

HOSTILITY OF THE FILIPINOS DOES NOT CEASE

Number of Detachments Attacked by Superior Forces, But Were Repulsed, After Great Loss.

AMERICAN OFFICERS KILLED.

Deserter Fagin Active With the Rebels—Gen. Hall's Expedition Fruitless—Commissioner's Good Work.

MANILA, Oct. 28.—While scouting near Looe a detachment of the Twentieth and Twenty-eighth regiments, under Captain Belgier, were attacked by 4,000 insurgents armed with rifles, under the command of a white man whose nationality is not known to the Americans. The insurgents for the most part were entrenched.

After an heroic fight Captain Belgier drove off the enemy, killing more than seventy-five. The fight lasted for two hours. Captain Belgier and three privates were slightly wounded, and two of the Americans were killed.

An engagement took place October 24, between detachments of the Third Cavalry and the Thirty-third volunteer infantry numbering sixty and a force of insurgents including 400 riflemen and 1,000 bolo men. The fighting was desperate. Finally under pressure of overwhelming numbers the Americans were compelled to retire on Narvican.

Lieutenant and Privates Killed.

Lieutenant George Flebenger and four privates were killed, nine were wounded and four are missing. Twenty-nine horses were captured by the insurgents, but were subsequently released. The enemy's loss is estimated at 150.

A civilian launch, towing a barge loaded with merchandise near Arayat, was attacked by a force of 150 insurgents under David Fagin, a deserter from the Twenty-fourth infantry. The American troops, on hearing the firing, turned out in force before the boat could be looted and captured it.

Fagin, who holds the rank of general among the insurgents, has sworn special enmity toward his former company. Of the twenty men he captured a month ago, seven have returned. One was killed in a fight, his body being horribly mutilated. Fagin sends messages to his former comrades threatening them with vengeance if they become his prisoners. It was Fagin's men who captured Lieutenant Frederick L. Alstaetter, who is still a prisoner.

Encountered Great Hardships.

General Hall's expedition with a force of nearly 800 men, through the mountains to Binangonan, province of Infanta, in pursuit of the sergeant general, Calles, although it discovered no trace of the enemy, encountered great hardships on the march. Twenty Chinese porters died and forty men were sent into the hospital. After stationing a garrison of 250 men in Binangonan and visiting Poillo island, off the coast of Infanta province, General Hall and the rest of his force embarked there on the transport Garroque.

Reports from General Young's district show a daily increase of insurgents there owing to the fact that recruits are going thither from the towns.

While a detail of the Thirty-third volunteer infantry was returning from Dangued on rafts, it was fired upon by insurgents, Sergeant Berdastler being killed and two privates wounded.

The Philippine commission has decided to compile the revised Philippine customs tariff from its own investigations, assisted by the representative of the army board. The report will be forwarded to the United States for publication and discussion among those interested in foreign commerce.

Commission Heartily Commended.

The details appear to be satisfactory and when the draft has been approved by the secretary of war, the commission will promulgate it here as a law. The measure has taken on a new and international commercial interest and the course of the commission is heartily commended here.

Archbishop Chapelle, who recently left Manila, accompanied by several friars, for the northern district of Luzon under conditions that aroused the suspicions of the Filipinos here that he intended to establish the friars in parishes there, was warmly welcomed on his arrival at Dagupan. As two years have elapsed since an opportunity for baptism had been presented, more than 2,500 persons have been baptized.

In view of the protest of the parish against the appointment of a friar as priest the archbishop did not attempt to make it.

REPORTER PREACHED

To a Congregational Audience—Replied to a Sermon of the Regular Pastor.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 28.—George F. Grassie, a reporter on the staff of one of the Milwaukee daily newspapers, occupied the pulpit of Plymouth Congregational church to-day, and discussed "The ethical side of the newspaper business, or the philosophy of the press."

Mr. Grassie's address was in reply to one delivered by the regular pastor of the church, Rev. Judson Titworth, on "What a preacher thinks of a newspaper."

The preacher thought the newspaper was influenced too much by a commercial spirit and believed the time would soon come when the editor would be guided by a more altruistic spirit, when the influence of the paper, already great, would be greater.

Mr. Grassie quoted several passages of scripture, coupling with them the words "know thyself." In learning to know himself men must learn to know everything which in any way influences his life. The speaker contended that it was within the province of the newspaper to teach a man to know himself by printing the news and everything that was truth was news. Mr. Grassie declares:

They were received, and a few pleasant words were exchanged. Eleven different states were represented in the party.

