WHEELING: Saturday Morning, March 21, '63.

God guard our flag, and keep each star
Each stripe as bright as now they wave,
Btill make it lead our ranks in war,
Still float above each patriot's grave,
Death to the traitor that would dare
To trall it through the dust of shame.
All honest hearts its lot will share
And follow it to Death or Fame.

Meeting at West Liberty. A New State meeting comes off to-day at 2 P. M. at West Liberty.

The Vote at Beverly The soldiers vote at Beverly, Randolph the 2d Vs. writes us.

The Vote at Buckhanuon. The 8th Virginia regiment, at Buckhannon, cast their vote almost solid, the other day, for the New State-only three soldiera voting against it.

The Meeting at Bethany. An excellent New State meeting was held at Bethauy, on Thursday last. There was a good turn out and the spirit of the people was cordial and enthusiastic .-Disloyalty is pretty much played out there now-having run its days and sunk below par. There will be a very respectable majority for the New State in the precinct

The Meeting at Wellsburg The New State men of Brooke had a county meeting at Wellsburg on Wednesday afternoon and night. The most malignant portion of the Butternuts, of course, did not come near, but several of the milder type were present. It is believed that very considerable good was the result of the meeting, and that very few, if any, votes will be cast against the New

That Excellent Pamphlet. We have several times alluded to an excellent and extraordinary pamphlet recently issued entitled "How a free people conduct a long war."

We have now on hand several hundred copies of this document for gratuitous distribution. All orders by mail must contain the amount of postage necessary to prepay them-viz-one cent per copy.

Several of them ought to be distributed at every accessible point and with the request to each person to pass over his copy to his neighbor when read.

The Meeting To-Night at the Athen-

C M III . The meeting that was to have taken place last Saturday night at the Atheneum comes off this enening. Hon. Waitman T. Willey and P. G. Van Winkle, Esq., will address it. It is not likely that Mr. May-Van Winkle will make us able and eloquent speeches. They are both thoroughly conversant with the great movement for the New State, if there are now any such, will ably discussed. And we trust farther that every New State man will exert himself to bring out every such opponent. Votes are not now an object in this canwass, for the result is foregone, but a wide spread intelligence and a universally enlightened public sentiment are always desirable. No honest man desires to remain in darkness or bigotry on any subject. It is his moral and pecuniary loss to remain so. All really capable and efficient men in this world are those who seek knowledge from all sources, and are never ashamed to own that their opinions are fallible .-"Knowledge is power." A correct under standing and appreciation of the great is sues involved in the New State is an adwantage in every possible point of view to the man who possesses it. Therefore we appeal to all men, irrespective of party or opinion, to come out to-night and hear all these issues fully and fairly presented .-Come prepared to ask any questions, if you desire. The friends of the New State know $6,000. that their cause is sound to the core : that it will bear examination inside and out; that it has everything to gain by the deepest and most searching examination. No citizen who expects to live in West Virginia when she becomes a New State, can afford to discard an understanding of her organic policy. It will enter so largely into his future relations with business and society that it literally stands him in hand to know the most that he can. Come out then to-night while you have so good-so unusual an opportunity-and give careful attention to the speeches of Messrs. Willey and Van Winkle. No people, above all others, ought to be so intelligent in this matter as Hard Hits at the Copperheads.

There was a great war meeting at Brooklyn, Monday night, and John Van Buren made one of his strong and witty speeches. Here are some of his telling hits at the copperheads :-

You hear remarks of gentlemen in the discussion in which they are engaged, their declamations agaist the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, their outcries in behalf of free speech. You would sup-pose they were never allowed to open their mouths. And yet, if I judge by what they do, instead of what they say, I should think the difficulty was one for which the government was not at all responsible, for government was not at all responsible, for they are never able to shut their mouths. [Applause and laughter.] I met an old-tashioned farmer not long ago, who said to me, "Squire." (in the country lawyers are all squires,) "Squire, who is this man that is going all around the country talk-ing all the time and insisting that free ing all the time and insisting that free speech has been crushed out by the genespeech has been crushed out by the general government?" [Great Laughter."—
"Well," said I, "I don't know whom you refer to." "Well," said he, "he is a man with a very hard name; comes from the State of Ohio; says that he got beat when the democrats carried the State; I don't remember the name." I said, "Perhaps you mean Vallandigham." "That's the you mean valiabulguan.

name said he." Said be, "Squire, why can't he be content with being beat at home, without coming here to show us bow we can be beaten here. [Great laughter.]

