

VOLUME XLV--NUMBER 114.

THEY SHIVERED

For Six Hours, But Patience Had Its Reward. OVER SEVEN THOUSAND PEOPLE PASSED THROUGH THE PORTALS OF THE WHITE HOUSE, AND ALL GRASPED THE HANDS

Of President and Mrs. Cleveland--Most Brilliant Reception of Cleveland's Eight Years in Office--The President's Wife, Simply, but Elegantly Gowned, was the Central Figure--The Diplomatic Corps Furnish the Bright Lights in the Way of Costumes--The Floral Decorations Were Magnificent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1--Seven thousand persons shivered outside the white house to-day, for periods varying from one to six hours. But patience had its reward in every case, for the President and Mrs. Cleveland shook hands with every one of them.

The closing New Year's reception of the present administration was the most brilliant of Mr. Cleveland's whole eight years in office, and old Arthur Simmons, the President's famous colored messenger, whose service in the white house dates back thirty years, shook his head eagerly as he viewed the far reaching crowd from an upper window and declared it "de grandest inception since de wah."

The cold gray sky that threatened rain, which did not fall, served merely as a foil to the brilliant pageant that moved for hours through the forest of tropical plants that filled the softly lighted parlor inside the executive mansion. The diplomatic corps as usual furnished the high lights in the reception. Foreign uniforms of every sort, from the white and silver of the German military attaches to the green and crimson silks of the Chinese minister almost served to pale the Paris gowns of the receiving party, and of the official guests behind the line.

Only a shade more subdued were the uniforms of the army and navy, a study in blue and gold accented by the yellow plumes of the cavalry and the scarlet facings of the artillery. As a background for this display was set the dead black of the evening dress of the South American diplomats, worn in accordance with their own social law in such matters, and in the morning costumes of the civil officials.

The center picture was Mrs. Cleveland, the most simply gowned of the receiving party. Her dress of pale mauve had a high rouching of smoke gray lace at the throat and at the wrists. It was caught by butterfly bows of the same on the shoulders and on the plain, smooth hanging skirt. Her hair was curled high at the back and brought in tall waves from her forehead over her temples. She was just slightly flushed by the rapid exercise of hand-making, but smiled as cheerfully and shook hands as vigorously with the last of her 7,000 callers as she had with the first.

The decorations of the interior of the white house were altogether floral. Indeed little else than flowers could be added to the simple yet elegant permanent adornments of the receiving suite without sensibly detracting from the effect of the whole. These, however, were used in profusion, and at the same time with such fine taste as to correct an estimate of the color values of the different apartments as to add vastly to the appearance of the noble suit. The first of the apartments to be entered by the callers upon passing through the lobby, the Red room, so called from the prevailing color of the hangings and upholstery, was lavishly bedecked with flowers, probably because it was intended only for a waiting room. But just adjoining it the Blue parlor, famous in the history of receptions, was decorated with exquisite taste. Tall palms interspersed with anemones, foliage plants and glass ferns from view the closely drawn curtains which shut out the light of day from the room; solid banks of the rarest flowers covered the mantels, and a beautiful and unique runner of ivy crept along the frieze, along the cornice and around the doorways. Over all streamed the soft light from a hundred electric globes suspended in crystal chandeliers and placed in the lighting up on the delicate robes egg blue tints of the silken tapestry which covered the walls and the golden and blue upholstery of the massive furnishings was extremely effective.

Very appropriately the decorations of the next of the suite, the Green room, were of an emerald cast, and, while there was an apparent absence of flowers, an inspection of what seemed to be only foliage disclosed the presence of many rare and curious orchids and prettily marked grasses and small palms, all embedded in green jardiniere. The East room was the glory of the house. Since the last reception it had been renovated completely and was fairly resplendent in gold and silver and white. In its vast proportions the contents of a whole conservatory of plants and flowers were swallowed up without in any sense crowding the decorations. In the magnificent East window stood a gigantic pyramid of green made up of stately palms and rubber plants, towering up toward the high ceiling, founded in masses of ferns and grasses, interspersed with big blazing stars of poinsettias. The three great crystal chandeliers were the centers of perfect jungles of creepers and asparagus and smilax, while on the mantels were enameled jardiniere filled with quaint Chinese primroses and other bright-hued flowers.

