WILLIE AT THE THEATRE.

His Mother Seemed to be Having a Terrible Time of It.

Philadelphia Enquirer: Willie's mama had promised to take him to the theatre if he would only stop asking so many foolish questions. Willie had been there with his uncle once before. When Willie went to sleep that night his mind was filled with visions of the Indians, scouts, cowboys, prairie maidens, stage coaches and all the what-nots of a western drama. He slept very late the next day and his mama had to wake him. "Come, Willie," she said, "it's almost time to go to the matinee. You ought to be ashamed of yourself, sleeping so late."

So Willie got up and two hours after that he and his mama were seated in the theatre. Willie never said a word till a cowboy ran across the stage, followed by an Indian. Then he commented: "Mama, what did that man run across the stage for?" His mama, deeply engrossed in the play, answered mechanically: "He was running for his life."

"Who had it, mama?" "Who had what?" "His life."

"Oh, he had it, of course; now don't bother me!"

"I thought you said he was running for it."

"So he was."

"Well, what was he running for it for when he had it?"

"Oh, goodness, Willie; you don't understand. That Indian you saw following him was after it."

"I thought you said the man was after it himself."

"No, no; the man was running to save his life."

"Who was he going to save it for?" "He wants it himself, of course."

"I thought you said the Indian wanted it."

"Yes, but the man ain't going to let him have it."

"Why?"

"Well, if you don't shut up, I'll take you right home."

"What for?"

"Because I want to listen to the play."

"Is the band going to play?"

"I thought you said you wanted to listen to it."

"I mean what the actors are talking about."

"Mama—" Just then the bell rang for a drop.

"Mama, there goes the telephone. Did the Indian catch the man?"

"What will he do if he does catch him?"

"Why, he's supposed to take his scalp."

"What's that?"

"He cuts his hair off."

"Is he a barber?"

"No."

"Ain't the man got money enough to go to a barber?"

"Willie, will you hush and watch the play?"

"No."

"Just heard a man tell somebody to make for home as fast as he could."

"He's going for help."

"Servant girls?"

"No, soldiers."

"Do soldiers do housework?"

"No, in the field."

"Left field or right field?"

"Goodness me, what are you talking about anyhow?"

"The play—"

A long shrill whistle is heard behind the scenes.

"Mama, here comes a policeman."

"No; that's a signal."

"Is it a cold wave signal?"

"No, the soldiers are in ambush."

"Who?"

"Ham Bush."

"Willie, the soldiers are hiding in the grass. They expect the Indians to come this way, and they are going to save the prisoners when the old scout gives them the cue."

"Are the prisoners Chinamen?"

"No, No! No!"

"Didn't you say the scout was going to give them his cue?"

"I mean when the scout gives them the signal by raising his hat."

"Why don't he raise a flag?"

"He hasn't got any."

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The Shaker who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer or the butcher who gives us short weights, is a thief. However, their knavery touches nothing in our pocketbook. There is another wholesale grocer of more importance—a far more dangerous and villainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a cure is to brand it as a quick producer, and we can guarantee a cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as honest, upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicine has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia.

A medicine of this kind, which not only has to last long, but which holds fast that which is good, have put upon the market ten cent sample bottles of their product, or sufficient to give a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so pure in its action that for the trivial sum of ten cents, a person can easily determine as to whether or not it meets the requirements of his case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves all distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows. All persons who are troubled with indigestion send out and try this popular and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

Story that Pleased Emerson.

