

STILL THEY COME.

McKinley Receives Enough Turkeys to Stock a Market.

LADIES' SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Of Boston Treats the President-Elect's Household to a Concert--Thanks to the Republican Clubs--A Confidential Friend of McKinley Confirms the Report Regarding the Plan of Hanna--If Sherman Will Accept the Premiership Hanna Will Go to the Senate.

CANTON, Ohio, Nov. 24.--An important musicale was held at the McKinley home this evening. The Boston Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, was in the city and called at the McKinley home during the afternoon. Mrs. McKinley received the visitors in her parlors and in company with the major, the secretaries, who were at the house, and the callers who chanced to be there at the time, heard a half dozen or more selections.

This evening Major and Mrs. McKinley, with a number of friends, were guests at dinner at the home of Mrs. Ella L. Hawk, in honor of her son, Mr. William Hawk, of the Hotel Manhattan, New York City.

The Thanksgiving turkeys continue to come. A fine gobler came from Illinois this evening. It was marked: "This name is Hanna." A Kansas turkey arrived this morning, and a message announced that the largest turkey ever raised in Rhode Island had been started towards Canton.

Colonel H. A. Dupont, of Delaware, who was a factor in the great senatorial contest in that state several years ago, came here this evening to call on the major and left during the night for New York.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 24.--President-elect McKinley has sent to D. D. Williamson, of this city, president of the National Republican League, a letter of acknowledgment, in which he says:

"I take occasion to renew to you my oft expressed sentiments of appreciation of the effective and unselfish work of the national and various state leagues.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 24.--Concerning the positions which Senator Sherman and Mr. Hanna will fill in the forthcoming national administration, a gentleman who is as much in the confidence of McKinley and Hanna as any one, said to-day to a representative of the Associated Press:

"It is desired that Senator Sherman resign and accept the secretaryship of state, and that Mr. Hanna go in his place to the senate. There are obstacles to this plan. Senator Sherman is an old man and may not wish to relinquish a place in which he is entirely contented to accept the great responsibilities and hard work of the secretaryship of state. Again, Governor Bushnell would have to appoint his successor, and everyone knows that it is his ambition to be elected by the next Ohio legislature, a year from now, and in a brief speech. If he does not want to appoint Hanna, what can he do? He can't appoint himself. Foraker is already there and Grovesnor is an ardent McKinley man.

"If President-elect McKinley says to Sherman that the prosperity of the country requires that his hand be at the helm in the state department, I don't think he can refuse. Then if McKinley, the Republican President, the Ohio President, and Sherman, the Ohio senator and veteran statesman, say to Bushnell the Republican governor, that the services of Hanna in the senate are necessary to carry out the Republican party's promise of a prosperous administration, how can he refuse? This much is sure: Senator Sherman will not resign until he is assured that the plan will be carried out."

THE FARCE ENDED.

Republicans in Lewis County Counted Out--A Peculiar Circumstance.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

WESTON, W. Va., Nov. 24.--The farcical recount of votes was completed here to-day and resulted as was intended, with the exception that Norris, Democratic candidate for assessor, and who did not ask for a re-count until after the unsealed ballots had been counted and sealed by the county court, lacked one vote of coming up even with Lake, his Republican opponent. According to the face of the returns, Lake has the majority. He now has but one vote, Republican, for prosecuting attorney, who was elected by three votes, has been counted out, and the re-count elects Childster, Democrat, by 18. Wiltburn, Republican, for county clerk, whose original majority was 15, was also counted out, and the re-count shows Bennett, his opponent, a majority of eleven; W. G. Bennett, Democrat, for judge, gained nineteen votes, and Charles M. Dodrill, Democrat, for house of delegates, gained eighteen. It is a notorious fact that the most striking gains were made in the count of the points where commissioners of election had failed to seal up the ballots and where there were unmistakable signs of ballot tampering. Both Lightner and Foster will contest in case the county court gives certificates of election to their Democratic opponents.

AN UNUSUAL EVENT.

A Democratic Club Celebrates the Election of McKinley.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.--For the first time in its history the Democratic Club to-night celebrated the election of a Republican President. A dinner was given ex-Governor Flower in recognition of his services in the campaign.

