

The New Bank.

The Directors of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company will meet to-morrow. Mr. J. H. Morrish is presumed will be elected Director in place of Col. Robertson resigned.

The plan of receiving the capital stock in five annual installments may incur, while the officers for awhile, yet we feel perfectly certain that the plan is a good one for the stockholders. The plan seems to be a kind of savings institution, by which the poorer members of society can finally secure bank stock.

White the plan is absolutely and positively an institution which belongs solely to the stockholders, yet members of the Alliance would do well to pay up, even as does the outsider.

Solid Growth.

Abbeville is taking on a new growth, and entering upon a new era of prosperity. Business in every line shows evidences of increasing activity and business thrif.

Every man is hopeful and cheerful. We are to have the cotton press, which will add thousands of bales to our already increasing business.

The G. C. & N. Road is a fixed fact. The whistle of the Cumberland Gap will soon be heard.

The new brick company will make brick enough to build a Chinese wall around the county.

Ordinary building lots are high. The new bank find it difficult to get a place of business.

Remarkable Fact.

The Edgefield Chronicle is responsible for the following statement: One day last week, less than a month after the fire, Capt. Lake paid to Mr. Jas. B. Tompkins $1,000 insurance in full, without a cent of premium having been paid.

The idea of insurance men paying their policies is noticed now and then by the country press, and if this thing goes on it may not be long before insurance people will pay their debts just like anybody else and the fact will occasion no more comment than would the same act, if performed by anybody else.

In this County hundreds of private individuals have recently discharged their obligations, but as it is not strange for them to neglect the county newspapers, we are not giving notice of the fact. But we submit that it is news when a fire insurance company pays up without asking an abatement, or some other method of avoiding the payment in full of their policies.

Whatever motives may prompt Speaker Reed, and his Republican friends in Congress, he appears to be clearly in the right in his ruling in reference to the quorum.

Democratic members, it seems to us, have no right to be present, participate in debate, vote on a question of adjournment, and then come to the county newspapers, to publish and refusing to vote when the real question is being put, thus stopping the progress of the business of the Congress.

We know nothing of the merits of the contest between the Democratic and the Republican claimant for the disputed seat from West Virginia, but we do believe that Speaker Reed is right in maintaining that a quorum is present, when the fact warrants him in so doing. We hope, therefore, that South Carolina may vote and be present whenever she is there.

Senator Hampton has made a big speech in Congress on the subject of deporting the negro. As usual with Senator Hampton, he charges somebody with telling the truth. This time it is Senator Ingalls who is unworthy of belief. We know nothing at all of Mr. Ingalls' character for veracity, but it seems unfortunate that our respected Senator so often falls into such hands. The newspaper reporters misrepresent him. The Northern Generals slander him. The Post Master General is a regular Annals, while Senator Ingalls is unworthy of belief, and the Lord only knows how many others. Here Senator Hampton has come in conflict with Senator Ward. We do wish they would let Hampton alone.

It is proposed by Congress to pass a tonnage bill, whereby thirty cents will be given as a subsidy to ship owners for carrying freights and so on from this country to other countries. Hon. J. C. Haskell is working in the interest of the bill, and the Charleston Chamber of Commerce have endorsed the bill. Mr. Haskell seeks the endorsement of the Savannah Board of Trade, which he is not getting.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Members of the Abbeville Bar Furnish Testimonials of Their High Appreciation of the Retiring Judge.

Last Thursday morning, January 23, 1890, after the work of the session had been finished, and when the Court was about to adjourn, Mr. Parker rose and said that before adjournment he wished to say a few words to the members of the Abbeville Bar in recognition of their high appreciation of the retiring of his Honor from the Bench.

The Court said: Mr. Lee will be heard.

Speech of W. A. Lee, Esq., Introducing the Resolutions of the Bar.

My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Some of our brethren are very pronounced in their opposition to the measure, and characterize it as a scheme to reduce the surplus. This newspaper is not sufficiently informed to have any decided convictions one way or the other, though at present we are inclined to the opinion that the bill is a good one.

Our extreme enemies have endeavored to you those who have not forgotten that but for your gentle and kind manner they would have been abandoned to the hands of the slavers. The softness of your manner has endeavored a man inhumanity when duty called, and the slither snake, or the lion on land or in velvet. When you shall have retired from the bench and your country shall be a better one, you can rest assured that you will carry with you the love, veneration and esteem of the best of South Carolina.

