GOV. ATKINSON'S ADDRESS

Will Follow at the Fair Grounds on the Island—Then the Governor Will "Touch a Button" and the Carnival Will be on—All the Arrangements are now Complete—Exhibitors had a Busy Sunday Getting their Booths in Shape for To-day's Opening—Governor Atkinson Arrived Last Night.

After months of preparation and several weeks of great activity on the part of the members of Wheeling lodge No. 28, B. P. O. E., the day of days for the Elks has arrived—the opening day of their oriental carnival and street fair—and it finds an expectant public ready and anxious to become the patrons of the affair. So much interest over such a wide radius around Wheeling has seldom been evinced in anything attempted by any organization or set of men in this city. Wheeling people going away from town during the last month have ascertained without difficulty that the surrounding population has its eyes on Wheeling for two reasons—the strike and the street fair. The former has kept thousands away from Wheeling, but it is assured that the latter will bring thousands and then thousands.

Everything is now in readiness for the opening of the "big show." Saturday afternoon's drenching rain, which found a rather emphatic repetition in the evening, and again early Sunday morning, left the grounds a sea of mud, and some of the decorations were destroyed and had to be replaced, but last evening found the grounds on South Broadway again radiant in their dress of white and purple (the B. P. O. E. colors). Throughout the day exhibitors who had been unable to complete their exhibits Saturday on account of the rain, were busily engaged in getting ready for "Opening Day," and when the grounds were closed for the night there was hardly an exhibitor whose work had not been finished, and who looked upon the result of his labors with satisfaction, and with the expectation that the coming week would be one of profit for himself and enjoyment for the fair's patrons.

The Oriental Extravaganza Company and the trained animal shows arrived at Bridgeport late in the afternoon and in two or three hours they had transferred their multitude of effects from the railroad train to the grounds on the island. The management of this feature, predicts that the Wheeling public will not be disappointed when the first performance has been witnessed this afternoon.

The grounds were visited Sunday by thousands of people. Both of the yacht ferries and the bridges carried thousands of people. The curiosity of the public was not, however, satisfied to a great extent, as the gates were closed to all except exhibitors and their employees and other persons having business on the grounds. The general public, therefore, will have its first glimpse of the Magic City that has been reared on the Island when the gates are thrown open this morning.

To-day is "Opening Day" and its programme is as follows:

- 11 a. m.—Civic, military and Oriental street pageant.
1 p. m.—Addresses of welcome by Gov. G. W. Atkinson and Mayor A. T. Sweeney.
2 p. m.—Grand assembly, in which the electric button and sets the fair in motion.
2 p. m.—Opening of the Midway Plaisance.
2:30 p. m.—Prize pie-eating contest on the elevated stage.
11 p. m.—Balloon ascension and midair fireworks display by Madame Le Roy.

The first feature is the street demonstration. The organizations turning out are requested to form on Fourteenth street, right resting on Jacob. Ten o'clock is the hour set for formation, and the parade will move promptly at 11 o'clock, over the following route: On Jacob to Sixteenth, on Sixteenth to Market, on Market to Ninth, on Ninth to Main, on Main to Twenty-seventh, on Twenty-seventh to Chapline, on Chapline to Twentieth, on Twentieth to Market, and on Market to Fourteenth, where the parade will disband. The parade will move in the following formation:

- PLATOON OF POLICE.
Lieutenant Ingram and Officers McGulgan, Allen, Larkin, Knabe, Deviney, Jitz, McCusland, Woods, Shields, Walker, Conrad and Meyers.
Chief Marshal Franzheim and Aides, Bellaire, Lodge, E. P. O. Elks.

Fire Department.

It is announced that there will be 125 wagons at the command of patrons of the street fair, and these with the street cars, yacht ferries and bridges will give transportation of all kinds. The raising of the boycott from the over-the-river street car line will give the people of Bridgeport, Bellaire and Martin's Ferry an easier mode of conveyance to the Island, and for this reason the attendance from the Ohio-side ought to be very large.

