WHEELING, DECEMBER 1, 1893.

Our Country First.

From a more partisan point of view the Republican party has everything to gain by the passage of the Wilson bill; the Democratic party would then be reduced to the condition of a feeble opposition, thus to remain for another generation at least.

This would be a distinct gain to the country, which after the next election would have the assurance of a steadily maintained system of protection to home industries, and on this solid rock every industry would rebuild.

In this highest view of the public welfare the Wilson bill would be a blessing in disguise. But what of the terrible cost—the ruin of industries, want in the homes of the willing wage-earners of our country, the slow recovery from commercial exhaustion?

The price is too great, and there is reason to hope that the eyes of the country are already opened enough to move it to save itself without going through the agony of a free trade nightmare.

It is a present danger. Let it be met with all the weapons now at hand and if possible defeated. If that prove to be a saving grace for the Democratic party, let the Democratic party have its advantage out of it.

Our country and our countrymen first and always. Parties must take care of themselves or go under.

EX-MINISTER STEVENS gave President Cleveland, Secretary Gresham and "Paramount" Blount a nut to crack at the Thanksgiving dinner.

Cutting Into the American People.

The Democrats declare with loud vociferation that they carried the country on the tariff-for-revenue-only issue, and that they must carry out their instructions from the people; and they get up a bill to cut at least $50,000,000 off the revenues. They have in fact prepared a tariff-for-spice-only.

They do not profess to have been instructed by the people to put on an income tax. That is not in their platform. It is in the Populist platform. But the Democrats are going to keep the Populist pledge of an income tax, if they can.

What they cut off the customs revenue they must make up in some way, and they will seek to do it by cutting deeper into the American people, who are to have their means of earning cut into deep by the enlargement of the free list and the reduction of the dutiable list.

It is a tremendous cut into the American people. Europe rejoices and is exceedingly glad. Europe knows its business.

Wagon or you take your walks abroad

In this region hereafter you will do well to have with you a pocket edition of the foot ball dictionary.

Loyal Legion of American Women.

It does not require the mind of a statesman or of an expert financial economist to know that the more of a certain commodity is bought abroad the less will be bought at home. If, for example, duties are put down so that more foreign pottery may come in, less American pottery will be made.

If home consumers are induced to buy more Staffordshire ware they will buy less Wheeling ware. If less Wheeling ware be made there is less employment and there must be less money for the Wheeling potters. This is clear enough for the dullest understanding.

With these thoughts in their minds certain of the good women of Wheeling are fired with the spirit of '76, which resolved against British imports and gave a loyal support to homespun commodities.

This is a good time to revive that truly American spirit, and it would be great honor for the women of Wheeling if they were to go down to history as starting a successful movement for the defense of the American home.

Let us have the Loyal Legion of American Women marching under the banner of Protection to the American Home.

This would be a bad time to take the turkey census of this great country.

A Free Trade View.

The Louisville Courier-Journal would like the Wilson bill better if it went further, but says "it is a better bill than either of the two Morrison bills, or the Mills bill," because it goes further than they went, and still it does not satisfy the "well-instructed revenue reformers," who want something very much more advanced. The Courier-Journal will support the bill and wait for the fulfillment of its hopes, but "shall go on no bonds to guarantee certain and overwhelming Democratic victories."

No, it would not be safe to do that, Mr. Watterson. The certain and overwhelming victories will be on the side of protection. Of this you may be absolutely sure. The country is now wide awake and thoroughly aroused.

The wool of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, their coal and their lumber must go on the free list. But the rice of the sunny south gets a protection of about 85 per cent, and it is a specific duty at that. The specific duty is what binds.

The Colored Race in the South.

In the convention of colored men assembled in Cincinnati, Bishop Turner, speaking of the treatment of his race in the south, said: "If Africa, hell, or any other place, offers anything to better the condition of the American negro, I advise him to grasp the opportunity and migrate to the place making such offer."

This is intense language to come from a man of Bishop Turner's standing. It is drawn from him by an intensely hard condition of affairs. In the south colored men have been subjected to about all the tortures that rude men can devise on the instant. These things are said to be done because colored men give way to a brutish propensity of which white women are the victims.

It is strange that they did not develop this devilry in the war time, when, in the absence of white men in the Confederate army, they became not only the bread-winners for the women and children left at home, but their protectors as well. The bearing of the colored men of the south—the bondmen of the men who were fighting to hold them in bondage—is one of the most beautiful chapters in history. War demoralizes, but it did not demoralize out of the black men of the south the trustworthiness, the loyalty to honor, the real chivalry that was in them. It is strange that the same race has developed quite opposite qualities on the same soil.

