

TOLIGHT THE WHITE CITY

The Superb Electrical Display at the World's Fair.

DAZZLING TRANSFORMATION SCENE

Changing the Lakes and Buildings Into a Fascinating Wonderland—Myriad Stars that Outline and Accurate Architectural Beauties—Multi-Colored Fountains That Make Rainbows Seem Cheap—Scenes of Enchantment Never Equalled.

CHICAGO, July 4.—He who has not seen the world's fair at night has not seen it at all, and has missed the very finest piece of scenic pageantry this vale of tears affords. The stage of the pageant is a floor of smooth, lanklocked water, 250 feet in one dimension and 1,000 in the other, bordered on all sides by great white palaces that are vaster and more spectral by night than by day.

On one of the shorter sides it is backed by the domed administration building, so set back as to leave an ample foreground some 200 feet in depth by the width of the great basin, and as soon as darkness falls this foreground is packed with people waiting for the show. Directly in front is the monumental fountain, the Triumph of Columbia. On either side of it is a circular basin filled with heaps of stonework that represent by day what at night become the electric fountains.

As the darkness deepens, and the hue of the sky behind the colonnades of the opposite peristyle becomes a dusky gray, suddenly a serried row of lights appears to mark the cornice line of the buildings that border the basin, and of those that are withdrawn from it at the west side and flank the administration building. This uniform line was one of the devices agreed upon by the architects to secure unity and totality to the sum of their various constructions, and it is emphasized in a wonderful way by the row of level lights that is broken only at the center of the manufacture building by the higher row that marks the cornice of the central arch, and by the definition in lines of light of the gables of the buildings of agriculture and of electricity, and by the continuation of the line around the semicircular portico of machinery hall.

The heat place from which to see the coming show is from one or other of these craft. From the water the administration building is the dominant feature of the whole spectacle. The two terraces from which the dome rises, the one a spreading square, the other withdrawn and truncated at the corners that bristle with groups of statuary into an irregular octagon, are bounded with rows of electric sparks, while a cunning arrangement of unseen lights illuminates the red background, against which the shapely Doric colonnade is relieved. Above, on each of the four long sides of the octagon, is a row of eight brazen standards bearing torches that burn with a lurid, waving, smoky glare against the white drum of the dome, and that contrast with the white and steadfast lustre of the rows of light below and of the train of light above, for the base and the ribs of the soaring dome are outlined in light and a crown of light surmounts it.

From the lake, from the basin, from the lagoon and from the grounds this diadem of fire is dominant—so effectively lit that it seems to have been designed expressly for the illumination. As the launch slips noiselessly along over the lighted water, one of the hands on either hand of the administration building breaks forth into martial music, and from the ridge of the manufacture building the vivid white bull's eye of a searchlight is turned upon the scene. It brings out into sharp relief and an intense whiteness that of daylight the litho and defiant figure of the seated Columbia, with her attendant carwomen, the plunging horses of the basin and the jets of foaming water that shoot between and over them. Then it sweeps down upon the huge "Republican" at the other end, and the sheen of it upon the figure and the drapery induces one for the first time to forgive the sculptor for permitting his work to be gilded.

Again the spreading white swath of light is lifted and veered so as to bring into sharp visibility in turn the pure lines of the agricultural building, the groups of sculpture that relieve its sky line and the low domes and incrustated steeples of machinery hall, and then sweeps upward toward the zenith, followed by the widening belt of darkened sky, that the contrast turns from purple to black.

"Pull half the height of heaven's blue That inaudible shadow overlook." And now the playing of the electric fountains begins, a play of water and of fire. A central jet is surrounded by a ring of lesser jets, at first in as pure and dazzling white as shooting water shows under the search light, then in living green and rose color and intense violet, but changing and shifting in shapes as well as in colors while the spectacle lasts. The smaller jets become at last a ring of sheaves in blinding white, while the central shaft of water goes through all the hues of the electric spectrum, and finally is shot up in a pure white geyser to its utmost height of something like a hundred feet and the wonderful show is over.

The show is over, but the crowd does not disperse. The rings of living light still surround the basin, the terraces of light define the building at the back, the red torches still glare and wave above them, and over them again the diadem of light still stands in steady lustre, the band is still blaring from the stand, and the processionists in the gondolas are joining the refrain of its melodies. Not until the hour of closing approaches does the crowd assembled upon the piers begin to make its way homeward, leaving a spectacle such as ever seen before and as not one of them can ever forget.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenworthy Hoge, of Mt. Pleasant, drove to Salena the other day, passing through Jefferson, Carroll and Columbiana counties, and report the drive a beautiful one. Mr. Hoge says he never saw the country and crops look better. Every wheat field they passed, with possibly one or two exceptions, will average twenty-five bushels to the acre.

