WHEELING: Friday Morning, Nov. 2, 1860.

Two Articles worth Reading. Read the article "What we are asked to do," from the New York Past, on our first page, to-day, and the article on this page, from the Cincinnati Gazette.

A rew more days and the freemen this nation are to decide what shall be the policy of this government for the next four years. It may be that by the decision which they shall thus pronounce, its policy for all coming time will be shaped. For if we read the signs of the times aright, we have reached that critical point in our history, where the question of slavery extension or slavery restriction is to be settled. If the people decide next Tuesday, that slavery may be extended into all our vast territorial domain, who can say when and where its growth and expansion may ever be checked? If they decide that this government shall be, as it has too long been, subservient to the wishes of that ultra pro-slavery power, which has ruled with so strong a hand, and has filled the federal offices with corruption in maintaining its strength, then when can we hope for a change? But if our people shall lift up their voices in de- just stated? We want an impartial judgfence of our constitution and in favor of freedom, if they shall say that "slavery is local and freedom national." if they shall by their votes consecrate our territories as the free home of free men, if they shall rebuke the men who have used power and patronage as a means of political corruption, we may hope for national prosperity and peace, and for that glory which belongs to an honest, industrious and free nation. Men of Wheeling-of Ohio county-of Western Virginia! which do you choose? To ask the question is to an-Some of these men who have wielded power until they seem to think that they have a presumptive right to command us, are threatening to break up the Union, if you and those who agree with you put honest Republicans in their places. Are we to be intimidated by such threats? Or will these foolish menaces only urge us the more earnestly and decidedly to express our sentiments at the polls ? Shall we not decide, and once for all, whether we are free men, or are slaves of a haughty and dictatorial power, that will brook no opposition? If the issue thrust upon for it? Let us then march in conblican lanx to the polls next Tuesday and settle these questions at once. Let no man stay at home on that day, who has a vote

THE Republican Torchlight, or Wide Awake, procession, will come off to-night. We expect that it will be the most magnificent affair of the campaign, if not altogether the finest political demonstration that ever occurred in our city. Invitations have been extended to the Wide Awake companies of Pittsburgh, Steubenville, Wellsburg, Martinsville, Bridgeport, Washington, Claysville, West Alexander, Haneytown, and other places, to come and participate in the demonstration. We have reason to suppose that many of them will be here this afternoon, and that they will .take part in the parade with our Wide Awakes to-night. The occasion cannot help being an interesting one. Many strangers from all the scope of country that surrounds us, will be drawn here to witness the demonstration, and we hope that they will not go away disappointed. We hope, farther, that nothing will occur on the streets to send them away with impressions that will be injurious to our name and prosperity abroad. Let them see that Wheeling is a city where no man is maltreated on account of his politics; but, on the contrary, that, like the great cities, it is metropolitan in its character, and that in its every shade of political sentiment is protected and respected in the exercise of its inviolable rights. Let that be the impression which participants and spectators from abroad will take away with them. We believe that such will be the impression they will receive. We believe that every good citizen, every man who has a character to lose, will make it his pride and effort to secure the prevalence of law and order throughout the evening. The following is the route of the pro-

The manifesto of Judge Thompson, in the Union of this morning, states that Congress has no sovereignty over Territories. The proof of this position is founded upon a series of abstract deductions and wire drawn conclusions, which are difficult to comprehend, and which fail to satisfy the reader of the correctness of his views. In his demeanor in this country completely the Constitution of the United States, Art. IV. Sec. 3, it reads: "The Congress shall have full power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property of the Uni-ted States." [From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

LAST DAYS OF THE CANVASS. We have entered upon the last week of a Presidential canvass that will long be memorable in party annals. True, have a "crisis" every four years. Patriotic men quadrennially assure us that the fate of the country is at stake, and its everlasting destinies about to be settled at the ballot-box. Every Presidential election, in reality, has some special imporsome grave issue to be decided. which is sufficiently weighty to demand the earnest thought and action of every good citizen. With our oft-recurring elections, however, a mistaken decision at the polls can be corrected, before its effects become seriously disastrous. It is the work of the present election to arrest the evil policy and to correct the misgovernment of the last eight years of Democratic The abuses of Federal power have reached that enormity, and the intensely sectional adminstrations of Pierce and Buchanan have gone to that extreme, this is the key to the present the .- This the solution of the remarkable political revolution which State elections of September and October show to be in progress, and about to be consummated.

contest, to appeal to the reason and judgment of the people, rather than to their passions. With the results of our course, o far as manifested in the recent elections of Ohio and Indiana, we have every reason to be satisfied. We have truly set forth the respective principles and positions of the four parties that are contesting for the mastery. We have chosen to et these candid representations work their legitimate effects, with no labored efforts o stimulate partisan feeling or prejudice. We have fairly presented facts, and entitled our statements to the implicit confiience which, we believe, has been generally extended to them by intelligent men of all parties. Our part of the canvass is substantially done. To our weekly readers, this is the last number of our journal before the final result will be known.— wish Yancey dead, but we are sorry that his mother didn't refuse to have his father. We have but a few words to add in regard to the Presidential election.

