THE INTELLIGENCER.

WHEELING, MARCH 6, 1900.

A Corpse Revived.

The expressions of Governor Atkin son regarding the Virginia debt and the portion arbitrarily assigned to West Virginia by the Old Dominion, proginia legislature, recalls the statements that are going the rounds of the Democratic state press that Senator Elking is interested in the settlement of the question. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The senator himself has given the report an emphatic denial, but it appears that this has made the Democratic press more viciously active in giving the story further circula tion. It is a part of the policy of the Democratic party in this state about election time to accuse some prominent Republican and the party in general with being connected with some scheme to force West Virginia to settle with the mother state on the basis of the West Virginia certificates, issued by Virginia, without authority of this state. It is a stock story with the Democracy, and has been used too of-ten to create any alarm at this time. As a sarryle of these mis epresentations we quote the following from that rancorously partisan publication, the Mo iroe Watchman:

"It will be remembered that in the West Virginia legislatures of 1895 and 1897, both Republican, some mysterious influence was pressing for a settlement of West Virginia's alleged share of the Virginia debt, and it was freely stated at the time that the hidden hand back of the scheme was the hand of Senator Elkins. But the legislators took fright, and the matter was dropped."

The editor of the Watchman knows there is no truth in that statement. Every time the Virginia debt matter has been broached to the legislature its cause has been cared for in the lobby by prominent Democrats of the eastern Pan-Handle, who profess to represent s syndicate of the eastern holders of the West Virginia certificates. The Republican party or no individual member of it ever advocated the payment of the debt on the basis of that Virginia has fixed. It has, however, declared, just as any honest business man would do, and which the Democratic party has never done, that if it is found that this state legally owes any portion of the mother state's debt, that provision ought to be made for its payment. The regling that pervades the Republican party is the same as that expressed by Governor Atkinson, in his interview with the Charleston correspondent of that occasion, said:

"If after a careful investigation of all the expenditures which went to increase the $45,000,000 debt of Virginia, and the taking into consideration how and where the public funds were ex pended, it can be shown that West Virginia owes any equitable part of the debt. I have no doubt that our people will agree to pay the same. It was, however, evident to all intelligent West Virginians, that the old state had no right to issue West Virginia certificates under any circumstances, nor would they admit that simply because West Virginia embodies about one-third of the territory of the state, that she should, therefore, pay one-third of the Feeling, as I now do, that West Virginia does not owe, legitimately, any part of the Virginia debt, which amounts to anything, I certainly would not recommend the legislature to pay any part of said debt."

At It Again.

Senator Pettigrew is again pettigrew He is never happy unless he is engaged in trying to make others mis-This time he is attacking Adju tant General Corbin, and he has introresolution, directing the secretary of war to furnish the record of the court martial of General Corbin thirty-five years ago. Pettigrew would not have asked for this record had he known all the facts in the case, but he mo doubt heard some gossip about the matter, and supposing it would injure Corbin in the eyes of his comrades to rake over the ashes of the past he let fly his It will prove to be a bo erang. The animus that prompted Pettigrew to make this demand on the sec retary of war is found in the fast that it is proposed in the army bill to promote the adjutant general, whose mili-tary rank is that of a brigadier, to a major generalship. Pettigrew can never see a man rise unless he throws a brick at him. The story of the court martial is an ancient one, and General Corbin is Dakota senator has called for the pa-pers in the case. The incident which led to charges of "cowardice and misbehavior in the presence of the occurred at the battle of Nashville when Corbin was lieutenant colonel of the Fourteenth United States colored infantry.

It seems that Corbin's horse was skittish animal, and not accustomed to the roar of the guns and the excitemen incident to an armed conflict. It became unmanageable, and ran away with the colonel, and got six or eight miles from the scene of action before its rider succeeded in getting it under control. The accused officer convinced the court of the truth of this story, and was acquitted of the charge of cowardice, and immediately thereafter was moted, securing a brevet for "gallant and meritorious service in the battle of Nashville."

