

DR. HISSOM SPENDS A DAY ON THE STAND.

Tells of the Domestic Troubles of the Hissoms in Rugged and Unvarnished Detail.

CROSS EXAMINATION TO-DAY

Will Be Conducted by Mr. Howard. Several Other Witnesses on the Stand Wednesday.

It is creditable to the people of Wheeling that so few are attracted daily to the sittings of the circuit court, before which the deplorable domestic infelicities of the J. R. Hissom family are being aired in the trial of the damage suit of Dr. S. K. Hissom against his father, J. R. Hissom, the wealthy oil magnate.

At yesterday's sessions of the court not more than a score of spectators were on hand, although the star witness of the trial, Dr. Hissom himself, was on the stand both morning and afternoon.

Dr. Hissom went into the details of the Hissom family troubles from beginning to end, and at the conclusion of the afternoon session the examination in chief by Mr. Smith had not been concluded.

After the cross examination of ex-County Jailor William McCormick, and testimony by Miss Edith Maser, Banker Kemper, of Spencer, and Mrs. Jennie Hutchinson, the plaintiff was put on the stand.

Witness McCormick, on cross examination by Mr. Howard, said that J. R. Hissom rather objected to the special privileges extended to S. K. Hissom during his confinement. The elder Hissom had said that all prisoners should be treated alike.

"Would Make It All Right." Miss Edith Maser, of 120 South Penn street, Island, testified that the elder Hissom said he "would make it all right with her" if she would testify at the lunacy hearing that his son was insane.

The witness did not testify as Mr. Hissom desired. Robert Kemper, of the Bank of Spencer, testified that J. R. Hissom told him to do what he could to have the boy kept at the asylum there, and he would pay him for his trouble.

The witness had declined to perform this service, and had advised him to hire an attorney. Mrs. Jennie Hutchinson, a former domestic at the Hissom home, testified to quarrels before the doctor's return from Germany, but this was ruled out by the court.

Dr. S. K. Hissom, the plaintiff, was then placed on the stand, and remained there throughout the day, his examination being conducted by Mr. Smith. He told of his college training, first graduating at Rush Medical college in this country and next taking courses in Berlin, Germany.

He returned home because his mother wrote for him, telling of the father's intention to procure a divorce, having gone so far as to send a man to Kentucky for evidence. He came home to protect his mother and prevent the divorce.

The Plaintiff's Story. At the afternoon session the witness told of his home coming. His father became angered when the witness defended his brother, Whitten, whom the father denounced. The elder Hissom, he said, applied vile names to Mrs. Hissom, and claimed she had had relations with another man in the past.

He asked the witness to take his side in the divorce matter, and he "would make it all right with him." Just about this time, the elder Hissom was a candidate for house of delegates on the Democratic ticket, and he desired the witness to work the saloons in his behalf while he (the elder Hissom) would go after the church vote.

The witness talked with his mother, who said, when her husband approached, "There comes Satan." The old man, he said, saw a new domestic in the house, and said: "Where the h— does she come from?" Speaking of his two sons, the old man had said, "These two — will have to leave my house." While a visitor was present the old man had objected to his wife making bread, but the day before, when there were no visitors, he had said in response to a request for money by the wife, "You — old — do you want all my money?"

Mrs. Hissom, said the witness, had written a statement telling of the abuse she and Lucy had been subjected to, but J. R. Hissom had burst open the witness' trunk and got the statement, which he burned. The witness told of the death of his niece at Fish Creek island, down the river; the witness had been the only member of the family attending the funeral. He had telephoned to his father to buy flowers, but he had declined, asking, "What is the use of buying flowers for them?"

