

OPERATORS SPLIT.

Internal Dissensions Mixed With Fear Cause a Break.

THE CONFERENCE ADJOURNS.

Causing a Report to Circulate of Their Surrender,

WHICH IS EARNESTLY DENIED.

Some of Them, However, are Frank Enough to State that the Situation in All Branches of Labor is Critical, and They Have No Desire to Make a Move That would Cast Odium on Operators of the Pittsburgh District--President of the Meeting Declares that They Have Not Changed Their Intentions of Starting the Mines--District President Dolan Arrested for Urging Strikers to March After They Had Been Warned Not To.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.--Coal operators of the Pittsburgh district made a decided change in front since yesterday. Internal dissensions mixed with fear on the part of some caused a split in their forces and a change of base. On its face the move looked to many like a temporary surrender to the United Mine Workers of America. This, however, is denied in most emphatic terms by the most prominent lake shippers, who say they are going to start their mines and supply the demand from the northwest and not stand idly by and let a large volume of business go to operators of other states. They publicly state that they are willing to wait for a week or ten days before a decided move is made. They claim that this will give them ample time to get the lake trade.

Some of the operators in the meeting were frank enough to state that the situation at the present time in all branches of labor is critical and that they have no desire to make any move that would cast odium on the operators of the Pittsburgh district.

It was under these conditions that the operators went into session this morning. There were many who had not signed the agreement to share their portion toward the expense that might accrue in the effort to start the mines and they were the loudest in the appeals to hold aloof to await developments. It is proposed that notices printed in various languages embracing briefly the position of the operators, and also a final notice to the miners that the mines were ready to be operated as soon as the men expressed a desire to go to work. This proposal was barely entertained and voted down, showing that many of the operators had receded from the stand they had taken. A motion to discharge all committees and adjourn sine die was made and prevailed.

In the afternoon another meeting of the most prominent and largest lake shippers was held. The session was short and as a result the following was issued by their press committee:

"The organization composed of all the operators which has been in session at the Monongahela house adjourned sine die this morning. This action puts affairs into the hands of a committee appointed this morning under an agreement which was entered into at Cleveland and which has since been ratified and strengthened by the signatures of a large majority of the railroad and coal producers of this district. This committee is vested with discretionary power to act."

All efforts to find out who composed this special committee were futile. The press committee after repeated entreaties refused to divulge the names of the committee.

Have Not Changed Their Intentions.

J. B. Zerbe, who presided at the meeting, was emphatic in asserting that the operators who had originally gone into the compact at Cleveland to break the strike, had not changed their intention. In the course of an interview he said: "I wish to say, and say it in all sincerity, that the operators who originally made the move towards starting their mines, have not changed their intentions. It is true that the organization that has been in session for the last few days has been virtually abandoned. The old organization, the one that was originally formed with Peter M. Hitchcock, as chairman, C. M. Baine, secretary, and J. C. Dyeart, treasurer, has not been abandoned and will continue the work on lines originally mapped out. It is true that there is no need of being in a hurry. We have plenty of time in which to start the mines and get our share of the business. We have at least ten or twelve more days in which we can get into shape. The position taken by the officials of the miners will be one they will regret. It does not seem right nor fair towards us for operators in other states to have men at work at a lower rate and supply a trade that rightfully belongs to the Pittsburgh district, but rest assured that the mines of many of the operators of the Pittsburgh district will run when we have fully determined upon our plan of action."

"Just when this resumption is to take place, I am not prepared to state. The coal operators feel that they have the right, justice, law and order on their side and are fully determined to resume business when the proper time comes, which will be soon."

Cleveland Operators Leave for Home.

The Cleveland operators left for their homes to-night and it is probable that another meeting will be held in Cleveland within the next few days. Many of the local operators who took part in the conference and withdrew, seemed to be in bad humor. It is known that a number of the small producers have been making money in buying and selling coal than they would had their mines been in operation since the strike began.

As a consequence of the adjournment of the meeting and the circulation of a report that the operators had surrendered to the miners' organization there was a feeling that the price of coal would make material advances. Brokers were on hand at the Monongahela House when the operators left the meeting, but little business was transacted. Many of them had holdings which they offered at advances, but there were no buyers at an increased price.