There were present two prominent Republicans--Edward Lauterbach, of this city, and Congressman Curtis, of St. Lawrence county, and also several Democratic members who had voted for Bryan.

Crisp's Son Succeeds Him.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 24.--The Democratic congressional convention to nominate a candidate to succeed to the unexpired term of Hon. Charles F. Crisp was held at Hawkinsville to-day. Charles H. Crisp, eldest son of the late speaker, was nominated by a rising vote. A committee escorted the nominee to the hall and in a brief speech Mr. Crisp thanked the convention for the honor conferred on him and the compliment to the memory of his father in making him his father's successor.

Bryan in Denver.

DENVER, Nov. 24.--A remarkable occasion was given to Mr. Bryan this afternoon when he was driven through the downtown streets in company with Senator Teller, Congressman Townsend and other prominent champions of free silver. The throng was so dense that Mr. Bryan's carriage had to be stopped about two or three blocks and he made about two or three short speeches. He was wildly cheered all along the route.

CAUCUS NECESSARY

To Outline a Policy Regarding the Tariff, Increased Revenue Demanded.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.--There is such a diversity of opinion among Republican senators in the city as to the course to be pursued at the next session with reference to the tariff, that it is considered quite probable a conference will be held very early in the session to decide upon a line of action. Senator Sherman is still understood to hold to the opinion that the Dingley bill should and could be passed at the approaching session, while other Republican senators disagree with him, some as to the wisdom of the measure and others as to the possibility of getting it through. It is believed that a line of action can be agreed upon in a party conference which will be satisfactory to all and when it is once decided upon will render unnecessary much useless agitation. The indications now are that the decision of the caucus when held will be against taking up the Dingley bill.

Senator Chandler said to-day that he thought Congress should make provision for a short time loan at the coming session. "I believe," he said, "we can authorize a short time loan, limited to fifty or a hundred millions. Provisions may be made for such a loan to be paid off within a few years. If we have not the money it has to be borrowed and it is offensive to every one to have the government resort to the roundabout expedient of the bonds which Mr. Cleveland and the loans he has negotiated. A short time loan, so given at once, for short time loans, so that the government may be gotten out when it finds itself in a hole."

"Would you make any provision for the redemption and retirement of the greenbacks?" asked the reporter. "No; I am not in favor of the retirement of the greenbacks at this time. At present we need them in our reserves. If they did not have them we would have to hold their reserves in gold."

"The thing to do now is to provide means for getting money until we can put revenue legislation into effect. There will have to be an extra session of the Fifty-fifth Congress, in my judgment, and we shall then enact both revenue and financial legislation. I do not see how we can accomplish anything as to either of these questions at the coming session."

A REMARKABLE SCENE.

President Cleveland's Name Cheered by a Great Republican Organization--Home Market Club's Banquet.

BOSTON, Nov. 24.--For the first time in the history of the Republican party in Massachusetts, a thoroughly Republican organization, the Home Market Club, bound to the cause of protection, cheered Grover Cleveland. The banquet of the club at Mechanics' Hall to-night was one of the largest in its history. Nearly a thousand members, representing the industries of nearly every city and town in the state, gathered in the hall and when the feast was over listened to a thousand speeches in the galleries, to speeches by some of the generalists who toured the country in the interests of the gold standard, and by Senator Hoar and Lieutenant Governor Wolcott.

President W. A. Scott, of Lowell, opened the proceedings by reading a letter from President-elect McKinley, in which he introduced Lieutenant-Governor Wolcott.

Senator Hoar, who followed, said that the Democratic party had been saved from itself by Republican effort. "It is said that while McKinley has one million majority, a change of 25,000 votes would give the election to his opponent. It is said to contemplate this, and cannot the business men of New England aid the cause of good government? Can't they by the weight of their integrity regain the confidence of the west?"

In the absence of General Daniel E. Sickles, three cheers were given for the old soldier, after which General Russell A. Alger, of Michigan, was introduced and spoke.

General Alger closed his remarks by paying an eloquent tribute to President Cleveland and for the first time in Boston, by a Republican body, three cheers were given for that official.

NOT CUTTING RATES.