SCOTT DENIES ALLEGED PRAISE OF THE TRUSTS.

Varying Accounts of the Roosevelt Dinner Incident—Committee Makes a Declaration.

REMARKS NEVER UTTERED.

West Virginia Senator Makes a General Denial—Reporter Magnified a Private Conversation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Attempts to suppress some statements of Senator Nathan B. Scott's at the Roosevelt dinner caused a flurry in the newspaper offices last evening, and this morning all the Democratic papers had the discredited statements in large type. Senator Scott made a speech and is reported by the New York City News Bureau to have said:

"Right here I want to say I believe in trusts. They are a good thing. The Standard Oil Company put in its pipelines in all the small towns where oil is produced, and if it were not for the Standard Oil Company this prosperity that we have wouldn't be there to-day."

Then, seeing the reporter for the first time, he added: "If that newspaper man puts that down I will make trouble for him."

Colonel Diehl, manager of the Associated Press, said to-day that Senator Scott's speech came in through the New York City News Association, along with the other news of the Roosevelt dinner, and was already on the wires when it was followed by a bulletin from the reporter asking that the reference to the Standard Oil Company be "killed." This was sent at the urgent request of the Republican managers, who declared that Senator Scott had made the objectionable remarks in private conversation at the table, and that nobody would "stand for it" as an utterance in a public speech.

Decided to Throw Them Out.

As the sentences in question were not reported in shorthand, the night editor decided to throw them out. Col. Diehl said to-day that it was not the custom of the Associated Press to alter or cut public speeches legitimately reported, but that in cases where interviews or private conversations were concerned, a request to suppress any part of them was usually complied with.

Members of the Republican national committee who attended the dinner declared that the whole story was a fabrication from beginning to end. Mr. Scott, himself, said that he was much surprised to read the story in this morning's papers.

"The reporter who was responsible for it," said he, "evidently got his story from overhearing a conversation between myself and Charles S. Fairchild about the state of West Virginia being run by coal and oil. I jokingly remarked that the state was run by gas and that I and Senator Elkins produced most of that."

No Reference to the Standard.

"Did you not say anything about the Standard Oil Company being responsible for the prosperity of the state?" he was asked.

"I have been accused of a great many things," replied the senator, "but no one ever accused me of being an idiot." "Did you threaten any reporter?" "I did not know that any reporters were present to report my remarks. I really had said nothing to be reported."

Mr. Scott, after some reflection, said that he could see, possibly, the cause of the story in the fact that the reporter had a private grudge against him.

Other members of the committee corroborated Senator Scott's remarks. Mr. Gibbs said that Senator Scott had said nothing whatsoever that could be construed in any way in favor of the Standard Oil.

FOUR CHILDREN DROWNED.

Went Out for a Boat Ride and the Craft Capsized.

PORT CLINTON, Ohio, Oct. 28.—A quadruple drowning occurred near Piasterberd, on Sandusky Bay, eight miles east of here this afternoon. The drowned are: Douglas Stark, aged three years; George Stark, aged five years; Alfred Stark, aged eight years; Henry Stark, aged thirteen years.

They were the children of William Stark. Mr. Stark and the children went for a boat ride this afternoon. On returning to shore the boat became fouled in a fish pound net and the oarsman could neither forge the boat ahead nor go back. He became frightened and leaning over the side of the small craft it capsized, resulting in the four deaths by drowning.

Mr. Stark came here from Toledo three weeks ago. He then had a family of a wife and ten children. Last week Harvey, aged four years, died, and the week before another child, aged three months, also died.

RED LETTER DAY

For Republicans of Roane County. Judge Freer Spoke at Two Large Meetings—Democrats Also Have Gatherings, But Showed Lack of Interest.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. SPENCER, Oct. 28.—Saturday was a red-hot day, politically, in Roane county, for both the Republican and Democratic parties held rallies for the purpose of lining up their forces for the battle of the ballots on Tuesday, November 6. Although the county has heretofore been Democratic, the Republicans are confident that this year it will be found in the Republican fold.

Congressman Romeo H. Freer, candidate for attorney general, made two speeches at two big Republican gatherings. One was held at Walton, sixteen miles from here, and it was a hummer. The Congressman addressed a crowd of 800, which is said to be the biggest political gathering ever held in Walton district. The town was spick decorated, and the grounds and speakers' stands festooned with the national colors.