I find a great many people tell me that county, stands 135 for the New State to we are right—that the rebellion is unjus-none against it. So Adjutant Combs, of tifiable, and ought to be put down—but it is impossible to subjugate the South; that they are six millions of resolute people, perfectly united, and never can be put down. I say, with Col. Miller, of Erie, so far as it is necessary to subjugate the South, "we will stry." I believe that the people who say that it is impossible to subjugate the South are sighing to be better. jugate the South are sighing to be beaten. They are people who seem to hope that we annot overpower the South. Whenever find one of these men who tells you that you cannot subjugate the South, I always think he is a man who is sighing to be subdued and hoping to be conquered. I belive we can overthrow the armies of the South, and the intelligence that comes to us now is calculated to confirm that conviction. [Applause.] We do not propose to subjugate the South. We propose to free. [Applause.] A year and a half ago all over the Uniour fellow-citizens to embark in the conest. I did not take part in any of those nest support, meetings, although my name was used as an officer of them, and from time to time I contributed such small sums as it was in spiritual interests they have in charge, my power to do. But if I had been one of to the protection and favor of Almighty those men who assembled in Union Square God, in New York, and denounced these rebels and invited men to go forward to the field of battle and put down this foul rebellion against the laws of the land and the rightful authority of the county, if I had suc-ceeded in that way in getting my friend my kinsman or my neighbor to abandon his daily pursuits to go to a far distant land, to be exposed to the fire of the enemy, to famine and to disease, and if to-night when the question was whether these troops, thus excited by me to go forward, -hould now be furnished with supplies, and now be reinforced by men, and should be upheld by the arm of the government, and the concentrated vigor of public opinion I say, if then I sat here and cried peace while they were being fired upon and kill ed, and provided for no reinforcements and supplies to go forward to them, God might

Gregg, T. H. Trainer W. R. Howe, R. mard will be here although he may be.—
The first named gentlemen will be here certain. We say then to the New State him a bath." "Well, I am going to give him a bath." "Well, I am going to give him a bath." "Well, that is wrong; I

The hour of twelve having arrived, the men let us have a glorious last grand rally know a man you should see. If you will men let us have a glorious last grand rally know a man you should see. If you will to night. The election comes off next wait until I can send for a fellow that will Doxology and prayer by G. W. Richmond. Thursday night and to-night is Saturday night, and we will all be free to leave off work and turn out. Messrs. Willey and the state of in, "What does he require?" "Bleeding."
"Can this man bleed him?" "Yes, any body can do that," "Then, for the love of New State having been active participants he will surely die." [Laughter.] Now, in it almost from the start. They will be what is required in this contest? Bleedglad to satisfy any and all objections that ing. [Laughter.] This Republic must may still exist in any honest mind. We trust that every candid opponent of the power are as competent to do that as any men. [Applause.] Do you believe that on occasions like this I would inquire as to rise above his prejudices and come out this the politics of the doctor? Or, when an evening and hear the subject fully and army was ranged in battle, do you suppose would go through the lines before the fring commenced and poll the men to see firing commenced and poll the men to see how they stood politically? Was that done at Bunker Hill, as far as you have heard? Do you think I would look into the muskets of our troops-provided they were filled with powder and ball and imed right-to see if the wadding was made of Tribunes or Worlds? [Laughter.]
The thing to be done now is that the troops of the United States must be precipitated on the rebels. [Applause.]

> On Friday evening last, Mrs. Levi, and her sister, Miss Jacobus of Agusta. Ga., were arrested at Martinsburg, on the line of the Baltimore and Obio rail road, by the Government detectives, while endeavoring, it is alleged, to make their way South. They had in their possession three large trunks. The accused, with their goods, were conveyed to Baltimore on Saturday. The trunks were examined at the Provost-Marshal's office, and were found to contain goods to the value of

Hon. John W. Noell, M. C., from Missouri, who died last week in Washington, has been repeatedly elected a member of the Missouri Legislature. He was formerly a supporter of Judge Douglas, and when the rebellion broke out he threw himself to, A. B. Smith, B. F. Rogers, J. Sauford, into the contest for the flag of the Union. Gen. Noell was a native of Virginia; removed early to Missouri, studied law there and achieved an honorable position, which he maintained through life.

The number of Machines we were able to have manufactured this season was limited, and in consequence of the great scarcity of hands the demand will be large. In view of this state of things, and the rapid advance in the price of iron, steel and labor, we would by all means advise farmers to BUY EARLY. The present prices cannot remain—there must be a still further advance, and whoever buys and PAYS FOR his Machine NOW will save from 10 to 15 per cent, besides securing it. Farmers will remember that we ran out of Machines long before harvest last year, and over a hundred were disappointed.—We therefore say again, BUY EARLY.