Words of Eloquent Eulogy Have Not Transcended the Measure of His Honor's Merit.

W. C. Denet, Esq., said: My friend of the Abbeville Bar has just spoken to me of the measure which has already been spoken of in this paper. Their words of eulogy have been uttered with a feeling of admiration and respect, and I feel that I have not done justice to the measure of your Honor's merit.

Honor farwell, I give my cordial assent to the resolutions which have been offered.

Honors and Love for Aldrich. The Abbeville Press and Banner, of January 23, 1890, in noticing the Court, said: This is the last term of the Court in which Judge Aldrich will preside.

The last of the old Judges retires from active service, when he lays down his robes of office, and goes to his home in the country. His old associates and comrades on the Bench have long since appeared at another place.

He is now an old man, physically enfeebled by the infirmities of age. He was proud and brave in his youth. In the strength of his manhood he was strong and courageous in the right.

His old course has completed a record of which South Carolina and the Bench of the State will be proud. No man has assailed his fair fame. Even his enemies have his character for candor.

When his past manhood is remembered and when his illustrious career as an upholder of the honor of South Carolina is recalled, a feeling of respect and awe is present. It is sorrowful to know that the infirmities which he has so bravely borne are a source of regret that his feebleness of person excludes him from the arena in which he has so honorably figured.

South Carolina honors Judge Aldrich. Abbeville county respects his memory, his industry, his integrity, the purity of his official and private character.

The Judge Bids Farewell. When the members of the Bar had finished speaking, Judge Aldrich spoke as follows: Gentlemen: I have no words with which to thank you for this manifestation.

I have only to thank you for the kindness and with proper consideration. It is as easy to be polite as rude. I have only to thank myself on the Bench as another brother.

You have been kind and generous to me, and I have been instructed by you to bid you adieu. I feel that I have known more than when I came in.

When I return to my home to spend the remainder of my life, I shall recollect you and this occasion with great pleasure. I wish you all prosperity and happiness. I bid you adieu.

After the Judge had concluded these remarks, he instructed the Sheriff to adjourn the Court, when members of the Bar and other gentlemen went forward and shook the Judge's hand, with kindly expressions.

Colonel Gary invited the Judge and various gentlemen to his office, where an hour was pleasantly spent.

SOMETHING OF JUDGE ALDRICH.

Incidents and Facts Connected With His Long and Useful Life.

Judge Aldrich has always been an active, energetic and gentlemanly individual, and a heart overflowing with kindness and a high regard for the rights of all mankind.

Open and frank, generous and sympathetic, in his struggling youth he had the sympathy and kindly offices of those who stood high with him, and he has been a helping hand in the work of making what the world calls a "self-made man."

Alfred Proctor Aldrich was born in Charleston, S. C., on the 12th of February, 1812. He was educated at the College of Charleston, and at the law office of the late Judge J. M. McKelvey.

From his early boyhood he determined to study law, and so informed his father when he was about 17 years of age. His father did not approve of the course, for the reason that he had not a collegiate education.

Some of our most distinguished lawyers have not had the advantages of a collegiate education, and yet they have been distinguished in their profession.

Alfred Proctor Aldrich was admitted to the bar in Charleston, S. C., in 1832. He was then employed by the late Judge J. M. McKelvey, and in 1834 he was appointed Clerk of the Court of Appeals in Charleston.

For a while he had an office in Charleston, but soon afterward Mr. Bellinger of Barnwell, expressed a desire to have him as a partner in his law office.

Mr. Bellinger was a man of high standing in the community, and his name was a great recommendation. Judge Aldrich was recommended, and that was why he became a citizen of Barnwell, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

Among other things, Judge Aldrich was a member of the Abbeville Bar, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

Some of our most distinguished lawyers have not had the advantages of a collegiate education, and yet they have been distinguished in their profession.

Alfred Proctor Aldrich was admitted to the bar in Charleston, S. C., in 1832. He was then employed by the late Judge J. M. McKelvey, and in 1834 he was appointed Clerk of the Court of Appeals in Charleston.

