The New Jersey Triumph for Law and Decency.

Last autumn the people of New Jersey took it into their heads to break up the race-track ring and to wipe out the gambling legislation which has disgraced that commonwealth. They went to the polls and elected a Republican legislature. There was no way to dispute the validity of the Republican house, but the Democrats thought they had found a way to steal the senate.

The senate is composed of twenty-one members. There were thirteen hold-over senators, nine of them Democrats, four of them Republicans. Eight senators were elected last November, seven Republicans and one Democrat. So the senate, as the people chose it, stood eleven Republicans and ten Democrats, a Republican majority of one.

A lawful majority of one should be as good as a majority of one thousand, but the Democrats and their race-track allies were determined to defeat the will of the people. They set up the theory, as novel as it was bold, that the senate is a continuing body with power to pass on the credentials of the senators-elect.

The nine hold-over Democrats undertook to run the senate of twenty-one members. They took possession of the senate chamber and declared that the credentials of three Republican senators-elect should be passed on before they could be admitted. Their cases were to be investigated by a special committee. Not one of these seats was contested, but this made no difference to the conspirators.

The Republicans refused to be caught in the trap and organized a senate of their own. They had a constitutional quorum and could do business. They had the house with them. The Democrats claiming to be the senate had no quorum and could do no business, but the Democratic governor recognized their body and the Democratic attorney general said they were the lawful senate.

The supreme court of the state now decides that the eleven Republicans are the lawful senate and that there is nothing whatever in the Democratic theory of a continuing body. The decision was rendered by the chief justice, a Democrat, who was supported by six other justices, four Democrats and two Republicans. The eighth, Leon Abbott, a Democrat, dissented.

The Republican triumph is complete. So is the rout of the gambler conspirators. Every act of the Republican house and the Republican senate is valid, and these bodies have not been idle. The gambling legislation will be knocked out and so will the acts passed to give the Democrats indefinite control of nearly everything in the state. So ends one of the most rascally conspiracies in the history of American politics. All honor to the honest Democratic court.

It is worthy of remark that the courts of this country, as they are appealed to, are doing signal service for the cause of better government. So long as the judiciary is honest and courageous the country will not be in a hopeless state.

Persons who send their good money to Coxey and the said money as aforesaid are soon parted.

Figuring to Meet Foreign Competition.

With lower tariff duties staring them in the face American manufacturers are figuring to see how they may meet foreign competition on the new basis. The American Wool and Cotton Reporter says that this kind of figuring is likely to lead to sad disappointment, for the reason that there is no standard by which the competition can be measured in certain lines.

There are lines of woolen goods, for example, which the British manufacturer can produce at less cost by tending down wages, and he has shown how successfully this can be done. When the McKinley act went into effect foreign manufacturers had to sell their goods for export to this country at less than before, and they did it.

It is true that wages have fallen in the United States and that the cost of production is less than it was a year ago, but who can tell how much lower foreign wages may be forced before the bottom is reached? We shall have to wait and see what comes.

factor will exert himself to make new conquests in the American market. We shall know more about the condition of American industry a year after the new tariff bill goes into effect.

It is great weakness in Prongerast to admit even for the sake of argument that he may be insane.

Wicked Levity of Reform.

It is painful to read in the leading editorial article in Harper's Weekly that "the treasury department, under the present administration, is distinguishing itself by a certain wicked levity in the treatment of the civil service law."

In this respect, it seems, this reform administration has fallen under the evil influence of Secretary Carlisle's son, Logan Carlisle, who is running things.

The secretary "set a thoroughly bad example" by appointing his son to an important place in the department. Young Mr. Carlisle, "as soon as he found himself armed with a certain power over appointments and removals, conceived in his immature brain the idea that he had an important mission to discharge."

What do you think that mission was? The Weekly says "it was to take care of the Democratic party in general, and of southern Democrats in particular, in filling the offices." Because young Mr. Carlisle has endeavored to discharge this solemn obligation to the best of his ability this powerful champion of reform jumps on him and the administration which is responsible for him.

With due respect to so respectable an authority, the point is not well made. This is a Democratic administration.

Southern Democrats are the life of the Democratic party. Their idea of reform in the civil service is to turn out Republicans and put in southern Democrats. Young Mr. Carlisle is their ideal reformer, and every time he gives the crank of reform a turn they think better of the administration which is responsible for him.

It is not fair to apply epithets to a young man who is doing his duty as he understands it.

The American Manufacturer speaks of "the possibility of still lower prices for ore, coal, coke and freight by water and rail." Is there a still lower depth?

Richard Dowdell. "What is a jury?" asks the Richmond Dispatch. It is eleven stubborn men who won't listen to reason.—Washington Intelligencer.

Next tell us what you mean by calling ours "a private voice."—Richmond Dispatch.

Didn't do it. Read again. We spoke playfully of yours as "a private voice from Richmond," to show our esteemed neighbor, the Democratic Register, that if all who were protesting against the proposed increase in the cigar tax were "political pirates," the excellent Democratic Richmond Dispatch must be counted among them.

A pirate is some times miscalled a privateer, but the INTELLIGENCER hopes never to be guilty of calling one of them "a private voice." We submit with respect that the hospitalities are on the Dispatch.

