

A DASTARDLY ATTEMPT

Made to Blow Up Carnegie's Lower Union Mills in Pittsburgh.

GAS TURNED ON IN THE FURNACES.

The Discovery Only Made by the Merest Accident--Hundreds of Lives Were Imperiled--The Situation at Homestead Unchanged--Hugh O'Donnell Makes a Statement Denying the Reports That He Was in for a Compromise, and That He Would Resign if It Was Not Effected--The Newspaper Correspondents Misunderstood Him.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 27.--At 2 o'clock this afternoon two anarchists called at the police station to see Bauer. They were arrested and gave the names of Carl Finster and August Kirnopp, both of Allegheny. There was nothing found upon their persons. It was learned this afternoon that an attempt was made to blow up Carnegie's Lower Union Mills in this city. During the temporary absence of the engineer, some one turned on the gas in the furnaces. It was only discovered by the merest accident and the gas shut off before there was an explosion. At the time there were 144 men in the furnace department and many lives would have been lost. The mercenary is not known. Sylvester Critchlow, one of the strikers charged with murder, gave himself up this morning and is now in jail. Bauer, the anarchist arrested in Allegheny yesterday, says there are 500 anarchists in Pittsburgh and 1,000 in western Pennsylvania.

O'DONNELL'S STATEMENT.

Will not resign--Never made remarks attributed by correspondents.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 27.--Hugh O'Donnell to-day authorized the following statement over his signature:

"In view of the extensive circulation to-day, of utterly misleading articles in regard to the Homestead wage troubles, a prompt statement of the exact facts in the matter is due to the workmen affected and the public at large.

"On Monday afternoon, the day I was released by Judge Magee, I received a call at my residence in Homestead from two newspaper correspondents who came, as I supposed, to see me merely as newspaper men, and not in any other capacity except perhaps that of friends who were glad to know of my release. After some conversation the gentlemen asked me if I would not like to have a settlement of the difficulty. To this I replied that, of course, I should like to see a settlement. I was then asked on what terms a settlement could be adjusted, and made reply and without thought that I should be taken seriously. My words were: 'Unconditional surrender, and though I did not for a moment believe that any stress would be placed on an utterance that was merely a repetition of a saying that newspapers, public and people generally have used in the same joking manner, I took the precaution to say to these correspondents: 'Of course I don't mean it, and presumed that they had taken my words as they should have been taken. This part of our conversation was apropos of the shooting of Mr. Frick, and followed a strong condemnation by me of Bergman's deed. I said that I was willing to do all in my power to show the country how strongly the Amalgamation Association condemned the terrible affair, but I did not say, nor do I fancy for a single instant that such a construction could be placed on my words, that on account of the bad impression made by the shooting of Frick, that he (I) would recommend an almost 'unconditional surrender,' and that if the advisory committee failed to agree with me in these views, I would at once resign the chairmanship. That is unqualifiedly false. 'Following my assertion that I should like to see a settlement (and there is no man in Homestead who would not like to see the trouble ended if it could be done with justice to himself and his fellow workers), the correspondents proposed that I go up and make Potter show his hand, meaning as I supposed that they would induce Mr. Potter to talk for publication concerning concessions he would make to the Amalgamation Association towards settling the wage question. I laughingly assented to the suggestion as a good idea. I told Mr. Crawford, the acting chairman of the advisory committee, about the matter and gave no serious thought to what the two correspondents hoped to accomplish."

SITUATION AT HOMESTEAD.

The Carnegies Meeting With Indifferent Success in Operating the Mill.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 27.--There is little change to-day at Homestead. No general orders have been issued this morning for the return of all but three regiments. This is expected, however. A few more men were taken into the mill to-day. They are like most of the non-unionists, laborers, and so far the Carnegies have met with very indifferent success in their endeavor to operate the plant. The reported movement for a settlement which originated with several correspondents has caused such indignation among the locked-out men that Hugh O'Donnell to-day prepared a statement. "I did say we desired a settlement," he said; "that is a fact. But we will only accept an honorable settlement which will include a recognition of the Amalgamation Association and of ourselves. Of course the men would naturally expect some wage reduction, all settlements mean concessions, but we are not weak, we are in a better position than any time since the lock-out. Again all propositions for a conference must be made through the National Lodge of the Amalgamation. I have no authority here to meet Mr. Potter or any other member of the Carnegie interests. I am going east probably tonight, but have no intention of resigning the chairmanship of the advisory committee."