For a while he had an office in Charleston, but soon afterward Mr. Bellinger of Barnwell, expressed a desire to have him as a partner in his law office.

Mr. Bellinger was a man of high standing in the community, and his name was a great recommendation. Judge Aldrich was recommended, and that was why he became a citizen of Barnwell, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

Among other things, Judge Aldrich was a member of the Abbeville Bar, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

Some of our most distinguished lawyers have not had the advantages of a collegiate education, and yet they have been distinguished in their profession.

Alfred Proctor Aldrich was admitted to the bar in Charleston, S. C., in 1832. He was then employed by the late Judge J. M. McKelvey, and in 1834 he was appointed Clerk of the Court of Appeals in Charleston.

For a while he had an office in Charleston, but soon afterward Mr. Bellinger of Barnwell, expressed a desire to have him as a partner in his law office.

Mr. Bellinger was a man of high standing in the community, and his name was a great recommendation. Judge Aldrich was recommended, and that was why he became a citizen of Barnwell, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

Among other things, Judge Aldrich was a member of the Abbeville Bar, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

Some of our most distinguished lawyers have not had the advantages of a collegiate education, and yet they have been distinguished in their profession.

Alfred Proctor Aldrich was admitted to the bar in Charleston, S. C., in 1832. He was then employed by the late Judge J. M. McKelvey, and in 1834 he was appointed Clerk of the Court of Appeals in Charleston.

For a while he had an office in Charleston, but soon afterward Mr. Bellinger of Barnwell, expressed a desire to have him as a partner in his law office.

Mr. Bellinger was a man of high standing in the community, and his name was a great recommendation. Judge Aldrich was recommended, and that was why he became a citizen of Barnwell, and in whom was placed the highest respect of his fellow-citizens.

THE PART WHICH "TWO PROMINENT MEMBERS" OF THE ALLIANCE ACTED IN THE WORK.

If the Bank Doesn't Pay, it is Proposed to "Unload" on the Outside Public - The Sentiment is Applied to the Echo-Colonel Robertson Still Seems to be Laboring Under the Delusion that the Alliance has Something to do With the Bank.

Following the meeting of the Alliance on the 20th of December last a meeting of the subscribers to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company was held in the Court House.

The object of this meeting was to discuss the question of the subscription to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and to determine the course to be pursued in the event of a failure of the subscribers to pay up their shares.

At this meeting some of the canvassers reported that they had several offers from outsiders to take stock in our bank, to supply as an investment.

This question was discussed at some length, and it was resolved that the doors be closed to outsiders, and that we confine our subscription strictly to the members of the Alliance.

At this meeting County President J. R. Binks, Junior, and County Business Agent J. M. Robertson, were present, and they were heard in adopting the foregoing resolution.

After some little preliminary arrangements had been made, the meeting adjourned, and the subscribers to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company were notified to meet at the office of Mr. Parker.

After the usual salutation he said: "I am glad to see you, for I wanted to say before we parted that I have a great deal to say to you, and I will be compelled to admit outside subscriptions to the capital of our bank, I am sorry to say, but I have no choice in the matter."

I said, "I doubt the propriety of this move, and I think it would be better to continue our subscription to the Alliance, and I believe that when we organize we can double the subscription."

He continued to advance his argument in favor of opening the subscription to outsiders, and he passed into the Court House. The meeting was adjourned to meet on the 27th of January, at 10 o'clock, at the office of Mr. Parker.

When the time for our meeting arrived, I approached the Court House, and upon entering the office of Mr. Parker, I found a number of gentlemen waiting for me.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

After a long discussion in caucus it was recommended to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, and it was decided to do so.

This action was reported to the body of stockholders, and upon their deliberation and approval, it was decided to allow outsiders to subscribe to the stock of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

The Township Board of Assessors for the various townships in Abbeville County will hold their meetings between the 1st and 10th day of March. On the 20th day of March the County Board of Equalization will meet at Abbeville, C. H. It is clearly the duty of the Boards of Equalization to canvass carefully each and every return of property made in their respective townships, in order that individual returns may be equalized as near as possible, and in every instance where a material change in the return of any individual is made, notice to taxpayer must be given in order that he may have the opportunity to appeal before the County Board which meets the 20th day of March.