An illustration of boasted rebel chivalry is seen in the treacherous conduct of Gen. Haywood in the battle of Sunday on the Weldon road, as detailed in our dispatches this morning. The scoundrel got his just deserts when he fell pierced through the head by a good and true Yankee builet. The friends of his own men who were vic-timized by his treachery ought and doubt-most annihilated. Within that time it is timized by his treachery, ought and doubtless will join in the general execration of

THE news this morning is of a cheering character. We have at last obtained a firm seem as if the enemy had conceded the fact. They have withdrawn from our front and retired to their breast works immediately them up to within two miles of that place on the line of the road. This position is a great gain to us, inasmuch ss it gives us a base from which to operate upon the two remaining roads that connect Richmond with the South. The left of our line below Petersburg is thus brought within easy raiding distance of the South Side road .-The fight will next be for that road, and when we get that, as the rebels well know, the Danville road follows its fate as a matter of course.

The value of our new position is seen in the decline of gold yesterday from 257 and a fraction to 254 and a fraction. And this cloudy and unsatisfactory as ever. We vicinity, while Sheridan's command is preity much concentrated around Bolivar take it for granted that heavy sections of his command are occupying Ashby's, Snicker's and the other gaps that command the eastern outlets of the Blue Ridge, and that with the remainder he is covering Maryland. We hardly think the rebels will dare to cross the Potomac and leave Sheridan where he is. It would be a great risk, and

THE sub-treasury in New York now holds between thirteen and fourteen millions in matters.

We are heartly sick and tired of this long, seven-thirty loan due and redeemable on that day. The original amount of this loan was one hundred and sixty million dollars, the original amount of this loan is a seven-thirty loan due and redeemable on that day. About six ever asked: untrammelled, unconditional million dollars yet remain outstanding of independence. In the meanwhile let us that portion of the seven-thirty loan falling be ever ready to listen to propositions for due August 20, on which coin interest now ceases. There evidently isn't much danger that that the credit of the government is going to be lost just yet, in spite of the predictions of the croakers.

On the other hand, such is the confidence felt that the government will pay its inter

The Critical Stage of the War-Caution and Sick of the War, &c. From the Richmond Seatinel, Aug. 20.

We have arrived at a very critical stage of the war; and calm circumspection, caution and patient endurance are needed to carry us successfully through it. To weather the next six weeks will be a most difficult task for the North. She is well aware of this, and will no doubt be very busy in endeavoring to entrap us into hasty com-promises, concessions or admissions that may deprive us of the vantage ground which we are likely to attain in less than two months. Within that time it is not at all improbable that the armies of Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, by losses in battle almost certain that the approaching Chicago convention will have thrown its apple of discord and destruction into the already distracted and discordant ranks of the WE have another sensation this morning North. It may suggest terms of honorable about peace. The country is treated to peace. At least it will be sure to endeavor the announcement that a commission of five persons, three republicans and two democrats, are already on their way to Richmond. It is not stated whether Horace Greely is one of them. We presume before finally committee that promote the peculiar five republic of the South. Let us await patiently the results of that convention before finally committee. before finally committing ourselves to any specific terms of peace; for they have much to fear from that result, we nothing to apprehend from it. It may impede thwart or embarrass the plans and purposes of the war party at the North. It may make ours.

Let us await, too, the experiment of the character. We have at last obtained a firm be almost without an army, and we should hold on the Weldon railroad and it would be sure of better terms of peace than we could now even hope for. That it will fail, at least partially, seems to be expected or apprehended by all parties, even among themselves. It may give rise to mobs, riots, around Petersburg. We have followed revolutionary outbursts and civil war in them up to within two miles of that place that section. It will certainly increase and that section. It will certainly increase and exacerbate the batred of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the Northwest toand section sustain the war as a matter of honor, New England as a source of wealth. She is growing richer and richer every day by its prosecution, while they are being impoverished by it. We believe, according to the duello code, the requirements of bonor are satisfied when blood (however little) has been drawn. These States and that section have shed whole oceans of it. Neither the code of honor nor the dictates Neither the code of honor nor the dictates of the most generous magnanimity require that they should shed more. Te do so would be savage brutality, not generous chivalry. They should say, and might say most truly to New England, "You brought the true barometerical condition of the financial feeling.

