Being long established one cash basis, the troubles of the credit system affect as in no material particular. During "hard times" the security of reliable Issurance is an imperative daty—the ability of property holders to sustain loss being then much lessened.

the less obliged to you for your kind remembrance of me.

In a postseript to this invitation you say, "If you came of sme, pray gives us a letter. In these time, throse whom the people will hear should speak."

I do not know, gentlemen, whether the people to whom you'refer, will listen to what I might say or not, for I have already written and said enough, it listened to and heeded, to satisfy reasonable men in both sections of the country, that there is no sufficient reason for the condition of things that now exists, and that of itself constitutes one of the chief troubles with which twe have to contend.

If a cause could be ascertained, and settled down upon, a remedy could, and settled down upon, a remedy could not would at once be applied, but the public mind in the South has become bewildered with the multifudinous grisyances with the multifudinous grisyances with the fature, from which the Southern States profess to believe there is a necessity of protecting themselves by a withdrawal from the Union.

But for the fuel that has been furnished to the demagogues and disappointed politiciaus of the Southern States, by the Northern press, with which they have been able to mislead and influence the public mind, the poople of the Southern States, by the Northern press, with which they have been able to mislead and influence the public mind, the poople of the Southern States, by the Northern press, with which they have been able to mislead and influence the public mind, the poople of the Southern States, by the Northern press, with which they have been able to mislead and influence the public mind, the poople of the Southern States, by the Northern press, with which they have been able to mislead and influence the public mind, the poople of the Southern States, by the Northern press sprofess to believe there is a necessity of protecting themselves by a withdrawal from the Union.

But for the fael that has been farnished to the demagogues and disappointed politicians of the Southern States, by the Northern press, with which they have been able to mislead and influence the public mind, the people of the South would never have known that there was a personal liberty bill upon the statute book of any Northern State; for I believe it is not susceptible of proof, that there has been an instance in which such laws have been put into practical operation; whilst there is servery reason to believe, they were intended partly as retalistory measures for the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and measures growing out of it—but chiefly for local capital, by those who desired the support of the radical shollinoists.

But for the fact, that it has been rang in their ears, by your own public presses for the last year, the people would never have been under the belief that there was a great and formidable sectional party raised up in the North, with a determined purpose of emancipating the slaves of the Southern States, and furning them loose as beasts of prey upon their masters, by Northern presses, the Northern States were stated for the United States, in common, the aid of the "John Browns," with which they have also been taught to believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it while believe by Northern presses, the Northern States were stanting no would it was believed to the state of the United Stat

But for these same presses the foundations of society would never have been thus stirred up, the business of the country would never have been thus interrupted, and the relations of the States, one towards the other, would never have been thus entangled. They have caused it all.

These same presses to which I refer, have with all their pretended efforts, "been able to direct the storm," and you have no one to thank but them, for all the trouble that now afflicts and threatens the final destruction of the best government that rests under the eye of the Almighty.

The Pixelbxx advocated.

Mn. H. said that if he understood Mr. Willey, on Thursday, he declared in effect that he would never, under any circumstances, sign an ordinance of secession or give up the Union.

The Pixelbxx again interposed, and reminded the ventlema that he was a many circumstances.

one portion of the proceedings in the Conreminded the gentleman that he was going to the dispatch in your paper, of Thursday last, when, in all your life, you never saw a man more tickled with having got into print in any shape or in any light. He gave out, however, that he was going to demolish your reporter the first thing to day, when the Convention should meet, And so, after prayers, he lifted up his to the Secretary's desk to be read. Then he proceeded to pay finumerable left handed compilmants to the Intelligencer. It was an Abolition paper—it had denounced slavery as a sin—it had denounced slavery as a sin—it had denounced slavery as a sin—it but turned the employed and the enhanded compilmants to the Intelligencer. It was an Abolition paper—it had denounced slavery as a sin—it but turned the enhanded spaided down—it had killed off all the decent politicians, and sent Clemens and Hubbard to this Convention on an Abolition platform of its own making. In fact, it was the most terrible print in the State, as he bad found out to his sorrow. In the course of his remarks, he bonneed Clemens and Hubbard, and Clemens, on the instint, interrupted and bounced him, and you never saw a poor creature take water faster. His rigmanole was so cracked; conceited, mouseniscal, and murderously ungrammatical, that the President told him twice to take his sent, and the last time made him do it, much to the relief of the Convention, by whom he is sestemed the most perfect apecimen of muttonheadism ever sent to this city by was so cracked, conceited, nonsensical, and murderously ungrammatical, that the President told him twice to take his seat, and the last time made him do it, much to the relief of the Convention, by whom he is esteemed the most perfect apecimen of muttouheadism ever sent to this city by any constituency in any portion of the State. The Douglas men here, on account of his course, have stricken him from their caucus roll; and all of them, as I learn, have but one common sentiment of items to the last of the contempt for bis treatment of his Livine.

