THE CENSUS.

The Enumerators Will Begin Work On It This Morning.

CITIZENS URGED TO ASSIST

The Enumerators in Every Way Possible—A Suggestion to Those About to Leave the City Within the Ensuing Twelve Days That Appeals to Local Pride—Wheeling Should Have Due Numerical Credit.

The work of taking the twelfth national census begins this morning and all over the United States in every city, town, village, hamlet and in the rural districts, Uncle Sam's agents will begin the work of enumerating the number of living souls within our borders and secure other data of very great importance. The large army of enumerators have been drilled and instructed in the requirements of the position they fill and they begin their labors probably the best equipped and drilled force ever engaged in the work.

In Ohio county thirty-seven enumerators will do the work under the supervision of Mr. Charles Helmbright. Of this number, all but five will be engaged in the city. They have been instructed and the personnel of the list assures the citizens a careful compilation.

The questions to be asked of each resident are of the utmost importance and it is hoped that the citizens will aid in every way possible to make the work as complete as it can be made. The question blank to be filled out for each family is a lengthy one and it is, therefore, necessary that the enumerators have no return trips to make to secure the desired information. They have been instructed to be polite and gentlemanly in their dealings, and there is no doubt that they will be. It is hoped the citizens will in return receive them cordially.

It is a matter of local pride to have the city's census show a vast increase over ten years ago, and it no doubt will, but on account of so many residents lately moving out of the city, the city will not get the benefit of them in the count, therefore, all who contemplate leaving the city within the next twelve days, on a visit, should leave instructions with neighbors or relatives that will enable them to give the enumerators the desired information.

The work will be completed in twelve days. Each man has certain territory to cover in which each block is lettered and numbered and the arrangements have been systematized so that there is no room to doubt that it will be done in a first class business-like way. Besides having the usual credentials, each enumerator will wear a little silver badge given him by the census department, so there can be no impostors who can bother the citizens.

BRIEF MENTIONINGS.

Events in and About the City Given in a Nutshell.

The council committee on real estate will meet this evening.

The ladies of the Chapline Street M. E. church gave a successful strawberry social last evening.

The new residence for Father Mullen, on Thirty-sixth street, is nearing completion, and it will be a handsome one.

Yesterday was city pay-day, and $1,100 was paid over to the police, firemen and other employes for monthly salaries.

Congressman B. B. Dovenor will address the Young Men's Republican Club of Benwood, this evening, at the Benwood city hall.

Mr. N. Carl Hamilton's Sunday school class gave a fine entertainment at the First Christian church last evening, and it was highly successful.

The annual Linsley field day will occur at the state fair grounds this afternoon, and with good weather the friends of the gray-uniformed cadets will be out in force, particularly the fair sex.

The seats for the concert to be given by the Woman's Musical Club will go on sale this morning at the box office of the Opera House. The concert will take place next Monday evening and will be one of the best ever given by the organization.

A picnic of the Jewish school children at the Moundsville camp grounds, Decoration Day, was well attended. The parents and friends of the children came in the afternoon to eat supper at the new camp ground hotel, run by W. B. Howell, the veteran hotel man.

The work of erecting the structural iron in the new addition to Stone & Thomas' department store has been begun and the bricklayers are making rapid headway on the north wall. The firm hopes to be able to have the new building completed in time for the grand opening during State fair week.

The Knights of Pythias memorial day committee will meet to-night at Ohio Valley lodge room, to complete arrangements for the annual memorial services, which are to take place Sunday, June 17. The church at which all the local lodges and uniformed companies observe the day will be decided upon at this meeting.

Innes' Band Coming.

The ensuing fall tour of Innes and his band will be the twenty-fifth semi-annual tour made by this famous organization. In honor of the occasion Innes has augmented his already big forces by the engagement of a number of notable singers, who will be heard in scenes from either "Faust," "Carmen," "Aida," or "Trovatore," as may be determined by the advance balloting of the local subscribers. The regular Innes concert will, of course, be given at each performance, this, in turn being followed by such one of the operas named above as may be decided by advance ballot among the subscribers. Among the assisting artists who are announced for these grand opera festivals are Rances Boyden and Helene Nold, sopranos; Achille Alberti, baritone, and Xanten and Montegriffi, tenors. Del Puente, the well known creator of the "Treadler," in "Carmen," and other important roles, had been engaged for the tour, but his death in Philadelphia a few days ago has necessitated a change of plans. Bandmaster Innes immediately upon learning of the loss of his principal singer cabled an offer to the famous Galassi, who is now singing in Naples, and it is probable that the latter will come over and take part in Innes' jubilee tour. The organization will be heard here in November.

