

HARRISON IN 1896.

Senator Quay Talks About the Political Situation.

HISTORY MAY REPEAT ITSELF

And Another Big Revolution Might Result in a Reversal of the Verdict of 1892—The Republican Party Should Not Yield One Inch—The The Purported Interview Quoting Harrison as Criticizing Chairman Carter Unauthorized.

Special to the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Senator Quay, who left for Florida this evening, has hitherto declined to make any comment upon the result of the presidential election beyond the single laconic remark, "We did not have votes enough." To-day, however, the Dispatch correspondent succeeded in persuading Mr. Quay to say a little more.

The senator was found sitting in his library, dictating replies to several hundred telegrams of congratulation which he had received from friends in Pennsylvania over the Republican majority on joint ballot of eighty-two in the legislature, which insures his reelection to the United States senate.

When asked to explain the causes of Republican defeat in the battle for the presidency, the senator turned to a sunny window in which a parrot was swinging in a cage. The senator cocked one eye at the parrot, and the bird in response blinked both eyes and sang very distinctly: "Oh, dear, what can the matter be?"

THE SENATOR SERIOUS AND THOUGHTFUL. Mr. Quay grew very serious and thoughtful when he was asked for his opinion as to the future policy of the Republican party.

"I believe," he said, "that the Republican party should not yield one inch in its theories as to the benefits of a protective tariff. I believe, too, that the bills passed at the last session of the house, placing wool on the free list and reducing the duties on woolen manufactures, and removing the duties from tin plate, binding twine, cotton ties and cotton bagging and from machinery used in the manufacture of cotton bagging, all of which are now in the senate finance committee, should be retained in that committee and not reported. In fact, I believe they will not be reported."

DUTY OF THE DEMOCRATIC HOUSE.

"If the business interests of the country are anxious to know what scheme of legislation awaits them it is the duty of the Democratic house, as soon as it meets in December, to frame a general tariff bill, indicating in a broad and definite form just what the revenue policy of the next administration is to be."

"Do you think, Senator, that Mr. Cleveland will call an extra session of congress next March?"

"No, I do not. One reason for Mr. Cleveland's election is that he is estimated as a conservative man. He is not likely to be dragged by the more radical and revolutionary elements of his party into frightening, at the very outset, the people who have believed in his conservatism. It may perhaps be too soon to speak positively, but I really cannot believe that there will be any extra session of Congress beyond the usual executive session of the senate to confirm the most important appointments."

THE FUTURE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

"Speaking in the most general terms, what do you think of the future of the Republican party?"

"You may say that I consider nothing more probable than that four years hence there will be an exact reversal of the popular verdict of 1892, and that, as in 1888, Mr. Harrison will succeed Mr. Cleveland in the presidency. The people had four years of Cleveland once and they had enough. As I have said before, Mr. Cleveland's re-nomination, while he still held the presidential office, made it easier for the Republican party to succeed. Four years hence, after wages have been reduced and after the enormous cost of labor strikes has been charged to the party in power, it may be that the people will demand the re-nomination and re-election of General Harrison."

Senator Quay expects to return from Florida in time for the opening of Congress.

PROBABLE POLICY OF THE DEMOCRATS.

Some interest in the light upon the probable policy of the Democrats at the next session of congress was given to the Dispatch correspondent to-day by Representative Outwaite, of Ohio. Mr. Outwaite is chairman of the house committee on military affairs, and is one of the best informed and most sagacious of the Democratic leaders in congress. It will be seen that his expressions are somewhat in line with those uttered by Senator Quay. Said Mr. Outwaite:

"It is useless to anticipate any interference with our banking laws at this time. The Democrats do not expect—and they could not if they so desired—to make any change in our present system of making all issue of money come directly from the federal government. The 10 per cent tax on state bank issues will not be repealed. It is not my way, nor that of the Democratic party, to kill a thing by taxing it out of existence, but now that the state bank issues are done for by an inhibitory tax they will not be revived. There will not be an extra session of Congress. Mr. Cleveland is opposed to such a thing, and said so eight years ago. Everybody knows that the party responsible for an extra session of Congress in times of peace always suffers defeat at the next election."

THE TARIFF NOT TO BE SLAUGHTERED.

