FOR THE FIRST TIME

In Two Years the Aetna-Standard Mills Are on in Full.

THE IMMENSE ESTABLISHMENT

Across the River Running Full Time and with Full Forces in all Departments. Orders Received in Past Ten Days which Have Brought About this Happy Situation—Orders Being Received Every Day, Making Prospects Flattering.

For the first time in two years, the great industrial establishment across the river in Aetnaville, the Aetna-Standard Iron and steel works, is working full forces in all of the many departments, which gives employment to about 2,000 men. This satisfactory condition of affairs was arrived at yesterday, and the prospects are flattering for a long continued run with a full force.

During the last ten days the Aetna-Standard company has received large orders from its customers, sufficient to keep all departments going at their full capacity for the ensuing two months. Orders continue to roll in at a satisfactory rate and the works will probably have a steady run for some time. Needless to say, had the result of the late election been other than what it was, the Aetna-Standard mills would not be making their present satisfactory showing.

IN THE OIL FIELDS.

Wells Coming in in Various Parts of the Southwest.

In the Jake's run district, Monongalia county, the South Penn Oil Company has completed its No. 4 on the U. M. Billingsley farm and has a duster.

The wildcatter in Ritchie and Wood counties, W. Va., is keeping up the search for new pools despite the fact that he has not had very good success recently.

On Indian creek, Putney district, the Central Production Company has drilled through all sands on the P. H. Thorp farm and found nothing in any of them.

In the same district the Cairo Oil Company is down seven hundred feet with a test well located on the Jacob Riggs farm, on the south fork of Huches river, and two and one-half miles east of McFarland creek.

Gilbert & Company have made a location on the Charles Shattuck farm, on Stillwell creek, Clay district, Wood county.

In the same county, Parkersburg district, a Pittsburgh company is down seven hundred feet with a test well on the R. H. Marsh farm, located on Marsh run.

A Marietta company is fishing in the Becca at a test well on the George Moore farm, on Worthington creek, Wood county.

In Williams district, Wood county, the same parties have finished a dry hole on the Davis farm.

Beatty & Company are drilling in the Becca on the Thompson farm, Clay district, Wood county. Tennant & Company are drilling a test well on the J. W. Goodwin farm, in the same district.

The foregoing are all experimental wells, drilled or drilling with a view to finding new pools.

A mile east of the big Hardman tract, in Doddridge county, Murphy, Jennings & company are building a rig on the Hardman two hundred acres. This will be their first venture on this part of the Hardman property.

The Kanawha Oil company has drilled its No. 4 on the Mills tract, Wetzel county, through the Big Injun and is now going down to the Gordon; No. 5 on the same tract is drilling and is down 1,000 feet.

In the Benwood district, Monroe county, the test well on the McFarland farm, located northeast of the wells on the Wood and Price farms, is drilling near the top of the sand. Up to this time the best wells have been found north and northeast of the original well on the W. H. Price farm.

AMUSEMENTS.

The following clipping from the Port Hope, Ont., Times will be interesting to Wheeling people, as Miss Myra Collins is a native of this city: "There was piles of fun at the opera house last night, and Dan Simons didn't make it all either. A fellow named O'Connell brought his best girl and his niece black mustache to the show so that they might have a good time and thoroughly enjoy themselves. And they did. That is, O'Connell and his girl did. So did the boys in the gallery, where the happy young couple sat. It hardly got his overcoat off and his hat stowed away, when he turned toward his beloved and gave her a long and rapturous look. She seemed to feel the magnetism of his gaze, for she turned to him with a look resembling that of a dying calf and long and lovingly they gazed into each other's eyes. Then he took a candy out of his pocket, took a bite off it gently—how gently—the placed it between her lips. The crowd around them wasn't sneaking or anything, of course. But they didn't care. The curtain rose finally, and though the couple momentarily looked in that direction, the crowd didn't. There was more fun in the gallery. They went there to see the Myra Collins show, but they didn't care a cent for it now. There was a better one nearest to them, and they did not dare to look at the stage for fear they'd miss something. Whenever anything particularly funny or some good piece of acting was done, and there was no lack of that, the love-sick twain would turn one to the other and gaze into the depths of each other's eyes, and he'd take another candy out of his pocket and take a bite out of it and put the rest of it in her mouth and she'd thank him with a sickly grin. "Oh, 'twas fun!" "Yes, wondrous fun!" and the boys thoroughly enjoyed it. Myra Collins couldn't understand why half of her audience paid no attention to her splendid acting, but when she sees The Times to-night she will understand all about it."

A Booming Town.

This intensely funny musical farce comedy will make its first appearance in this city at the Grand Opera House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Too much cannot be said of this comedy, and all lovers of good fun, good singing, and good dancing, should take this opportunity to see "A Booming Town." The piece is staged with all new and elegant scenery and the leading parts are produced by two fun makers, Smith and Cook, who are assisted by a company of well known comedians and a number of pretty courtesans that unite in making an evening of fun. The piece is full of catchy songs and pretty dances.

"Garry Owen."

To-night Tony Farrell will open a three nights' engagement at the Grand Opera House in the popular Irish play "Garry Owen." In speaking of the star and the attraction, the New York Mirror says: "Tony Farrell appears this season in a new play, 'Garry Owen,' which is termed an Irish coming story, and has an unusually interesting story running through the play. It is entirely unlike the ordinary run of Irish comedy dramas. His aim was to present a clean natural comedy, and he endeavored to garnish his work with a goodly portion of fun, frolic, charming songs, and characteristic dancing. In fact 'Garry Owen' might truthfully be termed a rollicking Irish comedy."

WILLIAM METZGER BURIED.

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late William Metzger, one of the victims of the recent Bellaire tragedy in which Scott Linton, of Wheeling, shot Metzger fatally, dangerously wounded an Alley C woman named Gray, and then killed himself instantly, occurred. It was from his father's residence in North Wheeling, and was largely attended. The Tariff Champions, the campaign organization of which the deceased was a member, turned out a delegation of the Six Footers. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. Mr. Ulfert, of the St. John's church, and the following members of the Tariff Champions were the pallbearers: Batson Dunlap, Bas McConnaughey, Will Woods, Theo. Leasure, Andrew Long and Joseph Berger. The interment was at Mount Wood cemetery.

OHIO'S PLURALITY.

Attorney General Monnett Says Barr's Vote Cannot be Counted for Bryan. In reply to a request from Ernest F. Johnson, of Newark, for an opinion as to whether the Populist vote for Barr should be considered in counting McKinley's plurality in this state, Attorney General Monnett sent him a communication on the subject, says the Martin's Ferry Times. The important portion of the letter of the Attorney General read as follows:

As there were but twenty-three electors running on the McKinley-Hobart ticket, so there must have been but twenty-three electors running upon the Bryan-Sewall ticket. For the purposes of this question there could not have been twenty-four. The plurality, within the definition given above, must be confined to Bryan and Sewall as an independent set and to Barr as an independent candidate, as elector under another head. McKinley and Hobart electors received a plurality of upwards of 50,000 over the Bryan and Sewall electors under the Democratic head, and a plurality of 592,000 over Barr's electors.
