

POTTERY MAY QUIT.

The Sanitary Department of the Wheeling Pottery

WILL REMAIN UNOPERATED NOW

Unless the Workmen Can Agree with the Company on the Wage Scale. Trouble at the La Belle Plant is Settled for the Present—Tariff Legislation Figures as One of the Causes. Where Foreign Competition Will Come From.

The labor difficulties at the two South Side plants of the Wheeling Pottery Company have been disposed of in a way, though there is no settlement of the matters at issue. At the LaBelle plant the bone of contention, the "Triumph" dinner set, the designs have been withdrawn and the goods will not be manufactured.

The committee of workmen from the sanitary department of the company saw President Franzheim yesterday afternoon, but the meeting was without success. The men held out for the old prices, and Mr. Franzheim stood firm in the position he had before taken, as outlined in the INTELLIGENCER yesterday, that the company could not pay higher wages than is paid for the same work elsewhere.

To this the men would not agree, so the company announces its intention to close down the sanitary department permanently unless the workmen will accept the wages offered. President Franzheim said last night that the men must return to work at once or the works would be shut down indefinitely for two reasons, first, that the company cannot afford to pay higher wages than are being paid elsewhere for the same work, and second, that the new tariff conditions have put the pottery business in the United States in such a shape that it is doubtful whether it can be prosecuted with profit until there is an increase in the scale of duties on imports.

Continuing he said: "The pottery interests in this country have been cut worse in the new tariff legislation at Washington than any other American industry, and yet it is an industry that needs protection more than almost any other, because we are paying higher wages by 125 per cent than is paid for the same work in England, 200 per cent more than in Germany, and 300 per cent more than in Japan. Further, we feel that we should get the work done in our plants at as reasonable prices as in other places in this country, because our factories are fitted up so that everything is convenient for the workmen, advantages not seen in many other potteries where the same wages are paid. The men in the sanitary department knew when they went to work exactly what they were to get, and we know that they can make from $4 to $5 per day at the wage scale now in effect. If the men do not accept our terms and return to work, the sanitary department will be shut down and one hundred men thrown out of employment. A portion of the old pottery, where C. C. Ware is manufactured, will continue to operate."

The general idea is that the English and Germans will take possession of the American market for pottery under the new tariff conditions. President Franzheim, who is undoubtedly an authority on the subject, states that the home potters need not look to England and Germany for the pottery ware that will flood the country from abroad when the new tariff law goes into effect. The fiercest competition will come from an opposite direction—Japan, the nation of Orientals, that of late years has copied so well and extensively from western nations. Japanese pottery is acknowledged to be the best made anywhere and is manufactured at prices that the American potter cannot attempt to compete with. There the potter receives about twenty-five cents per day for his work. Mr. Franzheim gives as an instance of what the Japanese can do, the umbrella stand seen in many American hallways. It is sold here for ninety-nine cents, and in an American factory could not be made for several times that money. The same ratio applies to other articles of pottery. Up to the present the importations of Japanese pottery have been confined to articles of bric-a-brac, not in competition, of course, with the product of American potteries. All this will be changed, however, when the new pottery tariff schedule goes into effect. For the past two years, says Mr. Franzheim, agents of the enterprising Japanese potteries have been in this country looking over the field and ascertaining just what goods in the pottery line are popular and saleable here. The result is that the twenty-five-cent a day Japs will soon be manufacturing goods of exactly the same character as the product of the Wheeling potteries, and of course the latter will not be in it. This is truly an encouraging prospect for the American potter!

Industrial Briefs.

The eight-inch mill at the Etina-Standard will resume to-day.

The Belaire steel works start up this morning, the delay of an extra day being caused by the non-arrival of metal.

The Pittsburgh & Wheeling Coal Company is not only getting the mines at Crescent, O., ready to start, but contemplates opening mines at Jug run.

Fred M. Strong assumed his duties as secretary of the Laughlin nail works yesterday. He was formerly secretary of the Nail City stamping works and the Wheeling Glass, Crockery and Lamp Exchange.

A Narrow Escape.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

CALDWELL, O., August 15.—While E. F. Hanks, of Wheeling, who is to make balloon ascensions at the reunion at this place next Friday and Saturday, was giving an open air exhibition on a rope stretched from a three story building at this place this evening, a large chimney pulled over, causing Mr. Hanks to fall about twenty feet, but luckily the rope caught and held, thereby preventing his instant death. He was suspended about fifty feet in the air.

