

PROPOSED ANNEXATION

Of the Hawaiian Islands is Confidently Expected.

THE COMMISSIONERS HAVE A CHAT

With Secretary of State Foster, and Leave His Presence Very Much Encouraged as to the Outcome—Minister Stevens' Course is Endorsed by the State Department—The Beet Sugar Industry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The first interviews between Secretary Foster and the Hawaiian annexation commissioners were held in the diplomatic department yesterday morning between 10 and 11 o'clock and this afternoon at 3 o'clock. There were present Secretary Foster and Solicitor Partridge, representing the United States, and Thurston, Wilder, Castle, Marsden and Carter, the Hawaiian commissioners; Mr. Kinney, of Salt Lake City, who is present with an unofficial advisor, and Dr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian minister.

Mr. Thurston, on behalf of his associates, presented their credentials from President Dole of the provisional government, and supplemented them with a brief statement of the events on the islands which were the cause of their visit.

Secretary Foster responded in a few words of welcome, stating the reason for the errand was well known to the people of the United States. After the exchange of social greetings, in the course of which the secretary expressed his regret that he was unable to receive them at his own house, which had been closed in expectation of his departure for Europe this week, the interview closed with an engagement to meet again at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at the same place.

The Hawaiian commissioners retired at once to their hotel, where they discussed the question of making a statement to the people of the United States upon the subject of their mission to this country. Mr. Thurston was asked whether the reception by Secretary Foster had been satisfactory, and he replied that it had been quite so. Of the details, however, he could not speak, as he had been requested by Secretary Foster, pending negotiations, to make no statement regarding the progress thereof.

Other members of the commission united with Mr. Thurston in expressing much satisfaction at the manner of their reception. Mr. Castle said he had found Secretary Foster to be an exceedingly affable gentleman, and he anticipated very pleasant relations between him and the commissioners during their stay. They have been cordially received by the representative of the United States government, he said, and this beginning, he believed, augured a satisfactory completion of their meeting.

The second interview between the Hawaiian Annexation Commissioners and the secretary of state was even shorter than the conference of this morning, and quite as unproductive in results. There was some informal talk over the annexation proposition, and this was concluded by an agreement that Secretary Foster should again meet the commissioners on Tuesday morning next for an extended conference.

The commissioners, while they are saying very little on the subject of the ultimate accomplishment of their object, intimate that they feel very much encouraged. No arrangements have been made for their reception by President Harrison, but this will probably take place in a few days, as the recognition of the new government by this country removes any hesitation the President might feel in giving the commissioners a formal audience.

People wondered to-day at the strange flag floating over Wornley's Hotel. It had a foreign look, and there were many inquiries as to its significance. The flag is the ensign of the kingdom of Hawaii, and signifies the presence in the hotel of the commissioners selected to negotiate the annexation of Hawaii to the United States. It is a flag of red, white and blue stripes, with a red cross in the center.

Secretary Foster made public to-day the full text of the dispatch announcing the Hawaiian revolution received by him from Minister Stevens on the 28th of January by telegraph from San Francisco, and the answer he sent the minister. The information contained in the dispatch sent by Mr. Stevens has already been made public, but the reply of Secretary Foster is herewith given for the first time, as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23, 1893. John L. Stevens, United States Minister, Honolulu, care Commandant Marc Isouard Navy Yard, San Francisco, Cal.

Your dispatch, telegraphed from San Francisco, announcing revolution and the establishment of a provisional government, was received to-day. Your course in recognizing an unopposed de facto government appears to have been discreet and in accordance with the facts. The rule of this government has uniformly been to recognize and enter into relation with an actual government in full possession of effective power with assent of the people. You will continue to recognize the new government, under such conditions. It is trusted that the change, beside conducing to the tranquility and welfare of the Hawaiian Islands, will tend to draw closer the intimate ties of amity and common interests which so conspicuously and necessarily link them to the United States. You will keep in constant communication with the commander of the United States naval force at Honolulu, with a view of acting, if need be, for the protection of the interests and property of American citizens, and aiding in the preservation of good order under the changed conditions reported.

JOHN W. FOSTER.

The following is the text of the dispatch from Minister Stevens regarding the revolution in Hawaii:

UNITED STATES LEGATION, HONOLULU, JAN. 18, 1893.

