

M'KINLEY'S NAME

Not Smirched Through the Failure of Robert Walker.

HELP TO BE FORCED UPON HIM

By Friends in Ohio—He Does Not Lack for Friends in Adversity—He Has Never Made a Dollar Dishonorably—Greatly Surprised at the Amount of His Liability.

Youngstown, Feb. 19.—Governor McKinley, who remained here Friday night to ascertain the exact extent of his liability as an indorser on the paper of Robert L. Walker, the banker and manufacturer who failed Friday, was out early yesterday morning at the office of Attorney H. K. Taylor.

"When I was informed of the failure," said he, "I supposed that my signature was on, perhaps, $15,000, but not to exceed $20,000, of Mr. Walker's paper. When I talked with Mr. Walker and learned from him that the amount would reach $50,000, it was a surprise, I assure you. In fact, I was not prepared for it. What I intend to do is to at once pay every dollar of paper on which I am indorser that is past due. Some of it has not matured, I understand, and runs to April or May. All that will be called in and paid off promptly, as I desire to have the matter settled as speedily as possible.

ANXIOUS TO KEEP A GOOD NAME.

"One thing I desire the public to know, and that is I did not have a dollar's worth of interest in any of the investments or enterprises of Mr. Walker; and when he asked me to indorse for him I did it as a friend, without expecting the slightest recompense; and I sincerely hope that no one will be unjust enough to attach any moral obliquity to me. I acted simply as one friend would help another, and will pay every cent that my signature on the paper of Mr. Walker calls for."

Prior to leaving here for Cleveland to-day to meet his wife, the governor was called upon by a large number of private citizens, who tendered their regrets for his financial trouble. When it became known that Governor McKinley would probably lose every dollar he has, several well known citizens, possessing abundant means, decided to show their friendship by tendering him sympathy of a substantial character. When they requested him to name the amount he needed in the present emergency, the governor was visibly affected, and for the first time nearly broke down. He declined to name any amount, and $10,000 was placed at his disposal as a loan, to be repaid at his own convenience, the gentlemen refusing to accept anything from him as security excepting his personal obligation.

NO WEALTH DISHONORABLY GOTTEN. This morning it was ascertained that similar action had been taken by a number of wealthy men at Cleveland, who will advance the governor all he may desire on the same terms. One of the men here who offered the loan said: "Governor McKinley has always kept out of speculation, refusing to invest in railroads, mines or other corporations, and is comparatively poor, while other men in public life, taking advantage of the opportunities offered, have become millionaires and had their reputations smirched by being connected with questionable schemes. The governor has kept his skirts clear, his reputation is untarnished, and when such a man gets into financial trouble through no fault of his own, it is a pleasure to tender him substantial assistance."

Nearly a complete list of the Walker paper bearing Governor McKinley's signature was seen to-day. The amount in the aggregate is $50,000. It is believed now that in any event it will not exceed $65,000. Accountants are at work on the affairs of Mr. Walker, and will furnish a complete statement in a day or two. It is already known, however, that every dollar he has will be swept away and he will be left penniless.

A run was made on the Girard Savings Bank, of which Mr. Walker is president, but it did not continue long, as every claim was paid promptly on demand. There is every assurance that this bank and also the Farmers' National Bank at Poland, of which he was also president, are entirely safe, as neither had been handling any of his paper for some time.

PLANS FOR THE EMBARRASSED COMPANY. The reorganization of the Youngstown Stamping Company will continue it in operation. This is the plan of the stockholders, and every creditor thus far seen is heartily in favor of it. The Girard Stove Works, of which Mr. Walker was also president, is in the hands of a receiver, the manager, Louis Carl, being appointed. Its liabilities are $80,000, and its assets $20,000. A dispatch from the governor's home, Canton, says: "Governor McKinley's liabilities in the Walker failure are $50,000, and his assets $20,000. O'DONNELL ACQUITTED.

The Homestead Leader Found Not Guilty of Murder—The Great Interest in the Case.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 19.—Hugh O'Donnell has been acquitted. It cannot be said that the verdict was a surprise, for everyone expected it, even the attorneys for the prosecution. It is a conceded fact that of the three trials for murder resulting from the Homestead riots O'Donnell made the best defense of any. He had the sympathy of the people with him to a greater extent than any of the men who have been on trial. Even Judge Stowe expressed the opinion that he was entitled to an acquittal.

If Mrs. O'Donnell had known the reason the jury did not bring in its verdict the night it was sent out no fears would have troubled her sleep.

