

AT MT. DE CHANTAL.

The Annual Commencement of the Academy Yesterday

A BRILLIANT ARTISTIC SUCCESS.

An Appreciative Audience Packs the Spacious Music Hall—A Full List of the Awards of Prizes as Announced by Rev. Father Reynolds—The Bishop's Neat Address to the Graduate.

ANNUALLY the public looks forward with much pleasure and eager anticipation to the commencement of that excellent and far-famed institution, the Academy of the Visitation, B. V. M., at Mt. de Chantal.

The changing of the time of the exercises from morning to the afternoon this year showed wisdom, and was thoroughly appreciated by the public, who attended in larger numbers on account of this convenient arrangement.

When the special train of five cars placed at the disposal of the guests pulled out of the Baltimore and Ohio station, every seat was taken and many were standing in the aisles. After the familiar but pleasing run of a few minutes to the grounds, the passengers disembarked with the speed characteristic of regular visitors. Few stopped to admire the full beauty of the landscape, but all hurried forward up the finely shaded and winding walks to the main entrance, eager to secure positions of advantage in the music hall.

Here they were all cordially welcomed by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Kain and the sisters in charge, who conducted them through the spacious halls to the well-ventilated music hall of the institution. Under the skillful guidance of the ushers, Hon. T. S. Riley, J. J. Caniff, E. P. Hughes, M. J. O'Neill, W. F. Wier and M. B. Bailey all were quickly assigned to seats without the slightest confusion or crush.

A number of the front rows were occupied by the local and visiting clergy, patrons of the school and parents of the pupils, besides the usual large quota of guests who go out in carriages at an early hour.

While the major portion of the guests present were ladies, there was also a generous sprinkling of men, equally enthusiastic in their expressions of admiration. Among these were many from distant cities, parents to escort their children home, and a number of former pupils and graduates, who attended to renew the old associations.

THE EXERCISES.

Amid the hum of conversation, and buzz of admirable exclamations, the opening strains of the entrance march were heard. This was finely executed by Misses Louisa Flach and Emily Connor, at the first piano, and Misses Bertha Wehrle and Mary Dorsey at the second, accompanied by Misses Anna Thayer, Fannie Sullivan, Genevieve Moran and Anna Devine on violins, and Misses Agnes Graham and Jennie Shallcross on harps.

As the beautiful and well blended strains of music swelled forth, the students marched down across the stage in pairs, separating right and left at the foot of the short stairs, acknowledging the presence of the audience by graceful bows.

As soon as the vociferous applause following the entrance march had subsided and all were seated in the allotted places upon either side of the platform, the signal for the opening chorus was given.

In this the whole school participated with fine effect. The selection was taken from Schumann's "Paradise and Peri,"—"Deck We the Pathway." The words were sung with such spirit and intelligent conception of their beauties, that the audience burst into rapturous applause, satisfied that the opening number was but a pleasing prelude to the many good things in store.

The first elocutionary feature upon the programme was the recitation, "Marguerite of France," by Miss Genevieve Thomas, of Leavenworth, Kas. Miss Thomas brought out all the beauties of this poem of F. Homan in a fine dramatic style. She has a voice clear and liquid, and graceful gestures. Her effort evoked warm applause.

At this juncture Father Reynolds stepped forward and announced the names of the graduates and winners of awards. This was continued throughout the programme at intervals, and a complete list of awards is printed below.

"Rememberance," by G. Saint Sarns, a vocal solo sung by Miss Ella Waterhouse, was rendered in a fine contralto manner. Her voice is a fine contrast of good range and beautiful composition in the middle register, which speaks well for future development. It is full of sweetness. The audience expressed their admiration by hearty applause. She was the recipient of some fine flowers, including a huge bunch of white roses.

The piano quartette, "Valso Brillante," by M. Moszkowski, performed by Misses Othilia Ketterer, Agnes Graham, Louisa Flach and Cecilia Fitzgerald, was one of the finest musical numbers on the programme. The whole composition was admirably executed, with precision, skill, spirit and fine touch worthy of the high commendation expressed by the warm plaudits of the audience.

A PINE SOLO.

It was with some trepidation that the audience awaited the opening notes of Gounod's masterpiece, "Ave Maria," chosen as the vocal solo for Miss Mary Grub, of this city. All doubts were set at rest as she advanced with composed manner, and the liquid tones of the opening notes of her pure soprano voice filled the hall. The melody of this familiar and beautiful composition was rendered with superb effect, and well suited her voice, which showed her remarkable improvement since her appearance last year. Amid the warm applause of admiring friends, she was presented with many floral tributes.

A violin solo from Wachtel's "Ricciolito," executed by Miss Anna Q. Thayer, of Enterprise, Florida, was admirably performed, with delicacy and precision that showed her master of this instrument. She was properly applauded.

Miss Mary A. Keating, of Jersey City, N. J., the only graduate this year, then read an essay on "The Legend of the Round Table." It was listened to with the greatest attention by the audience, and was loudly applauded at the close. The sketch, which showed much thought and careful preparation, dealt with the early love of hearing stories among both young and old. She carefully traced the origin of the ancient and mythical tales of the eastern countries down to King Arthur of warlike and patriotic fame.

The rendition of the "Grande Valse," from the Barber de Seville, by Miss Ida Rice, was in the nature of a surprise to the audience from the admirable way she sang the most difficult passages with ease, in a pure soprano voice. The faultless manner in which she handles her silvery voice, full of vibrance and beauty, won the most prolonged applause.

The vocal duo, "Der Traum der Sennerin," by August Labitzky, played by Misses Anna Thayer and Francis Sullivan, was a very creditable performance, the hearty applause testifying to its many points of excellence.

