

DEWEY IS A PLEASED MAN.

up a lane, through which the marchers passed their way. At Twelfth, the crowd was of greatest density, owing to the fact that it was generally expected that the admiral would leave his carriage there and hold an informal reception in the persons. In fact his carriage did stop at the Twelfth street entrance of the hotel, the driver bringing under the impression that the party would leave the carriage. As the carriage stopped there was a great rush to secure points of vantage from which to see the great man enter the hotel, and when the order came from Mr. Waterhouse to proceed out Twelfth street, there was consternation and dismay on all sides, few of the people understanding the situation. The route was out Twelfth to Chapline and on the latter thoroughfare to the Hempfield yards, where the admiral and Lieutenant Caldwell alighted and entered their car, bidding the committee-men good night.

Admiral Dewey expressed his gratification and surprise to the other occupants of his carriage. He had not realized that so hearty and apparently spontaneous greeting was in store for him, and of course he was a delighted man. During the ride up Market street he frequently raised his hat in response to the plaudits of the crowds. He spoke of the elaborate decorations on the prominent buildings, and was also pleased with the illuminations, especially the double arch at Twelfth and Market streets.

LIEUT. DODDRIDGE

Given an Enthusiastic Reception on His Arrival from Norfolk Last Night—An Informal Spread at Sheekey's Discussed.

It was intended that Lieut. Doddridge would come from Washington to Wheeling on board the Dewey special, but the train departed half an hour earlier than the lieutenant had been informed, so he missed the connection, and came on the regular train, reaching Wheeling at 10:20 o'clock last night. Of the committee that went to Glover's Gap to receive Admiral Dewey, four left the train at Cameron, and boarded the Doddridge train later. The committee were Messrs. T. G. McLain, Takana McLain, George Baird and James E. McKee. The train arrived half an hour late, but the several bodies that had marched in the Dewey escort were on hand to show the esteem in which the only Wheeling boy who fought at Manila is held by his fellow townsmen, and most enthusiastic was the reception given the young naval officer.

When the escort reached the Water street entrance of the Windsor, a large crowd had collected, notwithstanding the late hour. In the lobby were a number of Mr. Doddridge's friends, to greet him, including Prof. J. M. Hammond and Superintendent of Schools W. H. Anderson, his old teachers.

Speaking to an Intelligencer reporter, the lieutenant expressed himself surprised at the magnitude of the demonstration prepared for to-day.

Shortly after his arrival at the Windsor, Lieutenant Doddridge was the guest of honor at a complimentary supper, given by Mr. James B. McKee, at Sheekey's cafe, which was a delightfully informal affair. The party included Lieutenant Doddridge, Mr. McKee, Mayor Sweeney, Capt. A. A. Franzheim, Capt. Geo. J. Mathison and Messrs. W. Schwertfeger, John J. Coniff and Seaton Alexander.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME.

Admiral's Visit to the Loan Exhibition, the Parade, the Speaking and the Sons of the Revolution Banquet This Evening.

The programme for "Dewey Day" includes a number of functions, which will attract the interest of the thousands in town. The first formality on the programme is the visit of Admiral Dewey to the City Hospital Loan Exhibition, in the Hawley block, at 11 o'clock. It is likely he will remain half an hour, possibly an hour. Of course the presence of the nation's hero will attract a crowd beyond the capacity of the building.

Next on the programme comes the parade, in which between 7,000 and 10,000 marchers will participate, if the weather is good. The formation and make-up of the fifteen divisions are as follows:
