GERMANY AND SAMOA.

The Situation in the Pacific Islands as it Stands up to Date-The Action of Consu! Rose.

Washington Post: In order to put the Samoan question fairly before ourselves, it is necessary to make a brief review of the past. As regards the events of twelve years ago, we are already fully advised of their nature and significance. The trouble then arose from German aggression, and from the resistance offered by the representatives of Great Britain and the States. Even Germany will hardly venture to question that, since Prince Bismarck rebuked and recalled the German consul, and discredited the whole course the latter had pursued. The greatest misfortune of that time was the hurricane, which undoubtedly prevented hostilities. But for that ma-lign accident the issue would have been made, and the controversy settled in ing a accident the issue would have been made, and the controversy settled in 1883.

Then followed the treaty of Berlin, the arrangement of a new dispensation, and ever since things have been going from bad to worse upon the same of the form and the things have been going from bad to worse upon the same of the things and with the same affray of contention. The consummation came some weeks ago, when the German consul undertook to overrule the decision of the chief, justice, and to set up agains, the concurrence of the two other powers and the plain intent and purpose of the Germany's arrogant pretensions. Herritose refused to recognize Malleota Tamus sing, although his election had been certified by the chief, justice—a final decision under the terms of the treaty—and thereupon he ordalhed what is called the provisional government, explaining the necessity for that on the ground that the consuls had to act unanimously in order to assure a legitimate government. In this way dermany, by the simple and ingenious expedient of refusing to agree with the United States and England, paralyzed the regular and lawful functions of authority, and created an excuse for setting up the "provisional? concern—a purely German establishment. Surely an amazing diplomatic achievement, which suspended the provisions of the ting up the "provisional" concern—a purely German establishment. Surely an amazing diplomatic achievement, which suspended the provisions of the tri-partite compact and put all power in the hands of a minerity.

It is with the results of this extraordinary and fatuous proceeding, however, that we have to deal. Naturally, neither the United States nor England could consistently assent to a situation which extinguished the Berlin treaty, excluded them both from any participation in the government of Samoa, and practically usurped, in the interests of Germany, all authority over the entire group of islands. Then followed, as might have been expected, naval re-enforcements for both the ousted powers, and, coincidently came Admiral Kautz with instructions which enabled him to deal with the emergency. Thus Kautz with instructions which enabled him to deal with the emergency. Thus it happened that Kautz, with the support and assent of both British and American authorities, issued his now famous proclamation:

"To his highness Mataafa and the thir-teen chiefs associated with him in particular, and to all the people of Samoa, both foreign and native, in general:

"I. Whereas, at a meeting held this day on board the United States flagship Phildelphia, at anchor at Apia, at which were present the consular representatives of the signatory powers of the Berlin treaty of 1898 and the three senior mayal officers of the rame powers, it was agreed that the so-called provisional government under High Chief Matazia and thirteen other chiefs, can have no legal status under the Berlin treaty, and can therefore not be recognized by the consular and naval representatives. It is hereby ordered that the high chief and the thirteen other chiefs go quietly to their homes, and obey the laws of Samoa and respect the Berlin treaty.

"It is further ordered that all the

"Rear Admiral United States Navy

"Rear Admiral United States Navy, Commander-in-Chief United States Naval Force on Pacific Station, "March 11, 1899."

This would have had the desired effect. It is a matter of history that Mataafa and his followers had begun to withdraw, when the German Consu Rose promptly issued a counter-procla-mation, as follows:

NOTICE TO ALL SAMOANS"

"NOTICE TO ALL SAMOANS."

"By the proclamation of the Admiral of the United States, dated March 11, was made known that the three consuls of the signatury powers of the Berlin treaty, as well as the three commanders of men-of-war had been unanimous to no more recognize the provisional government, composed of Mataafa and the thirteen chiefs.

"I therefore make known to you that this proclamation is quite false. I, as the German consul, will continue to recognize the provisional government of Samoa until I have received contrary instructions from my government.

"German Consul-General.

"Apia, March 12, 1899."