DONATION DAY

Brought Out the Friends of the Home For Aged and Friendless Women. Generous Citizens Contribute to a Worthy Institution.

Donation Day attracted many visitors to the West Virginia Home for Aged and Friendless Women yesterday afternoon and evening, and the friends of the worthy institution at the corner of Thirteenth and Byron streets observed the occasion most fittingly, for which they have the heartfelt thanks of the ladies in charge. "As one of the ladies expressed it: 'It seems as if our good friends gave us just exactly what we wanted, and I think that there are no more generous people living anywhere than in Wheeling, for they respond liberally whenever need is shown.'"

Three checks for handsome figures were received, besides a tidy sum in cash, and a host of useful articles, such as bleached and unbleached muslin, bed spreads, kitchen utensils, etc. "We were short on pins and needles," said one of the ladies on the board of managers, "and had no staled in the papers. The pins came in abundance, with a lot of other needed articles."

The friends of the institution were regaled with a fine concert in the parlors in the evening, and light refreshments were served in other rooms. Flowers that were contributed helped to further beautify the interior. The fourteen inmates of the home were among the delighted auditors at the concert, and the affair was in every way quite enjoyable. Through the kindness of Mr. W. A. Milligan, of the F. W. Baumer Company, the programme contained a number of pleasing selections from a pianola and phonograph. The evening's exercises opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. D. A. Cunningham, and the performers included: Mrs. Fred Paris, Misses Alice and Eva Egortter, Miss Theresa Phillips, Miss Eleanor Brice, Miss Edith Carr, Miss Annie Pelly, Miss Flora Stifel, Mrs. Herbert Riheldaffer, Misses Eleanor and Mary Vardy, Miss Amanda Spell and Miss Mary Cushing.

The Home is now in its twelfth year, and is one of the few charitable institutions that is free from debt. Like all, however, whether in debt or not, its needs are many, but, happily, its friends are many, also.

Resolutions of Respect.

Resolutions adopted by the Jewish Congregation of the Eoff Street Temple, on the death of Henry K. List.

Wheeling is in mourning. Grief-stricken and sorrowful, it bows its head and weeps and refuses to be comforted, for its noblest and its best is gone. The man to whom it could point with pride as its greatest and best, the man whom it loved and respected, the man who did so much to lift it and better it, has breathed his last farewell and calmly and peacefully closed his eyes in sleep. Throughout his eighty years of life, faithful to his duty as he saw it, never failing to live up to the best that was in him, he made the most of the years granted him, so that when his end came he could look back upon his past and feel not one pang of regret for a wrong done or a good left undone. And now he is no more, and the city that knew him so well is broken-hearted and cannot check its tears, and so it weeps. But its weeping is a mingling of thanks and sorrow, thanks that he was permitted to bless it so long, sorrow that he will no more bless it, and that his voice will no more be heard.

To the tributes paid this great man and good, we would fain add ours, did not broken hearts refuse our halting tongue's adequate expression wherewith to voice our sentiments and our feelings. For we, too, feel the loss which Henry K. List's death has caused. We, too, knew his grandeur of character, his nobility of soul. We, too, knew him with his kindly manner and his genial cordiality and his whole souled honesty. We, too, knew of his liberality, and we felt it, too, and felt it in more ways than one, for he was not only liberal in giving, but liberal in feeling and thought, as well. Henry K. List was staunch in his faith and we admired him for it, but his religiousness made him tolerant and broad-minded. He knew no such thing as narrowness of view toward those that differed with him. He respected and he helped every movement which he felt was working for the good of humanity, and he had nothing but the highest respect for men whatever their religious beliefs, providing they were possessed of the sincerity and the truth that were his during his entire life.

And so he was a friend to us as he was to all and so he bespokes us an encouraging and respectful word as he did those nearer him and so he endeared himself to us all. His family's, his congregation's, his city's grief we feel this to be ours, for we loved him and because we loved him we sorrow that his prophetic voice is silenced and his prophetic activity ended. We, like all who knew him, join our voices to the grand chorus that now sings him tribute. We would fain have had him here with us longer, for we know that those further years would have meant, but now that he is gone, we are simply grateful that he was permitted to be with us as long as he was and so we bid him farewell, assured that in the beyond his life lived here simply knows further being and that there Henry K. List will meet with the reward he so merits.

Resolved, That we extend to the bereaved family, our sincerest sympathy in this hour of their sorrow.

Resolved, That these words of appreciation be entered on the minutes of our congregation; that they be printed in the local papers and that a copy of the same be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

LARGE AUDIENCE

Pleased by Willie Collier at Elks' Benefit—Repeated This Evening. One of the most brilliant assemblages ever at Wheeling Park was that of last night.

