WELL RID OF TORREYSON

Is the Inter-State League—Riley Gets Columbus Franchise.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 30.—The State Journal says: Manager Riley of the new Columbus Inter-state base ball team, has met the enemy, and they are his. In other words, the genial magnate has returned successful from his trip to the wilds of Braddock, Pa., where an interview with Mr. Torreyson, the globe-trotter, who moves a base ball team from town to town, as a chess-player moves his men, resulted in the transfer of the said Mr. Torreyson's franchise to own and operate a ball team in the Inter-state league, to the hands of the Columbus manager, who will use it solely for the benefit of his own city and its many base ball fans. Mr. Riley was forced to pay a price which was more than the franchise was really worth to Torreyson, who could have made nothing but a losing venture in Columbus. In the hands of Mr. Riley, however, it will undoubtedly prove to be worth all that was given for it.

The new manager has secured grounds which are easily accessible from all parts of the city, and will put up a grand stand and bleachers of the most comfortable type. He is already in correspondence with many ball players and managers throughout the country, with a view to getting together a fast team, and one which will be a winner from the start. He has interested the business men of the city in the new club, and members of the board of trade and many other prominent citizens, who have promised their enthusiastic support to the team. With a Columbus man as manager, who will give the fans a first class team, run in the interest of the city, and with attention to what the Columbus base ball public wants, there is no question about the success of the venture.

Mr. Riley has in mind as field manager and captain a well known Western league player, who is endeavoring to secure his release in order that he may take charge of the Columbus team. If he is successful the team will be in the most capable hands from the beginning. Of the players who were under contract to Torreyson, only three will be retained, Pitcher Wolfe, Catcher Beville and Outfielder Bradley. These men have all been seen in Columbus, and no comment on their ability is necessary. All three are young and promising players, and have had valuable experience in the Inter-state league. Another man who will be welcomed by the local fans is Smiling Pete Daniels, who is very anxious to come back to Columbus.

Manager Clarke of Pittsburgh, has promised to send some of his surplus talent to Columbus. Mr. Riley expects to get two pitchers, a short-stop and an outfielder of major league calibre from this source. Deals are also on for two other fast outfielders.

President Power has decided to call the magnates of the Inter-state league together for the annual meeting in Columbus, on February 6. At this meeting the schedule committee will be appointed, and all other business preparatory to the opening of the season will be attended to. The meeting was to have been held in Cleveland, and the change to Columbus was made at the request of Manager Riley.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Being Organized at a Meeting Held in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 30.—The American Association of base ball clubs, the rival of the National League, was organized here to-day. The Continental hotel, where the meeting was held, was crowded with base ball men, players, managers and others from nearly every section of the country in which the national game is played professionally. The meeting was delayed by a telegram from Frank McKenna, president of the Providence team, requesting that the delegates await his arrival.

A communication was received from J. J. Whiteside and Will Douglas, of Louisville, stating that they would attend the meeting to present reasons why that city should be admitted to membership in the new association.

When the meeting was called to order by President Quinn, there were present: Milwaukee, H. D. Quinn, C. S. Havener and J. D. O'Brien; St. Louis, Thomas B. Harlan and G. P. Hoeckel; Philadelphia, Frank Richter; Boston, Thomas McCarthy and John Drewson; Baltimore, John McGraw, Conway W. Sams and Phil Peterson; Chicago, Adrian C. Anson; Detroit, H. D. Quinn, (by proxy).

The New York representative who came over last night, returned to the metropolis to-day for instructions.

Seven-eighths of the circuit was laid out and the eighth city will probably be selected to-morrow. There is a possibility, however, that the circuit will again be re-cast before it is finally adopted. The circuit, as made up to-day, includes Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore in the east, and Chicago, Detroit, Milwaukee and St. Louis in the west. Applications from Providence and New York have been received, and one of these cities, it is believed, will surely be selected. Representatives from Washington are here, but that city has not yet knocked at the door for admission. A resolution was adopted that each city granted a franchise must deposit $5,000 as a guarantee of good faith.

Each city was then called upon to show its condition. Baltimore reported that a club had been organized there with a capital of $20,000, and that grounds had been secured.

Boston promised to put up $20,000 or more, and also reported that the Charles River park had been leased.

Philadelphia's claims were put forth by Mr. Crowhurst, and as this city has never shown its hand, he was listened to with interest. He said that he represented a syndicate of six gentlemen who were willing to put up $25,000 if it was satisfied by the showing made by the representatives of other cities. He understood one of the syndicate is Barclay H. Warburton, proprietor of the Evening Telegraph of this city.

Chicago reported that it had $30,000 to start with, and the grounds had been selected at Thirty-fifth street and Wentworth avenue, on the South Side, the grounds formerly used by the Brotherhood club.

St. Louis signified its willingness to put up any amount of capital required, and that the famous Sportsman's Park had been secured.

Mr. Quinn represented Detroit, by proxy, and exhibited letters authorizing him to put up $10,000 at once if needed, and assured the delegates that that city is good for all the capital necessary. Suitable grounds there are owned by the backers, but they are willing to put up $15,000 to purchase the American League park.