Mr. Murray Denies the Reports Concerning the B. & O. Road.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 24.--Co-Receiver Oscar G. Murray, of the Baltimore & Ohio railway, to-day issued a statement in which he denies in vigorous language the oft-repeated assertion that the Baltimore & Ohio is securing east bound freights out of Chicago by cutting rates. Mr. Murray said it is true that the road is getting a large share of this east bound tonnage, larger, in fact, than ever before in its history, and added:

"I can very readily understand why it is that our business out of Chicago has shown such a great improvement. In the first place, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is in better financial shape than it was some time ago. The traffic department has its agent throughout the west on the constant look-out for business. These men have been employed because of their ability, and it is but natural that we should show an increase in tonnage. I want to deny most emphatically that this business comes to us on account of cut rates. We are making no effort to secure business other than legitimately and above board and I can not see why when we get it we are accused of violating our obligations to the joint traffic association."

"Our views as to the value and benefit of the joint traffic association to this and other roads are such as would do make it desirable to cordially support and approve their work. Their conservative action since their organization has done more to maintain rates and preserve revenue than all the machinery that has in the past been used, and we are not by any means going to inaugurate any policy that is in conflict with them, or imperil our own revenue by depriving the company of the benefit of their good counsel and advice which would be the case should we withdraw from the organization."

WEYLER'S WAYS

Indicate to Observers That He About Gives Up the Fight.

BUT IT'S OFFICIALLY DENIED.

Notwithstanding Important Changes Expected--The Spanish Captain-General Teles to Account for His Unsuccessful Campaign Against the Cubans--Confesses that He Did Not Meet Maceo's Forces and Doesn't Know Where the Insurgent Commander Is--Other News From the Seat of War.

(Copyright, 1896, by the Associated Press.)

HAVANA, Nov. 24.--The unexpected arrival here of Captain General Weyler from the province of Pinar del Rio, without having been successful in bringing about an engagement of any importance with the insurgents under Antonio Maceo, is causing considerable comment here to-day and there are many rumors in circulation. On one side it is asserted that Weyler's return means that he will shortly return to Spain on some plea or another. Officially, however, this is denied. The impression prevails, however, that there will shortly be important changes here.

La Lucha's correspondent in the field, had an interview with the captain general previous to the latter's arrival here from Artemisa and Mariel and he is gathered from the statements the captain general is said to have made, that he may not resume personal charge of the operations against the insurgents in Pinar del Rio. In this interview the captain general was asked for an expression of opinion as to the course of the campaign and he said:

"I am contented with the course of the campaign. I entered the province of Rubi, hoping to give battle to the combined insurgent forces, and you know the result. They went southward, much to our regret. Maceo himself went towards Mocurruys, Hayari and Corojal da Vaniguas. Nevertheless, our columns, in two divisions, arrived without firing a single shot, and only saw a band of about one hundred and fifty men, who fled when the Spaniards were within a few miles of them. The captain general was then asked if he knew the whereabouts of Antonio Maceo at present. He answered:

"His whereabouts is not known. The truth is that the insurgents were not found in the mountains nor on the plains. Nevertheless they boast that our troops always fly before them."

The correspondent then asked the captain general whether the Spanish soldiers had behaved and whether they had shown the right spirit. He said: "The men are contented and show themselves courageous at every opportunity for fighting against any odds. The result is most satisfactory, although we have not yet finished our work. But enough has been done until the end of the year. I am now going back to Havana."

"When will you return?" asked the correspondent. "The captain general smiled and said: 'I can never say what I shall do. General Munoz will take charge of the division as soon as his health is re-established.'"

An insurgent circles, it is said that their leaders claim that the return of the captain general to Havana without bringing about an engagement with Maceo is equivalent to a defeat of the Spanish forces, for the latter have completely failed to carry out the programme mapped out by the Spanish commander and he has returned here in every way unsuccessful.

It is asserted that the plan of Antonio Maceo was to avoid a general engagement with the Spanish troops, as he feels confident that the wearisome campaign being conducted by the Cubans must ultimately exhaust the Spaniards and bringing about the concession of all or nearly all the demands of the insurgents.

COMPETITOR PRISONERS.

Gen. Lee Says He Does Not Believe They Have Been Tried.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.--Consul General Lee was at the state department again to-day. When asked as to the report that the competitor prisoners had been tried at Mora Castle contrary to a protest made by him before he left Havana, General Lee said: "I do not believe any trial has occurred. I have been informed and am specially reported here by Vice Consul Spangler. There have been some preliminary steps toward the trial and the dispositions of the prisoners were taken, but further than this nothing has been done so far as I know."