The occasion was the annual benefit for Wheeling Lodge No. 25, I. P. O. E., and the attraction, that stirring young comedian Willie Collier, supported by an exceptionally strong company, presenting his latest farce entitled "Mr. Smooth."

The evening was anything but a pleasant one as far as the weather was concerned, but notwithstanding this, the audience was sufficiently large to comfortably fill the immense seating capacity of the Casino and was made up of the representative society element of the city and surrounding towns. It was one of those audiences for which Wheeling lodge can always count on, and it is to the members' credit to say that each succeeding year's benefit adds additional laurels to their already bounteous fame as entertainers of the first water.

The performance given by Mr. Collier and his capable support was first class in every particular and the clever young comedian more than pleased all his old admirers and made many new ones. In the role of "Joe Patten," or "Mr. Smooth," as the name he assumes during the action of the comedy, he appears in an entirely new line from anything he has attempted, and it must be said he handles the lines in a faultless manner and accepts every opportunity to create refined merriment. The comedy is a very good one and kept the audience in a continual good humor. The situations are funny and the dialogue sharp and witty. There is not one point in the entire performance that is in the least suggestive or broad for this reason "Mr. Smooth" is an improvement over many of the so-called refined comedies on the boards at the present time. However, the amusement loving people who have seen Mr. Collier in former roles will be loath to admit that he appears to so good an advantage in his present undertaking as in former ones.

The company is made up of some of the best of the recognized comedy stars and every member handled his or her part in a faultless manner. Louise Allen-Collier as "Vera Vane" was very winsome and made the most of a very clever character. Miss Helena Collier as "Rose Chilleigh" sustains her reputation as an actress of exceptional ability and Helen Reimer as "Angelica," added very materially to the attractiveness of the comedy. Miss Myrtle May handled the thankless part of the maid as very few have done and unless appearances fail to denote merit, she has a bright future before her as an actress. Of the male members of the company, Thomas Evans, Larry Sheehan, M. L. Heckert, John F. Ward and George W. Parsons are worthy of being classed with the upper tendom of comedy work.

Taken all in all the entertainment was an exceedingly fine one and the local Elks are to be congratulated upon securing such a clever attraction.

To-night the performance will be repeated and in addition to the show, as a special feature, dancing will wind up the evening's enjoyment. The number of tickets sold insures an even larger audience than that of last night and those who contemplate attending, should lose no time in having their seats reserved at J. W. Grubb's music store. Special cars for Bellaire, Martin's Ferry and Benwood, after the performance, have been arranged for.

Chance to Buy a Home.

Auction sale Saturday, June 2, at 2 o'clock, sharp, fast time, we will sell the fine residence lately owned by Dr. DeHass, in Avondale addition to Martin's Ferry. Elegant residence, large grounds, fine shade trees, easy terms. Also 15 lots in same addition, every lot above highest water, good drainage, healthful and pleasant locations, near electric cars, shovel works, Stanton heater works, etc., in the booming part of a busy city of about 10,000 people, where more money is paid out in wages than in any other city of its size in the country. No reserve; the highest bidder will buy. Terms, $10 cash, and $1 per week until paid for. For particulars see William Koehne, C. W. Appenzeller or E. J. A. Drennen.

THE K. OF P. PICNIC

Will Attract Brave Men From Miles Around Next Thursday—Parade a Feature.

When ever the announcement of the annual K. of P. picnic is made, it's all that's required to insure one of the largest and most representative gatherings of the season, and this year's will be no exception. This is the Uniform Rank's year to superintend affairs and the committee appointed by the four local companies have settled upon the State Fair grounds as the place and next Thursday as the time for holding their outing.

The programme arranged is one that is sure to attract and entertain a large crowd, and includes the usual street parade at 1 o'clock, in which Coeur du Leon Company No. 1, Bernard Shanley Company No. 21, James T. McGee Company No. 29 and Battery A, will participate, headed by Meister's full band and in command of General J. H. Lancaster and staff, Colonel C. H. Geiger and staff, and Major James T. McGee and staff. The route of the parade will be through the principal streets and to the fair grounds, where the fun will reign supreme until midnight.

There will be bicycle races, foot races, exhibition and competitive drills, dancing, etc., etc., to interest all who attend. Knights from Bellaire, Bridgeport, Elm Grove, Martin's Ferry, Benwood, Moundsville and Sistersville will join with the local braves in the street parade and at the grounds to help make the 1900 gathering one of the most noteworthy in the history of the local organizations.
