WHEELING, MARCH 1, 1894.

Weak Opposition to the Wilson Bill.

There is something impressive in the attitude of Democratic senators who are making trouble over the Wilson bill. The Louisiana brethren point to the threatened destruction of the sugar industry of their state and say they will not stand it. Fix sugar and the bill will suit them.

Senator Gorman thinks it an outrage to put coal on the free list. His state has a large coal production. Coal must be made right before Senator Gorman can look with favor on the bill. The West Virginia senators make a plea for coal, but they will vote for the bill as the Democratic majority may agree upon it.

Senator Hill and his shadow are bitterly opposed to the income tax and they make objection to some items in the tariff schedules. Senator Brice wants coal taken care of and threatens that the bill shall not go through without this change. He is against the income tax also.

The weakness of the opposition is that it is not based on a broad principle. The sugar senators care nothing about coal, the coal senators are not bothering themselves about sugar. The countless industries threatened by the bill may go to the dogs if the objecting senators can get a few big things of special interest to them in a political way.

Another element of weakness is that the senators who find fault with certain features of the tariff bill are in a minority in a Democratic Congress which set out to rip up protection generally.

If these senators are in dead earnest they should be consistent, stand for protection as a principle to be applied generally, and go in with the Republican minority to make their opposition to the Wilson bill decisive.

It is beginning to dawn on some hitherto benighted minds that McKinleyism is another name for patriotism.

Who's Afraid?

The Associated Press report of the caucus of Democratic senators telegraphed Tuesday night for use Wednesday morning gave an interesting account of that important meeting. Among other things it told that "the fight for coal was led by the West Virginia senators, and Senator Camden, of that state, also urged a duty upon lumber."

Not a word of this appears in the Register, although the Register and INTELLIGENCER received the same report. Why was this? Was anybody afraid? Did the Register keep this information from its readers because it has been supporting the proposition to put coal on the free list as a great benefit to the industry, and because it wishes to keep its readers in ignorance of the fact that the Democratic senators from this state are trying to retain a duty on coal?

Of course the stand of the West Virginia senators is embarrassing to the Register, but this is not sufficient justification for suppressing the news, especially when the news is of so much interest to the people of West Virginia.

SENATOR MORGAN will get no supreme court justiceship from President Cleveland. He does not roost in the cuckoo cage.

Work of the Relief Committee.

The report of the operations of the relief committee, published in another column, should be read by everybody who has contributed to the fund and by everybody interested in the work of relieving the needy. It is the summing up of the intelligent labors of volunteers who have given their time to their fellow beings in distress.

The work has been done intelligently and faithfully, and the resources of the committee have been made to count. There has been no better system anywhere, and in matters of this kind system tells. The one regret is that the work has had to stop for want of further support. There are still many people in Wheeling unable to care for themselves.

THEY don't seem to be absolutely wasting away under the Lenten diet, and there are some fish left in the sea.

The Democratic and Mugwump newspapers which succeed with great eagerness that the whole Hawaiian matter be dropped are only echoing the President's expressed desire. But it won't be dropped just yet. The attitude of this administration has displeased too many Americans for the incident to be closed so suddenly. Mr. Cleveland and his friends are condemned to hear much more of it.

The Kanawha Valley Trouble.

There is bad news from the Kanawha valley. Violence does not settle business questions, and of course the state has to exert all its power to restore and to preserve the peace. The situation has been strained ever since the wage question in the mining regions of the lower end of the state became one of so pronounced difference of opinion, but it was hoped that the state might escape the blot of an armed collision.

MR. BLAND has found a quorum at last. He is a slow discoverer. But this is not the worst of it. He hardly had the quorum before it slipped away from him, and he and his silver cohorts are where they were before. Mr. Bland would doubtless be glad if the Reed would be crammed down his throat, "odious tyranny" and all, so that he might have the benefit of its operation.

