"Lest We Forget." Memory is indeed a Precious Faculty....

In any walk of life, the man or woman with a good memory is to be envied. No matter how gifted we are in remembering things we sometimes forget a very valuable point—something that would probably benefit us not a little. We all do. It's not amiss, therefore, to remind you of the SUPERLATIVE VALUES announced for this week's dealings at this store. As you read, reflect. Will it be profitable for you to take advantage of the opportunity afforded? We think it will. GENTLE REMINDERS:

WHITAKER IRON WORKS SHUTS DOWN.

Differences Arose Between the Workmen and the Management, Whereupon the Latter

ORDERED THE GAS TURNED OFF.

Statements from the Workmen and President Whitaker as to the Cause of the Trouble.

All over the country it is recognized among the working people that the Whitaker Iron Works, of this city, is run by a liberal-minded management, and it is nearly out of the recollections of the men when labor troubles of any character occurred there. The announcement, then, that the entire plant was closed down by the management last night at 9 o'clock, on account of trouble with some of the employes, will be received with surprise.

The Men's Statement.

The trouble occurred in the tin-plats making branch of the establishment, and is thus explained by one of the workmen: "About four weeks ago two of the tin mills shut down on account of the putting in of an engine. The men agreed to work week about, but the management would not agree to the arrangement we had fixed upon. Consequently we quit to-night at 9 o'clock, the management ordering the natural gas shut off. Last week four crews of the upper and two crews of the lower mills worked. This week we wanted to work two off the upper and four off the lower. The management wanted the six crews of the lower mills to work all the time on the third turn, to which we would not agree. Manager Rogers said he would meet us at 7 p. m. at his residence. While we were on our way to see him we met him on the street, and he told us he had decided to turn off the gas, and shut down the mill."

Mr. Whitaker's Statement.

President N. E. Whitaker, when seen last night, said: "We ordered the mill shut down to-night. The men wanted to run it one way, and we had a different way. They appeared to be taking matters in their own hands, without consulting me, and I declined to be ignored. So, rather than have any feeling about it we shut the mill down. I think the men have been ill-advised in this matter. Certainly we cannot afford to allow a lodge of the Amalgamated Association to take the management of the mill out of our hands. Rather than allow that the mill will remain idle. The men seem to be seeking trouble. We had arranged to give the other turn men other work, but the men would not look at it our way. Nevertheless, we insist upon mapping out the work as the interests of our business require, while there was a disposition upon the part of the men to run the mill as it suited them. I guess they have been making too much money, and want to loaf."

380 Men Affected.

The pudding furnaces, sheet mill and tin mills are affected by the shut-down, and about 380 Amalgamated men are thrown out of employment. It is generally hoped that the trouble will be adjusted speedily to the satisfaction of both sides, and that the plant will resume.

Crescent lodge, of the Amalgamated Association, to which the Whitaker mill men belong, will meet this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to discuss the situation.

A BIG OIL DEAL.

Dague and Chamberlain Buy Cadiz Production for $50,000. Milliken & Company, who have been producing wells on the G. F. Welch farm, of fifty acres, in the southern part of North township, near Cadiz, have sold their holdings to Alvin Dague, of Parkersburg, and Charles Chamberlain, of Washington, Pa., for $50,000. The wells produce a little less than one hundred barrels daily, but indicate no falling off.

THE HUB CLOTHIERS.

He Who Wants The Really Good

Has no other choice. We don't make it so, but other people force it upon us. Not a hundred years, nor fifty, nor ten, nor even one, has elapsed since the clothes we show were made; they were made right now, this year—in this year's styles—for us and only us. We don't deal in last year's goods at any price, much less goods that were in style in grandmother's time. This not only applies to our Men's Department, but to the Boys' and Children's, as well; for while we have Boys' Suits as low as $1.50 and Men's down to $5.00, still there's style about them that you don't find in any others at the same price. Isn't it worth something to know that you're in style, especially when it costs no more. Don't be deluded by the patterns. Patterns are made to sell goods; and don't compare cotton worsteds with the kind of cloth we put into clothes. We'll agree they all look alike to-day, but to-morrow—you'd better talk to us.

We have opened up during the last week hundreds of new Children's Vestee Blouse and Double-Breasted Spring Suits, eastern novelties of every description. See our windows and show cases, both on Market and Fourteenth streets. They'll give you an idea of what's to be worn this spring and post you as to the prices which are just right. If you don't think so we cheerfully buy it back from you at the price you paid.

A FREE SPECTACLE.

Ringling Bros.' Parade a Revelation of Processional Splendor. A free street spectacle is the latest sensational novelty invented and introduced by Ringling Brothers, the famous proprietors of the World's Greatest Shows, this season, and the thousands who witness the pageant when the show exhibits here Thursday, April 19, will be surprised at the magnitude and brilliancy of the display. Instead of the conventional street parade, with which the public is familiar, Ringling Brothers have organized an elaborate carnival, consisting of thirty huge sections, each of which is representative of some period in the history of the world. Among the most striking sections is that devoted to India, representing scenes of warfare in the Punjab, huge elephants harnessed to rumbling siege guns; mounted military escorts; dark-hued Indian chiefs, and brilliantly uniformed native guides, attendants and commanding officers. Then there are correct representations of all the most familiar organizations of the world, brilliantly uniformed, handsomely mounted and with their burnished accoutrements glittering in the sunlight like burnished gold and silver. An Egyptian caravan, crossing the Sahara, with its camels, dromedaries, wily Arabian horses, Bedouins of the desert, Algerians and other strange people, brings that strange land of mystic interest close to the spectator's vision. The special children's section, with its prancing ponies, children's tableaux, children's hippodrome and miniature cages of rare wild beasts is a delight to the younger element, while the glimpses of imperial splendor given in