Milwaukee's praises were sung by Mr. Quinn, and Providence made a good showing by having a ball park and players, with the necessary financial backing.

After all the cities had reported there was a discussion over the deposit of guarantees of good faith. Various amounts were considered, and the figure was finally fixed at $5,000. Each city present signified its willingness to deposit that amount.

A committee, composed of one representative from each city, was appointed to draw up an agreement between the clubs for a term of years, after which the meeting adjourned until to-morrow. It is not known how many years the agreement will call for, but it is believed that the committee will decide on either two or five years.

CLARK CONTEST

State Senator Geiger, of Montana, Testified That He "Found" $1,100 in $100 Bills in His Room—Voted for Clark, but Said He Had Received No Money for His Vote.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—When the senate committee on privileges and elections adjourned its hearing to-day of the charges made against Senator Clark, of Montana, in connection with his election to the United States senate, it was understood that the defense would be prepared to proceed with its witnesses not later than Monday next. Mr. Campbell said he would have only one or two more witnesses, and without stating how many men he would call. Mr. Faulkner said his witnesses would follow each other in rapid succession and there would be no delays.

There was but one witness on the stand to-day, J. H. Geiger, who on a contest was given the seat of state senator in the Montana legislature from Flathead county, at first occupied by Mr. Whiteside, who is one of the principal movers in the fight against Mr. Clark. Geiger voted for Clark, but he insisted that he did so only because the Republican caucus had declared for him. He confessed to taking $3,000 in money home after the adjournment of the legislature. Of this sum he claimed to have won from $1,500 to $1,800 playing faro and to have found $1,100 of it in one hundred dollar bills, in his room. This latter amount he thought had been left for him to influence him to vote against bills 122 and 134, relating to corporations, but he did not know who had left it there. Geiger said he had received no money to vote for Mr. Clark.

MARTIN'S FERRY NEWS.

The Daily Chronicle of Wheeling's Progressive Neighbor.

Miss Margaret Ralston, who has for the past sixteen years been a teacher in the public schools of this city, tendered her resignation to the board of education Monday, to take effect immediately, the cause being ill health. For the past several years she has taught one of the grades in room No. 10, and the vacancy caused by her resignation has been filled by Miss Emma Fletcher, who heretofore has been teaching the other grade in the same room. For the present Miss Fletcher will have charge of the entire room. While Miss Ralston has been indisposed for the past few months, it was not thought by her friends that it was of such a nature as to warrant the discontinuance of her school duties, and they will be sorry to learn that such is the case. As an educator, Miss Ralston was recognized by all as one of no little ability, and as a disciplinarian ranked among the leaders in this city. The board will experience some difficulty in securing a tutor of equal ability. The change was made in the schools yesterday morning.

Exaggerated Report.

A slight accident occurred at the Laughlin mill yesterday, the report of which in a greatly exaggerated form spread over the town like wildfire. The report was to the effect that the new cog wheel which was received at the Laughlin last week had again been broken, which would, as did the breaking of it before, necessitate the shutting down of the mill for at least six weeks. The report, as learned from the mill authorities last evening, was unwarranted. While the old department of the mill has not been working for a couple of months, the new engine, which was placed in it during the shut down, has been running for the past few days to see if everything was properly adjusted before the resumption of the mill. Yesterday afternoon three cogs were slightly chipped, hence the cause of the report. The accident will not interfere with the resuming of the mill the first of the week. Work was commenced last evening grinding the cogs, and it is thought it can easily be repaired.

Miss Bowen's Death.

Of the death of Miss Anna Bowen, former assistant principal of the Martin's Ferry high school, the Chicago News says: Miss Anna Maude Bowen, dean of the Woman's College of the Northwestern University, died suddenly at noon yesterday, in her room in woman's hall. Early in the day Miss Bowen made preparations to go to Chicago to dine with friends, but by 10 o'clock she was feeling so badly she directed an assistant to telegraph her regrets. An hour later Miss Annie W. Patterson, matron of Woman's hall, found Miss Bowen on the floor of her room unconscious. Physicians were called, but Miss Bowen died shortly after 12 o'clock. Congestion of the lungs and fatty degeneration of the heart were given as the causes of death.

Miss Bowen was the youngest woman who ever occupied a position on the faculty of the Northwestern University. She was born in Chicago December 27, 1872, and at the age of fifteen entered the South Division high school. She next entered the Northwestern University, and in three years was graduated as Bachelor of Arts. She spent two years at Cornell University, and received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The next two years she spent in Leipzig, and afterward went to Munich. Last year she taught at Martin's Ferry, and was appointed dean at the Northwestern in June last.

Funeral exercises were held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in the temple of Woman's hall at Northwestern University. The sermon was by Dr. A. W. Patten, of Garrett Biblical Institute. Addresses were also made by President Henry Wade Rogers, of the university; the Rev. W. O. Shepard, of Emanuel Methodist church, Evanston, and the Rev. William Macafee, of the First Methodist church, Evanston. After the exercises the body was removed to the home of the decedent's mother, Mrs. H. D. Bowen, at 294 Oakwood boulevard.

Will Remain Here.