Reception in Detail. The Marine band of fifty pieces struck up Weber's "Jubilee," and the President and Mrs. Cleveland, followed by Secretary and Mrs. Olney, Secretary and Mrs. Carlisle, Attorney General and Mrs. Harmon, Postmaster General Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Secretary and Mrs. Francis, Secretary and Mrs. Lamont, Secretary and Mrs. Herbert, Secretary and Mrs. Morton, moved down the stairs. They entered the Blue room, where they exchanged greetings with the receiving party. Mrs. Cleveland's gown was of moire cloth made very simply, its ornamentation being a high rouching of pale mauve and white butterfly bows of lace on the shoulders and where the folds of the skirt were caught. Her sleeves were long and the gloves of white kid. Her hair was smooth and wavy and arranged in simple fashion.

WEYLER'S WAYS.

He is Still Fighting the Brave Cuban Insurgents

THROUGH THE CENSORSHIP

Of the Press--Claims that there are Only 500 "Rebels" Left in the Province of Pinar del Rio--Shakes Heads with Himself on the Suppression of the Revolt in that Section of Cuba--Madrid Papers Tell a Different Story--Recall of the Captain General Very Probable.

HAVANA, Jan. 1.--The war correspondent of La Lucha, of this city, Senor Canarte, has telegraphed to his paper the substance of an interview which he had yesterday with Captain General Weyler, whose column he joined at San Cristobal. The captain general assured the correspondent that there was only about 500 insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio, adding: "I am able to say that the province is pacified. Sickness, bullets and hunger will terminate the revolution. I will treat the leaders with consideration if they surrender all, or nearly all of their followers."

"Nobody can consider himself the owner of the cattle in the mountains and woods which were born last year, and I allow the soldiers and the poor to gather them together and get what benefit they can from them. I have also provided for the establishment of cultivated zones in the province of Havana, an insurgent camp of 100 men at the heights of Gener, on the Matanzas. The insurgents have again attacked the village of Cobre in the province of Santiago de Cuba. They were, however, repulsed with loss.

The insurgents have broken up the railroad near the village of Cristo. The insurgents attacked the train but were repulsed by the military escort. Colonel Paris, while on a reconnoitering expedition, surprised and dispersed an insurgent camp of 100 men at the heights of Gener, on the Matanzas.

The insurgents have broken up the railroad near the village of Cristo. The insurgents attacked the train but were repulsed by the military escort. Colonel Paris, while on a reconnoitering expedition, surprised and dispersed an insurgent camp of 100 men at the heights of Gener, on the Matanzas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.--The Spanish minister at Washington was to-day informed by a cablegram from Madrid that the queen regent had signed the decree inaugurating governmental reforms in Porto Rico.

The filibusters who left Ferdinand on the steamer Three Friends, about three weeks ago, bound for Cuba, and who after the failure of the expedition were stranded on No Name Key, have been in distress, and at least two of them have died because of privations that they have been compelled to endure. No Name Key is situated about sixty miles northeast of Key West.

LONDON, Jan. 2.--The Standard's Madrid correspondent says: "Public opinion has received the announcement of concessions to Porto Rico rather coldly, involving a reversal of the colonial policy under pressure from the United States and Europe. The Correo, Siglo, Futuro and several other liberal, military and ultra-mountain newspapers will be prosecuted for attacking the commissariat and hospital staffs in Cuba. The opposition will bring the matter before the courts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.--A Key West dispatch to the World says: There is absolutely no truth in the report cable from Madrid that fifty-one men of the Three Friends expedition were drowned after having been landed on a key off the Cuban coast. The cargo was safely landed at a certain point with a half dozen men to bury it until they could find a large body of insurgents to carry it away.

