Relay Cyclists Leave the Reaper With His Scythe

IN THE REAR OF THE PROCESSION.

The Race Passed Through Wheeling Yesterday and It

EXCITED GREAT DEAL OF INTEREST

Not Only Among Wheelmen, But With the People Generally—Story of the Race Yesterday—Some Time Lost in Washington County, But It Is Now Being Made Up—Dillon and McGinnis Break Records—A Big Crowd Sees the Race Here—Other News of Athletics and Sport.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

ZANESVILLE, OHIO, August 7.—The last of the quartette of Cambridge riders, Moore, Blair, Salmon and Fulton, carrying the Washington-Denver relay packet on its westward way, got into town at 9:15 p. m. (Standard time), and the waiting Zanesville rider was immediately started on his scorch through the darkness over the pike. It is thought Newark, twenty-five miles, will be reached at midnight. The Cambridge boys had a hard time on the hills east of this place. (The relayists are now 1 hour 37 minutes ahead of time.)

"N to Denver" was the word with the cyclist yesterday. It was the day on which the great Washington City-Denver relay bicycle race was to pass through this city, and the interest taken in this the greatest undertaking ever attempted by American cyclists, or of the world for that matter, was manifested by the people who throughout the morning and early afternoon watched eagerly for the bulletins which were posted at the INTELLIGENCER office every few minutes.

The race was engineered through the territory under the control of Chief Consul Stamp, of this city, from West Alexander to Zanesville in the best possible shape; this also applies to the territory handled by Vice Consul J. Wado McGowan, of Pittsburgh, in Pennsylvania.

The progress of the race up to the arrival at Cumberland, Md., yesterday morning at 1:20, was chronicled in the INTELLIGENCER yesterday. From Cumberland west toward Uniontown, Pa., the road goes through a mountainous region and it was no wonder that some time was lost in going over that relay. As it was the relayists arrived in Uniontown at 9:57 a. m., 8 hours and 37 minutes out of Cumberland, 70 miles. The distance from Uniontown to Brownsville, 20 miles, was taken care of by E. A. Rogers and W. G. White, both of Pittsburgh, who set a rattling pace and arrived at Brownsville at 11:17. Here there was a DELAY OF FOUR MINUTES, and at 11:21 W. G. Hornell and C. Theson got away on the first relay of eight miles; there they were relieved by Frank Orr and C. Hornell, who plugged another eight miles, after which they delivered the black leather pouch containing the presidential epistle to Robert West and Charles Myers, who took the road for Washington, where they arrived at 1:33 p. m.

At Washington W. M. Imhoff, A. C. Hess and J. K. Newburn took up the thread of the race to West Alexander. They should have made the distance, sixteen miles in an hour, but it was 3:25 p. m., when Lester Dillon was given the package by Hess at the West Virginia-Pennsylvania state line, nearly two hours after the departure from Washington. The cause of the delay was not ascertained last evening.

Dillon, who was paced by George Tinker, the Linsly champion, had ridden out to West Alec in the morning and was in good shape for rapid riding. He took the package in a flying start, and with Tinker slightly in the lead set out on a terrific pace that looked good to establish a new record for the nine and one-half miles to the Grove. Both riders continued their reckless pace, and twice on hills had falls for their pains, but they were infused with the SPIRIT OF THE ENTERPRISE and determined that they would not lag in the hot pace set for them by the Maryland boys on the first day of the race. Once on the level stretches of road along winding Wheeling creek with the grade in their favor the pair fairly flew along. Just as they were starting over the bridge into Elm Grove their destination, their wheels went into sand and they were thrown to the ground. Dillon extricated himself from the debris, and without looking to see whether Tinker, the wheels, or both were injured, started on a dead run for the Baltimore & Ohio crossing in Elm Grove, where John Arbenz was to receive the relay package. Arbenz was there, received the package and was at once speeding down the pike toward Altenheim, three miles away. In the meantime Dillon retraced his steps and found that Tinker had not been injured, and that the wheels were also all right. Dillon and Tinker's time into Elm Grove, 9.5 miles from the state line was 30 minutes flat and beats the best record for the distance and course.

Arbenz, who since his recent fast performance in the INTELLIGENCER and Pittsburgh Press road races, has been considered one of the best local men on the road, fully maintained his reputation on his ride to Altenheim, doing the distance, three miles, over many a hard hill, including the famous and HEATHENDING CHICKEN-NECK, in ten minutes. At Altenheim Jason Stamp was waiting and a skillful transfer of the packet was made to West Virginia's "First Wheelman," who set out on one of the best road rides of his life, along the pike to Fulton, over the hill and down town to Main and Ninth streets, nearly three miles, which was done in a little under ten minutes.