The news from Harper's Ferry is still as cloudy and prosticated and processed and measures compelled the South to offer us. We have shed enough blood and lost or are not permitted to doubt that the rebels expended enough treasure to wipe off a thousand such insults. We can hear and suffer no more to satiste your hatreds and build up your wealth, whilst by so doing we are wasting our own lives, wasting our and Loudon and Maryland Heights. A Sad Lack of Patriotism.

Why should copperhead politicians task heir arithmetical faculties in efforts to againfy the national debt, and indulge heir lugabrious fancies in estimating its their arithmetical faculties in efforts to the future; the receipts from customs under the new tariff law are likely to increase as fast as the interest on the national debt.

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH.

Interpretations receive in entries to magnify the national debt, and indulge their lugnbrious fancies in estimating its probable expansion? It had been more to the purpose had they tried to prevent the war which now taxes us so heavily, or labored to terminate it at the earliest moment. The Critical Stage of the War—Caution and Patience Needed—The Approaching Union Draft—The People of the South Heartily assistance and co-operation. Over and over again, at public meetings and through all their journalism, did they give this fatal counsel. The judgment of posterity must hold them guilty of participation in the original crime, since they were evi-dently accessories before the fac.

These incitors to revolt having thus brought on the rebellion, are logically pre-cluded from complaining of its cost. Were the whole burden of taxation to be imposed on these men, scarcely would their complicity in the great villainy be adequately punished.

As they sinned thus in the first instance, they have continued their unpatriotic con-duct through every stage of the war—discouraging enlistments in the army, stir-ring up resistance to the drafts thereby necessitated, and decrying the nation's ability to repay its loans. Vallandigham proclaims in his speech at Syracuse that our currency is worth but thirty-eight cents on the dollar, and predicts that the south-ern rebellion must necessarily triumph. When we were contending against Brit-sin in 1814, our government was glad to get loans at seventy five cents on the dollar, payable in paper temporarily redeem-able as now. The present administra-tion negotiates loans at one hundred and ten cents on the dollar; and the dollar of the present day will buy just as much now of every commodity as it did then. We then ran up a public debt of one hundred and thirty millions of dollars, and there were ravens then as sombre colored as those where ravens then as sombre colored as those who now croak ruin, to prophesy that the debt never would be liquidated. Yet it was paid in full principal and interest, to the confusion of the croakers and the profit reveals a grim and impregnable resolution, the earnest of absolute victory. of those who had confidence in the nation. So will it be again. The indebtedness of this great war, present and prospective, exceeds not the ability of our people to re-pay it and will impose but moderate privation in the process. We have a country abounding in natural wealth, and a popu-lation eminently capable in its developement. Steam and its manifold applica-tions on land and water is ready to lend its aid in the augmentation of every pro-duction, and m any mechanical aids of modern contrivance contribute still further to multiply that power. We shall henceforth manufacture for ourselves, and thus avoid that drain of the precious metals, so hartful to commercial stability and so inimical to our steady progression. Immi-gration will aid us much, and we shall repair our waste of population in this bloody contest in a far shorter period than ever did any nation before, If France recuperated from the Napoleonic wars in a manher that astonished the nations, is it not nearly certain that we shall also spring to a new life and a glorious career.

The copperhead might have aided us bellion. But the Democratic leaders made no such atonement. By word and act they aided the rebellion which their arts had fomented. Some of them joined the insur-gents in the field, but most remained among us, embarrassing and clogging the Admin istration in every measure calculated to weaken the rebellion. Had they chosen the better part, and aided their country in her hour of peril, who can believe that this war could have lasted so long? It was in their power to increase the popular enthufollow the example.

