

WON HIS BET.

How an Elderly Gentleman Played it with his Younger Companions for a Winter.

Chicago Record: In a hotel cafe three men were talking about various things, including women. One of them was an old man whose personal charms, if he ever possessed any, had long years before. He was thin and bald and grizzled, yet he talked as if he were a Lothario.

The gay charmer was telling that youth and good looks could not compete with courtly politeness and diplomatic flattery.

"Now, you take any woman, and if you know how to approach her you can go up and engage in conversation with her and she won't resent it," he said.

"That sounds all very well," said one of the younger men, "but I'd just like to see you put that into practice. The idea you had-headed old goat!

"I mean to say that these women are flirts, but I do say that a clever and diplomatic man can go up to a woman who has never seen before and talk to her," said the old gentleman.

"I suppose you think you could have succeeded?"

"I flatter myself that I would not have been down, as you say."

"Some of these days I want to see you try your powers of fascination on the right kind of a woman. If you don't get the worst of it I miss my guess."

A Pioneer's Danger. THE FEARFUL STRUGGLE OF AN EARLY SETTLER.

How One of the Early Farmers in Michigan Overcame a Serious Difficulty—His Life of Hardships.

Frank Long who lives near Lennon, Mich., is one of the pioneer farmers of Venetia township, Shiawassee county, and by his industry and thrift in which many hardships were endured, he now has one of the best farms in that section.

It tells an interesting story of when his life was in danger during his pioneer days. About November 1, 1891, on starting to get up from the dinner table, I was taken with a pain in my back, and found myself unable to move.

"I was finally induced through reading some accounts in the physician who was consulted another doctor but he gave me no encouragement and said his medicine could do me no good."

The International Sunday School Lesson. March 12, 1890. John IX: 1-11. Christ Healing the Blind Man.

Among the lazarans crowding the approach to the Temple, stands the well-known beggar, blind from birth. Pleading with the instinct of a poet, imagines a discussion among the apostles, as they halt in passing; Judas betrays: "His parents must have been deceived," Thomas replied: "Or God foreknows great sin in him."

The words of Jesus may have fallen upon the ears of the unfortunate man, all the more alert because the other sense was lost. "Neither this man nor his parents," store seeds of faith.

"I took the pill according to directions and soon began to notice an improvement in my condition. Before the first box was used I could see about the house with great difficulty, but after using five boxes I was entirely cured."
