THAT ELOPEMENT.—We noticed some days ago the elopement from the vicinity of the village of Smithton, in Doddridge county, of the wife of Mr. James Steel, with a fellow whose name we did not know at the time. We have since ascertained that the fellows name is Nat. Ryan. He kept a sort of a doggery at Smithton and sold three cent whisky. Mrs. Steel, as before stated was the wife of respectable and well to do citizen. She left two or three belpless little children, and took with her about eight hundred dollars of her husband's money, a good part of which was in gold and silver which he had been saving up for years as a prudent man would do to avert probable disthe flight was known Mr. Steel and a friend the Christian Commission, at which $1,gave pursuit. In the meantime Ryan had shaved off his whiskers, shortened his bair and otherwise effectually disguised himself. Before the magistrate they both denied that they were the persons described in the dispatch. As bad luck would have it, Steel and his friend were somewhat delayed in reaching Cincinnati, and on their arrival were dismayed to find that the magistrate had released Ryan and Mrs. Steel and that they had gone no one knew whither. It is true that the country is involved in war, the cry of battle comes to our ears, the painful news, that noble patriots have fallen for their country, saddens our minds, and the call for the relief of woundminus, and the call for the relief of wounded heroes is loud; yet, are all these sufficlent to justify the stoppage of the circulation of the Bible?