The "green goods" man has as easy a way as Mr. Bland has of coining the seigniorage.

Only Waiting. A correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean, who writes as one of the employees of the Illinois Steel Company, in South Chicago, says that concern has put about half its usual force to work at reductions in price ranging from twenty-five to fifty per cent. The writer says distinctly that the men hold the Democratic party responsible for this and will take the first opportunity to strike back. South Chicago will not be alone in that slugging match.

It is settled in New Jersey that hold-over senators cannot admit or keep out whom they will. This is what the Republicans said, but the Democrats would not believe it until they got it from the supreme court of their state. The decision is a hard blow at the race-track gamblers.

In the mature judgment of the Democratic New York Sun "the income tax is good for one Republican President, the Wilson bill is good for another." This will carry us in safety past 1900 and start the Democratic party on its wanderings for another third of a century.

Typewriting is a great aid to those who have to read and those who have to put in print articles intended for publication. If the cited writer would sign his name in the same way the able editor would know to whom he is indebted for the flash of genius.

A newly married New York man will sue his father-in-law for the $5,000 dowry he promised. If he got a good wife and no other woman is after him with a damage suit he should consider himself lucky and let the dowry go.

SECRETARY GRESHAM is said to be in favor of the seigniorage bill. Naturally. He has not abandoned the hope of becoming the Populist nominee for the presidency.

It seems a close shave, but if one must bet on the President's attitude on the seigniorage bill the least risk will be to wager that he will stand on it with his veto.

CONY recruits in Pennsylvania demand that the state shall supply them with tents for the march. Nothing is said about champagne.

EASTER comes early, but it should have come earlier this year or made different arrangements with the weather.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE—"The woman tempted me and I did eat."

The Boston Transcript calls for a revision of the law of Massachusetts relating to the legal age of marriage. In the state a girl of twelve and a boy of fourteen may be legally married if they obtain the consent of their parents.

It is possible that an assistant to Bishop F. D. Huntington (Episcopal) of the diocese of Central New York, will be elected at the meeting of the diocesan convention in June. The twenty-fifth anniversary of Bishop Huntington's consecration will be celebrated at the same time.

Great interest is being aroused throughout Virginia and the south over the exhibition which is to be held in Richmond next fall. The necessary guarantee fund has been secured, and arrangements are being made for cheap railway transportation.

A proposal to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Baltimore by an exhibition illustrative of the city's achievement and progress, is exciting much interest throughout Maryland.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Little Helen Keller's efforts to establish a free library at Tusculum, Ala., are being enthusiastically praised by the Alabama press. Helen is only twelve years old and blind and deaf at her birth. Only recently she has been able to speak; and yet with all these obstacles she has met with great success in her free library enterprise.

Enoch Davis, who is in the Utah penitentiary awaiting the death sentence for having murdered his wife, is said to be the only person who can indicate the precise locality of a rich gold mine in the Wahatch mountains. Many persons have appealed to Davis to locate the mine, but thus far he has refused to enlighten any of them on the subject.

The special lecturers for 1894 in Yale theological schools are Revs. David H. Green and Henry A. Stimson, of New York; Rev. Charles H. Richards, of Philadelphia, and Rev. J. L. Stanford, of New Haven.

Chauncey Olcott, who is now at Hookey's theater, Chicago, playing in "Mourning," is accounted by the Tribune, of that city, as a sweet singer, but rather poor actor.

Col. William P. Craighill has left Baltimore to inspect the government improvements now in course of construction along the Atlantic coast line as far South as Florida.

Gen. Leo Roy Kramer, who died on Tuesday at his winter residence in Philadelphia, was the speaker of the first house of representatives of West Virginia.

Under the first private pension bill passed by Congress $2,500 a year was granted to Baron Steuben for his services in the Revolutionary war.

Didn't Comply With the Law. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 23.—The ballot commissioners here decided that the Citizens' ticket is illegal because the candidates' certificates did not have the fifty signatures called for by law. They also refused to put the Republican and Democratic nominees in the new Fifth ward on the ticket, holding that they, too, must be certified by at least fifty signers in the ward. The Fifth is a new ward and never had elections before.

Murdered and Placed on the Track. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

STEVENSVILLE, O., March 23.—The westbound Wheeling & Lake Erie passenger train at 4:25 this evening, ran over and ground up the body of a Hungarian, one mile below Warrenton, this county. It is learned that the Hungarians at that place have been drunk and fighting to-day and murdered the man and placed his body on the track. Coroner Maxwell has gone to the place.

Both Legs Crushed. Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

STEVENSVILLE, O., March 23.—Haskell Holman, an experienced mill worker, was caught and drawn into the couplings of the rolls at the Jefferson mill this evening and had both legs crushed.

HUMANE MOTIVES.

Back of the Attempt to Save the Life of Prendergast.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 23.—Attorney C. S. Darrow said to-day: "The farther away from Chicago you get, the more bitter you will find the feeling against Prendergast. In the southern part of the state the prejudice is intense. Without knowing the first thing about the case, or considering the mental condition of Prendergast, they say 'hang him.'"

