The object of the meeting was fully and ably explained by Dr. D. S. Pinnell.
The preamble and resolutions were then

WHEREAS, We are now in the midst of an unboly rebellion, inaugurated and prosecuted by those who are known as secessionists, who without the fear of God secessionists, who without the fear of God or love of country, with hearts thirsting for the blood of their neighbors, who stand firm for his country and constitutional liberty—the same country that gave them birth, and to which they once professed to be true, but are now seeking its overthrow, banding themselves together in guerrilla mobs for the purpose of rapine and murder, governed by no law of war, nor by the common decency that should characterize the most degraded of our race: And whereas, we believe that many such And whereas, we believe that many such as those who fied from their homes without cause, and with malice and cursings in their hearts against those who have stood firm for their country, have banded them-selves together, commissioned by that foul traitor who was once Governor of Virginia, and in obedience to his fiendish purposes, are taking the lives and property of the true and loyal citizens: Therefore Resolved, That those who are acting as guerrillas, regardless of all law, should perish without law. 2nd. That those in our midst who aid or abet, by harboring, counseling, helping them on their way through our country, or who are known to their murderous designs, by keeping their secrets, or in any way conniving at, or acting with such guerrilla bands, will be regarded in the same light and should meet the same fate.

3. That those whose acts and sympathies have been with this unholy rebellion, but who now desire to live in our midst, professing to be true and loyal, and in many cases confirming the same with an oath of all such their faith must be proved by their works.

4. That it will be required of all who wish to be restored to the confidence of the loyal, that they must in all cases where required, bear arms in defence of the Constitution and flag of our country.

5. That those in our midst who wish to remain neutral, refusing to act in consert with the friends of law and order, should be judged by that golden rule, that "they who are not for us are against us."

6. That we regard the supremacy of the Constitution the hope of our country. To t will we cling, and by the laws under it do we desire every wrong to be redressed
7. That the loyal citizens of Upshur county will hold those who sympathize or act with the rebellion, responsible in person and property for every guerrilla raid made in the county.

But I never forget my dear Sae, to me the dearest object in this world. Your precious image is always before me, and oh, how my heart responds to the hope that our lot may not alway be what it now is; and that the day may not be far distant when we may enjoy happily together sweeter and better days. Emancipation Question in Missouri.

(From the Missouri Democrat.)
The celebrated Charles James Fox was always in debt, and always postponing importunate creditors to some more convenient season. On one occasion a party of tles: duns, who had got wearied out with the constantly recurring answer "some other day," agreed to insist on a definite pay day, and accordingly made their reasonable request to the spendthrift statesman that he should name some time for them to call and get their "monish." "Name the day," was the demand. "Gentlemen," said the dilatory debtor, "I name the day of Judgment." "But that may be a busy day for all of us," said the spokesman.

all of us," said the spokesman.
"Well, then," rejoined Fox, "suppose we say the day following."

In discussing the question of emancipating Missour from slavery, we meet not a few who are quite ready to say that slavery is an impediment to the prosper-ity of the State; that its removal would be an incalculable benefit; that the institu-tion in Missouri must ultimately be got rid of, but—it will not do to agitate the sut-ject now." There is the same nervous dread of instant pain, the same desire to dread of instant pain, the same desire to put if off till to-morrow, which a patient suffering with a cancer feels to its extirpation. He would rather try emollient plasters or resort to quack remedies—anything, rather than to consent to an operation now. though he knows it is inevitable at some though he knows it is inevitable at some tature day unless he would die from the continuance of his malady.

More than sixty years ago, Thomas Jef-ferson wrote to his friend St. George Tucker, on the subject of slavery in Virginla, thus:

he anticipated, those who made Virginia the great slave-breeding State for the developed system. But for the infatuation which strove, with partial success, to ideatify Missouri with "the fifteen States of the South," as one of them, her fields would not have been ravaged, and her thousands of happy dwelling-places made desolate by civil war, as they are at this hour. Let the remark of one of our own influential slaveholders, himself the advocate of an emancipation policy, be pondered well: an emancipation policy, be pondered well:

"Not a hostile gun has been fired on the soil of the States which are exempt from this blight." But the battles of South Carolina and Georgia and Alabama and Mississippi, have been fought upon the soil of the border States, and almost wholly at a distance from their own doors.
The slave empire which Davis, Stephens,
Toombs, Benjamin and Vancesy projected. Toombs, Benjamin and Yancey projected, and of which cotton was to be king, embraced Missouri, and therefore they arrayed their forces upon her fields.

Men cannot discuss the present war, in any one of its aspects, part from its cause. The rebellion is the act of the corporate slavery interest of the planting States .-The question of slavery will be uppermost in any attempt which may hereafter be made for adjustment and pacification.

Happy would it have been for Virginia if she had listened to the counsels of the Statesman of Monticello. For though the precise fears which he felt at that time were not realized, the continuance of slavery in the Old Dominion is now drenching her exhaused soil with the blood of her sons.