MADRID, Jan. 1.--The Dia, referring to the attacks of the Herald and Imparcial on Captain Weyler, says it is probable that they are in a cabinet, and that many people believe there will be a change of policy. A meeting of Spanish generals was held last evening to consider these newspaper articles, the full text of which was not allowed to be distributed abroad, for fear of causing injury among the friends of the insurgents in the United States.

MORE TROUBLE

Brewing Down in the Central American Republics.

INVOLVING THE UNITED STATES

The Columbian Government's Attempt to Seize Corn Island

STIRS UP THE NICARAGUANS

An Armed Force Sent by Laiter Power to Head Off the "Grubber"--Salvador and Honduras Will Help Nicaragua Out if it Comes to a Pinch--Origin of the Dispute--What it Means to the United States--Important Strategical Point.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 1.--With little beating of drums or blowing of trumpets a war-like move upon the part of the republic of Colombia is now believed to have been checkmated by the republic of Nicaragua, although further news from the objective point, Corn Island, is anxiously expected here.

About a month ago the government of Nicaragua was informed, unofficially, that Colombia had planned to make a landing on Corn Island, a valuable strategic spot, situated about thirty-six miles off Mosquito coast, belonging to Nicaragua, whose flag is to be hoisted down and the ensign of Colombia substituted for it. It was believed that Nicaragua was over-awed by the Colombian army, and that the inhabitants, numbering a few hundred, had appealed to Colombia for redress on the ground that territory, some five miles long, which had formerly belonged to Colombia, was unlawfully held by Nicaragua.

It was further stated that the prefect of San Andres, Colombia, had assembled a military force and was only waiting for the arrival of a Colombian gunboat in order to embark the troops, proceed to Corn Island, seize it and fortify it against the possibility of capture. That such a plan was discussed there is no reason to doubt, but President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, took prompt steps to meet the emergency upon the part of the neighboring republic.

AN AWFUL CRIME

Developed in Kansas--An Inhuman Father Figures in It.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 1.--Al Williams, aged thirty-two, and Mrs. Jane Mays, aged twenty-one, living north of Topeka, were arrested to-day charged with the murder of Anna Belle Williams, the twelve-year-old girl, whose outraged body was found Wednesday, in a meadow near Eudora.

The body bears evidence of a dreadful assault on its person. The finger marks on the neck and condition of the body show that the murderous fiend who committed the assault covered up his work by sealing her lips with death by strangulation.

Williams was the father of the girl, and accuses the Mays woman of the murder. The pair agreed to take the child to Kansas City in order to have her placed on a poor farm, the woman to accompany the girl. She says that when they reached Eudora she became sick, and a strange man offered to take care of her. This is the last she saw of Belle. The pair are secure in jail, and the officers say they expect to prove a deliberate scheme to make way with the girl.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 1--

Two policemen were pounded half to death by a crowd of toughs to-day, and two of their assailants were shot. The trouble was the result of a crusade which the police have been waging against saloon keepers who have been violating the law by serving drinks to women.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--At the request of the committee of which she was a member, Mrs. Helen M. Gouger stepped down and out of the Nationalist party yesterday. A joint conference was held at the Sherman house of the executive and national central committees, to consider the best means of furthering the interests of the party at which Mrs. Gouger was present.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--The engagement is announced of Miss Myrtle Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., and Hon. Archibald John Majorbanks, second son of Lord Tweedmouth, and brother of Lady Aberdeen, wife of the governor general of Canada. The marriage will take place some time in the spring. The couple met in this city during the World's Fair, when Mr. Majorbanks was assisting Lord and Lady Aberdeen in the erection of the Blarney Castle on the Midway.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1.--Senator Peffer has been requested to have removed the charge of desertion from the record of presidential elector Linton, of Cherryvale, Kansas. He said to-day that it could be accomplished only by special act of Congress, but that the charge could not affect Mr. Linton's status as an elector, as he never had left the State. An investigation of the records, he said, shows that Mr. Linton after having served through several campaigns.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--A special to the Tribune from Washington says: Nelson Dingley, Jr., will be elected secretary of the high position under the McKinley administration, and has accepted it.