The immediate result of this was that

"Apia, March 12, 1899."
The immediate result of this was that Mataafa returned in force, attacked the English and American quarters, killing several of our men and inaugurating a small but essifierous war. That he acted on the German consul's plain suggestion it is, of course, impossible to doubt. That Rose insulted Admiral Kautz by publicly denouncing his statements as false is equally undeniable. There is no escaping the conclusion that Germany, through her official agents, first brought about a situation which called for the action taken by the other powers, and then openly encouraged Mataafa and his savage warriors to attempt their de-

But now comes the ugliest and most ominous feature of the whole affair. Now we find the German press insisting that the empire was insuited by Admiral Kautz, and there are still grayer rumors to the effect that Germany is warranted in demanding satisfaction for the admiral's action. We are told that the United States and England are expected to disayow the action of their officials—nay, that Germany intends to demand such disayowal. Here we have indeed a menacing situation. Of course neither the United States nor Great Britain will discredit their representatives in Samoa. Of course Admiral Kautz will not be dishonored or rebuked by our government. If that is Germany's ultimatum, there is no need for courts, commissions or tribunals. There is still a chance that all of this is the irresponsible gabble of the chauvinist newspapers of Germany—where, as we have already seen, yellow journalism has already made its home. Let us hope it is. The German emperor has shown himself to be—well, eccentric—in minor matters, and has more than once excited the alarm of British statesmen, such as Gladstone and others; but it is hardly conceivable that he will take the fantastic view of the Samoan question suggested by the German press, and make demands that can be answered only with definance and repudiation. A peaceful and satisfactory adjustment is still possible. May nothing interfere to prevent it.

A DRAMATIC SCENE.

A "Hester Pryfipe" in Real Life. Tenets of the Dunkards.

San Francisco Chronicle: "Before my God and the whole church I confess my sins, I confess that I have broken God's law."

The speaker was Miss Cella Overholtzer, eldest daughter of a millionaire orange grower of the Pomona valley. The occasion was the assemblage of the whole Dunkard denomination at the large church at Lordsburg in services commemorative of Good Friday.

It is a modern instance of the sin of Hester Prynne and her Puritan pastor, Mr. Dimmesdale, in "the Scarlet Letter."

Severa; years ago the Rev. Edward A. Miller was called to the presidency of the Dunkard college at Lordsburg, from Philadelphia. He was a bright, active young man with a wife and two small children. Miller became a power in the new college and his sermons in the Dunkard church were considered the most cloquent ever heard in this valley. The attendance at the college doubled in one year, and the young pastor and teacher was in demand wherever patriotic and religious oratory was wanted.

Among the girl students at the college was Cella Overholtzer. She was eighteen when she first met Miller, and an unusually pretty girl.

The Rev. Mr. Miller asked her to become his private secretary, and until last December she gave several hours every week of the college year to clerical labor in the college president's study.

Last autuma there were rumors among the college students that suspicious circumstances had been observed about the president's study.

The Dunkards at Lordsburg denounced the rumore as falschoods and the consregation flocked to sustain the reputation of the popular preacher.

Whe the Dunkards were preparing for the observance of Good Friday and nightly prayer meetings were in progress, Miss Overholtzer awoke her father late at night and, throwing herself on the floor at his bedside, told him between her sobs and moans that at lasther conscience had overwhelmed her and she must confess.

The tenets of the Dunkard denomination require that all sins should be told the church, so Celia Overholtzer rose in the family pew and read her voice was broken, and choking tears ran down her ashen cheeks and she gripped the rail of the pew to keep from recling. When she had finished her white-haired father put his arm about her and held her close, while father and daughter wept together convelsively.

