

THE HOMESTEAD CASE.

Dempsey's Trial on a Charge of Poisoning in Progress.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY PILED UP.

The Public Interest Steadily Increases—The Prosecution Rests and the Defense Opens its Case, which is Presented by Tom Marshall—Poison was Found by Two Expert Chemists.

PITTSBURGH, PA., Jan. 11.—Interest in the Homestead poison cases is increasing and when court opened to-day the attendance was larger than any previous day. The greater portion of those present seemed to be of the laboring class, and that their sympathies were largely with the defendant, was evidenced by the fact that anything favorable to him was greeted by a hum of approval. Several times the court had to warn the crowd to preserve order. The defendant, Dempsey, appeared more nervous and intently listened to all the testimony.

Chemist A. E. Hunt gave the most important evidence at the morning session, and caused something of a sensation by stating that he found croton oil and arsenic in the excrement of a Homestead workman named Hebron, which was given to him for analysis. Hebron was taken ill on September 10 and died five weeks later.

In his testimony Capt. Hunt said: "I made the analysis and found the stool contained about nine drops of oil, which contained a large proportion of croton oil. I also found that it contained about half a grain of arsenic. By arsenic I mean the white powder commonly called arsenic acid. The analysis was made by me and under my supervision, and I am competent to testify as to the proportions of arsenic and croton oil. I have no hesitation in saying the excrement contained that proportion of arsenic and croton oil."

Cross examination—"Does not brown paper contain arsenic?" "This paper does not. I made an analysis of the paper for this very purpose, and it contained no arsenic." "The witness was sharply cross-examined, but his evidence remained unshaken."

James O. Handy, chief chemist of Hunt & Clapp, was called. He had been seven years in the profession. He told of the analysis made and the result showed the presence of croton oil and arsenic in the proportions mentioned by Captain Hunt. They made four tests for arsenic, which demonstrated beyond a doubt the presence of arsenic. He never had made a test for croton oil before. He weighed the arsenic. He made an analysis of the paper and found it free from arsenic. Part of the paper was newspaper, but this also analyzed and found to contain no arsenic.

At the afternoon session, after some unimportant evidence the prosecution rested and Thomas Marshall opened for the defense.

The first witness called for the defense was Dr. Richard T. McCord, of Pittsburgh, who described the effects of arsenic and croton oil on the human system, and showed the similarity between symptoms caused by those poisons and those brought on by the ordinary causes of disease.

Dr. Furman, of Homestead, being called, said that he had two patients now under his care who became afflicted with diarrhoea last July and whose cases had not yet yielded to treatment.

J. T. Little, a member of battery B of the national guard, and nine of his comrades testified that shortly after arriving at Homestead on July 12 they became ill, vomiting and being seized with diarrhoea.

Court here adjourned until to-morrow.

FOR GOOD ROADS.

The National League Meets in Washington—Its Objects.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17.—The National League for Good Roads met here this morning in its second convention. Forty delegates attended at the opening. Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, called the convention to order and stated that its primary purpose was the advancement of the cause of good roads. Concisely stated, the objects of the league are: Combine as far as practicable the efforts of all persons now engaged in the work for road reform; to awaken interest in the subject among the people at large; to urge the passage by the house of representatives of the senate bill for a national highway commission of inquiry; to establish the league on the broadest possible basis throughout the country so that its influence may be of weight in any direction in which it may ultimately be thrown; to obtain and publish full information regarding methods of road building as practiced in various parts of the United States.

Among those present were Senator Manderson, Senator Chandler, ex-Governor C. W. Stone, of Pennsylvania; S. S. Rowland, E. W. Dewey, of New York; J. F. Jackson, of Richmond, Va.; William H. King, of Ohio; C. P. Shaw and E. Alvord, of Virginia; William B. Dodge, of West Virginia, and W. H. Sibley, of New York.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Logan Drug Company, Drugists.

GARBAGE CONTRACTOR

Must Resume the Gathering of Garbage, Which has Been Suspended for Some Time.

At a meeting of the Council committee on health bills aggregating $36 58 were audited and ordered paid.

