The Amount of Our Money The following inquiry is self explana tory, and is a sample of many inquiries which indicate how the silverites seek to deceive with false statements regarding the currency question:

To the Editor of the Intelligencer

SIR:—In the last campaign the Demo-crats had statistics from somewhere show-ing the money in circulation back in 183 to be over 370 per capita; and they still be-lieve we had it. Please give us the facts in your paper, which is considered the best press authority in the state here, and oblige a reader.

J. N. COTTRILL. Quiet Dell, W. Va., Aug. 12.

The statistics of the treasury department are so easily obtainable that it is a wonder that any of the financial quacks should be so recklessly absurd in their statements, as in the case our corres-pondent refers to. The fact is the per capita of money in circulation in this country never has been as high as seventy dollars in the history of the government, for the reason that it has never been necessary and such inflation would be attended with dangers. Since the year 1860 the per capita of circulation has ranged from $13 to $25, the increase from the first amount to the last being gradual. Answering our correspondent's question direct, we present the following table, which has been compiled from the records of the treasury department. We desire to say that the table only refers to money in actual circulation and does not include money in the treasury, which we will refer to further on. The actual per capita in circulation outside of the treasury from 1868 to 1896, inclusive, was:

Specie payments were suspended from 1862 to 1879, during which period, or the greater part of it, gold and silver coins were not in circulation, except on the Pacific coast. During the period em-braced in the above table the total amount of money in the United States, including all in the treasury and in circulation, increased from $716,553,578, or centra, to $2.398.590.534 or about $35 per capita, and it is somewhat more than that now, as the coinage of silver and gold and issuance of bank

It will be noted that while the population of the United States has not quite doubled since 1868 the total amount of all money in the country has increased three-fold, (or one-half more rapidly than the population.) This increase has taken place in twenty-nine years, twen ty-four of which were after the act of 1872. which our free silver friends say was a "striking down of one-half of our The fact is there has been fifty times as much silver coined since that time as there was in the entire history of the government previous to the socalled "crime.

Stewart Forsakes the Calamitrites.

When Mr. Bryan reads a recent interview with Senator Stewart, of Nevada he will find that another prop has slipped from under his tottering air-castle. Senator Stewart was the most radical and uncompromisingly fanatical of all the free silver leaders. He was Mr. Bryan's mainstay and chief adviser, Stewart has, in fact, been the head and front of the free silver propagands, and it was he who contributed the most to the silver campaign literature. Next to Mr. Bryan, he talked more than any other man, and in the senate kept the pages of the Congreesional Record filled with his silver arguments, one of the favorite theories advanced being the well known but now exploded idea that the low price of silver was the cause of low wheat, and that the metal and the cereal were by some mysterious provision of Providence, which could never be explained, twins in the world of trade and commerce. But the advance of prosperity, espec ially among the farmers, has caused even this unswerving allver shricker change his tune, and he is now singing more in harmony with the logic of events, and gracefully admitting that wheat may go to a dollar and silver get down to twenty-five cents. More than that, he has ceased his celamity howling, and by the following frank admission gives a death blow to the hobby of his Democratic journal, but which repre-

friend and protege, Mr. Bryan, which we commend to all the silverite calamity howlers hereabouts. Senator Stewart says:

"There is no room for pessimism in this conneity. No one can be a bear in the face of the wheat famine in Argentina, Russia, Hungary and India. In view of this condition abroad, I would not be surprised to see silver as low as twenty-five cents and wheat as high as one dollar. "There is nothing in talking silver at the present time, and my advice to my friends in the west is to fall in line with the forces of prosperity and progress, and receive their due share of the reward. The time has passed for the old issue and new conditions. The wheat situation in the west will make every railroad in the west not only a dividend carner, but a dividend payer." Note the sentiment contained in the last paragraph. "There is nothing in talking silver," he says, "and my advice to my friends in the west is to fall in line with the forces of prosperity and That is good advice for Mr. Bryan and his followers. Will they follow it, or will they continue to harp on the craze which is being crushed out by the practical lesson of experience?

The forces of the calamity wailers and the financial quacks are being gradually dispersed. They cannot "kick against the pricks." With Stewart, Boies and cores of others surrendering to the inevitable, there are not many of the agitators of the false heresies of last year to keep up the fight.

- Wheeling Excursionists.

