

THE JUNIOR ORDER

Of United American Mechanics Attend Special Services at

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Sunday and Listen to a Sermon by Rev. Joseph Speers—It was a Thoughtful Discourse, Breathing of Loyalty to God and Country—Work of the Order Reviewed. Corruption Should be Stamped Out—The Work of Great Men of History.

The special services at the Second Presbyterian church were well attended yesterday morning, a large congregation assembling to hear the special sermon to the Junior Order of United American Mechanics. Over one hundred members of the order were present. Professor Hartman was at the organ and the choir rendered some very fine selections. It has been a busy week with this choir, owing to the Thanksgiving service on Thursday; the music on that day was of the highest order and rendered with that ability which has made the pastor of the church such an enthusiast over his choir. The Rev. Mr. Speers thoroughly believes in praise, as well as prayer, and since his coming here has endeavored to make praise an important part of the worship. No doubt he exacts a great deal from his choir, but they are all in perfect harmony with him in his desire to make the worship attractive, and they all work with a will. He says they never refuse to comply with a wish of his.

The service yesterday morning was very attractive, the choir chanting the Lord's prayer after the invocations and the anthems were listened to with rapt attention. The sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Speers, was based on the words of St. Paul, in the 1st Corinthians, 16:13, "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith; quit ye like men; be strong." He said:

"Patriotism was an excellent quality to be possessed by a man, but patriotism combined with piety, makes a man or a body of men most powerful. As a body of men, you stand for patriotism and by your presence here this morning as a patriotic body, testify to the world your desire to hear the word of God read and expounded that piety and patriotism may be combined in you."

He then discussed the principles upon which the order was founded, "the protection of American women; the encouragement of American business; the beneficent aims; the public education; the Bible an open book in the public school, and the uplifting of the nation into a high condition of morality and righteousness." He spoke of the beliefs and qualifications necessary for admission into the order, and said:

"Men and brethren, there is no greater work that meets an order than the uplifting of a nation through the medium of the Holy Scriptures, read and known of all men; and when this work is undertaken in the broad spirit of christianity it becomes Divine and I am glad to learn, that while your order is 'loyal, patriotic, fraternal and beneficent,' it is also non-partisan and non-sectarian, for on this broad platform of the brotherhood of man, no matter what his creed may be, Protestants, Catholics, we can join heart and hand in the worship of the Father God and obey the Divine command of Christ: 'Render therefore unto Caesar the things which be Caesar's and unto God the things which be God's.'"

Work of the Order.

He reviewed the history of the organization from its beginning to the present, its membership, the benefits disbursed, the part they have taken in public affairs, and the work of the Bible in the public schools, and their fight against appropriating money from the national or state treasuries for sectarian purposes, and said: "As your order has hitherto done, so I admonish you in the words of the text, 'Watch ye; stand fast in the faith; quit ye like men; be strong.' Not only as patriots but as pious men, for there is this twofold meaning underlying these words, which we can appropriate to ourselves this morning. As patriots we can watch that the legislators fulfill their trust in the enactment of just laws, and the conscientious disbursement of the people's money for such purposes only, as shall advance the material welfare of the nation; that all religious bodies, by whatever name they may be known, shall have the same privileges in propagating their beliefs among the inhabitants, but that no favor shall be extended to one sect more than another, whereby it may be the better equipped and enabled to make itself an established or national religion, either among the Indians, the native born or enfranchised citizen. As patriots we can watch the laws of justice and righteousness so enacted be carried out by those into whose hands they are committed for enforcement, whether they be national or local, for if the laws of village town, or city, are not enforced by those in authority and observed by those under authority. How can it be expected that the great national laws will be observed upon which depends our very existence as a nation? How can we expect to advance the morality and righteousness of a city when vice and crime vaunt themselves in the face of law and order, in broad day-light, as well as under the wings of night? It is your duty as patriotic men, to watch that sin, crime and corruption shall not have dominion over morality, justice, honesty and righteousness."

"In order to accomplish all this there must be first an individual, a personal watchfulness, for when the watchfulness and important results depending upon your watchfulness over the events and affairs of the nation, there are eternal results depending upon a watchfulness over self, your spiritual welfare is constantly menaced by the cohorts of evil and well might we say with the poet:

"My soul be on thy guard,
Thou thousand foes arise,
The hosts of sin are pressing hard;
To draw thee from the skies."

"As Christians, as patriots, this admonition is worthy your best consideration, for there is not a man, woman or child in this audience who is not constantly exposed to evil influences, and it is only by a watchfulness born of the Holy Spirit that we are enabled to guard against its possessing our souls."

The speaker illustrated, from the watchfulness of two armies, contending for the mastery, and said: "So, brethren, there are two great forces in the field to-day, sin and righteousness; we stand in the forefront of the army of God; the battle rages fierce and furious, but we are fighting for truth, morality and righteousness; God is with us, Christ is leading us."

"Watch ye; stand fast in the faith; the weapons of your warfare are not carnal, but spiritual; you stand for the Gospel of Christ, your aim is the domination among the people and the salvation of perishing souls from the withering, blighting, damning influence of the upas tree of infidelity and ungodliness which is rearing its head in the midst of this Christian people, whose hope is in God and whose faith is in Jesus Christ; stand fast in the faith which gives you a hope of glory. You have the promises of God, which are yea and amen to enable you to stand as 'thy days so shall thy strength be.' 'Be of good courage and I will strengthen your heart. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. 'Lo I am with you always.' With these promises of strength, courage and comfort, let no one be afraid to stand fast in the faith and

TWO SUNDAY FIRES

Occurred in Moundsville and Cameron Yesterday.