The high board fence in front of the saloons near the C. and P. passenger depots does not prevent them from doing business with men walking on the track. Two of the saloons have put up step ladders for the accommodation of those who wish to go over the fence, and one of them displays a placard which reads: "Drinks sold over the fence."

The stomach that is not turned thus by a shaking up on the "briny wave" must be a well fortified one. The gastric apparatus can be kept in good order by taking with it stomachic and popular among travelers by sea and land—Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It defends the system against malaria and rheumatism, and attacks liver complaint, constipation and dyspepsia.

How's Your Liver? Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED. As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

COMMISSIONERS' SALES.

PUBLIC SALE

Real Estate in Wheeling and Elm Grove.

Charles H. Moore & Co., In Chancery. Patrick D. Carroll and others. In pursuance of a decree made on the 24 day of June, 1893, by the Circuit Court for Ohio county in the above entitled cause, the undersigned, appointed special commissioner for the purpose, will on SATURDAY, JULY 8, 1893, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., at the north front door of the Court House of Ohio county, West Virginia, at public auction, to the highest and best bidder, the two pieces of property hereinafter described, that is to say:

1. That portion of the lot or portion of ground in the City of Wheeling, W. Va., lying at and near the point of intersection of John Street (now Sixteenth Street) and South Street, which has west of a foundation wall running from the John Street to the line of South Street through the building occupied by James A. Carroll on February 25, 1871, as a marble shop and salesroom, and bounded as follows: Beginning at the point of intersection of John Street (now Sixteenth Street) and South Street in square number Eight (8) in that part of said city; thence running easterly along the line of John Street (now Sixteenth Street) thirty-one (31) feet to the center of the foundation wall above referred to; thence running along the center of said foundation wall and parallel with the line of John Street (now Sixteenth Street) to the line of South Street; thence westerly along the line of South Street to the place of beginning, together with all and singular the appurtenances and benefits in anywise thereto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

2. A certain piece of land in the town of Elm Grove, Ohio county, West Virginia, bounded as follows: Beginning at a stake in the line of Laverty Grier's lot and at the southeast corner of J. M. Butler's lot; thence with said Butler's line northwesterly one hundred and twenty (120) feet to the southeast side of a sixteen-foot alley or roadway; thence with said roadway north thirty-four and three-fourths (34 3/4) degrees east sixty (60) feet to a stake; thence running southwesterly and parallel with said Butler's line and sixty feet at right angles therefrom one hundred and eleven and one-half (111 1/2) feet to a stake in said Grier's line; thence with said Grier's line to the corner of the lot of J. M. Butler, as lot number three (3) on the plat of lots laid out by Louisa Kimmis and John L. Kimmis, her husband, and Mary Kimmis.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third of the purchase money and as much more as the purchaser may elect cash in hand, the residue in equal installments at nine and eighteen months respectively from the day of sale, interest to give notes for the deferred installments of purchase money, with interest from the day of sale, secured by a deed of trust on the property sold, with policies of insurance against fire on the building thereon, to the satisfaction of the said commission.

W. P. HUBBARD, Special Commissioner.

W. H. HALLER, Auctioneer. Thereby certify that bond and security has been given as required by law by W. P. Hubbard, the special commissioner in the above entitled cause.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

State of West Virginia, County of Ohio, ss.: In the Circuit Court of said county.

Sarah Griffin and others. In Chancery. Stewart Milligan and others.

By virtue of a decree entered in said Court in the above entitled cause on the 23d day of May, 1893, the undersigned special commissioner will sell at public auction, on what is known as the William Milligan farm, two and one-half miles southeast of Rosary's Point, in Ohio county, West Virginia, on MONDAY, THE 10TH DAY OF JULY, 1893, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described real estate, situated in the district of Triadelphia, Ohio county, West Virginia, and adjoining lands of James Orr and others, and bounded as follows: Beginning at a black walnut hickory and white oak; thence south 85° east 135 poles to a stake; thence north 18° west 45 poles to a red oak; thence north 36° west 140 poles to a sugar tree; thence north 57° west 28 poles to the place of beginning, and containing one hundred and thirty-one acres, more or less.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third of the purchase money cash in hand and as much more as the purchaser may elect to pay, and the balance in two equal annual installments at one and two years, with interest from day of sale, the purchaser giving his notes with good personal security for the deferred payments, interest on the second deferred installment to be paid annually. Title to said property to be retained until it is paid for.

W. M. DONLAP, Special Commissioner.

That bond with security as required by law and the decree of said court has been given by said special commissioner is hereby certified, this 8th day of June, 1893.

JOHN W. MITCHELL, Clerk.