A Capital Speech.

Freer made one of the best speeches of the campaign, and it was well received. Immediately after this meeting he went to Spencer, where a monster meeting was held at the court house at night. The meeting was presided over by Judge J. G. Schilling, and music was furnished by the popular Spencer band. Fully a thousand people listened to the popular Congressman so ably discuss the issues. At both meetings Freer was given tremendous ovations.

At Spencer the Democrats held an afternoon and night meeting, and also raised a flag pole and floated a flag.

Lack of Spirit.

Their meeting was addressed by General Watts and Hon. J. T. Johnson, an ex-Congressman from South Carolina. At both these Democratic meetings there was a painful lack of enthusiasm, which clearly indicates that the party is fearful of the county being carried by the Republicans. The latter are in excellent spirits, and are determined to win.

RAILROAD MEN

Will Vote For Their Own Interests.

Speech of President Cowen, of the Baltimore & Ohio, Bearing Fruit.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 28.—The speech delivered by President John K. Cowen, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, before the Sound Money Democrats at Baltimore, on Thursday, is being extensively circulated along the line of the road, and from the following dispatch from Grafton it appears to be having an effect: "If there are any doubts as to where the railroad men of this section will stand on election day, the speech of President Cowen at Baltimore a few days ago has removed them. The Baltimore & Ohio men now feel assured that their steady employment depends solely upon the election of the Republican ticket, and they will take no chances of losing out by voting against what they now consider their personal interest. Mr. Cowen has never deceived us men under him; he appears to have frankly stated the position in which the railroad company is placed, his men believe him, and it looks as though they would stand by him to the last."

"Confidence" Men Frightened.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 28.—The fact that "Colonel" Edwards, the alleged king of the gang of bunco, short change and confidence men who for the past two years have made their headquarters in this city, where they have been protected against prosecution, is under arrest at Clarksburg for swindling a farmer named Dennison out of $300, and that there apparently is a strong case against him, has created consternation among his followers and those who have been benefited by protecting the gang.

THE PATERSON MURDER BEING INVESTIGATED.

Physician Who Was Called to Administer to the Victim Tells How he Found the Young Girl Dead.

FOUND LIMP AND LIFELESS.

His Information Caused the Arrest of the Young Men Charged With Murder of Jennie Bosschlieter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—It is now said in Paterson, N. J., that the present grand jury will take up the inquiry into the death of Jennie Bosschlieter, for whose murder McAllister, Death, Campbell and Kerr are confined in jail. Whereas statements have appeared, tending to show that there would likely be a delay by the authorities, it is now given out that the investigation is to be pushed vigorously. Dr. Townsend, who refused to appear on the witness stand yesterday, will appear at the inquest next Tuesday night. His reason for not answering the subpoena was an order from the authorities to testify regarding the visit of the prisoners to him on the night of the murder. Dr. Townsend now makes the following statement of the midnight call and his connection with the case:

"It has been stated that the four men made two calls at my office and that the girl was alive when the carriage first arrived. They came but once, and it was then too late to render aid to the unfortunate. I am positive of the exact time of their arrival, because when the bell rang at the head of the bed, I looked at the clock on the mantel and saw it was 2 o'clock.

"Through the speaking tube I inquired the cause of the summons and was told that there had been an accident and was asked to come at once. Through the tube I asked particulars and was met with the word that the patient was in a carriage at the door. It was cold, but I waited only to don a bath robe and went down stairs. When the door was opened two men whom I knew as George Kerr and Walter McAllister, shoved me aside and quickly stepped inside. Then I was told that a young woman had been hurt and both men declared that they would carry her in.

"But without further parley I brushed past them and went out to the carriage. It was a two-seated rig that I had often seen at the Erie depot. I did not see the hackman. There were two men standing at the curb near the door of the carriage. I knew Campbell by sight. Inside the carriage on a rear seat a young woman was half seated, half lying across the back of the seat. Her head lay sideways across her breast. I lifted her head and laid it back gently. It was limp and lifeless. The clothing was disarranged, the hair hanging about her neck and shoulders. Her waist had been loosened and only the two top buttons of the waist were buttoned. There was no pulse. The heart beat had been stilled.

The Body Was Cold.

"When I climbed into the rig to make a closer examination four men gathered at the side of the carriage. Their faces were white and they looked a question. The body was cold.