A vocal quintette, "The Sea Fay," by Schumann, sung by Misses Ida Rice, Marguerite Veitch, Anna Gentry, Ella Waterhouse and Olivia Kerriak, was admirably rendered. All have sweet and well-trained voices, which they used in perfect union. They were rewarded with storms of applause.

One of the finest vocal numbers on the programme was the recitative, "Quella Fonte," and aria "Regnava nel silenzio," by Donizetti. This was sung by Miss Othilia Kerriak in a beautiful, well-controlled contralto voice of good range, which she handles with perfect ease. Her beauty of phrasing and delicacy of treatment are equal to every demand.

The audience showed its appreciation by the heartiest applause. She was also rewarded with floral tributes from many friends.

The closing number, a piano duo, was a fitting finale to the excellent musical programme. The performers, Misses Othilia Ketterer and Ida Van Kirk, executed in almost faultless style. The interpretation of Mozart's "Fantasia" spoke volumes for the excellent system of teaching in vogue at the institution.

Before the hearty applause had subsided Miss Marie S. Rhodes, of Galveston, Texas, stepped forward as the representative of the class, and in well chosen remarks, expressed with much feeling the sense of regret at the separation of the students, and the sorrow of all over the coming departure of their eminently respected friend, Rt. Rev. Bishop Kain.

BISHOP KAIN'S ADDRESS.

The bishop responded gracefully, and said he had been touched by these words of farewell. After a feeling response he spoke as follows to the one graduate:

MY DEAR CHILD:—I share the regret which I am sure you feel that your worthy classmate has been prevented by impaired health from prosecuting her studies to the happy consummation which to-day crowns your many years of unremitting toil within these classic halls. When together at the commencement of this academic year you chose the motto for the graduating class of '92-'93, you embodied therein sentiments worthy of the Alumnus of Mt. de Chantal.

These noble sentiments are ever here inculcated as the guiding principles of Christian womanhood. Engraven on your heart as well as on your coat of arms, this motto should be the inspiration of a life of unselfish devotion to God and to country; for such is the meaning of your beautiful class-motto—"Pro deo et Patria."—"For God and Country."

Highly as you prize the golden treasures with which your mind has been so richly stored in these years of your school life, there is a still richer treasure on which you have been taught to set your heart. Precious as are the gifts which, through unwearied application, now grace your mind, there are other gifts incomparably more precious, which you have learned to covet and to gain. Under the tutorship of these consecrated spouses of Christ, your spiritual nature has also been cultivated and developed, and the moral faculties have been trained to apprehend and appreciate, and love the true, the good, the beautiful as a reflex of God's own adorable perfections.

There is given to every man a power to see everywhere the face of God, and everywhere to recognize His holy will. "Is the light which enlightened every man whometh into this world." But that light may be clouded by the mists of human passions;—that power, like every impulse of our nature, needs to be wisely developed. Now it is the province of Christian education to dispense those clouds, and to bring that hidden power to fullest perfection.

For years, you, my child, have happily been under the elevating and sanctifying influences of a truly Christian education. The light which everywhere reveals to you the blessed presence of God and the power which ever bids you bow in loving submission to His holy will, are gifts far superior to the most attractive graces of body or mind. As the sunflower bends in reverent homage to the orb of day, so does your heart, trained in this school of Christian ethics, turn over to its God. Your first principle is all for God. Your chiefest happiness is in the love of God. Your highest aspiration is the possession of God. Your life in all its details must be, and I am sure, will be so shaped as to please God and do His blessed will. This and much more that I can now tell you is embodied in your Pro Deo.

For God and country. The second sentiment of your short but significant motto is the one which, in the heart of every true American, holds the next place after love of God—namely, love of our country. None cherish that sentiment with warmer affection than the pupils of Mt. de Chantal. Whilst their curriculum of studies must necessarily embrace the geography and history of other lands and other nations, the greatest stress is laid on the acquisition of all that bears on their own country, and its illustrious children, and glorious institutions.

You are witness, my child, to the love of our dear country here so zealously inculcated as a cardinal principle in the education imparted to the pupils of Mt. de Chantal. It was indeed a specially happy thought to engrave that sentiment into your school-motto last fall, when we were celebrating with so many demonstrations of national rejoicing the fourth centenary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus.

As the years of our national life speed on, may that sentiment grow deeper and warmer in the hearts of all Americans—made deeper and intenser by the ever increasing prosperity, material, intellectual and moral, of our great and glorious republic.

May the two noble sentiments linked together in the class motto of this young lady graduate find an abiding lodgment in all our hearts.—Pro Deo et Patria.

For three hours the guests were pleasantly and agreeably entertained by this fine programme. At the conclusion most of the audience scattered in various directions to inspect the grounds and admire the beauties of the surroundings. Others who cared less for the beauties of nature strolled through the rooms and halls with the fair graduates and pupils.

Taken all in all the annual commencement will rank with any in the past for pleasant features, and it will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to be present.

"When my son was seven years old he began to complain of soreness in his right leg. A white swelling soon appeared just below the knee joint, and extended from the knee to the ankle. At the same time he was taken with an attack of fever, which was broken up, but the leg became very badly swollen, causing him great suffering, and the muscles so contracted that his leg was drawn up at right angles. He was unable to walk, could not even bear to be handled, and I thought him a and he ate more heartily than for a long time. At this time the sore was discharging freely, and soon pieces of bone began to come out. I have in my office one piece of bone 3 1/4 inches long by nearly half an inch broad, which came out of the sore. We continued giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla. The discharge from the sore decreased, the swelling went down, the leg straightened out, and soon he had perfect use of his leg. He now runs everywhere, as lively as any boy, and apparently