THEY SHIVERED

For Six Hours, But Patience Had Its Reward.

OVER SEVEN THOUSAND PEOPLE

PASSED THROUGH THE PORTALS OF THE WHITE HOUSE, AND ALL GRASPED THE HANDS

Of President and Mrs. Cleveland--Most Brilliant Reception of Cleveland's Eight Years in Office--The President's Wife, Simply, but Elegantly Gowned, was the Central Figure--The Diplomatic Corps Furnish the Bright Lights in the Way of Costumes--The Floral Decorations Were Magnificent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1--Seven thousand persons shivered outside the white house to-day, for periods varying from one to six hours. But patience had its reward in every case, for the President and Mrs. Cleveland shook hands with every one of them.

The closing New Year's reception of the present administration was the most brilliant of Mr. Cleveland's whole eight years in office, and old Arthur Simmons, the President's famous colored messenger, whose service in the white house dates back thirty years, shook his head eagerly as he viewed the far reaching crowd from an upper window and declared it "de grandest inception since de wah."

The cold gray sky that threatened rain, which did not fall, served merely as a foil to the brilliant pageant that moved for hours through the forest of tropical plants that filled the softly lighted parlor inside the executive mansion. The diplomatic corps as usual furnished the high lights in the reception. Foreign uniforms of every sort, from the white and silver of the German military attaches to the green and crimson silks of the Chinese minister almost served to pale the Paris gowns of the receiving party, and of the official guests behind the line.

Only a shade more subdued were the uniforms of the army and navy, a study in blue and gold accented by the yellow plumes of the cavalry and the scarlet facings of the artillery. As a background for this display was set the dead black of the evening dress of the South American diplomats, worn in accordance with their own social law in such matters, and in the morning costumes of the civil officials.

The center picture was Mrs. Cleveland, the most simply gowned of the receiving party. Her dress of pale mauve had a high rouching of smoke gray lace at the throat and at the wrists. It was caught by butterfly bows of the same on the shoulders and on the plain, smooth hanging skirt. Her hair was curled high at the back and brought in tall waves from her forehead over her temples. She was just slightly flushed by the rapid exercise of hand-making, but smiled as cheerfully and shook hands as vigorously with the last of her 7,000 callers as she had with the first.

The decorations of the interior of the white house were altogether floral. Indeed little else than flowers could be added to the simple yet elegant permanent adornments of the receiving suite without sensibly detracting from the effect of the whole. These, however, were used in profusion, and at the same time with such fine taste as to correct an estimate of the color values of the different apartments as to add vastly to the appearance of the noble suit. The first of the apartments to be entered by the callers upon passing through the lobby, the Red room, so called from the prevailing color of the hangings and upholstery, was lavishly bedecked with flowers, probably because it was intended only for a waiting room. But just adjoining it the Blue parlor, famous in the history of receptions, was decorated with exquisite taste. Tall palms interspersed with anemones, foliage plants and glass ferns from view the closely drawn curtains which shut out the light of day from the room; solid banks of the rarest flowers covered the mantels, and a beautiful and unique runner of ivy crept along the frieze, along the cornice and around the doorways. Over all streamed the soft light from a hundred electric globes suspended in crystal chandeliers and placed in the lighting up on the delicate robes egg blue tints of the silken tapestry which covered the walls and the golden and blue upholstery of the massive furnishings was extremely effective.

Very appropriately the decorations of the next of the suite, the Green room, were of an emerald cast, and, while there was an apparent absence of flowers, an inspection of what seemed to be only foliage disclosed the presence of many rare and curious orchids and prettily marked grasses and small palms, all embedded in green jardiniere. The East room was the glory of the house. Since the last reception it had been renovated completely and was fairly resplendent in gold and silver and white. In its vast proportions the contents of a whole conservatory of plants and flowers were swallowed up without in any sense crowding the decorations. In the magnificent East window stood a gigantic pyramid of green made up of stately palms and rubber plants, towering up toward the high ceiling, founded in masses of ferns and grasses, interspersed with big blazing stars of poinsettias. The three great crystal chandeliers were the centers of perfect jungles of creepers and asparagus and smilax, while on the mantels were enameled jardiniere filled with quaint Chinese primroses and other bright-hued flowers.