Probably Fatal Runaway.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligence.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., August 15.—Another terrible runaway accident occurred last evening twenty miles south of this city. An old gentleman, named Aaron Martin, with his two sons and a neighbor, named Mounts, were driving home, when the horse took fright and threw the wagon with its occupants down an incline. Aaron Martin, the driver, being it is thought fatally injured, and the other men sustaining severe and dangerous injuries about the head and body.

"BUYA DA BANAN"

Is the Cry Now Heard at Almost Every Street Corner.

WONDERFULLY LOW PRICES RULE

Just at Present for the Luscious Tropical Fruit—Five Cents a Dozen at Retail—Causes of the Disastrously Low Figures Prevalent Here at Present—Ten Car Loads in a Week Brought to Wheeling.

The golden-bued, luscious banana occasionally gets down to disastrously low prices in the eastern marts, where immense quantities are received every day in the year, but in interior centers like Wheeling ordinarily the supply and demand average about the same, therefore the prices are generally steady. This week, however, banana quotations have taken a tumble such as was never before experienced here. Last week the ruling wholesale quotations were $1 and $2 per bunch; now the quotations are at 50 cents and $1.25 per bunch, and sales of ripe fruit have been made as low as 30 cents a bunch. The cause of this big decline in quotations is that more bananas are being received than the community can consume. Ordinarily one or two car loads per week are sufficient for this town, both for local consumption and for the jobbing trade. Within the past five days about ten car loads have been received by local commission houses from the eastern importers on commission, and the competition between the different firms to get rid of their stocks has brought the quotations down to the unprecedented figures named.

The slump in the wholesale quotations has of course had its effect on the retail prices, and explains in part the number of banana peddlers that are now crying "da banan" at almost every street corner. Usually fifteen cents per dozen is considered a low price for the fruit, but now five cents per dozen allows the hawk a pretty fair profit. The low prices have of course created an unusually large temporary consumption of the banana.

THE MARSHALL INSTITUTE.

The Daily Sessions Continue as Interesting as Ever—Large Enrollment.

The Marshall county institute was opened yesterday morning with the usual exercises, singing and prayer. Rev. Mr. Holt led the prayer. A communication was read from William B. Mathews, of Washington, D. C., giving the per cent of the population of West Virginia who could neither read nor write at different-stated times.

The roll was called and arithmetic taken up by W. S. Powell. It was his second lesson in mensuration. Several problems were worked and explained.

The next subject was civil government, by D. T. Williams. It was the last lesson in this branch for this year. The lesson was on the government of this state. L. M. Crow read a full account of the secession of old Virginia and the formation of the state of West Virginia. A short recess was taken, and the remainder of the morning was occupied by Prof. Lee with mathematical geography. The afternoon session was much more interesting than the morning.

Prof. Corley addressed the teachers in a forcible manner on the subject of "Be What You Attempt to Teach." The address was full of life and interest and the teachers were much pleased with it. The professor is much in sympathy with them and is doing a good work in the institute, much appreciated by the teachers.

This was followed by grammar, by D. T. Williams, on the inductive verb. The roll was then called and a few minutes' intermission was taken. After recess, bookkeeping was called. D. Bonar was to have charge. He took the floor and waited awhile for the teachers to get quiet, but order seemed to be out of the question, so Mr. Bonar grew indignant and took his seat and refused to do anything with the lesson.

Physiology came next, under charge of J. T. King. The effect of alcohol on the human body was thoroughly treated and discussed. Mr. King is very much opposed to the use of stimulants, and could not find language strong enough to be in denouncing it.

The county employs 140 teachers, and 191 are enrolled. The over enrollment is due to a number of teachers coming in from Wetzel county, and a few others who are not teachers, but who are interested in the institute work.

Professor D. W. Shields, of New Martinsville, and Professor Lee, of Huntington, have been present during the week and have lent some of their best efforts to the work. They are both great favorites with the teachers of the county.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than make good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale, Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, coughs and colds, each bottle guaranteed—Electric Bitters, the great remedy for liver, stomach and kidneys, Beckett's Arica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them and the dealer whose name is attached herewith will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at Logan Drug Company's drug store.

WARM WEATHER WISDOM.

SOME MERCHANTS would have you believe that trade enters a condition of torpidity about July 1, and remains so till the cool days of September wake it to life and activity again.

But, begging your pardon, that is not true. There is no season of the year in which people do not buy goods; there is no season in which they do not want them. By the same token, there is no season in which it will not pay to advertise.

However, if your neighbor has this old-fashioned notion, and is too conservative to advertise now, there is all the better chance for you. If you think people are not hunting bargains in warm weather, try it.

Everybody is out of town, by a large majority!