Window Glass Goes Up.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.--Window glass has gone up 7 per cent in price to the public. The jobbers association met today and were officially notified by the manufacturers yesterday that the price of window glass was raised 5 per cent. The jobbers promptly raised this 2 per cent, raising the 5 per cent advance did not restore to them the proper margin of profit.

To Circumvent Injunctions.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 25.--The largest demonstration yet held by the striking miners occurred here to-night.

Mr. Rea, who has charge of the organization of miners in the Fairmont district, has worked out a scheme to get around the injunction of Judge Jackson regarding marching, which is to establish camps at points along roads leading to the mines and then marching the men from one camp to another, which, according to the decision of Judge Goff, was no violation. Mr. Rea says he had been receiving great encouragement the last few days and the miners are now gaining daily. A camp will be established here in a few days.

DOLAN ARRESTED

By Washington County Deputies for Urging the Strikers to March After They Had Been Warned by Officers of Law.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.--Patrick Dolan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, was arrested in Washington county this afternoon while leading a body of marchers past the Allison mine of Cook & Sons, near McGovern station.

Ever since the strike started the miners have been making daily marches from their camp to the mine. From the mine to the railroad there is a tramway under which runs the public road known as the Washington pike. This morning, with a band at their head, about 400 marchers tramped along the pike and passed under the tramway. On their return they were stopped by deputy sheriffs and told that they could not pass under the tramway, that they must return to their camp by crossing a field and coming down the railroad. The marchers became enraged and for a time it looked as if there would be trouble. The marchers had a conference and decided to remain where they were and communicated with President Dolan by telegraph.

Dolan arrived shortly after 4 o'clock and made a speech to the strikers. He said that the deputy sheriffs had no right to stop them from marching in the public thoroughfare as long as their mission was a peaceful one and told them he would lead the procession. The band, with Dolan at its head and the marchers following, started down the road to go under the tramway and on to the camp. Upon Dolan reaching the tramway he was told by the deputy sheriffs that he could go no further, when he wanted to know the reason why. He was told that such a move was a violation of the law and the injunction. This Dolan denied and the arrest followed. He was taken to Washington on the first train. The marchers were disconcerted and were allowed to go to their camp unimpeded.

Accused of Poisoning Mules.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.--Striking miners are accused of poisoning the mules in Sterling mine No. 8, at Hastings, Pa. One mule has died, another is malingering and four more are extremely sick. The company is reported to have had the carcass of the dead one examined with the result of proving its death was due to poison. It is understood that the mine will be closed down and the tracks removed. It is one of the largest mines in Hastings, and is the one at which the men and Supt. Nicholson have had so much trouble.

Power House Burned.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.--The power house of the Federal Coal Company, operated by E. W. Powers at Federal, Pa., on the Pittsburgh, Charters & Coughlin railroad, was destroyed by fire shortly after midnight. There seems to be no doubt that the fire was the work of incendiaries. Since the strike was started Mr. Powers has made himself unpopular by threatening to import colored men and start his mines.

A STATE OF TERRORISM

In Neighborhood of a Camp of Railroad Laborers Near Unity, Pa.--Murder and Theft the Chief Divisions.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 25.--The camp of negro railroad laborers at Unity, near the striking miners camp at Plum Creek, which has a record for lawlessness, unequalled in this state, is to be broken up. During the past month there have been several murders and a score or more shooting scrapes at the camp, in which many of the negroes were injured. Last night three men were shot and on Sunday one man was killed and four dangerously wounded. Yesterday was a dangerous day at the end of the tunnel, and it also marked the arrival of one hundred colored women of the worst character at the negro camp. With the advent of these women and lots of bad liquor all records for lawlessness and disorder at the camp were broken and the wildest excitement ensued.

So bad has the situation now become that even the railroad superintendents on the work are afraid to enter the camp. The railroad company has decided to resort to extreme measures to drive the gamblers and women from the camps. To-day men were sent through the camp to secure the names and numbers of every man who is employed on the railroad. To-morrow the company will march a strong guard of heavily armed men into the camp and drive out all the women and gamblers at the muzzle of Winchester. This done, a dead line will be drawn about the camp and they will not be permitted to return.