"Boys," I said to them; "I can do nothing; she is dead."

"They seemed to draw back and were all together when I stepped within the door and left them conferring. It was fifteen minutes after two when I returned upstairs."

Dr. Townsend said the men had insisted that the woman should be taken into his office, even after she was pronounced dead. Early the next day he saw the account of the finding of the body of Jennie Bosschlieter near Wagawara bridge.

During his examination of the young woman in the carriage it had been too dark to distinguish the features and the circumstances of the position of the body with the gas in the back of the head and the fractured skull reached in the autopsy added to the mystery.

On Friday afternoon he decided to seek the advice of professional friends who were made acquainted with the full details. When it appeared that the cases were identical, the authorities were notified. Dr. Townsend visited the chief of police and gave the information in his possession and the arrest of Sculthorpe and Kerr, McAllister, Death and Campbell followed.

FOUL PLAY

Indicated in the Drowning of Miss Seghmyer—Face and Head Badly Battered.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 28.—The mystery connected with the finding of the body of Miss Emma Seghmyer floating in the Ohio river, opposite Glenfield yesterday, deepens as investigation proceeds. Miss Seghmyer, who was twenty-eight years old and of good family, left the home of her mother at Glenfield on October 15, to visit an aunt at Sewickley. The mother supposing her daughter was with the aunt, suspected nothing until the body was found.

She says there was no known cause why her daughter should suicide. She was a faithful member of church, engaged to be married, and apparently very happy. Foul play in the case is indicated by the fact that the body of the young woman was found in the water on the opposite side of the river from her home, while the stage of the water since her disappearance has been so low that it would be almost impossible for the current to carry the body across the stream. In addition to this, the face and head of the victim was badly battered, and the stage of the river men who took the body from the river failed to recognize Miss Seghmyer, although they had been acquainted with her for years. The coroner is making a searching investigation.

MINISTER LOOMIS

Explains the Trouble Between the Orinoco Company and the Venezuelan Government—Never Brought to Attention of the Legation.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 28.—Hon. Frank B. Loomis, minister to Venezuela, is here, visiting at the home of Mrs. Loomis, and will remain until the latter part of next month. Referring to a dispatch from Minneapolis, in which it was stated by an employe of the Orinoco company that a concession conveying the right of that corporation to exploit ten million acres of land in Venezuela had been annulled through the failure of the American legation to protect against hostile action on the part of the Venezuelan government, Francis B. Loomis, said tonight:

"An official of the Orinoco company who has criticized the American legation at Caracas, is under a misapprehension as to the usages sanctioned by international law and the functions of diplomatic officers. The trouble between the Orinoco company and the government arises from disputes as to the construction of a contract. There can be no action on the part of the United States legation in contractual claims until a denial of justice in the courts of that country has been made. This affair of the Orinoco company has never, in any way, been brought to the attention of the legation and when it shall be properly presented, no proper effort will be made to secure every just and legal advantage for the company. There has never been a time in the history of the United States when the legitimate interests of Americans abroad were more zealously and effectively watched and guarded than they have been during the last three years."

BRYAN AT CHURCH.

His Presence in Dr. Parkhurst's Tabernacle Created Excitement—Idle Sightseers Crowded the Sidewalks.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Bryan breakfasted at 10 o'clock in their hotel with ex-Governor William J. Stone and several others. After breakfast the party adjourned to Mr. Bryan's room, where the candidate received Congressman Richardson and several local politicians.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan then left the hotel and walked through Madison Square to the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church. When Mr. Bryan first appeared on the streets there were very few people about, those who were there instantly recognized him and with many a shout followed him to the door of the church.

Yale and Harvard boys who came to New York with Mr. Bryan on Saturday, were also at church and occupied seats a short distance in front of Mr. Bryan.

Dr. Parkhurst, the pastor, was not informed of Mr. Bryan's presence and his sermon was an exposition of a portion of the scriptures.

Word was evidently passed through the congregation during the service that Mr. Bryan was in the church, for when the benediction was pronounced almost the entire congregation made a dash for doors and filled the sidewalk and street in front of the building. This crowd was also augmented by those who were on the street and in the square and by the time that the party reached the hotel two thousand people were crowded about them. So dense was the crowd in fact that it became necessary for several park policemen to go in advance of Mr. Bryan and clear a way for him through the crowd. As he disappeared in the entrance of the hotel, the crowd cheered.
