

ELKS' MEMORIAL

Services Held at the Opera House Yesterday Afternoon.

ELOQUENT EULOGIES PRONOUNCED.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Cooke Makes a Fine Address to the Elks—The Eloquent Tribute Paid by Brother W. H. Johnson—The Various Musical Numbers on the Programme—A Large Audience Attended.

The annual memorial services of Wheeling Lodge No. 28, B. P. O. E. took place yesterday afternoon at the Opera House, and were attended by a large audience including nearly all the Elks of the city and surrounding communities.

The overture was by Prof. Herman Schockey and Alfred Speil, and then followed the opening of the lodge. The prayer was by Rev. Dr. R. Rush Swope, of St. Matthews' church.

The first musical number was the song "O Paradise," by the quartette composed of Mrs. Flora Williams and Miss Finnell, and Messrs. Will Day and Charles Zulauf. As was inevitable from the personnel of the quartette, the song was a beautiful one.

The eulogy on the dead members of Wheeling lodge was to have been delivered by Hon. John A. Howard, but on account of sickness he was not present.

The solo, "Ave Maria," was the next number on the programme, and was sung by Mrs. Williams, who was in extraordinarily good voice. She was accompanied by Mr. Speil on the violin.

The eulogy, "Our Order," by Brother W. H. Johnson, of Zanesville lodge No. 114, was a very powerful one, and listened to with great attention by the audience. Mr. Johnson said:

My brothers of Wheeling lodge No. 28, our meetings are usually for the purpose of enjoying the good things of this beautiful world; lifting the heavy yoke of care from the neck of the weary, and to dispense charity without ostentation to the worthy poor.

But we have met to-day to contemplate and emulate true manhood in its highest and purest living type; and to look beyond the scenes of time with bright hopes to an everlasting immortality.

Every true Elk believes in the existence of God; it may not be the orthodox God of a particular creed, but it is the God to whom he owes all his happiness and love, and to whom alone he holds himself accountable for his existence, his being, and his hope of immortality.

To-day the members of our order with their dear families and friends are gathered in our halls to render tribute and praise to Him who holds the earth and the seas in the hollow of His hand. We recognize in Him the source of all light, all power, all love, all honor, all glory. All that is good in us, all that is pure and noble in the purposes of our order, are but the just attributes of Him, who know no beginning and shall see no end.

We have taken the law and the motto of Jesus of Nazareth as the foundation and ground work of our order. "To do unto others as we would have them to do unto us."

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks is keeping step with the progress of the age. Its members are not slothful in business; they are not dependent on the charity of the state or county—they are active, industrious and progressive. In the battles of life they depend on their own brain and brawn. The members of our order are conspicuous in all the learned and useful vocations of our country. We encourage education and cultivate refinement. We have written our own music and originated a literature peculiar to our own customs and tastes. We respect liberty of thought and speech; we respect the rights of our brothers and the feelings of all mankind; of every nation, kindred and tongue.

But let us turn for a brief moment in grateful eulogy to the good deeds, lofty purposes and blessed memory of our dear departed. All over this bright land, they sleep their last, long, eternal sleep. In the winter the pure snow, whiter than their marble shafts, is their robe. In the spring-time the grass and flowers, the beautiful emblems of that unweary world, grow and blossom on their graves, and all unheeded in ashes they sleep on; they hear not the song of the birds; no more are their silent lips kissed by Aurora's sun, or their cheeks painted with his tinted hues.

To the suppressed sob of dear ones over the tomb, or the falling tear, they are alike oblivious. The ships crowd the busy marts of trade and plow the ocean with their commerce; the rivers sail run on to the sea. The merry laughter of children rings out in the streets, and echoes over the smiling fields. The curtains of night fall upon the earth and a million stars shine out from the empyreal dome of the skies.

Once they were wont to gather in our festal halls to listen to the wit and ment of God's gifted children, and at the midnight hour, but one, in unison with the brave and true of our little band, raised on high Hebe's cup filled with the good Falernian wine, in memory of the absent brothers.

On this solemn day, "We write their faults upon the sand; their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory." We place garlands of flowers upon our altars, and their memories as a sweet incense fill our halls.

"The Evening Prayer," sung by the quartette mentioned above, was very fine.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Cooke, of the Second Presbyterian church, delivered an address, which was very eloquent, and visibly affected the audience. Dr. Cooke said:

They who respect the dead, respect themselves. They bear our likeness; they are subject to our infirmities, and the possibilities of our greatness belong to them. We do well to give them a place of honorable sepulchre. When buried it was earth to earth, dust to dust, ashes to ashes, with the expectation of a blessed immortality. It is well from year to year to keep their memory green by gathering as yonder the beautiful flowers from the bosom of earth and depositing them around this typical sepulchre to express still your hope that their memory being fragrant on earth, their services are fragrant with holiness in the worship of the upper and better sanctuary, the brighter and holier world.