On the return from the funeral he discovered the box of papers from his trunk, and had accused his father, who had not specifically denied it. At 5 p. m. court adjourned until 9:30 this morning.

ness, to say the least of it. We venture the assertion that there is not one saloon-keeper in the city of Wheeling that does not violate the law—not one. If there is one let his speak. And yet the Committee of One Hundred is denounced as getting up a strike, etc. They are men from all parties and every church is represented. They are men of means, and some of them are not church members at all, so all these charges must be without foundation.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Money on call steady at 3 1/2% per cent; last loan 3 1/2% per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4 1/2% per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4 85/16 for demand and at $4 81/16 for sixty days; posted rates $4 82 1/2@85 1/2. Commercial bills $4 80@84 1/4. Silver certificates 64 1/2@66. Bar silver 64 1/2c. Mexican dollars 50c.

Government bonds steady. State bonds strong. Railroad bonds irregular.

To-day's stock market was the dull-est since the Monday preceding the election. There were no dealings on any considerable scale and the movement of prices was sluggish and irregular and not important. The market narrowed very considerably, also, the number of different stocks dealt in being smaller than for many days past. It is not improbable that to-morrow's holiday prompted the curtailment of speculative ventures. The dealings were left very largely in the hands of room traders and the larger interests and the public were apparently out of the market entirely.

There was no great pressure of liquidation, but when any considerable volume of stocks was offered there was not sufficient demand to sustain the price. On the other hand even smaller demand was sufficient to effect a considerable advance in price, as the selling orders in the market were also on a very small scale. The market was very generally heavy in the early part of the day, largely from the influence of weakness in the London market. The disclosure through yesterday's London settlement of a long account in Americans is interpreted as weakening the technical position of this market and the growing tightness of money in London gives rise to the apprehension that New York may have to absorb considerable speculative liquidation from that center. In fact the selling for London account to-day was estimated as high as 75,000 shares on balance. Both call money and discounts in London are above the bank rate. Under ordinary circumstances this would lead to the expectation of an advance in the bank rate to-morrow, but the scarceness of money is due to the preparation for the exchequer bond issue on Friday. When this is met there is likely to be a reflux of government funds in the money market, which would endanger the control of the market by the Bank of England.

The action of the governors to-morrow is therefore problematical. Our own money market continues unruffled, call loan rates falling away in spite of the continued absorption of funds on sub-treasury operations and the postponement of the return of the volume of funds from the interior. The recent daily average transfer of $100,000 to $200,000 to New Orleans was supplemented by the transfer of $200,000 to Chicago through the sub-treasury to-day. If the activity of interior business is to make new demands on New York for currency it may upset calculations over the future of the money market. This may have prompted some of the disinclination to deal in stocks. The early heaviness of the market gave way quite generally to a recovery in the late dealings after London had ceased selling. Probably covering by room shorts was a factor in this movement. The gains were not all retained to the close, which was moderately active and irregular. A number of October statements of net earnings of railroad companies were published during the day, which were favorable, with the exception of the Reading company. The net earnings of this company for October ber were $1,232,096 less than for October of last year, as a result of the miners' strike. This did not prevent the stock rising over yesterday, but it became heavy later in the day. Amalgamated Copper continued to show weakness supposed to be on account of apprehension of unfavorable legislation in Montana. The new Chicago & Alton stocks were largely bought at advances of 2% and 1 1/2% for the common and preferred, respectively. The Rubber stocks were notably weak, but recovered part of their losses.

The bond market was quite active and yielded in spots. Total sales par value, $4,055,000.

United States bonds were all unchanged on last call.

CHICAGO—November corn closed nine cents lower to-day, on the withdrawal of Phillips' support. December closed 4 1/2c. Wheat closed 4 1/2c, oats 3 1/2c and provisions 5 1/2c to 12 1/2c depressed.

Abandonment of the November corn deal was by long odds the feature on the board. Phillips, who has controlled the market, settled with shorts yesterday, giving them 470,000 bushels at an average price of 34 1/2c. To-day he closed out 250,000 bushels, all that was left of his line. In order to let some of the holders out easy he held the price up during the forenoon. This being accomplished he withdrew his support, and the market, which opened at 43 1/2c to 50c, and clung between those figures, dropped sharply to 41c, at which it closed.