LOSS FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Which is Partly Covered by Insurance. The Moundsville Coal Works Fire May be of Incendiary Origin—An Inadequate Water Supply—The Cameron Fire Occurred Early in the Morning—Wheeling Insurance Company Loses.

Moundsville has a $2,500 fire yesterday afternoon. About half past 1 o'clock an alarm was sounded, locating the fire in the Third ward, at the works of the Moundsville Coal Company, near the Fostoria glass works.

The volunteer hose companies responded promptly. Liberty No. 1, located in that ward, was first on the scene and played on the fire from the top of the tippie, which was not burning. Independent No. 2 arrived soon, after a long and hard run from the Second ward house, nearly a mile from the fire. They had their streams playing on the blaze from below. The fire was first discovered in the small room at the south end of the coal tippie, immediately over the shaft where the coal is hoisted out of the ground. The tippie extends fifty feet north, over the railroad tracks, and is supported on trestles seventy-five feet high, all of which was soon ablaze. Here the coal is unloaded after it is hoisted from the mine and goes down through scenes, into the railroad cars.

The place was a very dangerous one at which to work and it was with great difficulty that the brave fire fighters did their work. After climbing out over trestles to the most dangerous points they reached the flames and in an hour's time had them subdued.

The companies had all their apparatus in good working order, but the pressure in the water mains was so low it was of no use until the firemen had gotten a hold onto the fire. The stream could not throw twenty-five feet from the hose when turned on in full force, and a good deal of time was lost in getting into position to do effective work.

The city's contract with the Moundsville Water Works Company calls for at least seventy-five pound pressure at all times, with the stand-pipe full of water, while yesterday there was hardly a forty pound pressure on working under this difficulty the firemen did magnificent work and showed that by having a full supply of water they could combat any fire.

The entire tippie was burned, and several empty bank coal cars, the scales, the hoisting machinery and cable. Making the loss $2,500. Insurance of $2,000 is carried, about half of which covers the burned property.

CAMERON'S FIRE

A Sunday Morning Blaze Causes a Loss of Over $3,000.

About two years ago the thriving Marshall county town of Cameron had a disastrous fire that wiped out almost the entire business portion of the place. But Cameron came out of the fiery ordeal, Phoenix-like in a few months, and is now a much better town than before. Early yesterday morning Cameron had another disastrous fire that looked for a time to be about to approach the proportions of a conflagration. Happily the fine work of the volunteer bucket brigade was effective and the fire was kept within reasonable bounds. The fire was discovered about 2:30 a. m. in the loft of the lively stable building owned by William Kauland, and occupied by Joseph Evans. The building was entirely destroyed. The loss on the building will reach $2,500, and is insured in the Morgan agency, of this city, for $1,500. Evans' loss will be at least $500, no insurance. The stable contained twenty-two horses, belonging to Evans, which were rescued with some difficulty. A pair of fine horses, belonging to J. M. Elliott, of the South Penn Oil Company, were burned up. The fire somewhat damaged Mr. Elnoid's wagon and agricultural implement warehouse, which adjoins the stable, and this loss is included in the figures mentioned above.

A HUMAN FIEED

is, Charles Williams, the Murderer of Washington Rinker.

The preliminary hearing of Charles Williams, who murdered Washington Rinker, on Tuesday night, shows the crime to be one of the most brutal on record. Rinker was a harmless and inoffensive person, while Williams was known to be dangerous when drinking.

When Williams went home from St. Charlesville he found Rinker in bed, as had been arranged by them previously. Williams pulled Rinker out of bed and hit him over the head with a long poker, knocking him senseless. When Rinker regained consciousness, Williams compelled him to go out on the national road, where he beat him over the head and body with the poker. Then he drove his victim into a fence corner and gave him a few minutes in which to pray. When Rinker finished his prayers Williams, with due warning, struck the final blow upon Rinker's head, the one which crushed Rinker's skull and caused death. The performance lasted over two hours. Williams threatened to murder anyone who interfered. He was held without bail.

If You Don't See "A Night of Comedy" at the Opera House.

Colonel F. Riester has made special scenic provisions for bringing out the three comedies that are to be given at the Opera House on Wednesday, December 2. He is especially anxious that this engagement should be a successful one, for the reason that the principals in the casts are "home talent" and it is expected that all patrons of the house will support him in making the audience a record breaker.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Strangers in the City and Wheeling Folks Abroad.

H. B. Thompson, of Indianapolis, an advertising man who is now stopping at the Stamm, bears a most striking resemblance to William Jennings Bryan, the defeated Populcratic candidate for President. Since he came to Wheeling he has been many times mistaken for Bryan. At Buffalo on the occasion of the Nebraska's visit, Mr. Thompson was stopping at the same hotel, and had to go through the ordeal of shaking the hands of many persons who imagined they were greeting the Boy Orator. Such is borrowed fame.

President C. D. Elliott, of the West Virginia League of Republican Clubs, was in the city Saturday, a guest at the McClure.

Mr. Franz Schmidt, of Washington, Pa., a brother of Colonel Charles Schmidt, of this city, is the guest of the latter for a few days.

James T. Handlan, late of W. W. Irwin's pharmacy, on the South Side, left yesterday for Sistersville, where he will accept a similar position with Orlsten & Drummond, druggists, succeeding Jerry Newman, also of Wheeling, who goes to North Carolina on account of falling health. "Jim" Handlan is a deservedly popular young man, and will no doubt make many friends in the old town.

There is no better proof of the excellence of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup than that it is recommended by leading physicians.
