

CUT WITH A KNIFE.

A Young Man has His Arm Slashed With a Pocket Knife

AND NEARLY BLEEDS TO DEATH.

A Quarrel Arises Over a Trivial Cause Between Two Men, and One is Badly Cut—He Catches His Assailant, but Afterwards Tries to Exonerate Him. The Knife User Sent to Jail.

At fifteen minutes to one o'clock yesterday afternoon a cutting scrape occurred on South street, in which one man had his arm badly cut. His assailant tried to escape, but was overtaken by the man he had cut. Officer Lukens arrested the fellow, and he was committed to jail by Squire Phillips.

Nobody seems to have witnessed the cutting, though several men were near by and heard the two quarrel. One of the bystanders told an INTELLIGENCER reporter that he was standing on South street and had noticed the men, though he afterwards had his back to them. William Fitzpatrick, the man who was wounded, accused the other, O. Bartlett, of having stolen his clothes and sent them on to Pittsburgh. Bartlett vigorously denied having taken the clothes, and the quarrel waxed louder. The witness heard Bartlett say: "G—d— you, I could cut your throat as easily as I cut your arm," and looking around saw Fitzpatrick standing there with his arm hanging at his side and blood flowing from his coat sleeve. Bartlett held a pocket knife in his hand.

Bartlett looked at his victim a moment, and then ran up the alley between Sixteenth and South streets, turning up Market and then down Sixteenth, with the man he had cut after him. Near Erb's livery stable Fitzpatrick caught up with him.

CATCHES HIS ASSAILANT. "Here," said he, "I don't want you to leave me. You've got to do something for me. Let's go to a doctor." Both started back up Sixteenth street.

At this moment Officer Lukens arrived and placed Bartlett under arrest. Fitzpatrick's arm was bleeding terribly and Lukens sent for Officer Baum to take charge of his prisoner, as he had his hands full attending to the wounded man. Both were taken into Klari's drug store and the doors were closed to prevent the crowd from coming in. Fitzpatrick was placed in a chair and bled about a half spitoonful of blood. As Officer Baum started off with his prisoner Fitzpatrick called out: "What are you arresting him for? He don't know anything about this. He had nothing to do with it."

The bleeding at the arm had ceased somewhat, and Fitzpatrick was took up to the city building. Here the flow of blood commenced afresh, and big streams spouted out from the severed artery. Fitzpatrick became very weak, and had to lie down. A handkerchief was tied around his arm and pulled tight until the jet from the artery ceased. In the meantime the telephone upstairs was kept going, and several physicians were telephoned for, but were not at home. Dr. Spragg, the city physician, was out of the city. In the nick of time Dr. Frank Hupp arrived and examined the wound. The cut extended from the shoulder in a slanting direction down to the elbow joint. It was nearly an inch deep and gaped open fully two inches. The floor was covered with blood, and the sight was so ugly that two policemen were taken sick and had to leave. Sewing up the wound and bringing together the two ends of the artery was a delicate job, but it was soon done and bandages were applied.

BARTLETT SENT TO JAIL

Bartlett was committed to jail by Squire Phillips, and a hearing set for Thursday, by which time, it is supposed, Fitzpatrick will be able to appear against him. The latter's brother-in-law, P. Zane, who lives on the Island, was notified, and pending his arrival Fitzpatrick was sent to jail, where he could have better attention than at the police headquarters. Owing to his efforts to shield Bartlett, Chief McNichol judged it best to require a bond from him, lest he might leave the city before the hearing. About 5 o'clock Mr. Zane came over after him, and having secured a release from Squire Phillips took him to his home on the Island. Fitzpatrick is from Wheeling, but has been staying in Pittsburgh lately. Bartlett works for the Union news company on the Baltimore & Ohio trains between this city and Pittsburgh. Both young men are about twenty years old.

As Bartlett ran up the alley he threw his knife into a stop barrel in the rear of a saloon, where it was afterward found. It is a good-sized pocket knife, and the big blade, with which the cutting was done, has the point broken off.

Will Attend as a Body.

At its regular meeting Saturday evening Holiday post, G. A. R., decided to go to the national encampment at Washington, September 20 in a body, and extended an invitation to all members of neighboring posts and old soldiers generally to go with them. The post will leave Monday morning, September 21, securing a daylight ride from start to finish and will go over the railway line offering the lowest rates.

The post will take a drum corps along, and will give a bean bake the first Saturday in September to raise funds to defray the expenses of the musicians. An advance agent will be sent to Washington to make arrangements for free quarters for those who desire them.

Struck by an Engine.

Saturday night, while Mat Habig, who lives at 2520 Market street, was walking on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad track on Seventeenth street, he was struck by engine No. 503, of which Tom Murray is engineer. He was knocked to some distance away and badly cut and bruised, though not seriously injured. Officers Carney and Desmond took him to his home in the city patrol wagon and a physician dressed his wounds.