"Another thing, it is absurd to suppose that the Democrats in Congress intend to roll up their sleeves and jump at the work of destroying American industries. The present tariff law will be very materially modified, but there will be only slight reductions of duties upon articles which are successfully manufactured in our country. We will give the manufacturers free raw materials, and will put tinplate upon the free list, because it is not an established industry and cannot be made so in this country. The established industries will not be destroyed by being thrown into full competition with those of England, nor will they be materially affected by heavy reductions of duties upon their manufacture. We will first give them free raw materials to work with, and then we will consider reductions of tariffs upon the manufactured articles."

HARRISON ISN'T CRITICIZING ANYBODY.

What purported to be an indirect expression of the views of the President upon the management of the campaign and results, given through an anonymous "friend," appeared in a New York Democratic paper this morning. It may be said positively that this indirect interview was wholly unauthorized, and was filled with errors and inaccuracies. The President has uttered no criticism of Mr. Carter or Mr. McConas, or Mr. Manley or General Clarkson. It is emphatically untrue that the President has attributed in any degree his defeat to the influence of any of the Republican leaders, including Mr. Platt, Mr. Quay or Mr. Cameron, who were opposed to his re-nomination at Minneapolis.

As a matter of fact, the President became thoroughly satisfied early in the campaign that all of the Republican leaders, whatever their attitude before the Minneapolis convention may have been, were loyal and sincere in their support of the party and its candidate.

HOW IT COMES.

The Defeat of the Republican Party Necessarily Only Temporary. Philadelphia Press.

If the Republican reverse had been limited to special localities it might be ascribed to special causes. If it had been confined to New York and the doubtful states it might be imputed to bad management. But the wide sweep of the disaster precludes any such explanation, and simplifies the interpretation of the result. A defeat which cuts down the Republican strength from Maine to California and which carries such states as Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin away from their old moorings can only be explained in one way. It means a revolt against the party on the leading and central issue of the fight. It means a reaction against the Republican protective policy as the people understand it.

If this was an intelligent, reasoning, deliberate judgment it would be conclusive, at least until experience had demonstrated the mistake, and it might be a finality. If the people had struck the blow with a clear comprehension of what they were doing, it would have a lasting significance. But as a matter of fact the blow was struck under the influence of the most shameless misrepresentations and of the most pitiable misunderstandings. Thousands upon thousands were smiting what they fancied were "favorable" and "robber barons" and "bloated monopolies." They had been inflamed with the incendiary and demagogic cry that the existing tariff was for the benefit of the few against the interests of the many. They hit out wildly and blindly against imaginary evils.

Much of this was inconsiderate, impulsive and transient feeling. Something of it was a dangerous socialistic manifestation. The Republican party was cut in both ways. The workingmen who are the chief beneficiaries of the tariff struck at their own interests under the sway of that malign influence which within the last few years has so often arrayed labor against capital. The farmers struck because they were deluded with the idea that the workmen and the manufacturers were receiving all the benefit. The workers of home-made goods revolted because they were not getting enough. The farmers looked at the payroll and revolted because they were getting too much. In neither case was it intelligent and rational action, and in both there was something of the socialistic spirit which raises its hand against the uplifted head.

The irrational, insensate character of this revolt may be illustrated by a single fact. The McKinley bill abolishes the duty on sugar and saves an average of $5 a year for every family in the land. That is more than most families pay either in direct tariff duties or in increased prices of domestic articles indirectly affected by the tariff. The saving is immediate and palpable, and it is greater than any burden under the law. There is, however, a sugar trust, which existed before the McKinley law was enacted, and still goes on. The present Democratic house refused to touch it in any way. It passed a bill for free wool which strikes directly at the interests of a million farmers, and it evaded every attempt to deal with the sugar trust. And yet such has been the persistent misrepresentation that many of these very farmers turn against the Republican party which saves them two cents a pound on sugar and lay the sugar trust to it, while they turn to the Democratic party which proposes to wipe out their wool interest and which shields and sustains the sugar trust!

A policy and a party which rest on false pretenses may deceive the people for a time and gain temporary victory, but they cannot endure. If the triumphant Democracy carry out the pledges of the Chicago platform, that will bring an inevitable recoil. If they shrink from their own promises and give only modified Republican policy, that will stamp their insincerity and bring a reaction. The thing to do is to let them have free course and undivided responsibility.