Of course nobody ever thinks that there has been another side of this question, when the black men of the south saw the women of their race, of their own humble households, compelled to submit to that for which black men are now burnt at the stake. Assuredly two wrongs do not make a right; but perhaps, after all, the fiendish passion which the white men of the south are punishing, or professing to be punishing, as African, is simply human, or inhuman, according to circumstances.

It is not urged in behalf of the denial of the right of suffrage to the black men of the south, of the hard pressure that is put on them generally, that all this is another form of punishment for the crime that causes them to be hanged from a tree limb or burnt at the stake. These things must be explained in some other way.

At any rate we are to have a lower duty on our champagne. The luxuries of life we must have. The necessities are not in it. After the bill passes the poor may get rich by the saving on their French champagne.

The Pig-Skin in Wheeling. The first big foot-ball game in Wheeling drew finely, and although the score was decidedly one-sided against Wheeling, the people enjoyed the well-contested game.

In foot ball the score does not by any means show all the play. The Wheeling team did well, but the Martin's Ferry boys did better and richly deserved their victory and all the applause that went with it.

Next time it is to be hoped that the crowd may not be allowed to move in so close to the ball field, for this cuts off the view of the greater number, who are satisfied to keep their distance. Moreover it invites outside interference with the game.

The Chicago Times, the late Carter Harrison's newspaper, speaks of Ambassador Van Alen as a "pedigreed pup." Mr. Van Alen paid the price and President Cleveland made the delivery. What's the use of calling Mr. Van Alen names?

Then and Now.

The Register's support of the Wilson free trade bill shows the astonishing influence of a single commodity.—INTELLIGENCER.

While the INTELLIGENCER'S visit to McKinley shows how hopeful it is of a snug consularship for the future. This sort of contemptible comment shows that the growth of the INTELLIGENCER'S cars is keeping steadily pace the enlargement of its gall.—Register.

During the Harrison administration the Register had a great deal to say about newspapers that had been "nuzzled with public office." Now the shoe is on the other foot.

The Anti-Snappers of New York are out with an address in which they rechristen themselves the New York State Democracy. The address is just about such an indictment of the Democratic state ring as Republicans have been making and, until recently, the whole Democratic press has been denying.

If you wish to import hoop iron to bale cotton, you bring it in without duty. If you wish it for any other purpose you must pay a duty on it. So says the Wilson bill. Cotton ties are not extensively used in the north, owing to a decrease of the cotton acreage.

Pittetown, here's looking to you.

West Virginia in Congress. Besides the two senators and four representatives in Congress from West Virginia, all of whom were born within the present limits of the state, there are three other representatives who had the honor of first seeing light on West Virginia soil.

Hon. Marion Cannon, of California, was born at Morgantown and left for the Golden Gate in an ox cart at the age of eighteen.

Two members of Iowa are West Virginians by birth, Hon. John E. Lacey, of Oskaloosa, and Hon. J. P. Dolliver, of Ft. Dodge. The former was born at New Martinsville, and the latter at Kingwood. Mr. Dolliver graduated at the State University in 1875, and is quite well remembered by West Virginians. His father, Rev. J. J. Dolliver, is also well and favorably known in the state. Mr. Lacey left the state when only fourteen years of age.

Hon. Champ Clark, while not born in West Virginia, might almost be claimed by her, as he graduated at Bethany College in 1873, and was president of Marshall College at Huntington in 1873-4.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

It is not generally known that Sir Andrew Clark numbered among his patients Mr. Parrell, who consulted him toward the end of 1887 for a chest affection. Even when consulting a physician Mr. Parrell's passion for secrecy displayed itself. On being asked whether Sir Andrew knew who his patient was, Mr. Parrell smiled and parried the question by the reply: "I do not think he did—at least at first."—London Star.

A Greek engineer who pursued his studies in this country has prepared a plan for the electric lighting of the Bosphorus from Kanak to San Stefano, on the Sea of Marmora. He proposes to accomplish this by building three machines or engines at Armour Kooi, Kandoli and Feral-Barum, where the current is unusually strong.

The Japanese, who so long remained true to their beautiful island, have now begun to follow the example of the Chinese and emigrate in very large numbers. Last year, according to the statistics recently compiled, 40,000 men and 18,000 women left Japan to find homes for themselves abroad.

A new process of rain making was recently brought before the Academie des Sciences, Paris, by M. Baudouin. His theory is that electricity maintains the water in clouds in a state of small drops, and that if the electricity be discharged the water will come down.