Whatever recognition you make of God's service to any man, that recognition honors Him. When, therefore, you honor the living or the dead whom God hath created to serve Him here and hereafter, you magnify His name who is his creator. In all ages of the earth men have paid respect to the place of the sepulchre of their departed.

They were right in so doing. If that be so concerning the body, much more concerning the memory, for the memory brings back to us the life of those who have gone before us to the eternal world, all that they were to their kindred, all that they were to their relations to man and things and the God that made them, and this afternoon we are rightly gathered to cherish the memory of these departed brethren of this order.

But, brethren, you do it once a year. Suffer me to suggest it to you, as citizens of Wheeling, what has come into my mind to-day, that while this is a beautiful object lesson, teaching respect for the departed, there is every day exposed to our view an object lesson that is not beautiful, that is not suggestive of respect to the departed, that is, if you suffer me to say as one of your citizens, a reproach to us; it is the condition of the cemetery on the corner of Sixteenth and McCulloch streets.

All these exercises here to-day are so suggestive of respect and veneration and love, and teach such important lessons, while what we see every day at the place I have indicated teaches just the reverse. Shall we persist in a sentiment of disrespect for the dead? Shall we not in some way protect this place of sepulchre for those who seem to have no relatives here, no rights that the living deem bound to respect? Shall we not do for those what is appropriate to protect what is left there from further desecration, and prevent the rising generation from coming to this place of disrespect and scorn? If there be no police regulation, let us insist upon police regulation, so that what we do here once a year shall not be reversed as a lesson by what we suffer to be done every day in the cemetery to which I refer.

Brothers, what shall we do to have our own memories cherished? I only know of one way. Be true to God; be true to your fellows; be true to yourselves, according to the method indicated in this open book that you so reverence. Let us so live in all the gentleness and meekness, sincerity and truthfulness, honesty and justice, and holiness indicated in these scriptures, with all charity to man, with malice to none, that men shall say "we have met with a loss incalculable" when we fall at their sides, and at the place of sepulchre they shall say "a just man hath departed from among his fellows."

"Oh, my friends, life is only worth living when in the spirit of self-denial, in the spirit of self-consecration, we live to God in the way of His appointment, so that men shall take knowledge of us that we are like our Heavenly Father. Let us make life significant by going about doing good, destroying all forms of evil. You have devised a touching rite in commemoration of your departed dead, you have done wisely in appointing a special day in memorial of them. You gather the beautiful of earth in song, in flowers, and in rite, and thereby you thank God for the light of the departed, and express the hope concerning yourselves that men will honor you in rite and in heart when you, too, like your fellows, these brethren, shall depart from earth, praying God that you may leave behind a blessed, holy memory.

Messrs. Will B. Day, Dana Guyer, tenors, and Charles Zulauf and Harry Sweeney, Basses, formed a quartette which sang "O, That I Had Wings," in good style.

The violin solo, reverie, by Mr. Alfred Speil was one of the musical features of the afternoon, and fully sustained this young artist's growing reputation.

Mr. Zulauf sang "Jesus, Thou Art Standing," after which the closing of the lodge took place. The doxology was then sung, and Rev. Mr. Robb delivered the closing prayer.

The memorial committee of 1893 was composed of Messrs. C. R. Tracy, A. A. Franzheim, John F. Richardson, M. J. Ward, W. H. Manning and John A. Howard.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Several Places Entered at Martin's Ferry Saturday Night.

NOT MUCH BOOTY SECURED IN ALL.

Criminal Chronicles of the City and Vicinity for the Past Two Days—A Watch Thief Wanted at Wellsburg is Captured here—An Order for $5 Raised to $55 and the Money Obtained on it.

Burglars entered T. Huskin's confectionery store on Fourth street, in Martin's Ferry, Saturday night or yesterday morning, and carried off twenty packages of cigarettes, cigars, candy and one hundred coppers. They gained entrance by opening the transom and went out of the back door. It is believed that there were two men. Foot prints of two men were seen in the snow in the back yard yesterday morning. In climbing up to the transom one of the plates of glass in the front door was broken.

The Martin's Ferry passenger depot of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad was entered some time during the night and a good sized hole bored in the safe. Why they did not finish the job is not known. Nothing was taken from the office.

About 4 o'clock yesterday morning an unsuccessful effort was made to enter the bakery of John E. Weidol on Washington street, Martin's Ferry, by forcing the front door open. Considerable petty thieving is being done in and around Martin's Ferry.

HE GOT $55 On an Order for $5, and They Haven't Found Him Yet.

Frank Young, a former street car operator, who has been heard of once or twice in the courts, once when charged with criminal assault on a young girl, has left town, and from all indications he had with him $50 of another man's money.

