

LUCKY DISAPPOINTMENT.

"How do you know that?" demanded Tom. "I found it so when we became acquainted."

"Half an hour after our eyes first met. The landlord was showing a party of boarders about the country, and Miss Moore and I were in the party and of course Miss Moore introduced us to each other and to the other guests as well."

"Well, almost, but not exactly." "Beg pardon, Brown," said Tom. "I suppose I left out the most important thing to you; such as the strolls you took together, silent, silver moonlight, and the other guests as well."

"How clever and sarcastic you are growing, Tom, and how sympathetic you are becoming," he retorted dryly. "Neither clever nor sarcastic," corrected Howard, "simply honest and alive, as of old."

"Several oil and gas wells have been discovered on our old homestead and we have sold the part of the place on which the wells are located to a big Chicago syndicate. Besides my brother's graduate next year, when he and mamma, who feels that she cannot part from the old home, will keep house together."

"I haven't decided yet." "Dora, dearest one," said Ernest, tenderly, "you know I love you—have loved you all the time—and cannot live without you; now that every barrier is swept away by happy fortune, must we wait longer for the fulfillment of our sacred love?"

"I could not have done that eight months ago," she said as she seated herself in a big arm chair. "At that time," she continued, "had I ran down the steps as I did a few months ago, I would have fainted. With her eyes sparkling, and a vivacious tinge on her cheek, Miss Gilbert asked the cause of the reporter's visit. Upon being told that he came to ask about her illness, she said that she would cheerfully relate her experience. "I have been several years duration, was due mainly to a lack of blood. To-day my rosy cheeks and healthy appearance denote the grateful change from a life of ill-health to one of freedom from all illness. When a reporter called on her at her home, No. 1215 Glenwood avenue, Philadelphia, the young lady ran lightly down the steps with all the elasticity of youth."

"I don't know," said Ernest, as he bitched his chin up a little. "I was a school teacher, struggling hard to educate her younger brother and to support herself and mother. The boy was attending the little academy in which Dora taught, and the mother lived on small farm somewhere in Indiana. The father was the old handloom weaver, and still her father, and the brave girl was trying to redeem it and at the same time care for her mother and help her brother along in school. Of course, being well-to-do, I would have gladly shouldered all her burdens; but as soon as she learned that she was the possessor of $100,000 of this world's goods she made me understand that she preferred to meet her own responsibilities unaided."

JACKSON AND WALLING. Their So-Called Confession Implicating Will Wood and Dr. Wagner—Probably a Hoax.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—Both the Enquirer and Commercial Tribune print this morning confessions by Scott Jackson and Alonzo M. Walling, signed respectively by their authors. The text of these confessions is copyrighted. Jackson lays the blame of the condition of Pearl Bryan on Alonzo M. Walling, who he says solicited him by letter to give her relief from disgrace for his sake. He alleges that it was all Will Wood's motion to send her here and that out of friendship to Wood he undertook the task of concealing her shame. Up to Wednesday night, January 29, the story does not differ materially from that already related in the case. He said he engaged Walling to find some one who would perform the delicate task, that on Wednesday Walling told him that he had sent Miss Bryan to a doctor. On Thursday Walling received word to come out to Dr. Wagner at Bellevue, Ky., near New Port. He and Walling both went out but did not go in. They arranged, however, to be there again on Friday night, January 31. They both went there. Wagner sent him to Fortmeyer's drug store for some ergot, and he went and obtained it. When he returned all were gone. He was unconscious and it determined to take her away. Wagner obtained the wagon and the body was carried out the back way and put into it and all three got in the wagon. Wagner driving. Arriving at the place near the Alexandria, Stokes farms, they stopped and Mr. Stone's farm, they thought he had carried the body into where it was afterwards found. Wagner thought her dead, and told Jackson to hold her head which he did. Then Wagner severed the head from the body, and wrapped it up in girl's cloak. Walling carried the cloak to Dr. Wagner, Jackson as a witness. He let go of the body, he had was at the top of the bank but fell forward. Wagner let them out at Newport bridge. He and Walling went to Cincinnati and Jackson to his room with the girl's valises which contained the body. The blood inside the valise came from a sack worn by the girl which was put in it. Wagner took the head away with him.

Alonzo Walling's statement is that Jackson solicited him to help get out of trouble into which he had been entangled by Will Wood, of Greencastle, he first heard of this trouble to Pearl Bryan some time in November, 1895, but was not asked to assist until after Jackson had returned from Greencastle early in January. He agreed to find some one that could perform an abortion, accordingly, on January 27, he wrote to one of his friends, May Smith, asking her for such information. On January 28, he received a letter from her advising him to see Dr. Wagner of Bellevue, and saying that she had written Wagner to call at the college. The same day he and Walling agreed to perform the operation and gave his address. On that afternoon Walling met Pearl Bryan on the corner of Fourth and Race streets and directed her how to go to Wagner. On the next day, January 30, Wagner called by mail to bring Pearl's clothing out to him to be kept under his care. He and Jackson took the clothes but did not go inside. Next evening, Friday, January 31, he and Jackson went out to Wagner's. Here Walling tells the same story as Jackson, about Jackson's unconsciousness, ending with the decapitation. He says he was too much excited to remember the particulars, but he knew that Jackson and Wagner removed the head. He said that night at Heider's restaurant in Cincinnati.

