THERE is no doubt that a battle took place yesterday somewhere south of Winchester. The absence of further particulars of the battle of Sunday shows that something business-like has been going on. Up to this writing we have but little from there in addition to the news yesterday morning. The telegraph informs us that Banks was to attack the rebels at Strasburg yesterday, and it is almost certain that he did so. Intelligence, believed to be authentic, was received in the city vesterday, to the effect that another battle was raging somewhere in the region of Winchester. It was without doubt at Strasburg. The telegraph may yet bring something in regard to it before going to Junging from the tenor of all the news from those parts of Tennessee which are in our possession, the restoration of loval feeling in the seceded States, even after hey are occupied by our troops, will not be very rapid. Those who describe the state of public feeling at Nashville, where we may reasonably suppose hostility to the government would be as mild as in almost any of the southern cities, state that they are puzzled to know what to say of

it. So powerfully did the mania for secession rage, when it was once in the ascendant, that it seems to have infected more or less even the men who stood out against it until resistance was hopeless .-When they did surrender to its power many of them appear to have come as ab solutely under its control as the most vio lent of the original leaders. They speak now of their opposition to it, and some of them talk of acquiescing willingly in the new order of things. But very few show any enthusiasm for the Union.

Now, all this is quite in accordance with the ordinary course of human nature. The analogy between this infatuation and disease is not at all fanciful. It is only by slow degrees, possibly with some relapses, that the recovery will be made. What is to be done in the meantime? Clearly we must hold the States with the strong hand of power until the people can be relied on to administer affairs in accordance with the spirit of our government. The work to be accomplished requires great firmness and discretion .-While a great number of the citizens may be disposed to loyalty, the artful and determined secessionists, who will continue to hate us, will still have a great influence, and if not watched and guarded against, may work infinite mischief. It will require no ordinary degree of judgment and wisdom to know just how rapidly to loosen the hand of military power and when to trust implicitly to the people themselves,

We tear that our rulers may be tempted to err on the side of excessive leniency. rather than on the side of severity. Por there is something so repugnant to all our deas of government in holding a State under military rule, we are by all our instincts habits and traditions so inclined to accord the largest liberty consistent be in possession of large 128-pounders, of Warch next; with safety to the individual, to municipalities, and to States, that there will be a constant pressure on the government to dispense with measures of rigor. Politicians, too, anxious to secure some help from the South, will raise the cry of persecution and clamor for a mild rule, and for a premature restoration of the States to their of their ancient rights. But we want to old privileges. We are as desirous as any one can be of seeing them in the enjoyment be sure they will not abuse them as they have done. We do not wish to see anoth er war rendered necessary by any mistake in the manner of ending this one. The government must hold githe reins with a firm hand for many months in some parts of the South, even if its military success is complete and speedy. We must make up our minds to maintain a pretty large army for some time to come. The tradeout with conditions of the South of the Eastern Yankees. Coxuress will sanction the division of Virginia whenever it has an unmistakable evidence that the West is sincere in wanting a division, and not till then. We have the recorded opinions of members of that body to warrant this statement. Members of Congress understand as well as anybody that the only real metive for a division is the making of the West into a free State; and whenever they have a clearly expressed desire for that from West Virginia, our application for admission will be entertained, and we believe not till then, We hope they will have it on the third of April, that it and the Constitu-

BEFORE peace can be restored in this country it is just as beceasery to imported in some lawful way, several Northern nuisances, as it is to put down the rebellion. Would the rebellion have really ever occurred had the satanic New York Herald, Brooks' Express, the Cincinnati Enquirer, and presses of that character been cut short years ago in their career of slander, falsehood and misrepresentation? A leading citizen of Tennessee, who has ever been conspicuous for his loyalty, in writing to request that his copy of the National distellagmeer may be again senato bim in that State, makes gratifying refer-ence to the present aspect of political af-fairs in Nashville, where he is sojourning. After referring to the arrival of Governor Johnson in that capital, (where, he says, "appearances are more favorable than our most sanguine expectations,") and after predicting that Tennessee "will soon re-cover the high position which ever-charac-terized her until driven from it by usurpa-tion and typeson." he East Tennessee. Under this head our cor-respondent writes as follows:

Very sad has been the lot of these devoted men in East Tennessee. Their op-pressions have been more bitter and more numerous than even I had supposed. In no part of the country have there been such outrages, and yet no effort whatever has been made for their particular relief. Was ever a people "o strangely loyal, so unaccountably devoted? It is the triumph of patience, the sublimation of faith."

A Victory in Virginia.

The telegraph brings us the news that ur army of the Potomac has achieved a victory, though not by an advance of our lines. The rebel General Jackson, a Georgian, whose boldness has bitherto insured him impunity in roaming about over the whole of Northern Virginia, hearing that Banks' ng that Banks' command had left Winchester, started with his army to return thither, and thus get in a position to ap-proach the rear of McClellan's lines.— Luckily, however, the news he had heard, and was acting upon, was only partially true. Banks himself, and part of his fifth army corps, had gone from Winchester to Manassas, and thence to Washington. But Shields' division remained, and when the enemy advanced they encountered him, and a battle ensued, which lasted all day. —Philadelphia North American.

