Tall Corn.

We grow "tall corn" in America. The world is beginning to find it out. Every year brings the fact more and more home to the perceptive and digestive faculties of all civilized bumsnity. Like all great truths, it did not gain credit at once.— True, everybody sees it here with his own eyes, but not so on the other side of the water, The first accounts of the productiveness of our Western praries were read by our Backinghamshire farmers with as much respect as the fish stories of the sailor Sinbad. It took even the highest dignitaries of the land a long while to get fairly up to a level with the actual fact.— Even at this day there is an ear of corn in the British Museum which enjoys a very distinguished consideration as a curiosity It divides attention, we do not say equally but certainly fractionally, with the Nine-vah Bull and the great Kohinoor. It is a perfect marvel to our good cousin John Bull; and yet it has but a very simple history, and it is not a very extraordinary ear of corn, after all. It reached its present distinction something in this wise: In the month of January, 1847, at a certain dinner party in London, at which Lord John Russell, Lord Morpeth, and many other distinguished men were present, the conversation turned upon the famine; and the remark was made by Lord John that he rejoiced that so good a substitute for the native breadstuff had been found as Indian corn. Turning to Mr. Bates, the American partner in the house of Baring Brothers, his lordship went on to say:

"Why, Bates, some of the cobs have twelve or fourteen rows of grain on them.'

To which Mr. Bates coolly replied: "Yes, my lord, I have seen from twenty to twenty-four rows on a cob. "That is a rare Yankeeism," was the pleasant retort of the Premier; and the whole company shouted in approval. The burst of merriment over, Mr. Bates bought his peace by a wager of a dinner for the company all round that he could produce such an ear.

"Done!" exclaimed Lord John, and the bet was clinched. The dinner passed off. Mr. Bates re turned home, but not entirely at ease. He had done a strange thing; for the first time in his life he had made an engage-ment he was not absolutely certain of his ability to fulfill. He had misgivings that he had rashly pledged the honor of his country. It had been long since he looked upon an American crib; and however patiently he winnowed the corn-ucopia of his memory, he found that the cobs of the early days had gone glimmering through the lapse of time, among the things that were, and were now so far off that he couldn't count the rows. He was, as Plautus would say, redastus ad invitas—in Yankee parlance, "hard up." But Fortune favors the brave. It happened that a friend of ours dropped in, the next day, at the counting-house of the Barings. Mr. Bates, with brightening face, hailed him, and made known his difficulty.

"You are safe," was the response; "if I story, and begging them, for the honor of the country, to come to the rescue, and turn the tables on Lord John, showing them what Yankees could do.

In the July following, Mr. G. received, by express from Lafayette, a nicely arranged box, containing six ears of horse tooth corn, two of which had twenty-nine rows, two thirty-one, and two THIRTY-TWO. The box was forthwith addressed to "J. Bates, Esq., care of Messrs. Baring, Brother & Co., ship, by Black Ball Line, care of the Liverpool House." It reached its destination, and Lord John Russell, first Lord of the Treasury, third son of the late Duke of Bedford by the second daughter of George Viscount Torrington, and lineal Sh descendant of Lord William Russell, the martyr of liberty, "acknowledged the corn."

The dinner was won. Joshua Bates did not perpetrate a "Yankeeism," and the British Museum holds the trophy. Viva la Republique!

as my surprise, after a few weeks trial it has performed that wonderful effect by turning all the gray hairs

Prof., O. J., Wood:—With confidence do I recommend your Hair Restorative, as being the most effications article I ever saw. Since using your Hair Restorative my hair and whiskers, which were almost white have gradually grown dark; and I now feel confident that a few more applications will restore them to their natural color. It also has relieved me of all dandruff and unpleasant itching, so common among persons who perspire freely.

Deur Sir:—Permit me to express to you the obligations I am under for the entire restoration of my hair to its original color, about the time of my arrival in the United States it was rapidly becoming gray, but upon the application of your "Hair Restorative it soon recovered its original hue. I consider your its soon recovered its original hue. I consider your Restorative as a very wonderful invention, quite effications as well as a greeable.

I am, dear sir, yours truly!

For this disease object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazgard of vital Strength and life. For this disease of strength never are all the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Platulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Billious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach of Bo in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy people than the Germans, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless graep on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally uscless, can be driven from the body by the use of HONTET-TER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create massea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Parsons in Advanced Fears, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and lafirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother, while nursing, these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladice-should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weak ness.