A Usual, Mr. O'Donnell Declined to State Where He is Going, but it is Probable that He Can be Found in New York, though He Don't Carry a Brass Band on His Expedition.

The advisory committee this morning made official denial of the allegations that O'Donnell is to be deported. Another court martial is pending in Camp Black. A dentist attached to the hospital corps of the Ninth regiment deserted and returned to his home at Wilkesbarre, where he was arrested and brought back to camp. The lams affair is resulting in the reception at division headquarters of thousands of letters condemning the cruelties practiced on that private. Division officers now at-fect to completely ignore the affair as though it was over and must be forgotten. A number of friends of lams are in Homestead collecting evidence, and securing witnesses, presumably for prosecution.

MASS MEETING AT DUQUESNE.

The Workers Admitted into the Association--A Strike at the Braddock Mill.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 27.--A mass meeting was held at Duquesne this afternoon, at which W. A. Carney, first vice president of the Amalgamated Association, was present and made an address. All operatives, including day laborers, were admitted into the association and the plant is now more thoroughly organized than any mill in western Pennsylvania. It is yet idle and the settlement may be peaceful.

The transportation department at Edgar Thompson steel works, Braddock, struck for higher wages this afternoon. The men out are yard trainmen and have charge of all freight consigned to and shipped from the mill. The Amalgamated Association men claim that as nothing can be shipped into, or from the steel works, it will have to be shut down, if the transportation department remains out for three days. In this case the last large plant in the Carnegie interests will be shut down.

A sensation was caused in Homestead by the arrest of Charles Mansfield, a real estate clerk, and Peter Nau, a saloon keeper, charged with aggravated riot by Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel Company, limited. Both men took no part in the riot, so far as could be learned, except as spectators, and it is assumed that the arrests were made under the opinion by Judge Magee, that any one who was present during the riot and made no endeavor to prevent it is a co-rioter.

If the Carnegie company chooses it can arrest two-thirds of the people of Homestead on the above charge, and this causes no little consternation here among merchants and townspeople other than locked out men. The impression to-night is that Nau and Mansfield are wanted as witnesses, and are expected to be frightened into giving incriminating testimony against steel workers. Matthew Roy and Peter Allen, who are already charged with murder, were arrested on the riot charge.

The breaking of the division campment of the Pennsylvania National Guards proceeds rapidly. The Thirtieth and Fourteenth regiments and Governor's troop left to-day. Orders have been issued to Battery C and the Fourth, Ninth and Twelfth regiments to be ready to go at once. This will leave the Second brigade in the field. It is probable that the Tenth and Eighteenth regiments will go by Friday, leaving the Fifth, Fifteenth and Sixteenth regiments and Battery B and the Sheridan troop in camp. Their stay is indefinite. Division headquarters will be established in charge of Brigadier General Wiley. An order has been issued retiring Colonel Green, the provost marshal, "with the entire approval of the major general commanding for his able, judicious and efficient conduct in the discharge of his onerous duties."

Fight With Brigands.

MORELA, Mex., July 27.--The bands of desperate brigands who made this section so dangerous and uncomfortable to the honest citizens and travellers seem to have resumed their operations. A band of brigands under the leadership of Cecilio Salino made a raid on the town of Puercopo yesterday. While engaged in their work they were attacked by a detachment of the Eighth federal regiment. A desperate battle ensued, the bandits standing their ground. Four of the latter were killed, while one of the soldiers received a death wound. No captures were made.

Fugitive Points.

CHICAGO, July 27.--Parson Davies writes from Berlin, under date of July 11, that Jackson is slowly improving, but will not be fit to fight again for some time. He says that Hall and Pritchard are both getting ready for their match. It will take place August 22. No club has as yet offered a purse, but the match will take place on that date. Pritchard is a favorite from 1 to 7. It is said that Davies and Jackson will be at the ring-side at New Orleans and challenge the winner of the Sullivan-Corbett mill.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

CINCINNATI, O., July 27.--Yesterday afternoon a steam engine boiler used with a wheat threshing machine, near Kyles station, Butler county, burst. Ambrose Alexander and Perry Holden were killed and horribly mangled, and George Wiley, Edward Taylor, William Shank and John Kyle were painfully wounded. The barn was set on fire and burned to the ground with about $2,000 worth of grain and farming implements.

Fall to Do Our Duty.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty towards themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night, and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nervine for Headache, Nervous Prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved.