The jury, when they returned to the room, never so much as discussed the verdict. They had agreed upon the verdict before they entered the room, and the only discussion was that of how they could most comfortably spend the night. With the chance of earning an extra $7.50, and having a good substantial breakfast as well as a night's lodging free, they concluded that the morning would be time enough to give the public their decision in the great trial.

Court was convened yesterday morning in anticipation of the O'Donnell verdict being delivered. Mrs. O'Donnell was among the first to arrive. Even with the almost certainty that her husband would be acquitted, the fear of possible conviction crept in and caused her to rest uneasy. She looked pale and worried when she came into court. After some little waiting the jury filed in. O'Donnell, as he sat in the prisoner's dock, looked anxiously into the faces of the twelve men, but they were expressionless and told nothing of what was to come. They took their seats, and with the usual formalities the clerk asked if they had agreed upon a verdict.

"We find the prisoner not guilty," said the foreman in a decided way. A sigh escaped from the prisoner, and with a flush, a smile broke over his face. A murmur of satisfaction came from the audience, but the tipstaffs quickly called for order. Judge Stowe dismissed the jury without comment and Mrs. O'Donnell and her niece rushed up to the prisoner's dock and quickly did the Homestead leader fold his loving wife in his arms. Then turning to his niece he greeted her. Tears of joy took the place of tears of anxiety.

O'Donnell remained in court for half an hour receiving the congratulations of his counsel and friends. He was then committed to jail, where he will remain until admitted to bail, which will be some time next week.

All of the Homestead men who are in jail will be released on bail this week. There will then be no need of rushing the cases and they will be tried whenever the court is ready for them. This will give great joy to the many anxious friends of the Homestead men.

O'Donnell is more than pleased with the result of the trial. He feels grateful to every person concerned for their kind consideration of him. Judge Stowe has found a place in the heart of the Homestead leader and he considers him the best of men.

In commenting on the Homestead cases Judge Stowe said that had they been prepared like ordinary ones the commonwealth would not have had much of a case. The careful preparation of the cases has been remarked by nearly all the attorneys about the court house. Even Major Montooth could not refrain from complimenting Captain Breck in his argument to the jury.

KAUAIANI HEARD FROM.

She Will Protest in Person Against the Hawaiian Annexation.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—As far as can be learned the British foreign office still takes no interest in the American intentions regarding Hawaii. The foreign office was informed of the nature of President Harrison's annexation message to the senate several hours before it was made public, but no action was taken here or in Washington by British representatives.

But a voice was raised here that will be heard around the world. It was that of the Kauaiani. She issued the following address to the people of America.

To the American People.

Four years ago at the request of Mr. Thurston, then Hawaiian cabinet minister, I was sent away to England to be educated privately and fitted for the position, which by the constitution of Hawaii, I was to inherit. For all these years I have patiently and in exile striven to fit myself for my return, this year, to my native country.

I now am told that Mr. Thurston is in Washington asking you to take away my flag and my throne. No one tells me even this, officially.

Have I done anything wrong that this wrong should be done to me and my people? I am coming to Washington to plead for my throne, my nation and my flag. Will not the great American people hear me? KAULANI.

EVA MANN OUTDONE.

A Case in England That Lays Her Fraud on the Back Shelf.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—A story which overmatchingly that of Ray Hamilton and Eva Mann has been told in the chancery court this week. Eighteen years ago Frederick Coxon, then a young man, returned to his home at Newcaste, after long wanderings abroad, bringing with him a wife and child. The incident was a painful one for the Coxon family, because the child was admittedly born before wedlock. After a time the situation was accepted and the little one became a great favorite with all the family. A little later Coxon was killed while hunting. He died intestate, and the members of his family surrendered half their portion of $50,000, to which they were entitled, to the child.

In 1878 the widow married again. Ten years later her husband began divorce proceedings. A search of her papers revealed evidence that the child supposed to be Coxon's was neither his nor his wife's. The latter had purchased the infant from a servant girl who was his mother. Coxon all his life believed the boy was his son, and so did his relatives after his death, until these facts recently transpired. The latter brought suit against the widow Coxon to recover money advanced to her for the child's support during the past twelve or fifteen years. The widow admitted all the facts as set forth, but denied the right to recover money already spent for the benefit of the boy, who is now twenty years old. The court has decided that she must refund all that she received.

THE GREAT DANGER OF TO-DAY.

It is Growing More Common, and It is Invading the Home.

EMINENT MEN AMONG ITS VICTIMS.

What Doctor Williams of Randall's Island Says, and the Terrible Picture He Draws.