An Early Bird.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Probably the first man to apply for office because of Democratic success at the polls is a resident of Georgia, who appeared at the Treasury Department yesterday morning, and, showing Secretary Foster a letter of recommendation from Speaker Crisp, modestly said he would like to have some office under the Treasury Department.

The Secretary treated him cordially, and said he would place his application on file for the consideration of his successor.

Natural Gas Explosion.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—An explosion of natural gas in an excavation at Monroe street and Michigan avenue last night demolished every window for a block in every direction. Men were working in the excavation, but only two were injured and they were but slightly burned. The value of the glass destroyed is about $25,000. The cause of the accident is not known.

The Result of Merit.

When anything stands a test of fifty years among a discriminating people like the Americans, it is pretty good evidence that there is merit somewhere. The value of a medicine is best proved by its continued use from year to year by the same persons and families, as well as by a steady increasing sale. Few, if any, medicines have met with such continued success and popularity as has marked the introduction and progress of BRANDRETH'S PILLS, which, after a trial of over fifty years, are conceded to be the safest and most effective purgative and blood purifier introduced to the public.

That this is the result of merit, and that BRANDRETH'S PILLS actually perform all that is claimed for them, is conclusively proved by the fact that those who regard them with the greatest favor are those who have used them the longest.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

WORSE THAN CROW.

A Republican Exits a Hat in Settlement of an Election Bet. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

DONNIN, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Some weeks ago two well-known gentlemen of this place and very good friends but of different political views, made an agreement that should Harrison be elected the Democrat should eat a live rat in the town hall, and should Cleveland be elected, vice versa.

The parties to this contract were Capt. W. P. Mooney and Mr. James J. McCabe, both of this place. As the returns came in it could be plainly seen that both parties were laboring under great excitement, and on Thursday it was announced that Mr. Mooney should eat the rat. The hour appointed was at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. The rat was a large one that had been caught and well cared for for the occasion. With Mr. McCabe's consent it was agreed that the rat should be cooked.

Promptly at the hour named the hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and shortly afterward the rat was brought in, done up in good shape, and the spectators witnessed the execution of one of the most novel bets of the campaign.

Democratic Jubilation.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 13.—This city was wild with Democratic rejoicing last night. The demonstration did not end until the dawn of day. Nothing else in the history of this city. The town was a blaze of fireworks and a din of horns and shouting. The procession was a monster. Allen O. Myers was the principal speaker. The Davis opera house was jammed with an uproarious crowd, who were enraptured by his peculiar style of eloquence. Crowds were here from adjoining counties and states.

A Postmaster's Suicide.

HOPE, KAN., Nov. 12.—Postmaster S. M. Teats committed suicide this afternoon in the postoffice to-day by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. He was financially embarrassed, and fear of losing his place under the Democratic administration caused him to become despondent.

Will Contest.

St. Louis, Nov. 12.—Congressman John J. O'Neill, who is defeated by Charles F. Joy on the face of the returns, has decided to contest by going to the United States court and asking for a count of the vote in the Eleventh district. He claims illegal votes were cast for Joy.

Do you wish to know the quickest way to cure a cold? We will tell you. To cure a cold quickly, it must be treated before the cold has become settled in the system. The first symptoms are a dry loud cough and sneezing. The cough is soon followed by watery expectoration and the sneezing by a profuse watery discharge from the nose. In severe cases there is a thin white coating on the tongue. What to do? It is only necessary to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in double doses every hour. That will greatly lessen the severity of the cold and in many cases will effectually counteract it, and cure what would have been a severe cold within one or two days time. Try it and be convinced. 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

A WORD TO THE WISE. CERTAIN ADVERTISEMENTS FROM TRADE RIVALS, who fear the phenomenal success of Van Houten's Cocoa. In America, contain innuendoes against it, and appeal to the authority of Dr. SYDNEY RINGER, Professor of Medicine at University College, London. This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:—"From the careful analyses of Professor ATFIELD and others, I am satisfied that Messrs. Van Houten's Cocoa is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocos.—It is certainly 'Pure' and highly digestible. The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to Van Houten's Cocoa." The false reflection on Van Houten's Cocoa is thus effectually refuted and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been prompted to give it a very handsome testimonial.