When General Lee was asked as to the protest referred to as having been made by him, he said it probably referred to the representations made by him before the first trial of the competitor prisoners, and renewed in the present instance that the men being taken on an American ship were entitled to a civil trial, rather than a trial by court-martial as provided in the treaty and protocol between the United States and Spain. The Consul General referred to an open letter from a Procricksbury, Va., editor to President Cleveland, which was published to-day urging the President to act on Cuba. Coming from a fellow townsman and a close friend of General Lee some significance might attach to it, but General Lee said he desired to have it understood that he knew nothing of the letter and had nothing to do with it.

An Impending Expedition.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 24.--Two of Maceo's lieutenants passed through here to-day with sealed orders for the Junta in New York. The men left Cuba in the first place, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is in better financial shape than it was some time ago. The traffic department has its agent throughout the west on the constant look-out for business. These men have been employed because of their ability, and it is but natural that we should show an increase in tonnage. I want to deny most emphatically that this business comes to us on account of cut rates. We are making no effort to secure business other than legitimately and above board and I can not see why when we get it we are accused of violating our obligations to the joint traffic association."

A CLEVER SCHEME

Worked on Shrewd Bankers in Philadelphia by a Forger.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 24.--It has just been learned that through a series of clever forgeries, Drexel & Co., of Philadelphia, have been swindled out of $500 and another broker in that city of $300. The scheme was worked in this way: A letter purporting to have come from William Balderson, a reputable farmer of Fallington, was sent to the First National Bank of Trenton, enclosing three notes to Balderson's order and asking for the Republic National Bank of Philadelphia. This was done by the board of directors last Wednesday and the notes to that effect was sent to Balderson. He came to the bank on Saturday and disclaimed any knowledge of the notes. Meantime, on Friday a stranger had gone to the bank with a check for $500, apparently signed by Balderson. The brokers telephoned the First National and asked if he was good for the amount. An affirmative reply was received. The next day the check came to the First National through the usual medium, and Balderson, being there at the time, pronounced it a forgery. The other check for $300 had been negotiated with a Philadelphia broker and afterwards passed into the hands of the Manufacturers' Bank of that city, coming to the First National to-day with Balderson's signature. The two checks aggregating $1,000 were within $30 of the amount of the three notes originally asked for discount. As the First National has not cashed either, the loss will fall on Drexels and the other Philadelphia broker who first honored them.

WINDOW GLASS SCALE.

The Strike Settled--25,000 Men Go to Work--Wages Will be Increased if the Increased Tariff Bill is Passed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 24.--The differences between the window glass workers and the manufacturers, which has kept the factories of the country idle since May 30, were settled at a wage conference to-night, and 25,000 or more men dependent on that industry will be at work again on December 15.

When the two committees came together this afternoon, the manufacturers were firm in their determination not to pay more than last year's wages and the workers finally agreed. The scale is 10 per cent below that asked for by the union at the opening of negotiations. A proviso was incorporated in the agreement which stipulates that should the Dingley bill pass Congress and an advance in tariff of 15 per cent result, the blowers and gatherers shall receive an advance in wages of 10 per cent. If the tariff advance should be less than 15 per cent, these wages shall be adjusted in proportion.

Should the tariff advance be more than 15 per cent, the wages of the four trades in the window glass business shall be readjusted in proportion to such advance.

The acceptance of the agreement by the wage committee of the workmen was given in opposition to the advice of Simon Burns, president of the union. He wanted the proposition submitted to a popular vote, and when this was rejected by the committee, Mr. Burns withdrew from the conference.

Some of the Indiana plants, could be started within a few days, but as some of the factories in this district will require some time to get into shape, all have agreed to start on the same date--December 15th.

KNIGHTS OF THE MACCABEES.

The State Council in Annual Session at Clarksburg.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 24.--The state council of the Knights of the Maccabees is in convention here to-night. The weather is not agreeable and the attendance consequently small. The First Regiment band was on hand and drew a crowd, a part of which assembled at the court house, where C. C. Showalter, state organizer of the order, introduced E. G. Smith, esq., a prominent young attorney, who delivered an address of welcome in a few words and denounces the speaker introduced Mr. D. P. Markey, of Port Huron, Michigan, who enjoys the distinction of being grand commander of the Maccabees.