In the North American Review for December, Dr. Henry Smith Williams, Medical Superintendent of the Randall's Islands, and an authority on diseases of the brain, had an article on "General Paresis of the Insane," which attracted wide and deserved attention. We quote its opening paragraphs:

"Of all the diseases that menace the race, only a few are absolutely fatal. Indeed, there is but one common disease that invariably brings its victims speedily to the grave. This most ruthless of maladies is that terrible form of insanity, technically called general paresis or parietic dementia, and known to the laymen as 'softening of the brain.' Its unvarying history entitles it to precedence over consumption, cancer, Bright's disease, in short, places it peerless in bad pre-eminence. And as if this were not enough its malignity is emphasized by the way in which it jingles with its victim before it extinguishes his life. It changes his personality, dethrones reason, almost eliminates the mind, and steadily weakening the body, leaves toward the last a mere skeletal, vegetative being, scarce recognizable as the vestige of his former self, unknowing, unfeeling, mindless, to his friends at once a fearful memory and a terrible objective presence. Finally death comes in a form horrible enough to be the fitting climax of so awful a disease."

Paresis has numbered among its victims scores of eminent men. It does not strike down the clod, but the active, alert, nervously organized business man, author, actor, statesman, physician, journalist, etc.

What is its cause? In a word, abuse of function, over-activity. Who among us does not know of a once brilliant intellect now periodically clouded, or perchance brought to an incurable condition by overwork or abuse of certain functions.

We do not wish to unnecessarily harrow up the feelings of the reader. What we desire is to point out the way of escape. When a man feels that he is losing his grip on business, that his memory is failing him, that he tires easily, that his head aches, and that he cannot eat and sleep well, it is high time to call a halt. It is either a question of less business, less self-gratification, or softening of the brain and death. When a woman feels that she is less brilliant, less able to perform her social duties; when she realizes that she is growing sallow, weaker, less attractive, it is time for her to pause and reflect.

But, you say, "What can I do? How can I escape?" The answer is simple. Follow the laws of life, the dictates of common sense. Do as many others have done, take the greatest scientific preparation of the age for preventing and counteracting these troubles. You know what it is. You have heard your friends speak of it. You know that it is Warner's Safe Cure. Further particulars of which will be furnished free on application to the Medical Department of H. H. Warner & Co., Rochester, N. Y. Warner's Safe Cure will relieve the engorged kidneys, aid digestion and assist in making healthy blood. Thousands have escaped the asylum and premature death by pursuing the course we have outlined, and we beg of you, reader, that for your own sake, as well as the happiness of those who are near and dear to you, to be wise in time and to-day begin that course of living, and resort to that help which will lead to a vigorous life with faculties unimpaired, and with years of usefulness for yourself and friends in store.

Mr. C. E. Lawrence, a banker and member of the New York Stock Exchange, speaking upon this subject, said: "Any one who has ever been in the New York Stock Exchange, or has witnessed the amount of mental prostration that it involves, does not need to be told that Americans live too rapidly, and yet many men and women live to as green an old age as Europeans, but in addition to working hard they recreate and use proper tonics. I think, by experience, that Warner's Safe Cure is an excellent tonic."

The experience of Mr. F. W. Whiting, who is interested in telephones, has been, in many respects, remarkable. This is what he says: "Yes, we do live too rapidly, we succeed and accumulate wealth, but we exhaust ourselves in doing it. I know this from my own experience. The pace at which I did business nearly killed me. A few years ago I was nervous, irritable, run down. I longed for life, yet did not care for it. I dreaded death, but living was unbearable. What! in perfect health now? Yes, I am. I have my strength, use good judgment, and take Warner's Safe Cure regularly. I am not ashamed of this; I am rather proud of it. I have found it to be indispensable to my health and happiness. Do I work? Yes, hard every day, and I believe all Americans can do the same thing regardless of the climate, competition or social demands if they will act upon my suggestion."

The Hon. H. S. Greenleaf, who was recently seen at the house of representatives in Washington, added his testimony in the following outspoken words: "The exhaustions of public life are certainly very great, but so also are the strains of business life, of professional life, of social life. In counteracting their dangerous effects Warner's Safe Cure is unsurpassed. It is a splendid remedy. I speak from personal experience."

The dangers of modern life are great, but they can be avoided by care and the use of the right remedy. Will you neglect so important a matter?

An investigating committee of the Illinois legislature found in Chicago sweaters who were paid four cents an hour.

I had catarrh of the head and throat for five years. I used Ely's Cream Balm, and from the first application I was relieved. The sense of smell, which had been lost, was restored after using one bottle. I have found the Balm the only satisfactory remedy for catarrh, and it has effected a cure in my case.—H. L. Meyer, Waverly, N. Y.