The whole neighborhood at Unity is a state of terrorism. The farmers dare not walk the roads unless heavily armed, and then only by twos and threes. Farmer Hirsch, on whose land the strikers are camped, said that when the negro camp at Unity was started he had over four hundred chickens; now he has only sixty-seven remaining, and he has to watch them day and night. The farmers are infuriated at the outrages committed upon them, and they will hold a meeting at Camp Isolation on Friday night, to decide upon taking a determined course of action to drive the negroes away.

Daughters of Liberty

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 25.--The second session of the convention of the Daughters of Liberty was devoted to the reading and adoption of reports. The reports showed that the order had been established in four new states--North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Montana. That throughout its jurisdiction one hundred and five new counties have been added to the roster; that there has been an increase of over 4,000 in membership. The total number of councils was three hundred and forty-five. During the year there were one hundred and thirty-nine deaths in the order.

Window Glass Goes Up

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.--Window glass has gone up 7 per cent in price to the public. The jobbers association met today and were officially notified by the manufacturers yesterday that the price of window glass was raised 5 per cent. The jobbers promptly raised this 2 per cent, raising the 5 per cent advance did not restore to them the proper margin of profit.

To Circumvent Injunctions.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 25.--The largest demonstration yet held by the

READY REVOLVER.

An Assassin Takes the Life of Uruguay's President

WHILE ATTENDING A FETE

In Celebration of the Independence of That Country.

DIES ALMOST IMMEDIATELY

After the Fatal Shot was Fired--The Crime Committed at President Borda was Leaving the Cathedral, Where a Te Deum Had Been Sung--The Assassin a Young Man--The Dead Executive was Only Elected by a Narrow Margin, and was Unpopular with the People of the South American Republic.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 25.--J. Idiarte Borda, president of Uruguay, was assassinated to-day, while attending a fete in celebration of the independence of Uruguay, which was achieved on August 25, 1825.

The weapon used was a revolver and the assassin was promptly arrested. The crime was committed as the president was leaving the Cathedral, where a Te Deum had been sung.

The assassin is a youth named Arredondo.

President Borda died almost immediately after he was shot. Senator Guestas, president of the senate, has assumed the presidency of the republic, ad interim.

Senor Borda was elected president of Uruguay for the term extending from March, 1894, to 1898. At the time of Senor Borda's election he belonged to the official party, and was elected by a very narrow majority. The people, it was said, were sadly disappointed at the result, but order and quiet was maintained. The leading papers of Uruguay deplored the election of Senor Borda, and declared that it marked a reaction in the country's progress.

Later President Borda issued a proclamation to the effect that his administration would conduct the business of the state in the interest of the whole nation and that he would invite the assistance of all political parties to that end. This proclamation made a very favorable impression.

The murdered president was about fifty years of age. He was married and had a family and also a brother, who is an officer in the Uruguayan army. He was elected three years ago, being a "combination candidate," of several parties. So far as is known he had not been very popularly identified with the people, nor had he held any number of important offices. His elevation to the chief magistracy is said to have been distasteful to the more advanced element of the people.

CLAIMS HE WAS ROBBED.

But the Accused Said He was Given the Money for "Green Goods."

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Aug. 25.--L. N. Martin, a wealthy farmer, had Ed Frankhouser, arrested to-day on a charge of robbing him of seventy dollars. Martin claims that Frankhouser asked him to ride up a hill with him, and placed his wheel in the front of his buggy, and after riding a distance alighted. As he did so he grabbed Martin's purse, containing the money and rode off.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

GRAFTON, W. Va., Aug. 25.--Adam Shriver, a farmer living in Batelle district, near Mannington, committed suicide by drinking flavored essence. He had been having trouble with his wife until she tired of their unpleasant way of living and sued him for a divorce. This seriously worried the old man and drove him to hard drink. He went home one night in an intoxicated condition. The next morning he was crazed for the want of something to satisfy his thirst and finding twenty bottles of essence of cinnamon in the house he drank it all.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICANS

