

CENTRAL LEAGUE

Is a Go, and the Circuit Will Consist of Eight Clubs IN EASY REACH OF EACH OTHER

The Cities Composing the Organization are Wheeling, New Castle, Washington, Youngstown, East Liverpool, Dennison, Bradford and Jamestown—Success of the Scheme Assured—The Leaders of the Musee Bowling League Beaten Three Straight Games by the Browns, which Allows the Latter Team to Occupy First Place—General Sporting Notes.

The Central base ball league, which will in a measure take the place of the Iron and Oil league, after incubating for some time has at last materialized. The league will be composed of eight clubs with teams located in this city, New Castle, Washington and Youngstown, as previously stated in this paper. The remaining clubs will go to East Liverpool, Twin City (Denison, G.), Bradford and Celoron (Jamestown, N. Y.). The meeting for organization will probably be held in Youngtown the second week in January.

A circuit seems to be a satisfactory one with the exception of the Celoron club, which is located at Jamestown, N. Y. McKeesport would have been much more to the liking of Wheeling. It is to be hoped that some measures will be taken to keep the league intact until the close of the season, so as not to have a repetition of the miserable fiasco in the Inter-State and Iron and Oil organizations of last year.

Of the new clubs to be admitted, Celoron and Twin City were members of the Iron and Oil league. The Celoron team will be controlled by N. E. Broadhead, who owned the team last year. Mr. Broadhead is known in a business way as the Celoron Amusement Company. He runs a summer resort on Lake Chautauqua, and he wants the base ball team as an attraction. During the two months the team played last year, it cost Mr. Broadhead over $1,000, but he will start with the season and carry his team to the end. The Twin City team will be owned by a stock company, headed by President Myers. Bradford will also be controlled by a stock company. All these clubs have good grounds.

East Liverpool will have a stock company. There has been no league team at East Liverpool for several seasons, but it is known as one of the best base ball towns of its size in the country, and has since supported a strong independent team. The old Crookery City grounds were fixed up last year at an expense of over $2,000, and the club has secured them. The reason McKeesport was left out is not, as the Pittsburgh Times, says that the other towns are better located for circuit purposes. The Wheeling, Twin City, Washington and East Liverpool teams will be within sixty miles of each other, and local feeling will help the game along. The rivalry between Youngstown and New Castle has amounted almost to animosity in past seasons, and Jamestown and Bradford will doubtless have their own little differences to settle. The jumps will be short, which is a great factor in the expense account. The league will apply for protection under the national agreement in Class B.

New Castle is already getting a "move on." The stockholders of the base ball club will hold a meeting shortly after the first of the year to elect officers and make arrangements for placing a first class club in the field. It is the intention of the directors to secure first class players early in the season and not wait as they did last season until heavy rain had made the playing club. An effort will be made to get Thompson, of Pittsburgh, the last season manager, to reconsider his decision not to act as the manager of any club next season. He will at least be offered the first bag. Tom O'Brien, the fielder, will be re-engaged if possible, as will be Torreyson, George Smith, and several others, including the manager, the pitcher, who won the game from Boston.

AN EVENT IN BOWLING.

The Invincible Nameless Beaten by the Browns and Go Into Second Place.

MUSEE LEAGUE table with columns for Nameless, W, L, Pct.

The Nameless team, of the Musee league, fell down with a very dull thud before the invincible rolling of the Browns last night, losing three straight games and going to second place. Hervey and Turner, of the Browns, were chiefly responsible for the victory of their team. The star rollers of the Nameless put up a very indifferent game. Following is the score:

The Panacea of Removing a Player will Not Likely be Adopted. Ben Mulford, Jr., the bright and entertaining base ball writer, of Cincinnati, has the following remarks to make about a proposed base ball rule:

"In just about a month it will be profitable to discuss proposed changes in the rules of the ball play for it is at the February meeting of the league that the amendments must be put up for consideration and it is perfectly free from objectionable substance."

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

sult in the mutilation of the mogula's own fond hopes and the breeding of the spirit of riot among the cranks. The removal of a player or two which might entail the loss of a game, would only react on the club suffering defeat, while the offending player would be in a position to whittle the time that the old crowd died on. The funeral would be none of his, and the mogula would have to pay all the expense."

New Idea in Howling Alleys. A New York letter has the following: An alloy built of steel has been opened in Brooklyn, and works like a charm. The alleys are built of a number of steel plates, welded closely together, each plate being six feet long, thirty-eight inches wide, and weighing 230 pounds. It is almost impossible for the alley to get out of plumb, but, should any part of it sag or become depressed in any way, it can be easily remedied. As howling is one of the fads in this section, the amount of steel liable to be consumed when the wood now in use wears out, is not to be sneezed at.

THE COKE CONFLICT.

Rainey Refuses to Raise the Price—Frick's Advance Considered a Squeeze. Local iron manufacturers were very much pleased over the determination of W. J. Rainey, the next largest producer and strongest competitor of the Frick coke syndicate in the Connellsville field, to keep at the $12.25 rate for coke in spite of the fact that syndicate had advanced prices to $2.

According to Mr. Rainey there was no reason for this remarkable advance, as the present state of the iron trade did not warrant it. He claims that it does not take a seer to discover the ulterior motive of the Frick people, more or less under the direct influence of Andrew Carnegie. The Frick company controls 11,629 and Rainey operates 1,501 ovens in the Connellsville district, and the action taken is nothing more than an attempt on the part of the Carnegie interests to squeeze their smaller competitors.

Mr. Rainey, when asked whether he would raise the price of coke to the Frick quotation, said: "No, I shall not do so. The present low price of iron does not, in my opinion, warrant any increased cost to the operators. The price of my coke to furnaces after January 1 will be $12.25. As I am not in the iron and steel business, it is to my advantage to have customers continually use coke. Of course, if I was a large manufacturer of steel, it might be to my interest to put coke to a price the furnaces could not afford to pay, and if they were obliged to shut down in consequence I would have the greatest market for my product."

"As it is, all I can say is that I think the present price of coke high enough. We have advanced our laborers the additional 10 per cent."

When asked if he thought the coke price was increased in the interest of the iron and steel trade, he replied: "Not by Mr. Frick himself, but Mr. Carnegie's influence I think, caused the advance. He is largely interested in the development of the coke regions, and is also a manufacturer of iron and steel. If coke cost the iron men more, they would have to sell their iron at an advanced price. But I have no iron mills, and intend to supply my customers with coke at the old price."

Cold can be counteracted by a pure stimulant, and there is only one that is reliable—Duffy's Pure Malt.

Cold comfort awaits the man or woman who fails to act upon this suggestion whenever a chill makes its appearance.

Cold shoulder and even contempt should be shown any druggist or grocer who tries to sell you something which he says is "just as good." He is deceiving you.
