BOARD OF EDUCATION.

An Interesting and Lengthy Session Held Last Evening.

THE CITY'S LATEST ENUMERATION

As Given by the School Census Enumerators Shows a Falling Off in the Population—Salaries the Same as Last Year—The Old Teachers are Re-elected—Various Committee Reports Acted Upon.

Last evening a regular meeting of the board of education was held, at which President John L. Dickey presided, and Secretary Hall was at his usual post. The attendance considering the hot weather was very good.

The local commission from all the districts excepting Centre, Webster and Lincoln, handed in their lists of teachers for the coming year. There were no changes except in Clay, where Miss Carro Evans, deceased, is succeeded by Miss Mollie Miller. The three districts that did not report will do so at the next meeting.

The public librarian reported a total circulation of books for June of 2,959, an average per day of 197; circulation in reading room 593; fiction as usual predominated, 2,705 volumes circulating during the month. The report for May was also submitted; as the library was closed part of that period the circulation was small, 1,165. The report of Superintendent Anderson was as follows:

Table with columns: Schools, Enrollment for the month, Average daily attendance, Average daily number of pupils, Percent of attendance, No. of cases of truancy, No. of pupils in school, Amount paid for in arrears.

In the German department the enrollment was 458 and the amount paid for instruction $195.

The superintendent also made the following recommendations:

First, that the use of the primary geography in the highest grades of O be begun at the first of the September term instead of the first of January, as it is at present. Second, that Barnes' history be used in the lowest grade of A instead of the Eclectic history. (This will save the purchase of one book.) Third, that a book on mental arithmetic be used in the course and that Dobbs' Mental be the one adopted. The recommendations were favorably acted upon.

The music teacher made report for term ending June 27. The enrollment was 4,345; distributed as follows: Fourth reader, 444; Third reader, 459; Second reader, 1,049; First reader, 1,416; Primer, 335; number of classes, 77.

The committee on text books made its report, and recommended that the contract for furnishing books, stationery, etc., be given Carlo Bros., their bid being the lowest. The committee after due consideration deemed it inadvisable to make the study of music and bookkeeping optional. The report was adopted.

The committee on accounts reported bills amounting to $27 00, which were ordered paid.

The committee on salaries reported the scale for the coming school year, not changed from last year.

The committee on buildings and grounds reported bills, $26 74, on account of Webster school contract, which were ordered paid.

The committee on German language reported that it had noted with pleasure the advancement made in the schools in that language. The committee nominated the following teachers: Miss Minnie Nohard, First and Seventh wards; Miss Luna Riegel, Second and Third wards; Anna Looser, Fifth and Sixth wards; Mrs. F. A. Bertschy, Eighth ward and annex; Miss T. K. Krueger, Fourth and Lincoln school.

The committee on finance submitted a list of approximated expenditures as follows:

Table with columns: School fund, Building fund, Library fund, Total.

The committee reported valuation of city property at $22,000,000, and the school fund portion of the state distributable fund at $15,037 53. The committee considered it necessary to levy a tax of thirty cents per $100 for school fund and nine cents for building fund. The thirty-cent levy was agreed to, but the board saw fit to reduce the building fund levy to six cents, making a very considerable saving to the taxpayers of the city.

The committee on public library reported bills amounting to $193 15; ordered paid; and books were ordered purchased for the library amounting to $57.

KELLY'S HOBOS PASS ON.

They Will Walk to Washington via the National Road.

Kelly's army of hobos bade Washington adieu and farewell Wednesday forenoon, the advance reaching West Washington about 8 o'clock. The Observer says: They formed in double column as they came down the National pike and up Chestnut street, where a large crowd had gathered to see them. They marched along Chestnut to College street, and down College to Maiden street, and out Maiden to the foot of Brady's hill, where they went into camp for the day. E. W. Baxter, who is leading this contingent of the Kelly commonwealers in the absence of Kelly, called upon Burgess Curran and requested that his men be allowed to solicit aid in Washington. The burgess refused this, but promised that if the march be taken up during the day he would try to have provisions sent out. Mr. Curran then went among a number of merchants, and a wagon load of food, clothes and shoes were taken out before noon. The army remained during the afternoon enjoying the first good meal they have had for several days, and putting in the time by washing out many of their garments in a stream nearby. For supper they enjoyed the remnants of dinner and about 7 o'clock took up their march to the capital. The contributions of Washington's merchants and butchers had given them a store of provisions that each man of the hundred carried with him at least enough for two meals more. The intention of the marchers was to march along the pike until 11 o'clock and then go into camp till early morning, when they will take up the march again and continue until 11 o'clock, resting again until evening. During the hot weather this will be kept up, giving the men two marches in the coolest part of the day and two rests. Their intention is to follow the pike to Cumberland and thence to Washington, D. C.