Professor William Matthews, in the Golden Rule, says that Ralph Waldo Emerson was once greatly amused with the following anecdote: A lady, deeply veiled and dressed in mourning, was riding in a stage coach in Vermont, opposite to whom sat a small, sharp-featured, black-eyed woman, who began catechising her thus: "Have you lost friends?" "Yes, I have." "Was they near friends?" "Yes, they was." "How near?" "A husband and a brother." "Where did they die?" "Down to Mobile." "What did they die with?" "Yellow fever." "Was they long sick?" "Not very." "Was they safer in men?" "Yes, they was." "Did you get their chests?" "Yes, I did." "Was they hopeful?" "Well, if you and trust they was." "You got their chests, and they was hopefully plous, you have great reason to be thankful." The stress laid on the "chests" and the "plous" of their rescue before the pity of the lost husband and brother as reasons for thankfulness struck Emerson as a decidedly characteristic of a certain class of "chests" and "plous" and infinitely mirth-provoking.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Features of the Money and Stock Markets.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Money on call easy at 2 per cent; last loan 2 per cent; closed at 2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. Sterling exchange heavy, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85 1/2 for demand and $4.87 1/2 for sixty days. Discount rates $4.85 1/2 for 60 days, $4.87 1/2 for 90 days. Commercial bills at $4.85 1/2. Bar silver 68 1/2. Silver certificates 67 1/2 to 68 1/2.

Speculation to-day developed heaviness, which was largely influenced by evidence of liquidation in some of the low priced shares. The news of the day having a general bearing, lacked importance aside from the treasury call on the depositary banks for the balance of their holdings of government money, amounting to about $4,500,000. The withdrawal of so large an amount, following the recent call for a similar sum, is not expected to cause any special change in the money market, a fact which is reflected in the significant reflection of the apathy of speculation in Wall street.

The industrial covered a wide range, and in this group interest centered in Sugar, which has been most adversely manipulated for some time past on a variety of pretenses. The street had been misled by a fact which the treasury call on the depositary banks for the balance of their holdings of government money, amounting to about $4,500,000. The withdrawal of so large an amount, following the recent call for a similar sum, is not expected to cause any special change in the money market, a fact which is reflected in the significant reflection of the apathy of speculation in Wall street.

The Spur of Poverty.

Walter Besant, in the Queen: Some of the American millionaires have been lamenting of their millions. It is, they say, a most deplorable thing to be rich; there are dreadful accompaniments of riches; nobody should desire to be rich. Well, the world listens, smiles, and then goes on trying to get rich. And the millionaires do not lay down their millions, heavy though the burden be. Nor do they, in any wise, give over their poverty, precious though their possessions be. Nor do rich men change places with poor; they exchange with each other. In a foolish story which I wrote some time ago they did exchange, but an incredulous world refused to believe the thing possible. For there is one reason, and only one—but it is sufficient—why it will always be a great and a most desirable thing to be rich. That reason is the removal of anxiety about the future. For the rich man his future is provided; he need not save, or take thought, or work for his old age, for his widow, for his girls. There are ten hands. Five-sixths, at least, take no thought for the morrow, being fully occupied with to-day. The remainder, being men of professions and of trades, are continually solicitous and anxious about the future. This anxiety once removed, they would be much more contented. The real evil about present poverty, if it does not lead to great wealth or administration, it takes from a man not only the stimulus, but the power to work. No great discovery, no great work of art, no great invention, no great achievement of any kind outside administration, which includes statesmanship, has ever been done by a rich man. In literature, art and science it is necessary—the curse of labor—which has made the worker give to the world his best productions. Some years ago a book appeared advocating in a dozen essays the Endowment of Research. Foolish book! It is because research is not conducted that men do follow research, not suddenly and without warning or cessation. Make Huxley, make Tyndall, a millionaire, and they will work out no more researches. Make them professors and they will have to work, if only to earn their salaries.

Breakfasts and Provisions.

CHICAGO—Wheat to-day fluctuated in a way to satisfy the most ardent wishes of the most exacting scalpers. July ranged over an advance of 3c per bushel. It made a 2c spread early and a 3c drop later. It closed with a net loss for the day of 1 1/2c per bushel. Bad crop reports on one hand and a very disappointing world's visible decrease on the other, were responsible for the phenomenal fluctuations. Corn, oats and provisions all ruled easier and made slight declines.