This gentleman, in an able and forcible address, stated the objects, purposes and advantages of the order, and dwelt at length upon its merits. The knights held a secret convocation to-morrow night.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Discovered by a Newsboy--End of a Love Romance.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 24.--A newsboy discovered the dead bodies of Herman Hyer and Nora Richardson lying on the sidewalk in pools of blood in front of a vacant house on Bergmyer avenue, South Side, at 6 o'clock this morning. The hand of Myer clutched a 32-calibre revolver, every chamber of which was empty. A large jagged hole was in the rear of his heart, while three bullets had entered the woman's body. Myers and the Richardson woman were each about twenty-six years of age. In the pockets of Myers' clothing, which were emptied at the morgue, a number of letters were found which had passed between the two. In one of these letters, written by the woman, Myers was urged to go to Haightville and marry her at once.

The correspondence also showed that the woman was about to become a mother. Myers is thought to have killed the woman and taken his own life as the result of a quarrel between them. Nora Richardson was a working woman and Myers was a laborer and formerly lived on Northwest street. The coroner will hold a postmortem on the body of the woman.

THE COBDEN CLUB.

Annual Meeting Regrets Spend of Protection Sentiment in England.

LONDON, Nov. 24.--The annual meeting of the Cobden club took place this afternoon, Lord Farrer, of Albiner presiding. The committee's report for 1895-96 was read. It speaks of the tendency of the Conservatives in the direction of protection and the need of increased zeal upon the part of the Cobdenites.

Continuing, the report quotes Canadian and other colonial statesmen against the plan of Joseph Chamberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies for the establishment of an imperial Zollverein and denounces the cattle bill of last session as a measure of protection. It regards the Canadian election as most encouraging to free traders and expresses the hope that the circumstances under which the election was fought in the United States will "avert injury to international trade, which might otherwise be expected from the election of McKinley."

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

It is estimated that the season's corn crop in Buenos Ayres will be 20 per cent below last year's yield.

General E. W. Patus was yesterday selected United States senator to succeed Senator Pugh, by the Georgia legislature.

The French minister of foreign affairs stated at a cabinet meeting that the reforms in Turkey were beginning to be executed in the provinces.

The twenty-round boxing contest between Casper Leon, of New York, and Dave Sullivan, of Boston, last night, in New York, ended in a draw.

Louis Levi, who after having been convicted of perjury in Pittsburgh, escaped to Montreal, has been arrested in Montreal and remanded for a week.

The dockers' strike at Hamburg threatens to extend to Bremen. There are 5,000 men on strike at Hamburg, and the sailors are disposed to ask for higher wages.

The official plurality for McKinley and Hoar at 57,529. The total average vote for the Republican electors was 231,867; for the Democratic electors, 133,675; Prohibition, 5,614; National Democratic, 6,373; Social-Labor, 3,985.

The October statement of receipts at the thirty large postoffices in the country show a net decrease of $4,714, or one and four-tenths per cent, as compared to October 8, the previous year and there is nothing significant in this as it is attributed to business inactivity in the heart of the political campaign. The increase of mail carried during a campaign is stated by postal officials to be made up largely of franked matter, so that there is little to offset business flatness.

MINGO'S SHERIFF

Talks of Matters and People of the Southern County.

WAS ELECTED SHERIFF IN MINGO

In the Face of a Democratic Majority of 600--A Man Well Equipped for the Position He Occupies--The Recent Killings in His County Not Connected with the Old Hatfield-McCoy Feud, which Has Been Ended--The Mounts Affair.

Sheriff N. J. Kendle, of Mingo county, is in town. It is his first visit to Wheeling and he rather likes the town. He was made sheriff of Mingo county on the formation of the county two years ago, and this time, Republican though he is, and a strong one, he was elected in the face of a Democratic majority of nearly six hundred. Mingo could not have a better man for sheriff; medium stature, genial, kindly, Kendle is made of stout stuff. He has a cool head and the nerve of a dozen ordinary men. He was a good reserve officer under Collector A. B. White, and he has been a good sheriff. An Intelligencer reporter asked him about the recent killings in Mingo county, and whether it was true that there had been thirteen within thirty days.