WHEN the Mills bill of sainted memory passed the house it ran against a Republican senate, and the country knew it could go no further. No industry feared slaughter. To-day a Democratic tariff bill is before a Democratic senate, and the country does not know what is to become of it. Every industry is quaking. It makes great difference who is at the helm of the ship of state.

It will be a month to-morrow since the Wilson bill went from the house to the senate. The three Democratic senators who took hold of it have not reported to the other Democrats of the committee. This cannot be called indecent haste.

The decision which holds that railway officers are standing on their constitutional right in refusing to testify before the inter-state commerce commission knocks the law in the head. If it cannot operate Congress may as well abolish it.

By the time ex-Boss McKean gets back to it Gravesend may be a decent town. His absence under all the circumstances may bring about decided reform. It will at least afford the opportunity.

The senate waits while the Democratic caucus tries to discover what it is going to do about it. This gives Republican senators a chance to rest and to get ready for the fray.

The campaign of education goes right on. In these times the Congressional Record is a great text book. The open book of facts of common notoriety is another.

The bitter things Mrs. Leaso says about the Democratic party are very entertaining. The bitter things she says about the Republican party are not true.

With gun in hand to slay a duck great Grover has gone to Currituck. Let's hope his mind may not get stuck in the sticky mud of Currituck.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Russell Sage, of New York, is just finishing a $100,000 building for the Troy (N. Y.) seminary for young women, which he will give to the institution. It will be called Sage hall and is built because Mrs. Sage was a pupil of the seminary which Mrs. Emma Willard founded in 1821.

PROTECTION OR FREE TRADE.

Cleveland Leader. I stood in the mills where the tollers Were playing the tools of their trade; Where thousands of shuttles were flying, And elegant fabrics are made; I saw with what cunning precision, What means of science and art, What earnest desire and decision, The workers were playing their part.

I stood in the shop where grim tollers Set the great locomotive on wheels, And looked on the long, shining pathway Whereon the grim monster reels; Such matchless and marvelous power As can almost annihilate space, With the play of his ponderous muscles, And his nineteenth century pace.

I stood in the dim lighted chamber, An attic of ancient design, When a pale-visaged woman was sewing, Far on beyond daylight's decline; And each stitch on the garment was measured By a thread and tremulous hand, And such that escaped from the worker, Floated out, through the mist, to the strand.

I stood where the millions are pushing The empire of toil on the sea; Heard the waves of old ocean repeating The songs of the brave and the free; Beyond these are no words to conquer, Beyond our work is but fairly begun; And we hold in our hand the best guardian Any nation or people have won.

And I said to myself: Should the nation Whose banner these tollers unfurled, Refuse to accord them protection, Were a shame to the map of the world; How such that escaped from the worker, Floated out, through the mist, to the strand; Let us rally beneath the old standard, And vote for protection again!

Answers to Correspondents.

FARMER—Yes, South Dakota furnishes an excellent field for diversified farming. Wheat, corn, barley and flax are produced in abundant quantities and find a ready market at good prices, while the cost of production is much less than in the eastern states. Stock raising and wool growing have become successful industries in South Dakota, where thousands of acres of the finest land in the United States can be secured at reasonable figures and upon long time for deferred payments. Further information will be cheerfully furnished free of expense by addressing JOHN R. PORT, District Passenger Agent, 456 William street, Williamsport, Pa.

A Forty Mile Ride.

E. R. Swetnam, of Fairfax Station, Virginia, says: "A party came forty miles to my store for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and bought a dozen bottles. The remedy is a great favorite in this vicinity, and has performed some wonderful cures here." It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is a favorite wherever known.

TIME is worth everything. Delays are dangerous. No one can afford to run the risk of allowing a cough to develop into pneumonia, which is nearly always fatal. Cuban Cough Cure is the only remedy that can be relied on to give quick relief and cure the cold.

PREHISTORIC REMAINS.