The committee summoned Superintendent Dunn, of the crematory, to testify as to the condition of the road leading to the crematory. He testified that it was in fairly good condition, and that garbage could be hauled up to the crematory without trouble. In face of Mr. Dunn's testimony it was ordered that Contractor Clark be compelled to resume gathering the garbage, which has practically been suspended since the present cold spell set in. The garbage contractor advanced as a reason for not handling the garbage that the road was in an impassable condition. As other teams are using the road, a garbage cart and horse can go up the hill without much trouble.

The Shadow Detective.

To-morrow evening Dan A. Kelly and company will commence a three nights' engagement at the Grand. The New York Sun says:

The many patrons who witnessed the performance of the "Shadow Detective" at the Windsor theatre, last evening, saw one of the most successful sensational dramas of the day. A company of five actors, headed by that popular and leading versatile actor, Daniel Kelly, whose rendition of the several difficult characters of the title role was ideal, and brought forth the highest commendation and continual applause from the audience. Mr. Kelly is an actor of no little ability, and his support was excellent.

Rose Hill Company To-night.

At the Grand this evening the Rose Hill English Folly Company will give one performance only. The company is said to be large, and they have the reputation of giving a first-class show. The programme consists of singing, dancing, juggling, and the funny burlesque called "The Montebank." The Grand will not hold the people to-night.

CAUSE OF BUTLER'S DEATH.

Result of the Autopsy—A Bigger Brain than Webster's.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 17.—It is stated that an autopsy on the body of General Butler showed that the cause of death was the bursting of a small blood vessel in the brain, caused by a violent fit of coughing. All the internal organs were found to be in excellent condition and but for the accidental cause of his death he would probably have lived many years. His brain weighed four ounces more than that of Daniel Webster, which was one of the largest on record.

A Popular Actress Dying.

New York, Jan. 17.—Mittens Willett, the actress, is dying of cancer, at her mother's house, No. 229 East Fourteenth street. She was born in Columbia, Ky., and is about twenty-seven years old. She is the only child of the late Edward Willett, who was editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When only thirteen years old, Mittens went on the stage, filling walking parts with Mary Anderson. Subsequently she played with John McCullough, Lawrence Barrett and John Owen. Miss Willett played with Clara Morris for five years and was engaged for this season. Her physicians say death is but a question of a few hours.

Not Impertinent Curiosity.

Indianapolis Journal. "Mary Ann" asked the mistress of the rest of the household, "may I ask what time you expect to return to-night?" "Certainly, mum," answered Mary Ann, with suspicious suavity. "Ye may ask all ye likes, though it's not meself that sees any reason for tellin' ye." "Oh, it was not through impertinent curiosity that I inquired," the frightened woman explained. "I thought some of your callers might come in, and if you were to be back soon I could take them in to the parlor and entertain them until you returned."

Kindred Diseases.

Boston Transcript. Johnny: "Father, this paper says that 'many prominent citizens are now ill with pneumonia and kindred diseases.' What is a kindred disease, father?" Father: "Why, my son, a kindred disease is—why—yes, yes!—a kindred disease is one that runs through an entire family—kindred, relatives, you know. Surprised you didn't know that, Johnny."

REBELLION IN HAYTI.

Two Simultaneous Attempts to Down President Hippolyte.

STREETS FILLED WITH ARMED MEN.

Citizens in Terror on Account of the Uprising, and Private Houses Baricaded—Soldiers Dispatched at Once to the Scene of the First Outbreak—The Rebellion was Expected.

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, Jan. 17.—News which was received here to-day indicates that the long threatened revolution against the government of President Hippolyte, of Hayti, has broken out. Messages have been received stating that a battle was fought this morning in the streets of the village of L'Anse du Neau, a settlement back of Port-Au-Prince.

As soon as word of the uprising was received at the government house, President Hippolyte issued orders for troops to be dispatched to that place. In a short time three hundred soldiers and twenty officers were on the way. The reports are that the streets were filled with armed men.

While fighting was in progress at this point news was received at Port-Au-Prince of another uprising near St. Michael.

The residents were in terror as a result of the uprising. All places of business were closed. Even the private residences were barricaded and the occupants sought shelter.