"Yes," said the sheriff of Mingo, "but it is not true, as some newspapers have said, that these troubles had anything to do with the old Hatfield-McCoy feud. A Hatfield figure in one affair, but that has nothing to do with the old unpleasantness. It should be understood that the Hatfields are not bad people."

There is no longer any Hatfield-McCoy feud. The Hatfields stay on the West Virginia side and the McCoy's on the Kentucky side. I think either would go ten miles out of the way to avoid the other. Anse Hatfield is conducting a big timber operation on Bench creek, in Mingo county, employing a good many men. Of his sons, Johnnie is timbering on the upper end of Guyandotte river, in Mingo county; Captain Matthews, in Mingo county; and Cap. Anse is now in trouble, lives on his farm on Mateo river, near some chickens, where Cliff, on the Norfolk & Western, where he has a good store and does a good business; Elliott, is located at Delorain, where he is practicing medicine and doing well. Elias Hatfield, Anse's brother, is jailer at Logan court house. Of his sons, Greenway is a deputy marshal. Dr. Hatfield, who lives at Thacker, is a Norfolk & Western surgeon and an expert on the mountain. A student in the West Virginia University. So you see the Hatfields are, after all, good citizens. The young men will make their mark. They are good, sturdy stock and not the kind of men to seek trouble."

Well, about the recent killings. Some time ago Dr. Estep, who lived on the Kentucky side, opposite Gray, got mad at an Italian over some chickens and in trying to shoot him shot John Roberts, through the heart. Estep came over on the West Virginia side to get cartridges. Pres. Jack and John Roberts, and John Diggins met Estep and riddled him and ended him. Their man was arrested. The next killing was at Breeding, in the lower end of the county, before election. On that day Dick Evans went there and got into a row with old Jackson Vance and his boys, of whom there are nine. Dick Evans killed Albert Vance instantly and shot Charley in the thigh. Evans is in jail at Williamson. Evans shot his man at about fifty yards with a thirty-two Smith & Wesson. He is a farmer and a man of grit.

"On the Sunday before election Charley Williams killed a Kentuckian at Hunter's Camps at Matewan. Williams walked up to his man, put his Winchester against his breast, fired, killed his victim and got away. He has not been found."

The Hatfield-Rutherford Shooting.

"On election day came the Hatfield affair. Cap. Hatfield and his fourteen-year-old step-son, Joe Glenn, were at Matewan. John Rutherford and Cap. Hatfield had been at outs for years, and this day they made it up and declared that they would be friends. Cap. Hatfield gave his shot-gun to Dr. Rutherford, father of John Rutherford, and mayor of Matewan, to keep for him. Smith Hatfield got ready to go home he met his brother who had a Winchester. Just then John Rutherford and Hatfield met.

"Then the shooting began. Rutherford was killed. A stray ball hit Hense Chambers, one of the challengers, at the poll. The ball went through his stomach, and in a day or two he died. It is supposed that this was a shot from the boy's Winchester. This stirred up the community and a general fusillade on Hatfield began. Hatfield took refuge under the abutment of the bridge. This boy got behind a sycamore tree. Elliott Rutherford, a nephew of John, and Cap. Hatfield engaged in a sort of duel. Rutherford shooting down at Hatfield and dodging and Hatfield at Rutherford and dodging. Hatfield had then a shot-gun and a revolver. The boy was banging away with his Winchester. The boy killed Elliott Rutherford, Cap. Hatfield and the boy took to the mountains and sent Dan Christian to Thacker to telegraph me to come and get them. Christian went to Thacker, but there was such a crowd there that Christian feared Hatfield might be mobbed, and so he went back to Hatfield without telegraphing. Hatfield got J. H. Clark to go with him and they started for Williamson. At Thacker they boarded the train and got in the baggage car. Clark thought it better to take them to Huntington and there they went. There they telegraphed me. I went for them and brought them back to Williamson, where they are now in jail."

The Mounts' Trouble.