The Enquirer, of Nicholasville, Ky., stating that Dr. Wagner who is implicated by Jackson and Walling confessions, formerly lived at Wallingville and is the son-in-law of Wm. Henen, a wealthy farmer of that county. Wagner then was a minister of the Reform church in Sulphur. About the middle of January, 1896, Mr. Wagner wrote to her brother Walter Henen, that her husband was losing his mind and asked him to come to Bellevue. He went and says that on the 23d of January, he took Dr. Wagner with him from Nicholasville to the house of William Henen where he remained until February 3.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—In the course of a report to the state department upon the progress made during the past year in the construction of the Siberian railroad, United States Consul General Karel, at St. Petersburg, gives some news as to the new Pacific port to be established. He says the committee in charge of construction, wishing to build the terminus on the Pacific coast, in a suitable manner, since that point will play a significant part in future transit over the great Siberian railway, has chosen the Bay of Gold Horn as the site of the commercial port. The committee has selected and prepared a prominent strip near the shore for an elevated harbor wharf, thinking that in case future commerce should develop to a great extent, the requirements could be satisfied by constructing a supplementary section of the port in some of the waters near Vladivostok. This port will be gradually built.

THIN BLOOD, WHITE COMPLEXION. Doctors Disguised the Cause as Heart Disease and Consumption—But the Symptoms Were Due to Watery Blood Atonia, and Disappeared When Blood Was Enriched.

From Presbyterian Journal, Philadelphia, Pa. After years of patient and intense suffering, Miss Gertrude Gilbert has recovered her lost health, and is to-day a rosy and blooming specimen of young womanhood. Miss Gilbert's illness, which was of several years duration, was due mainly to a lack of blood. To-day her rosy cheeks and healthy appearance denote the grateful change from a life of ill-health to one of freedom from all illness. When a reporter called on her at her home, No. 1215 Glenwood avenue, Philadelphia, the young lady ran lightly down the steps with all the elasticity of youth.

"I could not have done that eight months ago," she said as she seated herself in a big arm chair. MUNYON'S MARCH MEDICINES. The Learned Professor Gives a Plain Talk on SPRING DISEASES. One Remedy Cannot Correct All the Changes in the System. SEPARATE SPECIFICS Are Needed to Prevent the Development of Diseases at the End of Winter.

SEEDS OF CONSUMPTION, WEAK KIDNEYS. The Result of Extra Work on the Part of These Organs During Cold Weather Are Promptly Strengthened by Munyon's Kidney Cure. IMPOVERISHED BLOOD And Deficient Circulation Call for Munyon's Blood Cure, the Best Blood Tonic on the Market—It Enriches and Purifies the Blood, Promotes Appetite and Gives Renewed Strength and Vitality.

Professor Munyon says: "The idea that one must take 'Spring Medicines' is a great mistake. It is true that at this season of the year many changes take place in the human body that affect the blood, liver, kidneys and nerves, but in healthy people these changes occur without the help of medicines. In fact it is a sin against nature to take drugs of any kind into the body unless one is ill. The so-called Spring Medicines for the blood are also bad because they pretend to cure all diseases with one combination of medicines. If your stomach is out of order it is absurd to take rheumatism medicine; if you have a cold, a kidney remedy not only does you no good, but may do harm; if your liver is sluggish a nerve cure is useless. In fact, there is only one way to cure promptly and permanently, that is, by treating each phase of disease with the appropriate remedy. A separate cure for each disease is the grand and true principle on which the Munyon system of treatment has gained its marvelous success."

"If you have a March Cold, the first thing is to cure the cold, as this is the season when Grippe and Colds have a dangerous tendency to develop into lung diseases and catarrh. The most obstinate colds yield in a few days to Munyon's Cold Cure. For pneumonia, catarrhal diseases and throat troubles are always prevented by this remedy. Where colds are complicated by a cough, the Cold Cure should be alternated with Munyon's Cough Cure. The debilitated condition which affects many people in the spring season is nature's warning that some organ is weak and often precedes serious disease. It is a condition which needs careful investigation, and which calls for treatment, not with Spring Medicines, but with the remedy that will remove the cause. If the stomach is disordered, Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure will act as a stomach tonic and bowel regulator, assisting digestion, and curing such symptoms as pain or soreness in the stomach, indigestion or distress after eating, fullness in the stomach, shortness of breath, poor appetite, coated tongue, sour or bitter raising from the stomach, heartburn, wind on the stomach, constipation, dizziness, faintness, and loss of energy."

"If the kidneys are affected, the languid, dragged-out feeling, dark complexion, pain in the back, dark circles around the eyes, headaches, and deposits of red sand or mucus in the urine, Munyon's Kidney Cure is guaranteed to cure 95 per cent of all forms of kidney disease. "When the liver is disordered, the yellow tinge to the face, the presence in the blood of the poisonous substances left by the defective action of this organ. In fact, the condition is one of general poisoning. There is a depression of the spirits, tired, worn-out feeling all the time, bad taste in the mouth, itching of the scalp, and aching in the joints, headache, and aches and pains all over. Munyon's Liver Cure stimulates the liver to healthy action, and makes a perfect cure by removing the cause. "Impoverished, thin and impure blood is the foundation from which many diseases arise in the spring months. The poor quality of the blood results in a general low state of health, loss of energy and vitality. The patient takes cold easily, and the colds are obstinate, leading to catarrh, rheumatism and neuralgia. Munyon's Blood Cure not only purifies the blood, but makes new blood, rich in nourishment that invigorates the whole system. It aids the healthful action of all the organs of the body, revitalizes all the tissues, promotes appetite, drives out skin diseases, brings a healthy color to the cheeks, clears the complexion and tones up the nerves, dispelling completely the dragged-out, tired feeling."

No matter what the disease there is a Munyon specific with which you can doctor and cure yourself. Munyon's Improved Homeopathic Remedies are sold by all druggists, mostly at 25 cents a vial. There is no guess work, each remedy is plainly labeled with directions for home treatment, and the cure is absolutely certain. If you are in doubt as to the nature of your disease, a personal letter to Professor Munyon, 1505 Arch street, Philadelphia, will be answered with free medical advice.