Most of the peppin that finds its way to the druggists' shelves comes from Armour's vast slaughter-house in Chicago, and a great deal of imported sausages of the Bologna, Wiener, Leber and Blut kinds originates in those same interesting lakeside shambles.

An event of much importance in the history of the Methodist Episcopal church of America was commemorated Sunday, when the church of Middle Village, L. I., celebrated the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of its birth.

A vessel sailed for Havre, France, this week, carrying the first full cargo of tallow which was probably ever shipped from this port. The cargo was worth about $50,000.—San Francisco Dispatch in New York Tribune.

Good men are not all dead yet. It is reported that in Lowell one of them, who owns ninety tenements, says that he will not turn out any respectable tenant this winter because he cannot pay the rent.—Newport News.

Mary Anderson Navarre and her husband are at present in Geneva. Some Louisville people who met the actress there have written home that she is "as charming as ever and the personification of contentment."

The famous German ornithologist, August Karl Edward Beldamus, died at Wolfenbuttel, Germany, a few days ago. He was eighty-two years old and the founder of the German Ornithological Society.

Lieutenant David L. Brainard, Second United States Cavalry, is in Boston for a brief visit. Lieutenant Brainard was second in command of the Greely Arctic expedition.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Dr. Charles Warrington Earle, who died recently in Chicago, enlisted when he was sixteen years old, and was second lieutenant before he was eighteen; in this capacity he commanded his company at Chickamauga. He was captured and sent to Libby prison, and was one of those who escaped through the famous tunnel.

Miss Ethel Arnold, sister of Mrs. Humphrey Ward, is an uncommonly brilliant talker, and it has long been supposed that she could, if she would, write remarkable books. She is about to prove what she can do in this line in a volume to be called "Platonics."

Bjornstjerne Bjornson has renounced political activity for some time in order to travel and collect material for a new drama, which is to deal with social questions, especially large problems.

John B. Drake, of Chicago, is in the habit of giving a game dinner annually, which has become notable in that city. The entire week is ransacked for different kinds of game for the feast.

The first governor of California, Peter H. Burnett, celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday recently at his home in San Francisco.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"How many lodges did you say your husband belonged to?" she suddenly asked. "Fifteen." "Mercy on me! But think of a man being out fifteen nights a week! I am really glad that I'm a widow!"—Telegram.

"Don't you," said the pious landlady to the boarder, "believe that all flesh is grass?" "No," hesitated the boarder, as he took another hold on his knife, "I think some of it is leather."—Detroit Free Press.

"And so your son has finished his college course? Did he graduate with honors?" "Oh, yes; but he tells me that some of the other fellows carried them off. Rascally, wasn't it?"—Boston Transcript.

"Major," said little Christopher, "Colonel Slaughter said 'every soldier bared his breast to the enemy'—did you?" "No—I didn't have time to turn around."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Strawber—Did you feel the late financial depression? Gingerly—Feel it! Why, old man, for the period of a month I wasn't able to borrow a dollar.—Judge.

Judge—Can't you and your husband live happily together without fighting? Mrs. Malcolms—No, yer anner; not happily.—Brooklyn Life.

THE TARIFF BILL.

Should Be Revisited.

Philadelphia Ledger (Ind.) Resistance to it should assume definite form and force at once. Capital and labor should, through their regular organizations and by individual appeals, unite to influence senators and representatives to oppose so long as opposition can be successfully exerted the principle of free trade, as set forth in the free raw materials schedules, and in the tariff-for-revenue-only policy, as set forth in the great reduction of duties on manufactured products. Protection for our industries is, with American capital and labor, the law of self-preservation, and any attempt to set it aside should be strenuously contended against. It is for our manufacturers, farmers, merchants, whether employers or employed, to promptly, earnestly appeal to Congress against the passage of the Wilson bill.

A Matter of Tendencies.

Washington Star (Ind.) The difference between the two great political parties of the republic in relation to the tariff issue is merely one of tendencies. The Democratic party tends toward free trade, but gives open manifestation of that tendency only in an enlargement of the free list and in reducing duties which are intended rather to protect home industries than to raise revenue. The Republican party tends toward a prohibitory protective tariff, but indicates this tendency only by curtailing the free list and by increasing existing duties and imposing new duties with the object of fostering or creating American industries, while at the same time raising the necessary revenue.

A Lack of Business Sense.