"The last killing? That was the Mounts affair. Some time ago Anderson Mounts killed a cousin of the same name, over in Kentucky. They had trouble over a woman and Anderson Mounts beat his cousin to death with a club. I had a capias for Anderson Mounts for misdemeanor on the West Virginia side. His father, Jim Mounts, hearing of the capias, brought Anderson to me. I kept him some time. Meanwhile a reward of $100 was offered for him on account of the Kentucky killing. Jim Mounts came and said his wife was ill and he would like to take his son to see his mother. He promised to bring him back as soon as the mother recovered. Bill Bevans went to Equite Terrell and swore out a fugitive warrant for Anderson Mounts. He got Jim Clark to help to make the arrest. They went to John Trent's, a half-brother of Anderson Mounts. Anderson, seeing them coming, got out of a window and started to run. Bevans saw him, took aim with his Winchester and Anderson Mounts fell dead. Bevans and Clark took Mounts' gun and made off for the woods. Jim Mounts, the father of Anderson, made across the field to head them off. Clark rapped his thirty-eight Winchester on a stump and fired at Mounts down hill. The ball caught

Mounts in the breast and he fell dead--at 221 steps I stepped it off myself. Clark and Bevans had a fine drink. Clark and Bevans had a fine drink. The Mounts' family offered $500 for the arrest of Clark and Bevans. They are now under arrest at Pikeville. They will be brought back to West Virginia for trial. I think they will come without a requisition. Jim Mounts was one of the best citizens of the county.

The other things are among colored men and mostly the produce market. The men work in the mines, get full, somebody is killed, and there is no telling who did it. But it is all among themselves."

THE FESTIVE GOBLER

Is Not Very Much in Evidence Yet--The Warm Weather Has Not Brought Him Out in Large Numbers.

If you want to eat turkey to-morrow, the probabilities are that you will have to kill the animal yourself. Owing to the warmth of the weather during the past few days, very few local birds are being shipped to the local market, and the result is that there is a scarcity of the festive Thanksgiving gobler.

A local wholesale produce merchant said yesterday that a large shipment of live poultry is expected to-day, and if the weather should become cooler, the dressed article would probably come in in goodly quantities. The wholesale price yesterday began at seven cents but increased to eight and nine cents per pound. This is the quotation on live turkeys; the dressed bringing from twelve to fourteen cents.

Yesterday morning the market on the South Side was well attended, but very little buying for the Thanksgiving dinner was done. It was too warm, and the average consumer desires to wait and see what to-day's market in the Second ward will bring forth.

Large stocks of celery and cranberries are seen about town and both are good sellers. The celery this year, by the way, is about the best produced in any ever brought to this market. It is bleached and gives one an appetite to look at it.

Chickens and rabbits will be reasonably plentiful in this morning's market, although the latter will not be in evidence in such quantities as they would had it been colder. People will manage to make out their Thanksgiving menu, however, and the majority of homes will have turkey and cranberry sauce, even if the man of the house does have to use an ax on some nice fat gobler.

PHILHARMONIC'S SEVENTH

Recital Took Place Last Night at Egerter Hall--The Programme.

The seventh recital of the Philharmonic Quartette took place at Egerter hall last night, and it goes without saying that a fine programme was delightfully rendered. The Haydn Quartette was the gem of the evening, and its beautiful melodies and clean-cut harmony were admirably rendered. The Beethoven Sonata for piano and violin was also very much enjoyed. Mr. G. H. Kuhn, jr., of Washington, D. C., made his first appearance as second violin, and proved by his excellent playing, especially in the third movement of the Haydn number, that he is a valuable addition to Wheeling's musical circles. The other members of the quartette played with their old time ability and that is as near perfection as it is possible to find in this neighborhood. The programme follows:

- 1. Quartet, Op. 22, No. 2.....Haydn (a) Allegro Assai. (b) Scherzando. (c) Minuetto. (d) Finale (Presto).
- 2. (a) Abendstimmung.....J. Pache (b) Zigeunertanz.....J. Pache (c) Scherzando.....J. Pache
- 3. Sonata VIII for Piano and Violin.....Beethoven (Piano, Prof. Schoekey, Violin, Mr. Blumentberg.)
- 4. Alla Turca.....Mozart

Alliance Lodge Banquetted.

Alliance Lodge, No. 18, A. O. U. W., held a pleasing soiree at the lodge room, corner Twelfth and Market streets, last night, the occasion being the regular nomination of officers for the coming year.