SECRETARY WELLES has sent a most complimentary letter to Commander Morris, and the crew of the Cumberland, as an acknowledgment of their valor in the late naval battle. Just when i will be, we cannot say accurately; but for the present will continue the annualed ment that it will be abortly, so that when it is everybody will be ready for it.

Of one thing the President has shown himself capable—and that is, of rectifying blunders. The fact his highly creditable to him, and the country should not be slow to honor the man who is thus master of himself. Fremont was removed by the machinations of corrupt politicians, who succeeded for a time in deceiving the President, but that official has made amends for his rasheess, by publicity acknowledg-ing it, and doing justice to the persecuted. The new division of General Fremons is an important one—embracing, as it does, the Cumberland Gap, Western Virginia, tion and tyranuy," he proceeds to express and North Carolina, Eastern Kentucky and the deep feeling which prevades all loyal citizens in that State as they advert to the deplorable condition of their brethren in Probable that the 30,000 men who, with Monday and Morth and Wooden guys have been feighted in the state of the state o wooden guns have been frightening an army of 200,000 men for half a year on the > boundaries. There are in the division, at the present ime, twelve Ohio, eight Indiana, and perhaps other regiments, provided the com-mand of Gen. Banks be not included; whether this will be the case or not we are unable to say, but it is to be presumed if he needs men, they will be given him.

> The Department, at present, is in rather a chaotic state. All the forces are scatter-> banks of the Potomac, will retire to the south-westward, and come within its ed about, guarding the country and hunting guerrilla bands. Generals Garfield and Thomas have brigades collected tovidual left Knoxville on the 3d, under an gether in Eastern Kentucky; but in Westescort or guard of ten men, for Nashville, ern Virginia there is scarcely a spot where the has doubtless reached his destination more than two regiments are stationed. Of the 25,000 men over whom General Fremont will assume immediate control, it is probable that 18,000 can be put in the field as soon as concentrated.

Our late successes have had the effect to check the marauding bands of the border; and a few examples of severity will quie the country as effectually as Gen. Halleck has pacified Missouri. Where regiments were required last summer to preserve order, in the face of the advancing columns of Floyd and Wise, a single company or squad will now be effective.

Gen. Fremont will, undoubtedly, per-ceive that the proper place to defend Ken-tucky and Virginia will be in North Caro-lina, Georgia and South Carolina. Drive the main body of the rebels away, and guerrilla bands will disappear almost with-out an effort for their extinction.

The country has had a foretaste of what

Gen. Fremont can accomplish. He con-quered California with less than a thousand men; and in a tithe of the time required to effect "great plans" on the Poto-mac, he organized out of 40,000 men, and marched them 250 miles in pursuit of a flying enemy. He is a first class engineer, and adds to this qualification—something which does not always occur—an originality of thought and a readiness to act upon the suggestion of his mind, regardless of danger. Celerity of movement, and sudden and bold strokes are his organized plans of conquer-ing; and in this respect his views are iden-tical with those of the Secretary of War.

General Fremont will be in Wheeling in few days. He will not remain there long, deneral Fremont will be in whering in a few days. He will not remain there long, however; he is said to possess a longing desire to visit once more the spot of his birth, in South Carolina, and he will not be tardy in accomplishing his purpose.

McClellan and his Friends. (Correspondence of the Springfield Republican.)
Gen. McClellan takes his new position for he has not been in the field enraged in active duties since he left Wes tern Virginia—like one to the manner born." He is at home among his troops, and to a great extent is popular among them. The New York Herald represents the opposition to Gen. McClellan to be confined to civillians, and that these civillians are invariably radical republicans. This is untrue. Some of our ablest division generals have all winter disapproved of McClellan's inaction, and the most energetic of his convente and ablest division generals have all winter disapproved of McClellan's inaction, and the most energetic of his opponents are Kentuckians and Tennesseeans. No man has protested more fiercely against the McClellan do-nothing policy than Andy Johnson of Tennessee. These are facts, Now it may or may not be true that McClellan was right and Johnson wrong, but it is unfair to attribute the opposition to the senior general to political influences. I must tell you a good saying of McClellan's address to his soldiers. A knot of senators were discussing it one morning just before Parson Sunderland opened the day's session with one of his poetic prayers. One criticism after another was made upon it till a very distinguished senator—distinguished alike by position and talents—remarked. "It is the last peep of the dying swan—sweet, of course." On the other hand, let me give you a tart saying of one of the general's friends to Mr. Lincoln. He was discussing the recent movements of the ussing the recent movements of the Potomae army when he remarked, "I pity you, sir. Your radical friends will never be satisfied till you invite them to partake of Jeff. Davis, well roasted and served up with brain sauce at a dinner party in the White House!" These "sayings" remind me of a good thing reported of the editor-senator, Anthony of Rhode Island. "Three things we are certain to see or hear in the Senate every day said the Rhode Island senator (accord-ing to report) "McDougall tipsy, a bill from Wilson, and a classic speech from Sumner!" He might have added—, "had a distressing one from Garrett Da-vis." "I shall vote to keep Powell in his seat," said a republican senator, "fo if we turn him out Kentucky will send us another Garrett Davis!"