Of the four setts of candidates in the field, it is now obvious to every well infomed person that but two are practically running—Lincoln and Hamlin on the one side, Breckinridge and Lane on the other. The former will be elected, if there is a choice by the people, and the latter, or one of them, in all probability, in failure of a popular election. It is demonstratable that neither of the other candidates stands the remotest possible chance, in any contingency. Those who have a preference between Lincoln and Breckinridge will act wisely in casting a direct vote accordingly. Every vote cast for other candidates tends to throw the Presidential election into the House, for the sole ultimate benefit of the Breckinridge party. About this, there can be no mistake. This, many leading men in all parties have frankly conceded.

Is it desirable to subject the country to all the distracting and hazardous effects of a long and exciting struggle in the House? Is it desirable to have this Presidential conflict continued for months longer, under such circumstances as any observer of the eight weeks of strife at the beginning of the last session of Congress can but too well appreciate? Even such scenes, we have no doubt, the Union yould survive, yet it could in no other way encounter such perils. He is really an enemy to his country, who, unless he greatly misapprehends the inevitable effects of this policy, could desire thus to thwart a popular election, and bring upon word in favor of a patent medicine before in our life, us this new, unparalleled, and wholly unnecessary strife. the only possible alternative, we repeat, as matters now are, to the election of Lincoln bles can't do better than to lay in a supply." and Hamlin by the people—is scarcely within the range of possibility. Voters of Ohio and Indiana—freemen of the United States everywhere, whom these words may reach—who prefer the election of the Re-publican candidates, will you not give a due portion of your time, from now until-the polls are closed on Tuesday, the 6th of November, to securing these mominees EVERY POSSELLE LAWFUL VOTS? We are just at the close of the campaign, yet the DAST GREAT BATTLE remains to be fought, Every man must be at his post. Confidence in a certain victory must not pre-vent your securing it by firmly standing to your arms, and energetically making the

of a most gratifying victory We believe Lincoln and Hamlin will receive a large majority of the electoral vote. When the and the government owing them $1,500 majority of the electoral vote. When the triumph is decisively achieved, we can all exult—not over partisan or personal success, but in an achievement most glorious for the country. Meanwhile, let us keep our armor on and in good trim, and work MANFULLY AND PERSEVERINGLY until the sun sets on the 6th of November.

The Queen felony on defaulters to the government. she has governed her kingdom, and of the heir to the British Crown we may now say. with propriety-"England did never own so sweet a hope."

ONE of the calamities predicted by the Mr. Lincoln, or the great Republican New York Herald in the event of Lincoln's election, is "the dissolution of the Union abolishes the patent laws." A stranger who attended a church in a very cold country was astonished to hear the preacher describe hell as a region of ice and snow and of the most intolerable cold. After the sermon he remonstrated with the minister upon such a perversion of the threatenings of scripture, and said that he had always heard the place of torment called a lake of fire and brimstone .-"That sort of preaching will do very well for a warm climate," said the minister, but if I should tell my people that there was a comfortable fire in the lower regions, half of them would want to go there to warm themselves." We think that with a great many men the prediction of the Herald would be deemed rather desirable. If some of the extensions that have been granted by the Commissioner of Patents would be overthrown with the Union, it would almost raise a secession party in the north.

That doleful "Last Man" story is again going the rounds of the papers. Seven medical students in Cincinnati thirty years ago formed a club and agreed to dine together once a year at a stated time .-A casket containing a bottle of wine to be drunk by the last surviving member was entrusted to one and another accord-They all lived and were able ninth year another ;-and finally the other day the last surviving member dined all alone, drank the bottle of wine, wept It has been our endeavor, in this great to find himself a club of one, his com panions in the grave, and he a practising physician still able to bleed and blister.

Another asked him "how his royal mother was."-He was amused, and to the first lady be replied that he didn't know; to the second he said his mother was "as well as could be expected." This is authentic.—Boston Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Thousands of persons have Piles suffer for years with the disease-pet fewknow what it is, or how it is cured. Every case of files, whether manifested in the form of external tunors, frequent bleedings, or in violent itching and irritation, depends essentially upon congestion of the abdominal venous circulation. This produces the engogement, dilation of the vein ing: and the disease can only be fundamentally cured by medicines which, taken internally, relieve this venous congestion. Hence olhtments, washes, and even injections, are so ineffectual.