Over 1,500 persons were present and all were sympathetic. It was some time before the presiding ielder could recover his voice. Then, in faltering accents, he read a more detailed confession. Some one moved the expulsion o

Mr. Kiphug comes of Methodist an-cestry "on both sides of the house," as they say down east, and perhaps else-where. His paternal grandfather was the Rev. Joseph Kipling, a member of the fev. Joseph Kipling, a member of a well-to-do farming family in Cumberland. One who knew him writes: "He was a good, devoted man and much respected. But he was as plain as a pikestaff in appearance, dress, type of mind, praching and everything. The brilliancy of the grandson did not come from him." The other grandfather was the Rev. George B. Macdonald, also a Wesleyan clergyman, but of an altogether different type. "He." declares the same authority, "was a man of very unusual gifts, brimfu! of poetry, wit and humor. If Rudyard Kipling got his name from his paternal grandfather he undoubtedly got his brilliancy from his maternal grandfather." It is related of this bright Macdonald that in the days when he was courting the lady whom he afterward married the father-in-law-to-be, an aged Methodist with extremely strict notions in regard to the proprieties, was injudicious enough on one occasion to enter the parlor without giving any warning of his approach. The consequence was that he found the sweethearts occupying a single chair. Deeply shocked by this spectacle the old man solemnly said: "Mr. Macdonald, when I was courting Mrs. Brown she sat on one side of the room and I on the other." Macdonald's reply was: "That's what I should have done if I had been courting Mrs. Brown."—Troy Press. a well-to-do farming family in Cumber-land. CHICAGO—Persistent reports to-day of crop damage strengthened wheat and May closed with a gain of ic. Corn improved 4c, and oats 4c. Pork lost 124c, lard 71/4c; ribs 5c.

Reports of crop conditions were the Reports of crop conditions were the chief consideration again with wheat speculators at the opening and those being of one unvarying tone of badness, the market opened strong. Receipts here and in the northwest were small. Chicago getting only thirty-five cars, of which two were graded contract and Minneapolis and Duluth 188, compared with 142 a year ago. The Missouri weather bureau report of the wheat condition in that state said many correspondents reported half the wheat respondents reported half the wheat killed and the lowa state report claimed late sown wheat was about all dead and most discouraging character with regard to the injury done. Those were not repetitions of previous reports, but not repetitions of previous reports, but from fresh sources. May wheat opened % We higher at 71% 671% c, and during the first two hours rose to 72% c. At that point, however, realizing commenced and forced the price again to 71% 671% c. Damage claims again became popular, however, and were given the most consideration. There were several ups and downs as the session progressed with the trade very light_On one of the downward reactions about 40 minutes from the close some heavy shorts attempted to cover. Immediately the price shot up, May touching 72% c, closing with sellers at 72% 672% C. There was a number of considerations in corn of bullish importance and the market ruled firm. Receipts were only 96 cars. Liverpool cables were 4½ higher on futures and the cash situation was improved owing to the new reduced export rates. May started 4% 1% c higher at 34% 674% c; sold up to 33% c and closed at 34% c.

There was little doing in the oats market and outside of an occasional spurt with wheat it was very slow. The bulk of business consisted of buyling May and selling July at 1% c premium. Cash, demand was good. Receipts small, 100 cars. May began 4% higher at 26% c; sold off to 26% c, and rose to 26% c at the close.

Provisions were very heavy, May 11-quidation was still under way and the course of prices was controlled by the covering of shorts on the decline. May pork opened 5c lower at 59 00, declined to $8.5% and improved $8.32% at the close. The range in lard and ribs was inconsequential.

BOSTON—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say to-morrow:
Some of the large woolen mills, including both those which are in the combine, have been represented in the market during the past week and have purchased very liberally of wools. The Washington, Wanskuck and Pacific mills have been especially prominent, and they have taken some very large lines of territories, Oregon and quarter and three-eighth blood fleeces. The sale of territories alone aggregate over 4,000,000 pounds, which, combined with those of other lines, make a total business for the week of nearly $,600,000 pounds. There is no change to note in prices, however. The sales of the week in Boston amount to 7,451,000 pounds domestic and 465,500 pounds foreign, making a total of 7,227,500, against a total of 4,245,809 for the previous week and a total of 530,530 pounds for the corresponding week last year. Sales since January 1, 1899, amount to 57,003,800 pounds, against 4,0727,810 pounds last year at this time.