Beethoven Picnic To-day.

A FEW POLITICAL NOTES.

A. W. Campbell Not a Candidate—Prof. Gwynn—Mr. Hugas is Willing.

There was somewhat of a boom, in a quiet way, for Mr. A. W. Campbell for the nominee of the Huntington convention for governor. His name in this connection was greeted with some enthusiasm, but there was always an impression that he might not be willing to run. An inquiry was sent him as to his feelings on the subject, and Saturday a cable message was received from him, in which he declares he is not a candidate, and would not accept the nomination if it were offered him. There were many people who hoped his response would be different.

Mr. T. J. Hugas said Saturday that if Ohio county desired to suggest his name as a candidate for attorney general, and the nomination were offered to him, he would gratefully accept it.

Prof. J. C. Gwynn, who was elected principal of the Fairmont normal school a year ago, with assurances of at least a decent tenure of office, and yet turned down this year by the same board, is talked of for Republican nominee for state superintendent of free schools. Superintendent Anderson, of the Wheeling schools, said Saturday that he would be glad to see Prof. Gwynn nominated. He thought he had been unfairly treated at Fairmont. Besides, he has a good business education, as well as a classical one, and is a first class man in all respects for the office. Prof. Gwynn has lived in Brooke county for several years, while he was principal of a ward school in this city. He resigned that position to go to Fairmont. It would be a sort of poetic retribution to nominate and elect him state superintendent.

REPUBLICANS LAUGH.

They May Carry Tennessee, for There Is a Democratic Split There.

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 31.—Gov. John P. Buchanan to-day withdrew his name for renomination before the Democratic convention. In the course of a card issued he says: "A radical faction, the majority of the leaders of which has been conspicuous in the past in Tennessee politics as 'sky blue bolsters,' inaugurated a plan for disruption. They commenced a vindictive warfare upon all who did not yield obedience to their decree. When these forces had been marshaled in battle array an edict of proscription was issued as autocratic as ever came from the czar of Russia. They propose to challenge the vote of every Democrat who belonged to the organization of farmers and laborers, and proscribe him from the party."

Two years ago Governor Buchanan was elected by over 20,000 majority, the largest given any candidate in this state for many years.

It is stated on good authority that Governor Buchanan will in a few days announce himself an independent candidate for governor, in which event he will receive the support of the Farmers' Alliance, which is very strong in this state.

The Republicans are jubilant over the expected split in the Democratic ranks, and predict that their party will meet with success in the state, as they did in 1880.

THE MAORI'S VICTORY.

He Wins the Heart of a Mormon Maiden, a Bishop's Daughter.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 31.—Herbert Slade, the Maori, who was brought to this country by Richard K. Fox some years ago, for the purpose of demolishing John L. Sullivan, is now fleeing from the wrath of Bishop Sneazy, of the Mormon church. Sneazy, who is wealthy and influential in his community, resides at Mona, a small town about sixty miles from here.

He has a beautiful daughter, who fell in love with Slade, and bent a willing ear to his proposals of marriage. The bishop, however, would have none of the prize fighter, and locked the girl in her room. Late last night Slade assisted the girl to escape, hurried her before a justice of the peace, and the couple then started toward the Pacific coast. Bishop Sneazy attempted to pursue the lovers, but they were too far in advance, and he has gone back to Mona to nurse his wrath.

MEDIUMS MAY STRIKE.

Indiana Spiritualists Who Give Seances and Want Double Pay.

MUNCIE, IND., July 31.—At the State spiritual camp-meeting at Chesterfield, west of this city, last night, Dr. Westfield, of Anderson, was re-elected president of the association, Mrs. Colby Luther, of Crown Point, vice-president, and Flora Howard, of Anderson, secretary. The election was very interesting, the re-election of Dr. Westfield by the mediums present. Last week the mediums formed a combination and agreed to double the price of tuition for their seances. This met with a strong objection from the president, who set both of his feet square down on the scheme and denounced it as robbery. The selection of the Doctor to succeed himself ratifies his actions, and the mediums threaten to strike.

A Wild Engine.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., July 31.—A narrow escape from a disastrous railroad collision took place here yesterday afternoon. The Chesapeake & Ohio engine No. 67 hauls the F. F. V. train. She has been in the shops here for a week, and after being repaired was taken out on the main track for a trial run. On the return to the shops, while running forty miles an hour, the throttle refused to work, and the engineer was unable to stop the engine. A freight train was coming from the opposite direction, and unless something had been done a bad wreck was inevitable. The switchman at the shops, taking in the situation, threw the switch letting the wild engine enter the shops. The crew jumped and the engine crashed into the turntable, almost demolishing itself. It was fortunate the engine was turned aside, otherwise a bad collision would have resulted.