WEYLER'S WAYS.

He is Still Fighting the Brave Cuban Insurgents

THROUGH THE CENSORSHIP

Of the Press--Claims that there are Only 500 "Rebels" Left in the Province of Pinar del Rio--Shakes Heads with Himself on the Suppression of the Revolt in that Section of Cuba--Madrid Papers Tell a Different Story--Recall of the Captain General Very Probable.

HAVANA, Jan. 1.--The war correspondent of La Lucha, of this city, Senor Canarte, has telegraphed to his paper the substance of an interview which he had yesterday with Captain General Weyler, whose column he joined at San Cristobal. The captain general assured the correspondent that there was only about 500 insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio, adding: "I am able to say that the province is pacified. Sickness, bullets and hunger will terminate the revolution. I will treat the leaders with consideration if they surrender all, or nearly all of their followers."

"Nobody can consider himself the owner of the cattle in the mountains and woods which were born last year, and I allow the soldiers and the poor to gather them together and get what benefit they can from them. I have also provided for the establishment of cultivated zones in the province of Havana, an insurgent camp of 100 men at the heights of Gener, on the Matanzas. The insurgents have again attacked the village of Cobre in the province of Santiago de Cuba. They were, however, repulsed with loss.

The insurgents have broken up the railroad near the village of Cristo. The insurgents attacked the train but were repulsed by the military escort. Colonel Paris, while on a reconnoitering expedition, surprised and dispersed an insurgent camp of 100 men at the heights of Gener, on the Matanzas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.--The Spanish minister at Washington was to-day informed by a cablegram from Madrid that the queen regent had signed the decree inaugurating governmental reforms in Porto Rico.

The filibusters who left Ferdinand on the steamer Three Friends, about three weeks ago, bound for Cuba, and who after the failure of the expedition were stranded on No Name Key, have been in distress, and at least two of them have died because of privations that they have been compelled to endure. No Name Key is situated about sixty miles northeast of Key West.

LONDON, Jan. 2.--The Standard's Madrid correspondent says: "Public opinion has received the announcement of concessions to Porto Rico rather coldly, involving a reversal of the colonial policy under pressure from the United States and Europe. The Correo, Siglo, Futuro and several other liberal, military and ultra-mountain newspapers will be prosecuted for attacking the commissariat and hospital staffs in Cuba. The opposition will bring the matter before the courts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.--A Key West dispatch to the World says: There is absolutely no truth in the report cable from Madrid that fifty-one men of the Three Friends expedition were drowned after having been landed on a key off the Cuban coast. The cargo was safely landed at a certain point with a half dozen men to bury it until they could find a large body of insurgents to carry it away.

MADRID, Jan. 1.--The Dia, referring to the attacks of the Herald and Imparcial on Captain Weyler, says it is probable that they are in a cabinet, and that many people believe there will be a change of policy. A meeting of Spanish generals was held last evening to consider these newspaper articles, the full text of which was not allowed to be distributed abroad, for fear of causing injury among the friends of the insurgents in the United States.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--A special to the Tribune from Washington says: Nelson Dingley, Jr., will be elected secretary of the high position under the McKinley administration, and has accepted it.

MORE TROUBLE

Brewing Down in the Central American Republics.

INVOLVING THE UNITED STATES

The Columbian Government's Attempt to Seize Corn Island

STIRS UP THE NICARAGUANS

An Armed Force Sent by Laiter Power to Head Off the "Grubber"--Salvador and Honduras Will Help Nicaragua Out if it Comes to a Pinch--Origin of the Dispute--What it Means to the United States--Important Strategical Point.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 1.--With little beating of drums or blowing of trumpets a war-like move upon the part of the republic of Colombia is now believed to have been checkmated by the republic of Nicaragua, although further news from the objective point, Corn Island, is anxiously expected here.