Senator Pettigrew will climb a tree some day, and he will get so high up in the branches that the fall to the ground will hurt him "real bad."

A Rapid-Fire Courtship.

That is a strange story that comes from New Orleans of the marriage of a respectable lady of Ohio to a man who represented himself to be Captain Clark, of the battleship Texas, after a few days' courtship. It was rapid work for days' courtship. Cupid. But had the insinuating little god of Love anything to do with it? We think not, and we are in a quandary whether to pity the unfortunate maiden who was the victim of the wiles of an insane man, or lecture her for her precipitancy in entering the married state

She was certainly taking great chances in accepting a man after four days' acquaintance. This ardent wooer who is now under arrest on a charge of lunacy, must have been an extraordinary person to have so thoroughly practiced such a bold deception. the other hand the "woman in the case" must have been very eager to enter the matrimonial state. The couple became matrimonial state. The couple became acquainted one afternoon, and in a promenade which followed the intro-duction returned to the hotel with their troth plighted. "Captain" Clark must have brought to his aid all of Cupid's rapid-firing glances to have made such a conquest. Or, perhaps the woman was under the spell of the "captain's" uniform made dazzling with gold braid. It is a sad lesson for the woman, and a bitter humiliation to her pride, for it is hardly possible that her heart was brought into action in such a brief engagement. The greatest mystery of the affair is how the man got hold of the uniform he wore, which gave color to

The Register makes a great fuss over the mistake of the Parkersburg News in speaking of Judge John Brannon for Judge Henry Brannon. Judge Henry Brannon, of the supreme court, is the gentleman the News had in its mind as forsaking the Democracy as at present constituted. Judge John is like Ephraim, and the Register, joined to his idols, and we do not know that any one is going to take the trouble to prevail upon him to separate himself from an idolatry that is so consoling to perverse minds.

Ex-Senator Hill's friends are claiming that he will head the New York delegation to the Kansas City convention, and that his fellow delegates-atlarge will be Croker, ex-Judge Van Wyck and ex-Senator Edward Murphy. This gives rise to the supposition that Wyck will be exploited as a vice presidential candidate. It is not a happy family delegation as it stands, any way you look at it.

WARCH WAGAZINES.

Dr. John Watson gives us in the March McMClure's an impressive and illuminating account of the beginning of Christ's active earthly ministry-a beginning so unpretentious and simple, as ginning so unpretentious and simple, as Dr. Watson's account foreibly brings out, that only the few who could appreciate its divine exaliation and sincerity at all apprehended its universal import. In illustration of the paper there are beautiful rolor pictures of "The Testimony of John the Baptis." Cana (the scene of the first miracle), a Nasareth wedding party, and "The First Purification of the Temple," besides a number of sourcely less beautiful pictures in black and white.

Hon. Richard Olney's paper on the "Growth of our Foreign Polley," in the March Atlantic Monthly, will greatly help to clear up the new problems arising out of of our foreign relations. Mr. Olney discusses our new duties now that we are an Asiatic as well as a purely American empire: what changes must be expected in regard to foreign relations, alliances, etc.; and the necessary enlargement and improvement of our army, navy, and diplomatic agencies. He considers the Spanish war as having been but one step in the necessary changes resultant upon our gradually assuming that place in the family of mations which commercial and national development have rendered inevitable.

Photographs of the most interesting Photographs of the most interesting and picturesque spots in America have been made for The Ladies' Home Jouranl, and they will be reproduced in that magazine on the finest coated paper. This series of pictures—"Picturesque America," as it is to be called—will show the great beauties of landscape and waterscape of this country in a way in which they have never been seen before. Many of these pictures are of places; that have escaped the eye of the tourist following the beaten paths of travel. They were collected by one who had crossed the continent more than a hundred times, who has viewed the scenery with appreciative eyes, and who is, perhaps the best qualified man in the country to describe them.