their cascus roll; and all of them, as I learn, have but one common seatiment of icontempt for dis treatment of his Union colleagues from the Northwest.

Wheeling is getting to be well represented here. Major Good and Jacob Hornbrook arrived to day, from Washington, and I hear that some others will be on to-day or to-morrow. There is great curiosity to see the Convention. I tell the Major, however, that I suspect it is not all curiosity that is bringing so many Douglas democrats to this point at this time, especially in view of consultations I hear of in reference to our spring Congressional election. I have heard the following gentlemen spoken of as possible caudidates for a nomination by the Douglas men of the district, viz: Messrs. G. McPorter, of Hancock, Campbell Tarr, of Brooke, Major Good, of Ohio, M. M. Dent, of Monongalia, and W. G. Brown, of Preston These, in addition to Messrs. Willey and Clemens, already spoken of, will give the Union men ample material to choose from. Who of all of them shall it be? That is a question which the will be time some the support.

to the members here, strengthening their hands, I have heard none that pleased me better than one or two sent by your townsmen, Judge Fry, to Messrs, Wiley, Jackmen, Judge Fry, to Messrs, Wiley, Jackmen, Judge Roy, Telesmen, Judge Roy, Tele son, and others. It is such letters received here that are effectually revealing the public sentiment of the State, and turning the tide completely against the secessionists.

completely against the secessionists.

The following resolution was offered in the Senats to-day:

"Resolved, by the General Assembly of Virginia, that by allowing the Federal flag to be raised over the Capitol of Virginia, that State denies the right of the seceding States to their position."

The resolution was offered by O. B. Finney, of Accomac. How does it suit you? I would vote for it, quick, if I was a member I hope all the diaminonists will interpret the waving of the stars and stripes over our Capitol just as Finney does.

THE fullowing report of the personal debate alluded to in our correspondent's letter, we find in the Richmond papers:

PERSONAL EXPLANATIONS. Mr. Hall, of Wetzel, arose to make personal explanation. He proceeded to state that he had been represented as say-ing, in the remarks which he submitted on Thursday, last, that the whole North-west was unsound upon the question o slavery, and that they did not represen the sentiment of Virginia. He did not, in those remarks, intend to include the whole Northwest, or any considerable portion, but to the two or three thousand Lincoln voters. There are gentlemen up on this floor who are supported and elected upon a platform drawn up by Mr. Camp bell, editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer an out and out Republican paper, and among them, were Mr. Clomens and Mr. Hubbard, of Wheeling.

Ma. CLEMENS interrupted Mr. Hall with

MR. CLEMENS again demanded an answer Ms. CLEMENS Signite Colored to his inquiry.

Ms. HALL. That's all you will get from me. (Laughter.)

The Passinaxy bere interposed, and rnied out of order any remarks about the consistency of gentlemen before they can entered.

MR. Hart said that he had been denoug ced as misrepresenting, in his remarks of Thursday, the sentiment of the Northwes His reply was that he feared those who thus denounced him, represented but too faithfully the sentiments of their constituents. That was what he complained of-not that the delegates had done anythin wrong. It was important that the Convention should know the truth. He would tell the members that dragon's teeth arbeing sowed, and if Virginia should take a certain position by the act of the Convention, there would, in all probability, be civil war in some portion of the Commosiwealth.

By request of Mr. H. the Clerk the read a copy of a telegraphic despatch, to the Wheeling Intelligencer, reflecting appara the member from Wetzel, for "misrepresenting" the sentiment of the Northwest Ma Hata then read extracts from a private letter from C. W. Russell, esq., eq. NUMBER 159