"My entire interest in this case," continued Mr. Darrow, who is remarkably in earnest in his effort to save Prendergast, "is that of a humane man. Soon after the assassination of Mayor Harrison, I became impressed with the idea that the outcast who had taken his life was insane and would not receive just treatment in the criminal court. The case was one that could not be passed upon by the average citizen without prejudice. My views were published in a Chicago paper, and I was at once appealed to by the lawyers for the defendant and members of his family. At the Froquois Club I met many prominent men—members of the bench and the bar—who entertained my views. When Prendergast was sentenced to be hanged they argued that some one should take up the case. Mr. Gregory and I agreed to do so and from that time we have done all in our power to save Prendergast from the gallows. All that we have done has been in the interest of justice. We have given our time without compensation and have borne our own expenses."

Messrs. Darrow and Gregory are among the foremost lawyers in Chicago. Their connection with the case has been a surprise as neither needs advertising and both eschew criminal practice.

THE TREND OF TRADE.

R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of the Situation—Business Larger but Less Profitable.

NEW YORK, March 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "It is perplexing to be obliged to report that business grows larger in volume and at the same time not more profitable. Uncertainty does not diminish, but has rather increased in the judgment of many commercial bodies, which have urged the President to veto the seigniorage bill. Prices of commodities do not rise, but are on the whole about 1.5 per cent lower than last week, though then the lowest ever known in this country, and are 12.9 per cent lower than a year ago."

More mills are at work, though the proportion of productive force unemployed is still from a fifth to a third in different branches of industry, and many mills are stopping because their orders have run out, even while a large number are starting with orders enough for a time.

The starting of four furnaces by the Illinois steel company, and one other at Pittsburgh, increases the output of iron and some large sales have been made at the lowest prices yet reported, with indications of continued demand for structural work, especially at the west.

On the other hand the demand seems to slacken and nails are said to be selling lower than ever, below one cent. In minor metals business is a little larger, but at the expense of a further decline to 9.5 cents for lake copper, while tin is steady and lead a shade higher.

Sales of wool for three weeks have exceeded last year's 23.9 per cent, though transactions this month last year were about 19 per cent below the average. There is more demand for such wool as is needed in the manufacture of underwear, dress goods and worsted suitings, but fine fleeces are almost unobtainable.

The failures this week reached 244 in the United States against 217 last year, and 50 in Canada against 25 last year.

ANOTHER WANTED DAY.

Notwithstanding It Was Good Friday Congress Didn't Reform Itself.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23.—The house was in session to-day notwithstanding the fact that this was Good Friday. The industry of the lower branch profited it little, however. The day was passed without a quorum and the attempt to consider the O'Neil-Joy election case was abandoned until next week. The unanimous report of the elections committee in the Wientley-Cobb case confirming the title of the sitting member to his seat was adopted, and the military academy appropriation bill was passed practically without debate. The military academy bill carries $100,438, a reduction of $32,000 compared with the amount appropriated for the current fiscal year. Tomorrow the house will take up the post-office appropriation bill.

FOR SKIN DISEASES

And Blood Poisoning. Doctor Recommends Cuticura Because It Has Never Failed.

Cured in 3 Months, Salt Rheum of 20 Years' Standing Where All Other Remedies Failed.

It gives me pleasure to recommend your CUTICURA to all who are troubled with the various forms of skin diseases and blood poison. I have prescribed your CUTICURA on several occasions, and it has never failed to give good results. I remember one special case in which, where all other remedies failed until I tried your CUTICURA REMEDIES. After using CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the patient was cured and well. She was troubled with salt rheum, and had been a sufferer for over twenty years. After beginning the use of CUTICURA REMEDIES, she was cured sound and well in three months.

Acted Like a Charm.

My wife had eczema on her hand for about five years, and it was nearly unbearable. She tried all sorts of remedies, but at last I induced her to try your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and am pleased to say they acted like a charm, and although it was a year ago, it has not troubled her since. I will strongly recommend your CUTICURA REMEDIES for all such diseases.

THE SUIT GOES ON.

Bondsmen of Ex-Sheriff Curtis, of Brooke County, Must Stand Surety.

WELLSBURG, W. VA., March 23.—At the special session of the county court of Brooke county, held here to-day, the prosecuting attorney was directed to continue the suit instituted by him against the bondsmen of ex-Sheriff Curtis. The suit was entered some time ago, but was ordered discontinued by the county court, they claiming it was instituted by the prosecuting attorney without proper authority. The matter was carried to the circuit court, and a decision favorable to the prosecuting attorney was given. To-day the county court backed down and ordered the suit continued. The matter has been the cause of much bitterness between the county court and prosecuting attorney.

SHOT HIMSELF.

In a Fit of Despondency Caused by Watching Over His Sick Mother.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., March 23.—Louis Butcher, aged 53, committed suicide at his home in South Parkersburg last night. He became despondent and irrational over the loss of sleep by constant watching over his sick mother. At 7:30 she said to him, "Come kiss me, Louis." He replied, "It's too late now, ma," and walked into an adjoining room and shot himself through the head dying instantly. He was an industrious and respected German.