Philadelphia Press (Rep.) -With both government credit and national currency hanging on a strong treasury reserve, Mr. Wilson reduces receipts already too low to meet outgo and makes no provision to meet a deficit, known for this year and certain next. It is easy to see why. Sugar has been dropped as a source of revenue. For the same reason tea and coffee cannot be taxed. Mr. Wilson proposes to bring Congress face to face with an impending deficit, an empty treasury and a shaken currency, so as to be able under pressure of necessity to force through an unpopular income tax.

Every Home Will Feel It.

New York Press (Rep.) The evil wrought by this ill-judged and unpatriotic bill, should it ever become a law, will be felt in the homes and at the firesides of millions engaged in the gainful occupations. There will be less employment and reduction of wages for the bread winners, and hence less comforts for the family. The saving of years must gradually melt away as the new conditions force themselves upon the unfortunate victims of the free trade idea and President Cleveland's object lesson.

Just Wait and See.

Philadelphia Times (Dem.) It is quite unnecessary for the members of the monopoly trusts and combines or for the over-protected manufacturers to tell us that they will close their factories or cut down wages when the Wilson tariff goes into effect. We have heard that over and over again and know just what to expect every time.

Its Godfather Won't Recognize It.

Pittsburgh Dispatch (Ind. Rep.) Telegrams from New York state that Senators Hill and Murphy will oppose any schedules that threaten New York's interests. The same kind of a stand all along the line will make the new bill look as if it had been through a cyclone before Mr. Cleveland gets it.

The Advertising

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bounds of reason because it is true; it always appeals to the sober, common sense of thinking people because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements which, in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

Hood's PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

Out in a Blizzard.

Mr. J. P. Blaize, an extensive real estate dealer in Des Moines, Iowa, narrowly escaped one of the severest attacks of pneumonia while in the northern part of that state during a recent blizzard, says the Saturday Review.

Mr. Blaize had occasion to drive over a storm during the storm and was so thoroughly chilled that he was unable to get warm, and inside of an hour after his return he was stricken with a severe case of pneumonia or lung fever.

Mr. Blaize sent to the nearest drug store and got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, of which he had often heard, and took a number of large doses. He says the effect was wonderful and in a short time he was breathing quite easily. He kept on taking the medicine and the next day was able to come to Des Moines. Mr. Blaize regards his cure as simply wonderful.

Krauer's HEADACHE CAPSULES, unlike many remedies, are perfectly harmless, they contain no injurious substance; and will stop any kind of a headache; will prevent headaches caused by over indulgence in food or drink late at night. Price, 25 cents, for sale by Alex. T. Young, John Klari, Wheeling, and Bowie & Co., Bridgeport, Ohio, druggists.

Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons' Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

I have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. Have tried forty other remedies before Simmons' Liver Regulator, and none of them gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured.

DONATIONS FOR THE POOR.

How Thanksgiving Was Observed by Young People in Fairmount—Union Service.

Fairmont, W. Va., Nov. 30.—Thanksgiving morning was cold and damp from heavy rains during the night, yet the lecture room of the Methodist Episcopal church was filled at the 6 o'clock Thanksgiving service, conducted by C. W. Evans, president of the Epworth League, where large donations, including considerable money, was made for the deserving poor of the town and vicinity. At 10:30 a union service was held in the Methodist Episcopal church, the sermon being preached by the Rev. G. M. Snott, of the Baptist church, assisted by the ministers of the other churches. His text was, "In all things give thanks." First Thessalonians, fifth chapter, eighteenth verse. The Y. P. S. C. E.'s of the town are holding a reception to-night in the lecture room of the Methodist Protestant church.

Italy's Credit Mobilier.

ROME, Nov. 30.—The "Credito Mobiliare" has asked for a moratorium; its capital is 60,000,000 lire. It is stated that, allowing for all losses, the bank has a surplus of 30,000,000 lire untouched. The Credito Mobiliare has branches in many parts of Italy, and yesterday entered into negotiations looking to amalgamation with the bank of Italy, and to guarantee a call of 100 lire on the bank's shares.

Observed the Spirit of the Day.

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—The celebration of Thanksgiving in Detroit was without event, except that 10,000 of the poor of the city were provided with a good dinner and enough food to last for several days. As a result of the efforts of the Pastors' union and the Chapman revival services, over $3,000 worth of food and clothing was gathered.

How the Women Voted.

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND, Nov. 30.—The first elections in New Zealand under the female suffrage law have been held. They resulted favorably to the government. The women voted in large numbers, giving their support mainly to those candidates who professed Christianity and favored temperance.