J. W. Pringle owed Young $5, and he gave him an order on Mrs. Pringle for the money. Young took the order to the house and told Mrs. Pringle it was for $55, and without looking at it she gave him that sum. When her husband returned and the trick was discovered, the police were notified, but Young could not be found, and it is believed he has gone to Chicago. He has a wife and child here.

Stolen Watch Recovered. Saturday Marshal Boyd, of Wellsburg, arrested William Starr here for stealing a watch from Robert Hossie at the Granite House, in Wellsburg, several days ago. The watch had been pawned at Steubenville, where it was recovered. This was the theft of which a member of Frank Jones's dramatic company, was at first suspected.

Petty Crimes. Saturday an unknown man passed a $10 confederate bill in the Fifth ward market.

Several thefts were reported from Benwood in the past three or four nights. A fine set of harness, valued at $40, was stolen from the stable of Dowler & Dowler last week.

Somebody stole a fine large turkey from Henry Stallcross's residence, on the south side, Saturday.

In Police Circles. There were only seventy-six cases in the police court in November, and the fines and costs assessed only reached the low aggregate of $287 85.

There are four cases on the docket for this morning's court, Pearl Cavallo, nee Carr, for disorderly conduct, and three plain drunks. Saturday morning Fritz Jordan went to the hill in default of $1 and costs for a plain drunk. There was no court in the evening.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES. Matters of Minor Moment in and About the City.

The Grand this evening—"Peck's Bad Boy."

A new time card went into effect on the C. & P. road yesterday.

A regular meeting of the county commissioners will be held to-day.

WILLIAM MUDLIN, of Twenty-ninth street, fell on the ice near his home Saturday and broke his leg.

AUCTIONEER HALLER on Saturday, sold the Stauer property, in North Wheeling, to Geo. J. Mathison, for $3,817.

AFTER a long conference between the miners and mine owners Saturday the miners accepted the proposed reduction of wages.

C. F. HANDEL, the Pike street grocer, in Bridgeport, is laid up for a few days, the result of a shaking up by a fall from his hay mow.

The certificate of incorporation of the Columbian Manufacturing Company was left for record at Clerk Hook's office on Saturday.

GEORGE VIEWIG was about to step in a wagon Saturday when the horse started and he was thrown down, fracturing one of his legs.

JOHN MOYLAN was being pardoned by the governor and released from the pen, where he was sent for killing William Winesburg, of Boggs run.

L. SWARTZ's bear keg wagon broke down on the street car track on the South Side Saturday and was badly wrecked. Car travel was delayed about a half hour.

A LARGE and appreciative audience heard the public rehearsal by the opera house orchestra at Arion hall last evening. A very attractive programme was rendered in a very artistic manner.

W. C. COLLINS, charged with obtaining $8.50 from George K. Wheat by a forged order, was held for court by Squire Gillespy Saturday, and in default of $500 bail was remanded to jail.

On Saturday, Robert H. Pratt was appointed executor of the will of Edward L. Pratt, deceased. Bond, $3,000; N. E. Whitaker, surety. Wm. Graham, G. Ed. Mendel and Jos. Metcalf are the appraisers.

A WHEELING pottery wagon was backed over the high bank at the foot of Thirty-first street Saturday and badly broken. The horse was also hurt, but the driver, Charles Hillon, jumped and escaped injury.

It is now a settled fact, that the Lower Benwood mill, except the steel works, will go on in full to-day or to-morrow, giving employment to nearly two hundred persons. The plant has been off about two weeks.

THERE was an elegant surprise party given to Mr. Nicholas Garden at his home, 2417 Chapline street, on his birthday. The evening was spent in dancing and onchre playing, and at a seasonable hour supper was served. The music was furnished by Stein Bros., and after dancing till a couple of hours after midnight, his many friends wended their way homeward, long to remember the affair pleasantly.

PRIME OF WHEELING council of the Daughters of Liberty celebrated its third anniversary at its hall Saturday evening. A most enjoyable time is reported. Many of the members of Bell-air council came up and participated.

JAMES A. RILEY and his company closed a very successful engagement at the Grand Saturday evening. The first half of this week "Peck's Bad Boy" will be the attraction there and the last half Harry Williams's Meteors, a first class vaudeville company.

MRS. KATE HANDLAN made a display of hand-painted china and several water colors Saturday at the residence of her sister, Mrs. John List. Her handiwork was much admired by all. From here the pictures will be taken to Detroit and Chicago. They show considerable talent.

The Modern Mother Has found that her little ones are improved more by the pleasant laxative, Syrup of Figs, when in need of the laxative effect of a gentle remedy than by any other, and that it is more acceptable to them. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

OUR Sealskin Garments are all guaranteed as to quality and price. GEO. E. STEEL & CO.

Very admirable, in fact a superb artist is Eduard Scharf, the pianist. His renditions were among the most artistic; his force, clearness and brilliancy gave a high charm to whatever he played."—Hartford Times. Seats reserved for Musin's concert Tuesday morning at C. A. House's.