At Ninth and Main streets a crowd that perhaps numbered five hundred people had gathered and was waiting patiently for the first sign of the coming relayist. There was many a false alarm, but finally, at 4:15, the figure of a cyclist pumping as though for life above in sight, and as his familiar white sweater was recognized the cry went up "There he comes," and the crowd surged outside the street. Stamp came down the street like a house afire, only slowing up enough to allow Lane to catch the relay packet as he tossed it to him. Lane made a very neat catch, and with Frank Wheat ahead as pacemaker spurred down Main toward the steel bridge.

While the exchange was being made the crowd enthused considerably and gave the riders a rousing cheer. It was all over so far as Wheeling was concerned in ten seconds, Lane getting around onto the bridge in a remarkably short time.

ON OVER THE ISLAND he sped, hundreds of people on the Garden Spot being out to catch a glimpse of the longest race ever attempted on wheels or any other vehicle for that matter. At Bridgeport there was a good sized crowd, but Lane pushed through and was soon pedaling for all he was worth along the pike. His relay ended at Blaine, six miles out, and he made the distance in twenty minutes exactly, arriving there at 4:35 p. m.

Here, the next relayist, J. A. McGinnis, of this city, with George W. Zimmerman, his pacemaker, were stationed, and another finely executed exchange was made, after which McGinnis started up the long St. Clairville hill, nearly two miles. The pair made good time, McGinnis succeeding in breaking the record for climbing the hill, doing it in 12 minutes, 20 seconds, best previous time being 14 minutes. On the level above the hill fast time was made, and at 5:03 p. m., 28 minutes after leaving Blaine, six miles in the rear, McGinnis handed to Wood Harrison, of St. Clairsville, the packet. Harrison, who is one of St. Clairsville's best, set a terrific pace, and five and one-half miles out, at Lloydsville, which he reached at 4:24 p. m., (standard time), 21 minutes riding time, he was relieved by Harry Norris, who took up the thread to Morristown, four and one-half miles, which he made in 18 minutes, time of arrival, 4:42, (standard time). At Morristown Ray Tallman took the packet and rode to Henrysburg, five miles in 25 minutes, arriving there at 5:07 p. m. At that point, according to a telephone message received by the INTELLIGENCER, the Barnesville relayists were on hand, and at once started for Cambridge.

Zimmer Did Not Appear.

BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND, August 7.—Harry Wheeler, the American, won the one mile handicap bicycle race here today. Wheeler started from the 35-yard mark, and won by four yards in 2 minutes, 26 seconds. Edwards, of London, was second and James, of Cardiff, was third. Edwards and James also started from the 35-yard mark. George Hanker, of Pittsburgh, was beaten in his heat. Arthur A. Zimmerman, the champion did not compete.

This Sounds Fishy.

MINNEAPOLIS, August 7.—John S. Johnson, the Minneapolis bicyclist, has decided to enter the ranks of the professionals and go to Paris, there to race against Zimmerman and other professionals. He will probably start for Paris immediately after the conclusion of the Minneapolis meet this week. His appearance as a professional will be a great surprise.

BRITANNIA DISQUALIFIED.

The Prince of Wales' Cutter Crosses the Line Too Soon.

COWES (ISLE OF WIGHT), August 7.—In the race for her majesty's cup, in the Royal Yacht Squadron regatta to-day, for all yachts belonging to the squadron, old queen's course revised, the prince of Wales' cutter Britannia, Emperor William's cutter Meteor, Admiral Montagu's 40-rater cutter Carina, Lord Dunraven's 62-rater L'Esperance, W. R. Cookson's 62-rater Castnet and the Gibraltar Mohawk, started at 10 a. m. The Britannia crossed the line before the gun was fired and was therefore disqualified. The Carina led, followed by the Meteor.

The weather was brilliant. Everybody interested in yachting seemed to be here to-day, for the visit of the Vigilant has aroused an interest in yachting never before manifested, even at the English headquarters of the most aristocratic aquatic tournaments. There was disappointment at the disqualification of the Britannia at the start, but there was no disappointment at the fact that the Vigilant, not being a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron, was unable to compete for the Queen's cup. However, both Vigilant and Britannia are entered for to-morrow's racing, when they will compete for the Royal Yacht Squadron prize of £100 for all yachts exceeding 41 rating, belonging to any recognized yacht club. The race to-morrow will be over the queen's course, which has already been proved to be eminently suited to the American yacht, as it has but four turns and is likely to enable her to win another victory over the prince of Wales' cutter.

The two yachts spent the day in repairing the damage which they sustained in scraping the shore in the huffing match which took place off Ventnor yesterday.

Encouragement for Steel Producers.

Springfield, Mass., Republican.

The Financial Chronicle extracts from the report of the recent American iron and steel association a point of great significance. This is that while the production of steel rails has been very small in the last twelve months (being only about 731,500 tons, against 1,300,400 tons in the previous twelve months), the production of finished steel for other purposes has been nearly as large as then, and has greatly increased in the past six months over the previous half year—showing that the consumption of steel outside of the rail demand is about as large as when the industry was more active.