But suppose the draft succeeds. It will chose, instead, to deaden and repress it, poisoning the minds of the masses by false long ere this might have crushed the trai-

We do not deny that many Democrats came nobly to the rescue, and aided ma-terially in the progress we have made. But we wanted more from those stalwart multitudes, and would have got them were it not for the disaffection of their political leaders. These are the guilty men who began and have protracted the evils of which they now complain. The war, grievous as it is But were the concomitants all evil, and their sum in treasure or suffering far beyond the actual totality, still would it be justly chargeable to the very clamorers who now assail us with their loud complaints. They incited the war in the first instance, and are responsible, equally with the rebels themselves, for all its consequences. They forbore to change their course when the calamity burst upon us, and added to their previous criminality by a dogged persistence in political misdoing. Even now they would pander to the rebels and put them again in the seats of power to rule and ruin the country. Will the people ever again entrust with the reins of government politicians so unpatriotic

From Harper's Weekly. TO UNION MEN. The rebel papers, considering that they are printed in what they call another country, are curiously interested in the political movements of this country. They print long olumns of anxious speculation, and then assure us that they have no shadow of interest in the matter, and that their con-tempt for us and our affairs exceeds expression. A recent performance of this kind in the Richmond Examiner is peculiarly amusing. It thinks it sees signs that the Administration is to be defeated, and it cannot conceal its joy. Its ribaldry is as remarkable as in the days that followed Sunter when it was the formal content of the second content lowed Sumter, when it was full of ferrid longings that the Yankees would only come down and be soundly flogged by the slaves, since Southern gentlemen disdained the dirty business of whipping them with their own hands. Since then, however, at Vicksburg, at New Orleans, at Gettysburg, and in Virginia and Georgia, the Southern

There is a great deal more in this strain, NEW ADVERTISEM'NTS

But such articles show, what is not suf-ficiently apprehended by ourselves, the moral value of the maintenance of the Administration. Contemporary with this Ad-ministration, the war for the Union is necessarily identified with it. The rebels necessarily identified with it. The receis and their friends the Copperbeads have constantly denounced it as "Lincoln's war;" while our own foreign friends and enemies have always regarded the President as the accepted exponent of the war. The rebels undoubtly mean, therefore, to show a brave front until after the election. They know if, by holding on, they can only fatigue or dishearten loyal men to the point of declar-ing that they must have a change merely for the sake of change, that the defeat of Mr. Lincoln will be accepted by their own population as a sign of desire to compromise and yield, while it will be understood by foreign powers in the same way, and assure them that the hour has come for successful mediation, recognition, or inter-

The one thing which, under the circum-stances, would be the most valuable to the rebels is the defeat of Mr. Lincoln; while, on the other hand, his re-election would be the most shattering blow to them. For it would say plainly to the whole world that the loyal people of the United States, while they differed upon many points of policy, were heartily agreed upon the one great essential aim of the maintenance of the Union by arms against all who by arms seek its overthrow; that fallures of many kinds were inseparable from all human enterprises: that, as they had begun, they meant to finish; and that while there were many faithful and devoted patriots in their ranks, there was no one more faithful or more devoted than the President, who had borne so patiently the heat and burden of the day. Any change whatever shows

For the Intelligencer.

Who Should Grumble ! I think if the soldiers do not grumble no one should. In this day of dissension, disunion and disaffection, gramblers are rampant for their rights, and existing forms of government are scoffed at. The Democrat or Copperhead hates the Government are scoffed at the district of the district of the district of the day of dissension and dis ment as it is, curses and reviles its representatives, continually points to mon-archies and anarchies as better forms o government, and wishes for the success of the enemies of the United States. Jefferson Davis sends Lee to the field with s prayer from all the Confederacy for his success; and these men wish for the same. You and I may not see alike, but if we agree that Old Jeff is wrong, we ought to agree that those who wish the same thing that he does are wrong. If we agree that Jefferson Davis is wrong, we must agree that Abraham Lincoln is right, and if we agree that Davis is right we must admit that Lincoln is all wrong. We must be either "for God or Mammon." "We cannot serve two masters; we must either love the one and bate the other, or cleave to the one and despise the other."

Lincoln and Davis are not both right, for one says "I can secede," and the other says "you cannot." A man is a traitor or for the government, for the administration of Davis or Lincoln, for the authorized adninistration of the rightful government, or of the wrongful one.

If the nation has bled to maintain its rights, and perpetuate the ancient institu-tions of our revolutionary sires; if millions of men and money have been cast as sac-rifices on the national altar, why then, if nothing has been gained some one may grumble, but who? Is it the man who never marched a mile or fired a gun in de-fence of the Union? Is it he who stayed at home and laid up his money, had homes of ease and plenty, while our soldiers had no comfort at all? Is it those? Let common sense answer. And yet who ever heard a soldier grumble about it?