Talk of Resolutions Against Quay, but it May End in Talk Only.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 25.--The state capitol is crowded to-night with delegates and politicians to attend tomorrow's state Republican convention. Major Levi G. McCauley, of West Chester, will be nominated for auditor general and James S. Beacom, of Greensburg, for state treasurer. Deputy Attorney General John P. Eklins, of Indiana, will be re-elected state chairman and will make a speech to the convention tomorrow. The key-note of the campaign, Major McCauley's name will be presented by Col. H. H. Gillespie, of Phoenixville. Congressman E. R. Robbins, of Westmoreland, will do the honors for Beacom. The Business Men's League, which is antagonistic to Senator Quay, has headquarters at the Commonwealth. The League is pledged to McCauley and opposed to Beacom, but is taking no active interest in any of the candidates.

There is talk of a resolution being offered by Senator Quay's enemies condemning him for advocating a reduction by the last legislature of $1,000,000 a year in public school funds. The Quay people control both the state committee and the convention and this resolution is not likely to be inserted in the platform. Senator Penrose will be chairman of the resolutions committee and Senator McCauley, of Harrisburg, permanent chairman of the convention. Congressman J. D. Hicks, of Altoona, is slated for temporary chairman.

Party Leaders have abandoned the plan to censure the legislature for its refusal to pass the Quay reform bills.

Maryland Report easy.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 25.--The Republican state convention, which will meet at the Atlantic pavilion at Ocean City, to-morrow, promises to be one of the liveliest in the history of the party in Maryland. The convention will nominate candidates for state comptroller and clerk of the court of appeals. A new state central committee will also be elected.

A MANIAC BANKER.

Of San Francisco, Creates Consternation on a Passenger Train--Throws Money Away and Pulls a Revolver.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.--John D. Tollant, the president of the Tolient Banking Company, of San Francisco, is confined in the East Chicago avenue station a raving maniac. Locked in a compartment of one of the cars of the overland limited train which arrived at the Northwestern depot at 8:30 o'clock this morning the demented banker paced to and fro in the greatest excitement, occasionally throwing himself against the walls of the car and crying out in mental agony until the train slowed up on the depot tracks, when he was removed to a waiting patrol wagon and taken to the station.

During his compulsory ride through the north side streets the bank president was held struggling on the floor of the wagon, the strong arms of two police officers being required to prevent him from escaping. Constantly endeavoring to tear himself loose from the grasp of the officers, he was carried to a cell in the station house where, exhausted from his efforts, he lay on the floor mumbling incoherently about the efforts he imagined were being made to advertise him as a notorious criminal.

Saturday evening the California banker left for a vacation in Europe. He was to meet his wife in Paris and was expected to spend the autumn months in a tour of the continent. On Sunday morning after the train had progressed far on its journey across the mountains, Tollant began to act queerly. He would stare blankly into space for hours at a time, refusing his meals when they were offered to him. Occasionally he would twitch nervously and start in his seat. His fellow passengers were alarmed by his peculiar actions and notified the conductor of the train. It was decided to keep a close watch over the man, but it was not expected that he would become dangerous. This state of affairs continued for three days.

When questioned as to his health, Tollant would vouchsafe a short, curt reply to the effect that he felt well. He was taciturn in his manner, occasionally bordering on incivility when some service was offered him.

Yesterday soon after the limited train pulled out of Council Bluffs, Iowa, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers. Tollant pulled a revolver out of his pocket and flourished it when he was approached by the train hands. Swinging his weapon, the man started running down the aisle of the car. Suddenly he drew his watch from his pocket and threw it at the persons who were crowding each other to get through the coach door. Closer he approached the few who were still in the car, and who were expecting momentarily that the maniac would pull the trigger of the pistol which was leveled against him. In learning the man's purpose, the passengers in the coach where Tollant was seated were alarmed by the fact that he was muttering loudly. Suddenly he drew a $20 gold piece from his pocket and threw it with great force at his nearest neighbor. This was followed by a volley of gold coin, which was hurled at the fleeing passengers.