About a month ago the government of Nicaragua was informed, unofficially, that Colombia had planned to make a landing on Corn Island, a valuable strategic spot, situated about thirty-six miles off Mosquito coast, belonging to Nicaragua, whose flag is to be hoisted down and the ensign of Colombia substituted for it. It was believed that Nicaragua was over-awed by the Colombian army, and that the inhabitants, numbering a few hundred, had appealed to Colombia for redress on the ground that territory, some five miles long, which had formerly belonged to Colombia, was unlawfully held by Nicaragua.

It was further stated that the prefect of San Andres, Colombia, had assembled a military force and was only waiting for the arrival of a Colombian gunboat in order to embark the troops, proceed to Corn Island, seize it and fortify it against the possibility of capture. That such a plan was discussed there is no reason to doubt, but President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, took prompt steps to meet the emergency upon the part of the neighboring republic.

AN AWFUL CRIME

Developed in Kansas--An Inhuman Father Figures in It.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 1.--Al Williams, aged thirty-two, and Mrs. Jane Mays, aged twenty-one, living north of Topeka, were arrested to-day charged with the murder of Anna Belle Williams, the twelve-year-old girl, whose outraged body was found Wednesday, in a meadow near Eudora.

The body bears evidence of a dreadful assault on its person. The finger marks on the neck and condition of the body show that the murderous fiend who committed the assault covered up his work by sealing her lips with death by strangulation.

Williams was the father of the girl, and accuses the Mays woman of the murder. The pair agreed to take the child to Kansas City in order to have her placed on a poor farm, the woman to accompany the girl. She says that when they reached Eudora she became sick, and a strange man offered to take care of her. This is the last she saw of Belle. The pair are secure in jail, and the officers say they expect to prove a deliberate scheme to make way with the girl.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 1--

Two policemen were pounded half to death by a crowd of toughs to-day, and two of their assailants were shot. The trouble was the result of a crusade which the police have been waging against saloon keepers who have been violating the law by serving drinks to women.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--At the request of the committee of which she was a member, Mrs. Helen M. Gouger stepped down and out of the Nationalist party yesterday. A joint conference was held at the Sherman house of the executive and national central committees, to consider the best means of furthering the interests of the party at which Mrs. Gouger was present.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--The engagement is announced of Miss Myrtle Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., and Hon. Archibald John Majorbanks, second son of Lord Tweedmouth, and brother of Lady Aberdeen, wife of the governor general of Canada. The marriage will take place some time in the spring. The couple met in this city during the World's Fair, when Mr. Majorbanks was assisting Lord and Lady Aberdeen in the erection of the Blarney Castle on the Midway.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1.--Senator Peffer has been requested to have removed the charge of desertion from the record of presidential elector Linton, of Cherryvale, Kansas. He said to-day that it could be accomplished only by special act of Congress, but that the charge could not affect Mr. Linton's status as an elector, as he never had left the State. An investigation of the records, he said, shows that Mr. Linton after having served through several campaigns.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.--A special to the Tribune from Washington says: Nelson Dingley, Jr., will be elected secretary of the high position under the McKinley administration, and has accepted it.

EDITOR M'COLLIGAN'S DEATH. The Development Point to Seize--Was He "Time to Go?" ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 1.--The inquest on the body of J. H. McCulligh, late editor of the Globe-Democrat, whose remains were found under his bedroom window yesterday, began to-day. It developed the startling fact, through the testimony of Dr. C. H. Hughes, Mr. McCulligh's physician, that the deceased made what was at the time believed to be an attempt at suicide on December 22 last. On that day Mr. Hughes testified he called on Mr. McCulligh and left with him a four-ounce bottle containing two ounces of digitalis, a powerful heart tonic, an over-dose of which would have the effects of paralyzing the action of the heart. The same night Mr. McCulligh took one ounce of the medicine, enough to have caused death, but which, owing to the weak condition of his stomach, was immediately rejected.