In the country to describe them.

The frontispiece of Scribner's Magasine for March (drawn by Bernard Partridge) shows the ingenious Tominy in a vary critical situation, which he had brought about by his own cleverness. This gives an inkling of the amusing quality of the third installment of Mr. Barle's great serial, "Tommy and Grizel." The leading article of the number is H. J. Whigham's second article on the Boar war, this one dealing with the fights made by Lord Methuen's division in its progress from the Orange river to the Modler river. Mr. Whigham describes three battles, and this is the first continued magasine account of that campaign to be published. His own photographiand his own maps make perfectly clear to the general reader what has hefetofore appeared as merely fragments of news in the dail: press. The strategy, as well as the adventure of the campaign, appear clearly in Mr. Whigham's writings.

The March number of Harper's ham's writings.

The March number of Harper's Magazine is rich in timely and interest in features. Prominent among these is the illustrated article on "Pretoria before the Wat." by Howard C. Hillegos, author of "Oom Paul's People," in which the writer gives a comprehensive sketch of the life in the South Arrican capital at the time of his visit shortly before the breaking out of hostilities. Captain Mahan contributes the first of a series of articles on "The Problem of Asia," in which he discusses the future of the European powers as factors in Asiatic problems, and the third instalment of Mraward's new novel also appears. There are short stories by Stephen Crane, Virginia Frazier Boyle Charles Egbert Craddock, Ellen Douglas Delard, and Marie Van Vorst, and special articles by Julian Ralph, Archibald R. Colquhoun, Poultney Bigelow, and Tappan Adney.

The March number of the North

Adney.

The March number of the North American Review is rich in the qualities, which have won new fame for that splendid periodical since Mr. G. B. M. Harvey assumed the task of directing its policy. There is scarcely a subject that interests intelligent American readers to-day which is not represented in this pages, while the unrivalled array of eminent names on its list of contributors strikingly illustrates the authority and distinction which always characterizes the contents of the Review. The prominent place which the South African question still holds in the thought of the public has led the editor again to give precedence to that topic, to various aspects of which seven articles are devoted. The Marquis of Corne, a son-in-law of Queen Victoria, presents his conception of "The Realities of the South African War," replying to certain criticisms of the British policy of continental writers which appeared in the January number.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for March is fortunate in its leading feature, which is an elaborate and finely illustrated account of "The British Army at Home and in South Africa," by Major-General Nelson A. Miles, commanding the United States army. General Miles reviews and analyzes the imperial British military organization in all its branches, and with particular reference to the obstinate w_now engaing all its energies in South Africa. The Trans-Siberian Railway, one of the grantest engineering enterprises of the world, and which is being practically built in the United States, is interestingly discussed by Theodore Waters, in an illustrated article.

Taylor County's Candidate.

Grafton Sentinel: Taylor county's candidate for the presidency of the Republican State League, Hon. Ira E. Robinson, is gathering strength every day. As the Sentinel has heretofore taken occasion to say, Mr. Robinson would fill the position with much advantage and benefit to the party. He possesses thoroughness in his business methods as well as good executive ability, two essential qualifications. Taylor county sets up no special claim to the office, but looking to the welfare of the party, in the state at large and recognising the fact that the State League can be made an effective agency for the dissemination of party principles and political enthusiasm, tenders to the Republicans who will meet at Parkersburg next Thursday the man who will meet every requirement. STATE PRESS GLEANINGS.

We would like to get the young Republicans of the state together and touch with one another. Not that the young Republicans are one faction and the old ones another, but that the young men may educate themselves in politics and take the place of older men who, year by year, are dropping from the ranks. Why not meet with the State League of Republican Clubs at Parkersburg? A great many of the old war horses will be there and they their experiences. These should be a young Republican Club in everycity and town and voting precinct in West Virginia. They should have their regular meetings at which they should discuss the issues of the day and prepare themselves for active work.—Preston Republican. will give the younger men the benefit of