AN IMMENSE CONSOLIDATION.

It is Announced for Exhibition in This City at an Early Date.

A wisecracker at a remote past once remarked that no person or thing was so great but that his or its place could be filled, an epigram that serves well in the present instance. The Barnum & Bailey circus has for time immemorial been conceded first place in the affections of the people of the eastern country. But the Barnum & Bailey circus has sailed across the Atlantic and is now starting the people of the Queen with an exhibition of American ingenuity. It will perhaps remain a fixed British institution.

Now comes the great Adam Forepaugh and Sell's Brothers' combined circus and menageries, to fill the aching void. A casual glance at the names of the operators and directors of this colossal enterprise should and will be proof positive of the justice of the claims made for it. They are James A. Bailey, ex-organizer of the Barnum & Bailey circus; Lewis and Peter Sell, the acknowledged leading amusement caterers west of the Alleghenies, and W. W. Cole, who has again taken up the reins of management in this country after a long period of circus exploitation in Berlin, Paris and Vienna. In the Forepaugh and Sell's Brothers' Combined Shows is found the outcome of the combination of the brains and fortunes of these—the greatest circus impresarios of a generation.

The Adam Forepaugh show, shortly after the death of its owner and founder, was purchased by James A. Bailey. Its prestige and place in circuses are sufficiently well known to make extended reference unnecessary. Suffice it that its wild animal collection was unequalled by any other show, while its acrobatic performances were always regarded as past excellence. The Sell's Brothers' Circus has, for twenty years, been "the" circus west of the Allegheny mountains. It has toured the west successfully for a score of years, and has extended the field of its operations to Australia and the East Indies. With the departure of the Barnum & Bailey for Europe the idea of the consolidation of these two institutions was conceived and consummated. Need more be said than that this consolidation is a reality—that the two great circuses, menageries and hippodromes will be seen as one—exhibiting in this city Saturday, July 15.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases, quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting, and dizzy spells. This aching, fainting, and in a godsend reaches to the weak, elderly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by Logan Drug Co., druggist.

THE TIMES DEMAND

An Educated Ministry, Says Rev. C. M. Oliphant in a Sermon

STATING THE QUALIFICATIONS

A Man Must Possess to do Good Work in his Sacred Calling—The Preacher Must be Educated in the Broadest Sense and This age of Education Demands a Preacher Mentally Strong—Other Points.

The qualifications for a successful minister were elaborated on in a splendid sermon delivered at the First Christian church yesterday morning by the pastor, Rev. C. M. Oliphant, who held that the gradual education of the masses required a high standard in the ministry. The reverend speaker's theme was "The Educated Minister," and his text was taken from John viii, 32. Said Rev. Mr. Oliphant:

Ignorance has no more place in the pulpit than sin. The gospel appeals to man's intelligence as the basis of morals and religion. If the higher powers of emotion are to be stirred into activity and choice fixed on the highest good it must be done by an apprehension of the truth. This is God's method of moving the world. The pulpit, then, with its exposition and enforcement of truth becomes the greatest factor in the work of the church.

Something then above good intention is the condition of success. Something higher than a desire to do good is needed. Intellectual training there must be or the church will fail to accomplish its high and holy purpose of bringing men to a knowledge of the truth and leading them out of the bondage of sin into the liberty of Christ.

There is a necessity of a thorough education for the ministry. In great religious awakening a few points of doctrine receive exclusive attention, hence educated and uneducated men are alike pressed into service. Little attention paid to mental qualification; religious zeal above par, education below. After the smoke of battle has cleared away and there is time to contemplate the fruit of victory and adjust everything to new circumstances, then can we see the need of mental power.

The minister must be educated because of the greatly increased intelligence of the people. Knowledge is more widely diffused, there is good schools; therefore people read more books and papers, hence are more thoughtful and cultured. It demands a higher grade of preaching to reach and influence people than in former times.

Political philosophy demands intelligent treatment. The church and state are not wholly separate, and the good Christian is the best citizen. It is conceded that law is no stronger than the public sentiment which demands its enactment and afterwards secures its enforcement. Whence comes this righteous public sentiment to suppose law its own embodiment? The intelligent pulpit is one of the strongest factors in creating, supporting and directing public sentiment on all the great issues which affect human welfare. Genuine patriotism, therefore, must ever occupy a high place in all true religion. The preacher is not to dabble in low party politics but he may legitimately inspire in the hearts of countrymen such honor and virtue that their beneficial effects will be felt from the humblest laborer up to the highest councils of the nation.

The plea of brotherhood demands intelligent presentation. All great religious movements in history have been begun by men of learning. This is true of the leaders in the movement of the Disciples' church in its beginning. They were men of whom the world was not worthy. They were men of learning. They fought our battles, they won our victories, they founded our colleges, edited our journals, and organized our benevolent work at home and abroad. They bequeathed to us a great plea—a plea of the gospel as it was in the beginning, its faith, its purity, its practice, a plea for Christian union, its basis—the Bible. A plea that needs no apology, a plea that challenges respect. Should we not command a large audience for it? Ours is a remarkable history, made thus without sacrifice of principle. No time now for yielding. We need more men to give our plea a worthy presentation. Shall we have them.

We need more intelligent preachers of God's Word. They must, in preaching, include the following: Divisions of the Word. Apply scriptural names properly to the church and individuals as members of the body. Christ and His gospel; its facts, promises, etc. Terms of salvation. Prophecies being fulfilled to-day in religious progress. Relation of Gospel to every day duties. Social problems relative to teaching of gospel. Study the times and make proper application. Then we need more faithful pastors, who will have to observe some such rules as: pastoral work, which becomes intelligent resulting from intelligent preparation and intelligent ideas of ministerial work. The times demand this. The people need attention, care and sympathy.

The pastor must observe his relation to the families of the congregation; to the indifferent; to departments of church work; to the community at large. He who appreciates all these and strives to do his duty as pastor will be appreciated and will in a measure succeed.

These needs will be supplied by supporting our colleges, which were founded to supply the need. What I have instanced will give an educated and consecrated ministry, who will bring the people face to face with the cross of Christ, quickening the conscience, strengthening the faith, purifying the heart, brightening the hope and saving the soul. Oh, glorious world! Who is equal to thee? Oh, glorious world! I consecrate to thee my all!

THE TELEPHONE MATTER.

'Fair Play' Pays his Respects to the Action of the Council Committee. A Protest Against Discrimination. To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR:—Surely the report, current on our streets, that the council's committee on ordinances on Friday evening recommended to the city council the passage of a franchise for the National Telephone Company against the opinion of the solicitor, cannot be true. It is said that another application for a telephone company, (ex-Mayor McKissoon's enterprise), was before the committee, and that Mr. Coniff, the attorney for that company, having heard all the recommendations of the city solicitor of amendments to the proposed ordinance for the first named company, declared to the committee that they were reasonable and would be accepted by his company cheerfully.

Notwithstanding this declaration, it is alleged, that, with a full understanding that a rival to the Bell Telephone Company would accept a franchise containing proper restrictions for the public good, such as were advised by the city lawyer, this committee utterly neglected the most important recommendations of the solicitor, refused to delay action on the National's ordinance until the Home's ordinance could be perfected and considered with it, and rushed through committee the National's ordinance, absolutely devoid of proper provisions for the convenience and safety of persons and property in this city.

This is making fish of one and fowl of another with a vengeance. It is time for this committee to rise and explain. There must be a motive behind such action. What is it? Members of this committee! Do not "let concealment, like a worm in the bud, feed on the damask of your cheek."

In passing, it may well be remarked that while the worm would fare badly on the damask of their cheeks alone, if the cheek itself was the feeding ground, an ample sufficiency of provender would be provided.

The council cannot, in justice to itself and the public trust imposed upon its members, ratify such an outrage on FAIR PLAY.