Fully 2,000 people left this city and its environs on excursions to Cincinnati Saturday, drawn by the cheap rates offered by the railroads as the result of close competition. While the amount expended for railroad fare is small, it does not represent one tithe of the amount of money that is thus taken from Wheeling and expended in another city for pleasure. The money so spent does not belong to the wealthier people of the city. It is principally from the wage working and salary earning classes, men and women of small means, who work hard for what, they get and "to make both ends meet."

Wheeling affords many opportunities in her surroundings for all who enjoy themselves at pleasant outings and other pastimes, and why people in search of rest and recreation should pass them by and crowd themselves into railroad cars for a hurried trip of three or four hundred miles, only to plunge into a heated, dusty city in dog days, under the impression that they are enjoying rest and recreation, is something absolutely inexpli-

The amount of money thus spent could be used for the same purpose much more advantageously. The same time, for instance, in a real resting place, in the quiet of the country, or elsewhere, would bring more gratifying returns and require a less amount of money. The railroad companies are just now engaged in a good work in affording the people of this community cheap rates for pleasure trips, but, if it is rest and recreation that is desired, why not make the objective points of the trips places where pure air, rest and the freedom of the country abound, and not to the discomforts, the heat and the tiresomeness of a great city whose residents are themselves seeking the country?

As to the amount of money taken from Wheeling by these excursionists, and the wealthy who go to the resorts, which would help along prosperity by being expended at home, that is another matter People who earn money have a right to spend it as they choose, and if they prefer to add it to the volume of circulation in another city, who has a right to say a word? Let those of us who remain at home hope that those who go, find the enjoyment they anticipate, even in the heat and turmoil of a larger city.

The Business Situation The New York Journal of Commerce

thus sums up in a nut-shell the busine situation, which shows that prosperity is not an irridescent dream:

"Nearly every sign of good times is present. Prices are generally low, but most of them are tending upward, and the high prices of manufactured goods that prevailed a few years ago are never likely to return, though with a foreign shortage the prices of breadstuffs may possibly rise to old fashioned figures. The upward tendency of most prices, the volume of bank clearings, the increasing receipts of the railway companies, the strong stock market and the growing culation, all tell of a decided impr ment, no longer prospective but actually

This summary is borne out by the genral situation as given in detail by all the trade and commercial reports. The improvement which has been noted from week to week of late continues every where and all that is needed to make the situation all around one of hope and content is the settlement of me coal strike and an advance in prices to reasonable figures and that these conditions are approaching is certain. strike cannot always last. The operators will have to do something soon to save themselves. Either a granting of the demands of the miners or a settlement by arbitration will be necessary The next few days should witness a material change in the situation. The price of commodities, which have been rulnously low, are gradually assuming a normal condition and the outlook for a brisk fall trade was never better.

The Deputy Collectorship. In Saturday's Intelligencer it was in-advertantly stated that Mr. Alex. R. Campbell, who has been appointed stamp deputy in the internal revenue office here should have read that he succeeded Mr. A. H. Patterson, who has been the Democratic deputy. Mr. Wiedebusch is protected by the civil service rule and will Collector White, who was confronted with the claims of several applicants, all made no mistake in his final selection of Mr. Campbell, and 'the appointment is favorably received generally and accepted with good grace by the applicants.

The most cruel suggestion of all comes from the Baltimore Sun, that staunch old sents the real Democracy and not the is nothing like getting down to hard pan and suggests that the logic of the siruation in 1900 will be for the Popocratic party to nominate an Ohio Populist for President, having falled to elect one from Nebraska. The Sun therefore suggests date.

If everybody puts his shoulder to the wheel Merchants' Day will be a great success. All Wheeling will be benefitted by it, and the visiting merchants will find it muchato their advantage. It is at opportunity for the business men o Wheeling to show their friends and customers in the surrounding country how much they appreciate their good will and patronage, as well as an opportunity to establish closer social and business relations with them. Nothing is ever lost by such movements and a great deal is always gained. Let the good work proceed to a successful consummation

President Ratchford, of the United Mine Workers, continues to pursue the proper course. "We will not get our proper course. rights," he says, "by means of anarchy." He advises the men to continue to use only jegitimate means, and they are following the advice. This policy followed out will retain popular sympathy, and strengthen the cause of higher wages and better conditions.

It is estimated that the farmers of the ountry will be richer this year by almost a billion dollars. The estimate is based on the reports of crops and prices received at the agricultural department The farmer is strictly in it this year, Prosperity for the farmers means pros perity for the country.