Ancient Graves Discovered Near Hillsboro, Ohio, in the Vicinity of the Serpent Mound.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. HILLSBORO, Ohio, Feb. 28.—Farmer Warren Cowen, of Hillsboro, Ohio, while fox hunting recently, discovered several ancient graves. They were situated upon a high point of land in Highland county, about a mile from the famous Serpent mound (where Professor Putnam, of Harvard, made interesting discoveries). As soon as the weather permitted, Cowen excavated several of these graves. He informed the INTELLIGENCER correspondent that the graves were made of large limestone slabs, two and a half to three feet in length, and a foot wide. These were set on edge about a foot apart. Similar slabs covered the grave. A single one somewhat larger was at the head and another at the feet. The top of the grave was two feet below the present surface.

Upon opening one of the graves a skeleton upwards of six feet in length was brought to light. There were a number of stone hatchets, beads and ornaments of peculiar workmanship near the right arm. Several large flint spear and arrow heads among the ribs gave evidence that the mighty warrior had died in battle. In another grave was the skeleton of a man equally large. The right leg had been broken during life, and the bones had grown together. The protuberance at the point of union was as large as an egg, and the limb was bent like a bow. By the feet lay a skull of some enemy or slave. Several pipes and pendants were near the shoulders.

In the other graves Cowen made equally interesting finds. It seems that this region was populated by a fairly intelligent people, and that the Serpent mound was an object of worship. Near the graves is a large field, in which broken implements, fragments of pottery and burnt stones give evidence of a pre-historic village site. Probably the people who are buried on the hill lived in this village.

AN ENGINE EXPLODES.

Three Trainsmen Badly Hurt, and Ten Freight Cars Derailed.

Fairmont, W. Va., Feb. 28.—Freight engine No. 1210 blew up this morning about 4 o'clock near Nuzama Mills, about 10 miles east of here, on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, badly scalding Engineer Stevenson, Fireman Law, and Brakeman McCue. Twelve cars were derailed and the track badly blocked. All trains have been running via the Monongahela River railroad to Clarkburg. The explosion blew down the crown sheet over the fire box wrecking the engine and cars while running at the rate of about 25 miles per hour. The locomotive was comparatively new, being only about two months out of the shop and was supposed to be in perfect order. The cause of the explosion has not yet been ascertained.

SPRING NEEDS.

What Everybody Requires at This Season.

Some Things Are of the Utmost Importance to You.

This Will Tell You Just What You Most Need Now and How to Get It.

In the spring changes always take place in our systems which require attention. There is a tired, languid feeling, a depression, the digestive organs become deranged, the blood is bad, causing the complexion to become affected and the person feels an inability to work.

At such a time a spring medicine is absolutely necessary. It will overcome all these conditions. It will invigorate the blood, regulate the digestive organs, clear the complexion and make you feel strong and well. The following letter written by Miss Nettie Fraser, of Paterson, N. J., will interest you. "Since my childhood I have been extremely nervous, easily excited and at times suffering with extreme nervous prostration. A year ago last June I was so bad that the attacks were almost hysterical, and by appetite and digestion were in a terrible condition. I also suffered with great mental depression.

MISS NETTIE FRASER.

"I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and the first bottle had a wonderful effect on my condition. After four bottles were used I was entirely cured. I never used any medicine that helped me so much, and I would recommend it in the highest terms possible, as too much cannot be said in praise of this wonderful medicine."

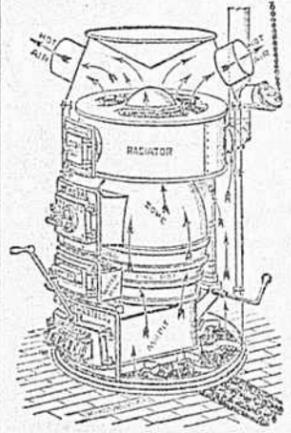

We are constantly receiving just such letters telling of the great good which is being done by this medicine. You want health, don't you? You want to get up in the morning and feel like doing a good day's work, do you not? And you want your children to feel strong and vigorous, don't you? Well, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy will do all this.

It will give to you and your children perfect health and that is exactly what you want. It is the best spring medicine known and has the great advantage of being purely vegetable and harmless. It was discovered by Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.
