by the national Democratic convention.

The house prefers to attack in detail, to undermine protection little by little, to try to catch the votes of the unthinking by the cheap claptrap of the "revenue reform."

Thanks For The Suggestion. The Democratic politicians and newspapers still think they can make some party capital out of Homestead. There is our old friend Congressman McMillin, of Tennessee, whom the Register has held up several times for the INTELLIGENCER to pulverize.

Mr. McMillin continues to be quite sure that there is nothing in protection for the workingman, and he wants us to behold Homestead.

We do behold Homestead—made out of nothing by protected American industry. More than that we behold in the ranks of the locked-out workers men who earn twice as much as they could earn at the same labor in free trade England.

Many of them own their homes. They have money and want it understood that they ask no assistance. Their organization has a comfortable treasury and can draw on its members and on other similar organizations if more money be needed.

Mr. McMillin may think it would be better to build the Homesteads of this country on British soil, but if he will preach his doctrine in Homestead he will not find it popular.

The wage-earners of that community have a quarrel with the company which lately employed them, not with protection. Mr. McMillin will understand this better after he has read the November election returns.

Eaton Up By Fire. In comparative scope and loss the fire in St. John's, Newfoundland, exceeds anything of the kind this continent has seen. It seems incredible that whole streets of solid brick buildings could so soon be laid waste.

Insurance will, of course, do something to make good the loss, but after that shall have been received it is a question whether St. John's will soon if ever recover its former strength. Canadian communities have not the recuperative power of our own.

The fellow countrymen of these unfortunate will do what they can to relieve the 15,000 homeless people, but this will not make less acceptable any relief that may be sent quickly from the states. These people though not our countrymen are our neighbors in distress.

A Radical Reformation. Mr. W. H. Vogler, speaking through the New York World quotes Mr. John P. St. John as follows in defense of General Bidwell, Prohibition nominee for President:

business and cut up his vines by the roots. Surely this was radical enough to suit the most exacting.

Who Gave It Away? The New York Times, able Magwump, feels called on in this emergency in Mr. Cleveland's career, to make these few remarks:

It is evident that Platt and the men who are going to manage Mr. Harrison's campaign have come to an understanding and that the basis of that understanding is that Platt is going to have the say about the way in which the campaign shall be run in this state, and that, should Harrison chance to win in the election, he is to have the control of the state's patronage to the practical exclusion of those who stood by Mr. Harrison when he needed friends in Minneapolis.

Somebody must have been telling the Times. It is not long since some other body was telling that Mr. Platt would not support his party's nominee. Maybe the President has told the Times in confidence.

Another idol is shattered. "General" Field, of Virginia, People's party nominee for Vice President, was not a general in the Confederate army. He was a quartermaster. A good quartermaster is a useful officer to have about in war time, but the quartermasters of the late unpleasantness have not cut much of a figure as heroes about election time.

The Gladstonians have lost some seats in Parliament which they thought they would carry. They did not appreciate the desire of the British workingmen for a little protection himself. The sentiment is growing over there.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

This is a bad year for aeronauts. Six have thus far been killed. On the Fourth two were drowned after an ascension from Boston Common; one was thrown from his basket, but managed to catch the telegraph wires in his descent, at Waltham; another jumped from his balloon high in air, getting off with a broken rib and many serious bruises at Lexington; while still another narrowly escaped drowning in the Kennebec river.

John McHeron, a Philadelphia cartoonist, has been somewhat surprised by the receipt of a draft for $4,000 from a son who was taken with the gold fever about fifteen years ago, and has finally turned up as the superintendent of a rich silver mine in Mexico with an income of $200,000 a year.

THE only reason for Mr. Cleveland's nomination, and the thing that forced his nomination, in spite of all the efforts of politicians, was the fact that, in the minds of the Democratic masses, he represents the idea of free trade. The platform is an unmistakable declaration against all parleying with protection. It puts the Democratic party in the field as committed to the policy of sweeping away every shred of a protective duty.—Henry George, the Free Trader.

In another column of this paper will be found an advertisement of a medicine known as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, for sale by druggists of Wheeling. In almost every neighborhood throughout the west, there are some one or more persons, whose lives have been saved by this remedy. It is natural for such persons to take especial pleasure in recommending the remedy to others. The praise that follow it immensely popular. While it is intended especially for colic, cholera morbus, dysentery and diarrhoea, it is also claimed to cure chronic diarrhoea. If such be the case, it is certainly a "God-send" to many a poor mortal. DAW

MR. BARBE'S POEMS.

High Commendation from High Authority—Remarkable Success of his Work. Current Literature for July.

It is not often that the entire edition of a new author's first book of poems is sold in less than six months' after publication, but such is the case with Waitman Barbe's "Ashes and Incense." Mr. Barbe is a young southern author whose first book has put him among the foremost of the young American poets. The Saturday Review of London praises it, and in this country the most prominent critics have welcomed it as the voice of a genuine and earnest singer. Mr. Barbe is about twenty-eight years of age, a handsome fellow, six feet tall, straight with dark hair and smooth classical face. He comes of an old French family and his father is a native of the Shenandoah Valley. In 1884 young Barbe graduated at the University of West Virginia. Since then he has been engaged in newspaper and literary work. For several years he has been editor of the Daily State Journal, at Parkersburg, and literary editor of the West Virginia School Journal. He is also making a reputation as a public speaker, having frequently addressed audiences of college students and others on literary and educational subjects. Some of his poems have a remarkable depth of thought and feeling, while others are light and airy. All of them are artistic.
