

With firm, untiring wrist, With cheeks a luminous red, A woman sat at a table of whist, Playing as if for bread. Work, work, work, In the rooms of the warring "Trist," And still with the strength of the conquering Turk She played at her game of whist. Play, play, play, Through all of the afternoon, In the dining room, While overhead beams the moon, Diamond and heart and spade, Tenacious and sure, Working with soul all undimmed To capture "the button" yet. Oh, men, with sisters dear, Oh, men, with mothers and wives, Expect no help from your helpless fair While the science of whist pervades Play, play, play, Duplicate, compass, all, On the "cheer" lies as she swift replies To her partners lusty "call."

Small and informal whist contests, together with the Wheat, Good and Hope receptions, and the special meeting of the Robert E. Lee Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, claimed the attention of society during the week. The coming week will embrace many invitation affairs, including The Players entertainment, the Aschmann-Wise, the Whitaker and Good receptions, and a dancing party in the Arion club house.

schools. Both young people are well and favorably known in this section of the country.

Mrs. C. C. Mathews very charmingly entertained a number of her friends at a 6 o'clock dinner, Thursday evening, at her beautiful home on Fifth street, Moundsville. A very entertaining guessing game was played. Mrs. D. F. Miesch received the first prize and Mrs. Margie Harris the second.

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reynolds, on Locust street, Martin's Ferry, was the scene of a handsome and stylish reception last night. The hours were from 7 until 11 o'clock, during which time nearly 100 guests called and shared in the bounteous hospitality prepared by the host and hostess. The elegant residence was made even more beautiful by the addition of floral decorations, which were in harmony with the handsome costumes of the attendants.

Mrs. J. P. Crowl and daughter, Mrs. J. M. Turner, at the home of the former, on Third street, Martin's Ferry, gave a delightful "at home" to their friends between the hours of 2 and 6 bass singers, will be the Mephistopheles in this performance of Gounod's most popular opera.

The closing night of the season will present for the first time in Pittsburgh Ernest Van Dyke, the leading German dramatic tenor, as Siegmund in "Die Walkure." Lilli Lehmann will have the part of Sieglinde in this performance, while Madame Brema will be the Brunhilde. Van Rooy, a bass singer of great excellence, will be heard as Wotan, and Mr. Bispham has the part of Hunding in this notable cast of Wagner's music drama. The entire orchestra, chorus and ballet, 275 persons in all, will be brought to Pittsburgh for these notable performances.

SCHOOL MELANGE.

If the great end and aim of all our teaching is character building, and if it is, then how careful should we as teachers be that our walk before our pupils be such that they can safely follow? The teacher cannot be hypocritical and hide it long from the pupil. Children, as a rule, are good judges of human nature. They will see through the writer has just received a good, long letter from Prof. Rufus Holden, of Kingwood. He states that his work for the year is just finished and very satisfactorily to himself and teachers.

The school enumeration of the beautiful little city of Kingwood shows 241 pupils between the ages of 6 and 11, and there will soon be room for a good many more. Mr. Holden is one of the very best educators of West Virginia and Kingwood is to be congratulated in having his services in training the boys and girls of that "Gem of the Mountains." We are sorry to note that Mr. Holden reports his health not good; but relaxation from work and one or two good hunting and fishing expeditions will make him all right. How the writer would like to join him in at least one expedition.

THE PEDAGOGUE.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

A young men's social religious service will be held at the building this evening at 8 o'clock.

An address will be given to young men at the regular Sunday afternoon meeting to-morrow at 4 o'clock.

Two spring bowling leagues are using the alleys. One is composed of junior members and one of young men. Each team in the senior league has bowled fifteen games, and some excellent scores have been made. The teams are bowing for exercise and sport. No prizes are offered.

Eight gymnasium classes are conducted each week. After the class work there is usually a game of basketball or hand ball and then a swim in the pool.

The bicycle storage room has been fitted up for the riding season and is largely used by members for cleaning and storing their wheels.

There are many educational forces at work at the present time besides the school. One great one is the lecture platform. The lecturer who has the power to hold his audience and sway it at his will is doing a great work for the cause of education. This was the feeling of the writer as he listened to the lecture delivered by Rev. C. E. Clark at Wesley Methodist Episcopal church on Thursday night last.