Events in Hawaii in the past few days have moved rapidly. An entire overthrow of the Hawaiian monarchy and the establishment of a provisional government in the interests of the whole people of the islands without the sacrifice of a single life. The new government is in full possession of the island, and was promptly recognized by all the diplomatic representatives. The four men of whom it is composed are of high character, one of whom resigned his position as one of the supreme judges to assume the place. Full dispatches by the mail leaving Honolulu to-day by special steamer.

ARRIVALS, U. S. MINISTER. The official announcement contained in Minister Stevens' dispatch that the representatives of all foreign governments had recognized the provisional government of Hawaii was evidently as much of a surprise to the commissioners now here as it was to the general public, as it may properly be construed to include the representative of Great Britain.

The Commissioners say they left Honolulu at 9:15 o'clock in the morning, and up to 15 minutes before that time they had not heard of the action of Great Britain's representative, although they had been in communication with the Executive Council before their departure. They say that it is probable that the British Minister had met the United States Minister on the morning in question and had communicated verbally to him the information that he had just before notified the officials of the new government of his recognition, or that he intended doing so, which gave to Mr. Stevens the grounds for the statement contained in his dispatch. This is the only way in which the Commissioners can account for the matter.

Secretary Foster also gave out for publication a statement defending the landing of the United States marines at Honolulu, and showing that the landing of foreign troops on the Hawaiian Island, in connection with civil disturbances, has taken place on several occasions.

Senator Morgan to-day introduced a resolution in the senate, which was agreed to, requesting the President to send to the senate the draft of the annexation treaty negotiated in 1854, but not completed, between the plenipotentiaries of the United States and the kingdom of Hawaii, with the correspondence between the two governments relating to the negotiations. Senator Morgan stated that under the present circumstances the text of this treaty would be of interest to the senate, and he wanted it placed before them for the simple purpose of receiving all the information possible.

Mr. Hormann (Republican, Oregon) occupied the time of the House for half a minute to-day on an amendment abolishing the position of Consul General at Honolulu, Hawaii. He made this amendment, he said, in view of the fact that in a short time there would be no necessity for a Consul General at Honolulu. His state was deeply interested in the situation of affairs, and its legislature had adopted resolutions (which he had read) in favor of annexation. Having emphasized this feeling he withdrew the amendment.

THE HAWAIIAN COMMISSIONERS Spend their Sunday in a Quiet Manner.

Carter's Views. WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—The members of Hawaiian annexation commission spent a quiet Sunday, passing most of the time in their rooms at their hotel. Mr. Carter, who was a resident of Washington for some time while his father was Hawaiian minister to the United States, found time to renew his acquaintances of that period, but the other gentlemen saw no one except several callers at hotel. Among their visitors were Commander Goodrich, of the United States navy, and Mr. J. B. Montgomery, of Portland, Oregon, the latter of whom expressed to the commissioners his belief that the entire Pacific coast was united in favor of annexation to the United States.

The commissioners do not expect to have any statements to make regarding their errand until after the completion of their conferences with Secretary Foster. They will be busily engaged during the intervals between those meetings with the secretary in preparation of arguments that they will advance in support of their application of annexation. It is said that the conferences between the secretary and commissioners will not be anything more than formal until after the arrival of the next steamer from Hawaii, which is due at San Francisco on the 8th inst., bringing further advices as to the situation of affairs. The state department expects to receive by that steamer any full reports from Minister Stevens of events in connection with the revolution and of what has occurred since. The commissioners also look for additional instructions from the provisional government regarding their mission to this country. Until these communications have been received it is said that the commissioners will not be presented to President Harrison.

Speaking of the probable course of events on the islands, Commissioner Carter said this afternoon that the provisional government would not undertake any legislative action pending negotiations with the United States upon the subject of annexation except that the advisory council, which stands in the stead of a legislature, would probably repeal the lottery bill which the recent legislature passed the day before it was prorogued by the lately deposed queen.

As long ago as last November Minister Stevens wrote a letter setting forth the advantages of the Hawaiian islands to the United States and the desirability of their acquisition by this country.

AGAINST ANNEXATION. The Beet Sugar King of the Country States His Case. DENVER, COL., Feb. 5.—Henry T. Oxnard, the beet sugar king of America, who has just returned from Honolulu, and who is now on his way to New York, in an interview with a reporter of the Associated Press, said: "The Hawaiian Islands can produce, and have produced, as much sugar as the United States, and this industry has been fostered for the past fifteen years by the United States, anyway."

By treaties with Hawaii all sugars were admitted duty free, and as there was an average of duty of over two cents per pound on sugar from all other sugar producing countries the Hawaiians have been selling their sugars at the same price as Cubans and others, and never had to pay the two cent duty levied on Cuba sugar. In this manner they really obtained a bounty of two cents per pound on every pound of sugar sent to the United States. This two cents per pound did not go into the United States treasury as did the two cents on all sugar imported by the United States, but went directly to the pockets of these very Hawaiian planters who are to-day asking the United States to annex the Sandwich Islands.

"In 1890 under the McKinley bill a bounty of two cents per pound was given for sugar produced in the United States from cane sorghum, or sugar beets, and at the same time the duty of two cents per pound was removed from imported raw sugar. The immediate result was the saving of $8,000,000 a year, which we had been giving these Hawaiian planters, which is enough to pay the bounty on all home produced sugar, and this protection of domestic sugar had the effect of starting the development of the sugar industry in an extraordinary manner. If this country shows the same liberality towards her home sugar producers during the next fifteen years as has been shown towards the Hawaiian planters during the same time I can confidently assert without fear of contradiction that we will save the $10,000,000 we are annually sending abroad to enrich the farmers, planters and manufacturers of foreign nations.

Hawaii employs coolies and the cheapest kind of Chinese labor, and sends their sugar to the Pacific coast to compete against the beet sugar produced at American labor wages.

"If Hawaii is annexed, and the islands enjoy the same privileges as the American home sugar producers, it will greatly injure the new American industry which is just beginning to develop itself, and which will in a few years, if not stopped by adverse legislation, find a home in every state in the union from the Atlantic to the Pacific, either with sorghum or beets. They have a strong lobby at Washington but I do not believe, if only from an economic standpoint, the United States will want to burden itself with a territory which has already cost us over $50,000,000, and would continue to divert $28,000,000 a year of the United States treasury to the pockets of the Hawaiian government, otherwise known as the Hawaiian sugar planters. Annexation or nothing. The reason is evident that a protectorate would not give them what they are really seeking—money from the United States treasury."

TIRED OF A BAD BARGAIN. A Daughter of Major Pond Sues for Divorce From Elmer Hand. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—Society circles in three cities—Philadelphia, New York and London—will be set agog over divorce proceedings which have been instituted by Edith Anna Hand against her husband, Elmer E. Hand. Mrs. Hand is Edith Pond, the daughter of the well-known Major J. B. Pond, late of Her Majesty's guards, who arranged and superintended the lecturing tours of Henry Ward Beecher, Stanley and others. His daughter, Edith, who is well-known as a singing reader, married Elmer C. Hand, a traveling salesman for a New York clothing house, June 6, 1888. They lived together until October last, when, as Mrs. Hand alleges in her affidavit, she was compelled to leave him.

Mrs. Hand's charges against her husband are to the effect that he offered such indignities to her as to make her condition intolerable and life burdensome, and thereby forced her to withdraw from his bed and board. She further alleges that he called her names and otherwise misconducted himself. One of her charges is that he deceived her and her parents as to the state of his income and position in society.

Sleep on Left Side. Many persons are unable to sleep on their left side. The cause has long been a puzzle to physicians. Metropolitan papers speak with great interest of Dr. Franklin Miles, the eminent Indiana specialist in nervous and heart diseases, who has proven that this habit arises from a diseased heart. He has examined and kept on record thousands of cases. His New Heart Cure, a wonderful remedy, is sold at Logan Drug Co's. Thousands testify to its value as a cure for heart diseases. Mrs. Chas. Benoy, Loveland, Colo., says its effects on her were marvelous. Elegant Book on Heart Disease free.

A GOOD SHOW We are always advising you to advertise, and to keep on advertising, but that does not cover the ground entirely. Of course, you should make your advertising effective—if an electric light be available, you should not use a "tallow dip" to light the path to your store.

What do we mean by that? Simply that the more conspicuous, the more artistic, the more attractive, the more original you make your advertisements, the more people will see and read them, and the more customers you will have to contribute to your cash-drawer.

Study effects in bold pretty type—good matter may be spoiled by ugly dressing. Seek to catch the eye by a display of good taste in the style and arrangement of your announcement.

Above all, let it be bold enough to be easily read. Don't vex a reader by vexing his or her eyes!
